

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

OF THE ### BOARD OF AUDIT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
December 6, 1875.

The PRESIDENT: The undersigned have the honor to report that since February 15, 1875, the date of the last report, they have continued to discharge their duties as a board of audit, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved June 20, 1874, and of the joint resolution approved December 21, 1874, to and including November 30, 1875.

Referring to their report of December 7, 1874, (Ex. Doc. 1, part 6, 2d session 43d Congress,) and of February 15, 1875, (Ex. Doc. 170, same session,) and continuing the classification and order as therein, the results reached are as follows:

First. The amount of sewer certificates issued by the late board of public works.....	$2,120,000 00

REPORT OF BOARD OF AUDIT OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Amount allowed and certified per last year .....	$1, 726, 714 50
Per present report .....	3, 850, 626 35
Amount allowed, but not certified...	105, 549 80
Amount allowed but withheld for test of work.....	165, 903 60
Amount paid by Commissioners to laborers after audit. ....	74, 782 65
Not acted upon .....	396, 778 15
		$8, 268, 058 86

The item of $105,549.80 only awaits certificate; that of $165,903.60 awaits final acceptance of the work. Of the first of these two items $19,310.69 is withheld, because of alleged deficiency in the work. The chief portion of the claims not acted upon await examination and report by the engineer.

This class of claims differed from the other classes, inasmuch as the Commissioners were authorized to carry out the contracts of the late board of public works, and the larger portion of the amount allowed and certified is for work done under the Commissioners.

Of the amount allowed and certified there is for work done under the late board the sum of .....	$1, 640, 889 03
Under the Commissioners.....	3, 936, 45 82
	5, 577, 340 85

And of the amount audited, but not certified, $93,187.01 is for work done by the Commissioners, as also a portion of the sum withheld until the work shall be tested. Of the claims not acted upon nearly the whole sum is for work under the late board of public works.

Fifth. The claims presented of this class amount to ..	$611, 062 85
Accounted for in former reports.....	$528, 552 01
Allowed and certified since .....	36, 338 79
Disallowed .....	40, 336 57
Not acted upon .....	5, 835 48
	611, 062 85

Sixth. The amount of claims of this class is.....	$467, 529 71
1. Amount audited and certified.....	$142, 539 99
2. Amount audited, but not certified.	122, 955 03
3. Not audited.....	2, 657 60
4. Amount audited and certified to Commissioners.....	123, 360 18
5. Amount not audited, to be certified to Commissioners.....	76, 016 91
	467, 529 71

Items 1, 2, and 3 constitute a debt against the District, while 4 and 5 are applicable to the reduction of assessments upon the property to which they pertain. The Commissioners held that where real estate had been assessed for the cost of improvements, they had no power to allow the value of property taken in the streets, in reduction of the assessments, but where assessments remained to be made, the power existed and should be exercised. The fourth and fifth items were therefore properly certified and to be certified to them for their action.

Seventh. In this class there were presented 2,208 claims, aggregating $3,228,308.32.

REPORT OF BOARD OF AUDIT OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. 5

One thousand three hundred and ten claims have been allowed and certified, in whole or in part.

By last report.....	$510,941 50
Since last report.....	316,684 17
	827,625 67
	3,228,308 32

Our last report stated the number of claims at 2,130, but it was afterward found that 78 others had been presented, with claims in another class.

The act of June 20, 1874, limited our action to claims which had been presented to the board of public works. To the action of that board reference was made in our report of December 7, 1874.

The joint resolution of December 21, 1874, allowed the presentation of other claims for the period of thirty days, during which period about 1,200 were presented.

As it was not possible for the members of the board of audit to make a personal examination of each piece of property alleged to have been damaged, two competent persons were selected as a commission to visit the property and to report their judgment of the damages sustained. That duty was performed under oath, and their reports were valuable aids in arriving at the decisions reported. In some instances the damages reported were reduced, and in a few increased upon personal inquiry and examination by the members of the board of audit.

Eighth. The amount of claims in this class is.....	$557,688 52
Accounted for in last report.....	$549,075 15
Since allowed and certified.....	3,674 89
Unclaimed.....	4,938 48

	557,688 52

The amount allowed and certified in each of the several classes of claims is as follows :

Class 1. Sewer-certificates :

February 15, 1875.....	$1,002,475 58
Present report.....	32,952 81

Which is the amount of the debt of the District, as audited and allowed, exclusive of the funded debt existing June 20, 1874, to be increased by further reports of the work under the commissioners, and by whatever may be allowed upon unadjusted claims. The latter, to the amount of $477,281.05, have been presented, but as some of the smaller ones are without definite statement of amounts claimed, they may be slightly increased or diminished, and on audit will probably be diminished.

In our report of February 15, 1875, a partial examination of the accounts of the treasurer of the board was shown to have been made, with, for reasons then stated, unsatisfactory results. To continue this part of the work, William E. Warren, esq., an accomplished accountant of the city of New York, was employed, and the books and papers of the late treasurer's office were given into his charge, and such assistants supplied as he desired. A copy of his report is hereto appended, showing a balance due the District of $26,603.71. It also shows that a verification of the condition of the treasury could not be had from the books, and that a resort to other sources of information was necessary. A copy of Mr. Warren's report was transmitted to the Commissioners of the District.

The business of the auditor of the board of public works appears to have been regularly conducted, and without any important error.

The collector of the late board reports the amount of collections of special assessments and of moneys paid on that account to the treasurer of the board to have been $366,245.89. An examination shows the amount to have been $366,546.24, an excess of $340.35. In this, as in some other instances, too much reliance was placed on loose memoranda, but the result as given above is believed to be correct. The collector also issued certificates of indebtedness for special assessments to the amount of $925,365.37, for which he has accounted.

Moneys collected on assessments for which certificates had been issued were also properly accounted for.

The accounts of the auditor of the District were not accurately kept until December 1, 1873, after which they are regular. It does not appear, however, that any loss was sustained through the inaccuracies referred to.

The accounts of the comptroller's office have been examined in connection with the treasurer's, and with a large number of the claims allowed, without the discovery of any error affecting the interests of the District. The books are in an incomplete condition, and the examination is not finished.

Paid to the Commissioners of the District.. 112, 287 68

1, 022, 482 59

Mr. Wilson had in his custody bills receivable on account of the Northeastern Market-house, $5,213.62, and an uncollected balance due from the First National Bank of Washington, $1,056.85.

The accounts of the treasurer's office appear to have been regularly and accurately kept, and the receipts of all descriptions duly accounted for.

The only irregularity meriting criticism on the transactions of the treasurer was in negotiating a loan in anticipation of the receipt of taxes, on the comptroller's draft or warrant of February 5, 1873, for $30,000. The interest paid was $210; unimportant in amount, but the transaction was illegal. In other respects the business of the office of the treasurer of the District was conducted in a creditable manner.

COLLECTOR OF THE DISTRICT.

The late collector paid over to the treasurer the moneys reported as collected. To ascertain whether the amount of moneys collected was truly reported would require an examination in detail of the tax-list for three years, and of delinquencies of previous years under the old corporations, and also list of licenses and other dues. Such examination has not been made for want of time and facilities for conducting the same while other matters of greater importance were under consideration. We are informed that a deputy collector failed to pay over about $15,000 of his collections, and that the matter has been placed in the hands of the attorney of the District.

The board of audit have heretofore made three reports on the subjects referred to them in the act of June 20, 1874, the joint resolution of December 21, 1874, and the resolution of the House of Representatives of December 22, 1874. The reports will be found in the following-named documents of the second session of the Forty-third Congress, viz: Executive Document No. 1, part 6; Executive Document No. 170; Miscellaneous H. of R. Document No. 96.

Having thus discharged the duties imposed upon them in the manner which their best judgment dictated, the members of the board of audit respectfully submit that the time has arrived at which they may be relieved from further service in the affairs of the District, and at which the claims and matters upon which they have not acted may be committed to the governing authorities of the District without detriment to public or private interests; and they request that, at such time as Congress may deem advisable, the change be made.

Respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF W. E. WARREN, PUBLIC AUDITOR AND ACCOUNTANT, TO THE BOARD OF AUDIT, IN RELATION TO THE ACCOUNT OF JAMES A. MAGRUDER, TREASURER OF THE LATE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS. SEPTEMBER 20, 1875.

[Accompanying papers.—I. Account current; II. Schedules A to H.]

To the honorable the Board of Audit of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: The act of Congress entitled "An act for the government of the District of Columbia, and for other purposes," approved the 20th of June, 1874, made it the duty of the board of audit therein created, among various other things relating to said District and to the late board of public works of said District, to examine into and audit all of the accounts of the auditor and of the treasurer of said late board of public works, and to make a full report of their own acts and proceedings to the President for transmission by him to Congress, &c.

Having been employed by your honorable board to examine, verify, and revise a statement of the accounts of one of said officials, to wit, the treasurer, which has been prepared under your direction by Maj. C. E. Behle, and to state the balance of his accounts, which work has just been completed, the undersigned has the honor to submit the following

REPORT:

BOOKS KEPT.—The accounts kept in the office and under the direction of Col. James A. Magruder, the treasurer, are contained in the books of which a list is given in Schedule A, hereto appended. A brief description of some of them is necessary, in order to understand the reasons for adopting the course pursued in examining the same.

THE CASH-BOOK.—This book appears to have been intended to contain original entries of all cash receipts and disbursements including the various kinds of certificates issued by the board of public works, and such bonds of the District government as were delivered over by the comptroller on account of public improvements, executed by said board, all of which were treated as cash.

The entries in the cash-book were afterward all journalized and thence posted into the ledger, the receipts being debited to cash-account, and credited to James A.

Magruder, treasurer, and the disbursements charged to the treasurer, and credited to cash-account; but no rest in, or balance of the latter, was ever made in the cash-book, except on two dates, viz, April 26, 1873, (p. 194,) and October 30, 1873, (p. 258,) when the balances, according to the book, were carried down to new accounts. No accounts have been found setting forth the items of which the balances at those dates or at any other times were composed.

THE JOURNAL.—Besides the daily transactions originally entered in the cash-book, as above stated, the journal contained a variety of other entries, some of which will be described, viz: Contractors on the public works were charged and certificates of indebtedness were credited for payments made to the former in such certificates, but the ledger accounts of such contractors, and with the certificates of indebtedness, were never closed. The cash payments made to contractors, after being charged to the treasurer and credited to cash, were also charged to the contractors, and credited to the particular improvements on account of which they were paid out, but such accounts with contractors and improvements were never closed.

Money advanced to the paymaster for disbursement to laborers employed by the board of public works, after being charged to the treasurer and credited to cash, was also charged to the paymaster and credited to an account entitled "Checks to H. P. Fardon, paymaster."

After the pay-rolls were settled and receipted, the paymaster generally, if not always, handed them in to the auditor of the board, who examined them and issued his certificates for the amounts, which certificates were passed to the treasurer, who thereupon credited the amounts to the paymaster and charged them to the account of "Checks to A. P. Fardon, paymaster." But there was a large amount remaining to the debit of the paymaster on the treasurer's books at the time entries in said books ceased to be made, say in March, 1874, when Mr. Laird, the book-keeper, became disabled by sickness, from which he never recovered.

The manner in which the books were kept, as above described, afforded little or no security against errors in the accounts, which were found upon examination to be very defective and wholly unreliable.

METHOD ADOPTED IN CONDUCTING THE INVESTIGATION.

For the reasons above given, in endeavoring to ascertain the state of the treasurer's account with the board of public works, the accountant employed by the board of audit, and with their approval, determined to discard the treasurer's books, and rely upon other measures of finding out the amounts of money and securities received and disbursed by that officer.

Letters were thereupon addressed, by order of the board of audit, to the several officials of the District of Columbia, and others known to have paid over moneys to the treasurer of the board of public works, requesting statements of all such amounts in detail, which were duly furnished.

The payments by the treasurer, with the exception of his advances to the paymaster, consisted mainly of redemptions of auditor's certificates, which fortunately were found to have been preserved.

After carefully examining all of said accounts and vouchers, a statement of the same was made out by Maj. C. E. Behle, the accountant before mentioned, resulting in a balance apparently due from Colonel Magruder of $26,603.71, as set forth in the report of the former to the board of audit of August 30, 1875.

The undersigned entered upon the work of revising and verifying said statement on Friday, the 3d of September instant, and after spending a couple of days in making a cursory examination of the books, reports, &c., and various verbal inquiries relating to the subject, he finally concluded, in the exercise of the liberal discretion kindly allowed him by your honorable board, to pursue a somewhat different course in endeavoring to learn the state of the late treasurer's account from that chosen by Major Behle.

Instead of discarding the treasurer's cash-book, the undersigned determined to make it the basis of his statement, which involved a careful examination of said book and a comparison with the entries therein of the receipts taken by the comptroller, collectors, water-registrar, and others, for payments to the treasurer made by them; also of auditors' certificates and other vouchers taken by the treasurer for his disbursements.

According to said book, the receipts of cash and securities from July 1, 1871, down to March 30, 1874, amounted to..... $14,680,874 89
And the disbursements during the same time amounted to..... 14,422,886 91

It will be noticed that this balance corresponds with that made out by Major Behle, and I am confident it will be found correct, unless Colonel Magruder shall be able to show to the satisfaction of the board of audit that he has made payments for which no vouchers have been produced by, and credits given to, him down to this time.

The annexed condensed statement, in the form of an account-current with Colonel Magruder, exhibits in one view the process by which the result above stated is arrived at. To prevent any disappointment hereafter, it should be stated that credit has been allowed to Treasurer Magruder in these accounts for the amount of all the auditor's certificates redeemed by him, whether in cash, acceptances, or due-bills. No accounts having been kept by the late treasurer of the two latter, the only means of determining the amount of same which were not taken up by him was to ascertain the amount of such acceptances and due-bills presented to, and taken up by, the board of audit, which amount has, of course, been charged to him. In case any further claims of this character are hereafter presented to, and allowed by, the board of audit, the balance now standing to the debit of Colonel Magruder, as herein stated, will be increased by the same amount.

Before closing this report, it is proper to call attention to a discrepancy in the account of 10 per cent. certificates of indebtedness, representing uncollected assessments for improvements, as follows :

Of those certificates there were disposed of, at various times, through the agency of the First National Bank of New York, the sum of .....	$696,079 66
And through Mr. Moses Kelly, of Washington, the sum of.....	120,485 34

The whole amount of such certificates issued according to the account furnished by Mr. George W. Beall, collector and assessor, was.....	810,794 61

Apparent surplus..... 6,245 23

REPORT OF BOARD OF AUDIT OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. 11

On examination, it is found that this amount is composed of certificates Nos. 3299 to 3341, which were sold by Mr. Kelly, and duly accounted for by him on 7th of June, 1873.

It is also found that the same amount of certificates, and of corresponding numbers, were afterward—say on 27th of August, 1873—accounted and settled for by the First National Bank of New York.

Colonel Magruder's verbal explanation of this matter is that Mr. Kelly negotiated said certificates with the Freedman's Savings and Trust Company, with the understanding that if they should become short of money before they were paid, he would repurchase them. This, Colonel Magruder claims, was afterward done with money furnished by him; and the certificates sent to the First National Bank of New York, and subsequently sold and accounted for by them.

Neither the cash-book nor check-books of the late treasurer contain any entries relating to such alleged repurchase of said certificates, but if proof thereof satisfactory to the board of audit is hereafter furnished by him, he will be entitled to an allowance for the amount paid therefor, which would reduce the amount now standing to his debit ($26,603.71) above stated.

Respectfully submitted.

In our last report we stated that uncollected special assessments would exceed all demands against the same, after providing for the redemption of all the special-improvement 8 per cent. certificates, commonly called greenbacks, (then amounting to $1,552,400,) for the payment of which said special assessments are pledged by law by the sum of $1,614,054.37. This statement was made pursuant to the report, accompanying our own, of the deputy comptroller, who was charged with the collection of the special assessments. We were not then correctly informed of the special assessments then uncollected in excess of the amount required to pay said $1,552,400 of special-improvement certificates, the amount of which excess at that time, instead of being $1,614,054.37, is now computed by him at $583,844.40. In his accompanying report the deputy comptroller explains the circumstances that led to his mistake, to which we invite the attention of Congress. His statement of the then condition of the special-assessment matter is as follows:

leaving as the amount by which the assessments actually made up to November 1, 1874, for special improvements, and the sums estimated as chargeable for assessments for work done by that time, will (if collected) exceed the $2,000,000 8 per cent. certificates and accrued interest thereon up to January 1, 1875, for the payment of which certificates and interest the assessments are by law set apart, the sum of $583,844.40.

But with reference to the amount estimated as chargeable to private property for special improvements upon the completion of all work, the accompanying report of the engineer furnishes an estimate which covers work not included in the foregoing estimate of the deputy comptroller, for the report of the latter extends only to November 1, 1874, the expenditure up to that time being based upon information then furnished to him by the board of audit.

The engineer has before him data concerning special improvements and the property benefited thereby and assessable therefor, which of necessity the records of the deputy comptroller do not afford to the latter. The engineer is thereby enabled to go more into detail than the deputy comptroller in estimating from the gross expenditure for special improvements the proportion thereof chargeable to private property adjoining and benefited thereby.

The following is the estimate made by the engineer :

The total expenditure on account of special improvements, under the board of public works and under the district commissioners, upon streets not yet assessed, may be approximately stated as follows :

The loss to the tax by the credit for the full value of the old material is two-thirds of this full value. The aggregate of the claims for old material upon unassessed streets, in the hands of the board of audit, is reported at $76,016.91. The act of the District legislature approved May 29, 1873, pledged the special-improvement tax thereafter collected to the redemption of the 8 per cent. improvement certificates, known as "greenbacks." ## BURNING SECURITIES.

Under the authority of the 16th section of the act approved March 3, 1875, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and of the sinking-fund have destroyed, by burning, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, and preserved the proper evidence thereof, as prescribed by the Secretary, of the following bonds: sewer-certificates and other obligations of the cities of Washington and Georgetown and of the District of Columbia, paid or redeemed by either the District of Columbia or sinking-fund commissioners, or otherwise held by them at the date of this report.

We append hereto copies of certified schedules of the securities so destroyed:

Schedule No. 1 embraces the securities held by the commissioners of the sinking-fund, amounting to.....	$5,445,416 17½
Schedule No. 2 the securities held by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, amounting to.....	2,342,185 41½

SINKING-FUND REPORT.

The commissioners of the sinking-fund, in the accompanying report, give a detailed exhibit of the public debt as it is at this date, show the reduction during the past year, and explain the circumstances under which $135,000 of funding-loan bonds, issued under act of assembly approved June 20, 1872, ratified and confirmed by act of Congress approved June 20, 1874, were issued in the redemption of other bonds of the District, and a statement of the destruction by burning of the securities in their hands, under act of Congress of March, 1875. They show also that they have exchanged $12,055,300 of the fifty-year 3.65 bonds for certificates of indebtedness of the board of audit, as required by act of Congress approved June 20, 1874, and call attention to the matter of the interest due on said bonds the 1st of February, 1876, and thereafter, as also for the establishment of a sinking-fund, as provided in said act, for the payment of the principal of said bonds when they shall become due.

We invite the favorable attention of Congress to the recommendation of the sinking-fund commissioners for the transfer, by appropriate legislation, of their official functions to officers of the Treasury Department to be designated for that purpose, and will add to the reasons given in their report favoring such transfer, that it will simplify the financial system of the District and lessen the public expense.

It gives us pleasure to bear testimony to the fidelity with which the commissioners of the sinking-fund have discharged their important duties, and to their ready co-operation in all measures we have proposed for promoting the financial interests of the District.

REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY.

The report of the attorney for the District describes the nature and progress of the litigation in which the District is a party. Among the important cases pending is one in which will be determined the liability of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to pay taxes upon its real estate in the District. An action has been brought in behalf of the District against the Washington Market Company for the recovery of arrears of the annual rental of twenty-five thousand dollars imposed upon that company by act of Congress of May 20, 1870. That enactment directs that the sum so to be paid shall be applied by the District authorities to the relief of the poor. The company claims that the rental was subsequently reduced, first, to twenty thousand dollars, by an enactment of the late legislative assembly, and afterward to a sum varying from fifty-five hundred to seventy-five hundred dollars, by an agreement of the late board of public works for the purchase of a tract of land as a site for a District building. The construction of the enactment of the legislative assembly, which is relied upon as reducing the annual rental is a questionable one; and the power of that body to reduce a trust-fund created by act of Congress is also doubted. It is also believed that the Market Company was without authority to sell, and the board of public works without authority to purchase, the land in consideration of the conveyance of which the last of the two attempted reductions of rent was made.* The ground was held by the company on a lease from the United States, subject to certain trusts. These considerations have led to the above-mentioned suit for the recovery of the full amount of rent as originally fixed by act of Congress.

An action has been brought upon the bond of C. E. Evans, a contractor by whom a large number of pavements were laid under contracts with the late board of public works, and who, upon due notice, failed to repair his work, as was required by his contracts. Similar actions will follow on the bonds of other contractors as rapidly as the information therefor can be furnished to the attorney by the engineer. Upon being advised by the board of audit that the examination of the accounts of the late treasurer of the board of public works resulted in finding that that officer had not satisfactorily accounted for the sum of $26,603.71, the commissioners called upon the late treasurer and the sureties upon his bond to pay the above-mentioned sum. This demand not being complied with, an action has been brought against the late treasurer and his sureties for that amount.

The report of the attorney also shows the number and disposition of District cases in the police court, and mentions reforms instituted therein with reference to collection of fines and penalties, and judgments upon bonds, the custody of the revenues resulting from fines and penalties, and the settlement of accounts relating to the expenses of the court.

The attention of Congress is invited to that part of the report relating to revision of municipal ordinances. The extent of the business of the office is shown by the report, and it is gratifying to state that the legal business of this District has all been attended to without the employment of special counsel. The moderate salaries of the officials cover all the professional expenses of the District for the past year.

COMPTROLLER'S REPORT.

The accompany report of the comptroller gives statements of all receipts and expenditures from December 1, 1874, to December 1, 1875, showing balance of each account; the receipts of the District of Columbia, in detail, from all sources during the same period, showing balance in treasury; the amount of congressional appropriations, with expenditures and balances remaining on hand; the number, amount, and to whom issued, of warrants issued by the comptroller, countersigned by the auditor, one of the Commissioners, and the treasurer of the District, which comprise all the warrants of the District government on the Treasury; the expenditures classified, showing the cost of each office or department in detail, and statement of amount of 3.65 bonds issued to the sinking-fund commissioners under act of Congress, June 20, 1874.

All moneys and securities of the District government are deposited with the United States Treasurer, and no moneys have been paid for any purpose but upon the warrant of the accounting-officers of the District on the United States Treasury, countersigned by one of the Commissioners.

AUDITOR.

The auditor shows in his report the operations of his office during the past year, the number of audits made during that time, and the amount allowed and audited; also, the number and amount of claims presented and not audited.

TREASURER.

The report of the treasurer gives a detailed statement of the amounts received by him and their sources, except appropriations of Congress.

COLLECTOR OF TAXES.

We invite the attention of Congress to the suggestions of the collector of taxes of the District for the better regulation of sales of property for tax-arrearages, to the end that when the District government shall become a purchaser, the owners shall be subjected to like penalties as if the property were purchased by a private person, and to give the District absolute title in the property it purchases within a reasonable time, without right of redemption thereafter to the owner or his legal representatives. Under existing law the owner has little inducement to pay the tax in arrear and redeem his property, until he may have to remove the cloud of the tax-charge to enable him to sell the property, thus leaving the District in the mean time without revenue from the property, either from the tax in arrear or the interest upon it. The effect is to deprive the District of its just income from the property until it shall suit the owner to pay it. The recent sales of property for tax-arrearages under the act of March 3, 1875, illustrate the defect of the present system for enforcing the payment of taxes in arrears.

The whole amount of taxes in arrears, for the payment of which property was offered for sale in June last, was .....	$1,661,827 35
Of this there was paid by purchase by the owners and other private bidders .....	25,360 46
Leaving the balance .....	1,636,466 89

collectible only by the District purchasing the property. Of this only $118,037.98 has been since paid. The District holds the property it so purchased for the unpaid difference, $1,218,428.91, but can make no reliable calculation for the redemption of the property within any definite time, and it is thus deprived of its just dues to the extent of such tax-arrearage to meet its current and other expenses. The balance of arrearages of taxes now due and available for the general purpose of the District is estimated by the collector at $800,000 to $1,000,000, say $900,000.

Under an effective system the District would have now in its treasury the larger portion, if not all, of said $900,000.

In view of these and like evils of the present system, and the wrong it works to the prompt tax-payers as well as to the financial interests of the District, forcibly presented by the collector in his accompanying report, the Commissioners recommend that such legislation be had as will remedy said evils, will clearly define the rights of delinquent tax-payers, and enable the District government to enforce the prompt payment of taxes.

Connected with this matter of tax-sales, the Commissioners invite the attention of Congress to the suggestions of the collector for such modification of the law relating to advertisements for such sales as will make it necessary for such advertisements to give only an intelligible description of the property, to whom assessed, and the time when the privilege of redemption will expire. As will be seen by the collector's statement, this is a matter of present importance, to enable him to properly discharge his duties under the act of March 3, 1875, relating to sales for taxes that may be delinquent April 1, 1876.

We invite the attention of Congress to his remarks on the subject.

We commend to Congress the recommendations of the collector for such legislation as will make illegal any subdivision of property on which arrears of taxes exist or the entry of such subdivision in the public records of the office of the surveyor. The collector in his report shows the evils of the existing system which legalizes and permits record to be made of such subdivision without regard to the property being in arrears for taxes.

The collector presents a schedule of the number and classes of issue of licenses from November 1, 1874, to December 1, 1875, a period of thirteen months, showing the total number of issues to have been 14,769, and of classes 46.

The collector reports the total receipts of his office from November 1, 1874, to December 1, 1875, a period of thirteen months from the date of his last report.....		$2, 559, 595 08

Of these receipts, $172,875.43 were trust funds, which were immediately disbursed to the parties for whom they were collected, and did not become a part of the District resources for the general purposes of government, leaving for such purposes, including the payment of interest on the public debt, $2,386,719.65, as the total revenues received by the collector for the said period of thirteen months, available for ordinary government purposes.

SUPERINTENDENT OF ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES.

In the report of the superintendent of assessments and taxes will be found tabulated statements of the taxable and non-taxable real-estate in the city of Washington, in the city of Georgetown, and in the county of Washington, including the valuation of real-estate owned by the United States not including Government buildings, and the real-estate owned by the District of Columbia, making, in the aggregate $115,427,692.

ASSESSORS.

In their accompanying report, the assessors appointed under the act of March 3, 1875, to assess the value of all the real and personal property in the District taxable under said act, explain the causes that prevented their executing so much of their duty as related to the appraisal of personal property, to which we invite the attention of Congress; and with it to the correspondence between the Commissioners and the assessors on that subject. The Commissioners regret the failure of the assessors to comply with the law in that regard, but appreciate the serious difficulties they encountered. They invite the attention of Congress to the recommendation of the assessors for the substitution of licenses for a tax on personal property; and while they are not prepared to favor such a policy, they venture to suggest that if a tax on personal property be not continued, the present rates of licenses should be increased and their range enlarged.

TAX-LAW.

The existing tax-law, passed at the last session of Congress, expires by its own limitation June 30, 1876, and it is important that Congress should enact a law for the levying of taxes for the next fiscal year at an early date, so that sufficient time will be given for the appraisement of such new buildings as have been erected since the last general appraisement, and which will be erected before the next. The late period of the passage of the present tax-law, March 3, 1875, seriously embarrassed the assessors in the performance of their duty, and resulted, as they state in their report, in their not appraising the personal property within the District for taxation.

ENGINEER.

The engineer communicates full information of the transactions of his department during the past year. The work and consequent expenditure, chiefly in the fifty-year bonds provided for by the act of June 20, 1874, and pursuant to examination and audit of the accounts by the board of audit, consisting of the first and second comptrollers of the United States treasury, exceed the expectations of the commissioners as indicated in their last report; but the causes therefor, growing out of obligations for the execution of existing legal contracts, the protection or preservation of improvements existing or commenced and not completed at the date of said act, and the enforcement of obligations of contractors for keeping avenues and streets which they improved in good repair, fully explain the reasons for such increased work and expenditure. It would be gratifying to the commissioners to be able to report the entire completion of the work under contracts of the board of public works; but owing to causes beyond their and the engineer's control, a small amount of such work, chiefly the James Creek canal and work connected with it, remains unfinished; to which should be added the Western market-house in process of construction, the cost of completing all of which, according to the engineer's estimate, will not exceed $419,055.32.

The Commissioners invite the favorable attention of Congress to the recommendation of the engineer for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue between the Capitol and the Treasury buildings; the establishment by law of permanent grades of the streets of Washington and Georgetown; the amending of existing laws relating to assessments for special improvements on streets and the improvement of alleys; the revision of the existing law relating to and prescribing regulations for buildings, and for increasing the water-supply for the cities of Washington and Georgetown.

Appended to and made part of the engineer's report are reports of—

The chief clerk of his office,

The water registrar,

The surveyor,

The inspector of buildings,

The superintendent of property,

The overseer of repairs,

The overseer of gas-lamps,

The parking commission,

also contract-tables and tables of board-rates, giving detailed statements and exhibits of the transactions, &c., in, and connected with, their several offices during the past year, to which we invite the attention of Congress.

The inspector of buildings, in his accompanying report, presents the pressing considerations for additional station and engine houses, and for better permanent accommodations than now exist for the police court. Estimates have been prepared for the erection of a building for the court upon a site now owned by the District. The inspector makes also pertinent suggestions in regard to the rented school-buildings, to all of which we invite the attention of Congress. He submits a tabular statement of permits for buildings, issued during the past year, giving description and value of the buildings, showing that 1,744 permits were issued, and the value of the buildings to be erected thereunder $3,655,500, which exhibits the rapid growth of the capital during the past year, making it necessary for extensive improvements of the streets, alleys, &c., by the District government to meet the immediate wants of the community connected with such growth, and indicating the necessity for a considerable expenditure by the District to provide suitable improvements for the large number of buildings that will be erected in the immediate future, many of which will doubtless be in localities where little or no improvement has been made by the District. In this connection the Commissioners can but congratulate the citizens of the District and the country upon the prosperity of the capital and the gratifying promise of its steady growth in population and wealth.

WATER-REGISTRAR.

We invite the special attention of Congress to the accompanying report of the water-registrar on the subject of a modified and increased rate of water-rents, which he deems indispensable to meet the immediate and permanent future wants of the water fund, which furnishes all the means for maintaining and enlarging the water service of the District. The Commissioners concur in the conclusions of the registrar, and recommend early legislation to give them legal form and sanction.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The number of youth of school age—6 to 17 years—in the District, according to the United States census of 1870, was—

White .....	21, 177
Colored .....	10, 494
Total .....	31, 671

The whole number of pupils enrolled in the public schools for the school year ending August 31, 1875, was—

White .....	12, 137
Total .....	18, 785

On the basis of this census return it is seen that less than two-thirds of the whole number of youth of school age in the District are enrolled in the public schools, and yet the school accommodations are barely sufficient for the present pupils. We have no data as to the number of the youth of the District who attend private schools. It may be safe, however, to estimate of the nearly 13,000 unenrolled in the public schools not more than one-half attend any school.

The accommodations for the pupils of the public schools, except as to the buildings owned by the District, are not as they should be. The accompanying report of the trustees shows that over 4,000 children now attend schools in rented buildings, few of which are adapted to the purpose, and many are badly lighted and ventilated, damp and unhealthy.

The annual rent and cost of repairs of the rented buildings are estimated by the trustees at $25,635, more than 6 per cent. interest on $400,000, the amount they estimate as sufficient to purchase sites and erect all the buildings required to meet the present public-school wants of the District. The Commissioners respectfully submit whether it will not be the wiser policy to abandon the use of all rented school-buildings by substituting therefor houses to be erected and owned by the District. To accomplish this, appropriations will be needed from Congress in aid of the District resources.

The Commissioners venture to call the attention of Congress to the fact of the District now owning a valuable property in the city of Washington, known as Corcoran Square, originally purchased for market purposes, but which they are of the opinion could be more advantageously used for the public interests in aid of the public schools. The District purchased this property under the act of the legislative assembly, approved June 19, 1872, and for its payment issued its bond for the sum of $100,000 at 7 per cent. interest per annum, payable in twenty years, which is now outstanding. Cash expenditures to the amount of $31,881.64 have been made on the premises, making the total consideration and outlay $131,881.64.

In addition, claims of the contractor for material and work in the construction of market-buildings on the premises, and the architect, have been presented, which the Commissioners are advised by the attorney are not legal claims upon the District. The Commissioners recommend that authority be given to the District government to sell the property at public auction at a price not less than the total of said one hundred thousand dollar bond, with the interest heretofore paid thereon, and the cash expenditure of $31,881.64, and apply the proceeds as follows:

One hundred thousand dollars thereof to the immediate redemption, if practicable, of said one hundred thousand dollar bond, and, if not practicable, to be invested in securities of the District at not above their par value, as a fund for the payment of said bond on its maturity; the residue to be applied in the purchase of proper sites and the erection thereon of suitable buildings for school purposes; the avails to be divided between the white and colored schools according to the apportionment prescribed by law.

The claims of the schools upon the favorable consideration of Congress are strengthened by the facts stated in the trustees' report, that about one-third of the school population is colored, who have come into the District since the beginning of our recent civil war, and contribute little to the school revenues; and that about thirty per cent. of the enrollment in the white schools is composed of children whose parents or guardians are in the service of the United States, from whom little is received for the support of the public schools.

The apportionment of the school fund between the white and colored schools, as provided by law, is satisfactory to all classes of citizens of the District, and ought not to be disturbed. In harmony with it the Commissioners recommend a congressional appropriation of $21,346 for the use of the colored schools, being the proportionate amount due them on account of the appropriation of $50,865 made by the last Congress for the erection of the new school-building in the city of Georgetown—the appropriation to be made on the like terms with those for the Georgetown school, and to be expended in the erection of a school-building for colored school children in Georgetown.

As neither the Commissioners nor the school trustees are authorized by law to purchase sites for school purposes, we suggest that such legislation be had as will give the District government, under proper restrictions and conditions, power to make such purchases; and in this connection recommend that like authority be given the District government to purchase such real estate as may be needed for the erection thereon of station-houses for the metropolitan police, for a police court, and for the use of the fire department, with power to sell the central guard-house and lot on Louisiana avenue, and the police station-house corner of K and Ninth streets, and expend the proceeds in the purchase of other real estate and the erection of other police buildings; and to sell other real estate used and held for school and fire department purposes which is not suitable to their wants, and all other real estate owned by the District not needed for government purposes. The total expense for the support of the public schools for the school year ending August 31, 1875, was $310,246.68, and including the payments of debts due on account of expenses of previous years, $530,737.44. The estimated expense for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877, is $386,500.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The report of the fire commissioners, with its accompanying reports of the chief engineer and the superintendent of the fire-alarm telegraph, presents a satisfactory statement of the transactions of the fire department for the past year, and of its present condition.

We are gratified to know of the satisfaction of the department with the new fire-alarm telegraph, which went into operation last September. It will be remembered that both houses of Congress, at its last session, passed a bill recognizing the importance of a new fire-alarm telegraph, and appropriating the sum of $37,500 in aid of its construction, on condition of the District government expending a like sum therefor. The bill failed to become a law in not having been enrolled, through a clerical inadvertence. The necessity for the immediate construction of the telegraph was such that we did not feel at liberty to delay it until the meeting of the next Congress. The whole cost, $75,000, has been paid out of the District treasury, which we hope may be re-imbursed by Congress in the one-half—$37,500—which it would have contributed had the bill it passed become a law; and we respectfully ask an appropriation of that amount.

We invite the attention of Congress to the recommendation of the fire commissioners for the organization of two additional engine companies, with the necessary apparatus, and for an additional hook-and-ladder company. If Congress be not prepared to make an appropriation of its portion of the full amount asked for, we venture to recommend that a sufficient sum be appropriated, which, with the aid of the District, will enable the department to purchase two engines and organize one engine and one hook-and-ladder company.

METROPOLITAN POLICE.

Under the act of March 3, 1875, authorizing the Commissioners of the District or their successors in office to reduce, adjust, and equalize the pay or salaries of all officers or employes payable from the funds of the District government, in whole or in part, the Commissioners, among other things, have reduced the pay of the members of the metropolitan police department ten dollars per month—the increase of their pay granted them by the late corporation of the city of Washington, April 25, 1871, and by act of the legislative assembly of the District of Columbia, approved August 18, 1871. This reduction amounts to $30,120 per annum, and restores the original status of the pay of the metropolitan police, the United States paying two-thirds, and the District of Columbia one-third.

WASHINGTON ASYLUM.

The report of the commissioner of the Washington Asylum shows the number of inmates of the almshouse and of prisoners in the workhouse during the past year. It shows also the improvements in and connected with the asylum during the same period. The condition of the institution is improved from what it was a year ago. It cannot be said, however, to be creditable to the District, with all its improvements and its excellent management, resulting from the fact of its continued common use for both paupers and criminals. This should not be. Steps have been taken by the District Commissioners to remedy this wrong by securing to the poor, whose necessities compel them to seek the shelter of the asylum, its exclusive occupation. They hope, on the completion of the new Government jail, the District prisoners then in the asylum may be removed there, and thereafter all such criminals will be incarcerated in that prison. The asylum needs some additional improvements for the proper and humane accommodation of the pauper inmates, which the District government will cheerfully make.

Hospital arrangements have been recently completed securing to the sick improved accommodations from those heretofore furnished by the asylum. The District authorities are indebted to the commissioner and intendant of the asylum for those improvements, as well as for the excellent condition of the institution.

We invite the attention of Congress to the suggestions of the commissioner for the re-organization of the public charities of the District, to the end of having them put under the control of a commission, to which shall be intrusted the disbursement of all moneys, whether appropriated by Congress or contributed by the District, for the support of such charities, and who shall account for the same to the District authorities under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Under the intelligent administration of the board of health, the sanitary condition of the District is excellent, and compares creditably with that of the most favored cities of the country. In addition to its other important duties, the board, under the order of the Commissioners, has taken the exclusive charge of the collection and removal of all garbage from the cities of Washington and Georgetown and their immediate suburbs; the care of the sick poor of the District, furnishing them with medicines and medical attendance; the burial of deceased paupers, and the management of the Western burial-ground—all of which it is doing with commendable economy and at considerably reduced cost from that for like work heretofore.

In closing this report the Commissioners make their acknowledgments to the officers of the District government for the intelligence and fidelity with which they have discharged their respective duties, and express the hope that Congress, as the legislature of the District of Columbia, may enact such laws and make such appropriations in its aid as will permanently advance its material and moral interests.

Very respectfully,

WM. DENNISON,
J. H. KETCHAM,
S. L. PHELPS,

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, December 1, 1875.

To the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit the following copies of orders passed since the date of your last annual report.

Very respectfully,

WM. TINDALL,
Secretary.

A 1.

ORDERS.

JANUARY 21, 1875.

Ordered, 1st. That the order of August 24, 1874, is hereby amended, so as to read as follows: That no contract for supplies or repairs for any purpose, involving the expenditure of money, shall be made by any officer or employé of the District government, excepting with the written approval of this commission, procured prior to the making of such contract.

2d. That a copy of this order authorizing the contract must, in all cases, be transmitted by the proper officer or officers with the bills for settlement.

3d. That all requisitions for supplies must be made monthly in advance, in writing, and transmitted to this office for action on or before the 1st of the month.

FEBRUARY 1, 1875.

Ordered, That no clerk or other person employed by the District government will leave his office during business hours without having the authority of the head of the proper bureau therefor.

FEBRUARY 22, 1875.

Ordered, That the office of sealer of weights and measures for the city of Georgetown be, and the same is hereby, consolidated with the office of "market-master" of the Georgetown market, under the name of market-master of Georgetown market.

The pay attached to the office shall be at the rate of $33.33 a month; and the market-master shall also be entitled to charge and collect the lawful fees of sealer of weights and measures.

MARCH 23, 1875.

Ordered, That the office of garbage-master in and for the District of Columbia be abolished, to take effect the 31st instant.

MARCH 27, 1875.

Ordered, That the following-named officers be, and they are hereby, appointed a committee to open, in the presence of the commissioners, all proposals received by any department of the District government: the engineer, the comptroller, the auditor, the assistant attorney, the commissioner of asylum, either three of whom shall constitute a quorum for the performance of that duty.

MAY 12, 1875.

Ordered, That the president of the board of fire-commissioners, chief engineer of the fire-department, and the superintendent of the fire-alarm telegraph, are hereby appointed a committee to invite and consider proposals for the construction of a fire-alarm telegraph within the cities of Washington and Georgetown. They will enter upon their duties at once; consider and test the respective propositions submitted to them, and report the result of their investigations, with such recommendations as they may deem advisable, at the earliest practicable moment. The expenditure contemplated for this purpose is $75,000, and no proposition likely to exceed that sum will be entertained. The boxes and wires must be attached to buildings, as poles will not be erected for this purpose. The commissioners, desiring to carry out the intention of Congress in this regard, and recognizing the imperative demand for this much-needed improvement, as a measure of safety and necessity, expect the committee to cordially co-operate with them in procuring the simplest, best, and most economical system that can be obtained.

As it is very important that this work should be commenced immediately, the different manufacturers will be notified by the committee to submit their proposals without delay.

The papers relating to this subject, which have been filed in this office, will be referred for the consideration of the committee, to be returned, with all other papers in the case, with the report.

MAY 20, 1875.

Ordered, That hereafter the route to be followed by processions shall be designated by the superintendent of police in such manner as to avoid, as far as practicable, the lines of street-railways, and to interfere as little as possible with ordinary travel and business.

JUNE 18, 1875.

Ordered, Spigots used in bar-rooms, restaurants, barber-shops, and similar places must be of the make known as spring-valve spigots.

2d. Only one spigot will be allowed to each bar.

3d. Water-closets, where Potomac water is used, must be so constructed as to prevent waste; those now in use that are of a pattern to allow a continuous flow of water must be altered so as to prevent the same.

4th. Fixtures for the use of water in livery-stables, railroad-depots, dyeing-establishments, hotels, station-houses, barber-shops, school-houses, market-houses, and similar places, must be of such a character as to prevent the unnecessary use and waste of water.

5th. It shall be the duty of the water-registrar to examine and inspect, as now provided for by law, all premises using Potomac water, and in any place where the fixtures are not of the character hereinbefore provided, he shall notify the occupants of said premises to make, within ten days after notice, such alteration as may by him be deemed necessary to prevent the waste and unnecessary use of Potomac water; and if such alterations are not made within said ten days after notice, the water shall be stopped off from said premises and shall be kept so stopped off until these requirements are fully complied with and satisfactory evidence of the fact given to the water-registrar at his office.

JUNE 22, 1875.

Ordered, That the offices of one superintendent of public schools for Washington City, one superintendent of public schools for the county of Washington, and one superintendent of public schools for the city of Georgetown, be, and they are hereby, consolidated under the title of superintendent of public schools.

2d. That the superintendent of public schools shall receive a salary at the rate of three thousand dollars per annum, from and after the 1st day of March, 1875.

JUNE 29, 1875.

Ordered, That the engineer in charge of public works in the District of Columbia, the superintendent of fire-alarm telegraph, and the chief engineer of the fire-department be, and they are hereby, directed to inspect the works to be done and the materials to be furnished under the contract recently made for the construction of a new system of telegraph for fire-alarm purposes in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and to see that all the materials and machinery furnished and all work done under said agreement shall be of the best plans and done in the most workmanlike manner, and that the same corresponds to the specifications of said agreement. They will also, in the course of their supervision of said work, see that, as required by said agreement and without additional cost, everything shall be furnished by the contractor which is necessary to the proper and satisfactory completion and working of the system, whether or not it has been specifically named in the agreement.

They will also take care to observe whether any of the telegraph-machinery, bells, wires, and appliances now in use shall be used by said contractors in the performance of the contract, and will take proper inventories of such material and its valuation, and the use to which the same may be applied by the contractors. They will also report and certify to the Commissioners, from time to time, the progress made in the performance of the said agreement.

The Commissioners, however, in detailing the above-mentioned officials to the duties thus designated, will expressly reserve to themselves the right of approval and acceptance of the work done under the contract.

The above-named officials will take care, therefore, and refrain from any act which might be construed to bind the District in respect to their acceptance or approval of the work.

JULY 19, 1875.

Ordered, That the four offices of inspectors and measurers of wood for the city of Washington, provided for by the act of the legislative assembly approved August 21, 1871, be, and they are hereby, consolidated into three.

That the five wood-measurers' districts, as bounded in the ordinance of June 3, 1853, section 2, of the late corporation of Washington, be, and they are hereby, reduced to three, of which the first shall consist of the districts designated in said ordinance as the Rock Creek district, the first canal district, and the second canal district, and shall be known as the Rock Creek district; the second shall be the Anacostia district, and the third the Potomac district, each with the boundaries named in said ordinance.

SEPTEMBER 13, 1875.

Ordered, That the comptroller, auditor, and assistant attorney for the District be a commission to examine all books, accounts, and papers of the collector and treasurer relating to their administration of their respective offices from the 20th June, 1874, to the date of said examination, and report the results to the Commissioners.

And ordered further that the comptroller, auditor, collector, treasurer, and assistant attorney be a commission to examine all the books, accounts, and papers of the several offices of the District, (not including the engineers,) and report all changes they deem advantageous, if any, in the manner of keeping said books, accounts, and papers, to the end as well for all other proper purposes as of simplifying the same, and securing the most effective checks in the many accounts of receipts and expenditures.

Said commission will make their respective reports to the Commissioners on or before the 15th October, proximo.

NOVEMBER 3, 1875.

Ordered, That the assistant attorney of the District of Columbia, Thos. M. Plowman, and C. E. Edmonston be appointed a commission to prepare a complete system of building-regulations for the District of Columbia, and report the same to the Commissioners for their consideration on or before the 15th proximo.

NOVEMBER 9, 1875.

Ordered, That the assessors be requested to appraise the fair salable value of all real estate and buildings owned by the District of Columbia, and report to the Commissioners on or before the 15th instant.

NOVEMBER 10, 1875.

Ordered, That the order of the 3d instant, appointing a committee to prepare a complete system of building-regulations for the District of Columbia, be amended by the appointment of Lieut. R. L. Hoxie, engineer District of Columbia, and Wm. Forsyth, surveyor District of Columbia, as additional members of said committee.

NOVEMBER 30, 1875.

Ordered, That the following sums be appropriated for the purposes named, to wit :

New fire-engine.....	$5,000
Repairing engines.....	9,000
Hose.....	1,400
Total.....	15,400

MARCH 9, 1875.

Whereas, by section 6027 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, it is provided that the salaries of the officers, privates, and detectives of the police force shall be as follows : Major, $1,740 per annum; captains, $1,200 per annum; lieutenants, $840 per annum; sergeants, $65 per month; privates, $60 per month; detectives, $90 per month. And by section 6028 it is provided that "the metropolitan police force, its officers and clerks, shall receive a further compensation of 50 per centum upon their respective salaries, as provided for in this chapter, which further sum shall be paid by the cities of Washington and Georgetown and the district beyond the limits of said cities, in the proportion corresponding to the number of privates allotted severally to said precincts;"

And whereas an ordinance of the late corporation of Washington, approved April 25, 1871, provides that from and after that date the compensation of each and every member of the metropolitan police department paid by said corporation should be increased $10 per month, and by an act of the legislative assembly approved August 18, 1871, it was provided that the same salaries then paid by the corporation of Washington per month to the members of the metropolitan police force, should, after July 1, 1871, be paid to the members of said force doing duty in any part of the District of Columbia;

And whereas, by said ordinance of the corporation of Washington and said act of the legislative assembly, the salaries of the members of said police force, payable from the District treasury, have been increased in the sum of $10 per month above the amount fixed by act of Congress;

And whereas, under an act of Congress approved March 3, 1875, entitled "An act for the support of the government of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for other purposes," the Commissioners of said District are authorized to "reduce, adjust, and equalize the pay or salaries of all officers or employes, payable from the funds of the District government in whole or in part:"

Now, therefore, in pursuance of said authority, and in order that the salaries of the members of said police force may conform to the enactments of Congress, it is Ordered, That from and after the 1st day of April, 1875, the sum of $10, allowed by said ordinance and act of assembly, shall be deducted from each and every salary to which it has heretofore been added.

The aggregate salaries payable to the members of said police force from the United States and from the District, and mentioned in the Revised Statutes, will then, conformably to said law, be as follows: Major, $2,610 per annum; captains, $1,800 per annum; lieutenants, $1,260 per annum; sergeants, $102.50 per month; privates, $90 per month; detectives, $135 per month.

SINKING-FUND.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE SINKING-FUND,
Washington, D. C., December 1, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: At the date of our last annual report the net aggregate funded indebtedness of the District of Columbia, including that of the late corporations of Washington, Georgetown, and the levy court, and excluding the fifty-year bonds issued under act of Congress, approved 20th June, 1874—

Amounted to.....	$8,883,940 43
This has since been reduced by redemption of bonds as follows:
Of permanent improvement 7 per cent. currency-bonds.....	$100,700
Of Chicago relief 7 per cent. currency-bonds.....	100,000
Of water-bonds, 7 per cent. currency-bonds.....	30,000
Of county school 7 per cent. currency-bonds.....	13,700
Of ten-year Bowen 6 per cent. currency-bonds.....	59,300
Of three-year Emery $7\frac{3}{8}$ per cent. currency-bonds.....	2,700
Of five-year Emery $7\frac{3}{8}$ per cent. currency-bonds.....	179,650
Of steam-force-pump $7\frac{3}{8}$ per cent. currency-bonds.....	6,000
Of registered, overdue, 6 per cent. water-stock.....	85,777
And increased by sale of funding-loan bonds.....	135,000
Making the amount now outstanding.....	8,441,113 43

As will more fully appear from Exhibit A herewith; which, however, will be further reduced by the redemption of the remaining five-year Emery bonds, funds for which are now in hand.

The bonds thus redeemed, together with those reported on hand 1st December last, have been canceled and sent to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be destroyed by burning, as required by act of Congress approved 3d March last, with the exception of $135,000 of funding-loan bonds issued under act of assembly approved 20th June, 1872, ratified and confirmed by act of Congress approved 20th June, 1874, belonging to the sinking-fund, which were employed in the purchase of a portion of those redeemed as above.

A copy of the advertisement, Exhibit B, under which this purchase was made, will be found herewith, from which it will be seen that holders of other bonds were afforded an opportunity of disposing of them to the sinking-fund to the amount of $500,000, if willing to receive in payment therefor these funding-loan bonds at par, the act of 20th June, 1874, not allowing them to be sold for less. The offer thus made not having been accepted, and the funds having been provided by you to enable us to pay off all overdue and maturing obligations, we have with your approval canceled and destroyed the remainder of these funding-loan bonds in our possession, amounting to $537,700, thus reducing the apparent amount of this loan from $1,650,000, as reported 1st December last, to $662,300, which is now the actual amount of the same.

In addition to the bonds referred to as destroyed we have also destroyed, as required by law, a large amount of coupons, certificates of indebtedness, &c., a full statement of which will be found in schedules furnished you by the Treasury Department.

The preparation of these for burning was a work of great magnitude, but it has been nearly completed, and when once finished the labor of this branch of the service will be materially reduced.

To give some idea of the amount of labor imposed upon us by act of last session requiring us to destroy, by burning, evidences of indebtedness retired, the following statements may not be out of place. The three and five year Emery certificates consisted of twelve thousand of the former and four thousand of the latter, making in all sixteen thousand, of fifty dollars each. Of the former, eleven thousand nine hundred and ninety-two have been redeemed, leaving but eight yet outstanding. To each of these were attached five coupons, making sixty thousand coupons, each for \$1.82 $\frac{1}{2}$ , all of which had to be classified as to number and date of maturity, entered in the appropriate register, and a perfect descriptive list prepared to accompany them to the Treasury Department.

Attached to each of the four thousand certificates were nine coupons of like amount, making thirty-six thousand coupons which require to be treated in a similar manner.

Without going further into detail, we merely add that this tedious process is pursued as to all the bonds, coupons, and other evidences of indebtedness redeemed or paid by us.

In our last report the outstanding amount of 8-per-cent. "certificates of indebtedness" issued on account of street-improvements, and payable from collections on account of special assessments upon private property benefited thereby, was stated then to be $1,534,600. This has since been reduced $391,950, leaving outstanding at the present time $1,142,650.

No call having been made upon us for the balance of water-fund certificates, amounting to $300, referred to in our report of last year, we have canceled and sent them to the Treasury Department, to be burned. The entire amount of these certificates outstanding is therefore $166,350, and their payment is provided for from special assessments upon private property.

There have been issued by us to the present date fifty-year 3.65 bonds in exchange for certificates of the board of audit, as required by act of Congress approved June 20, 1874, to the amount of $12,056,300, and this will yet be increased, but to what extent we have no means of determining.

Appropriations were made for the payment of the interest upon these bonds by the Treasurer of the United States, as it fell due on the 1st days of February and August last. All these bonds have been issued as of the date of August 1, 1874; interest on certificates of the board of audit dated subsequent to that time has been collected to the amount of $87,836.08, and the amount deposited in the Treasury of the United States, to pay the interest on a proportionate amount of bonds. Provision should now be made by Congress for the interest which will become due on the 1st February, 1876, and permanent provision for that which will thereafter fall due, as also for the establishment of a sinking-fund, as provided for in said act, which we recommend should be at least 1 per cent. per annum on the amount of the bonds issued.

The preparation and issuing of these bonds has for the time being added largely to the labors of this office. This work, however, must now be nearly completed, and great relief will be experienced when it is done, for then the entire supervision of them will devolve upon officers of the Treasury Department, unless it be where holders of the coupon-bonds wish to have them registered, in which case, as the law now stands, the aid of this commission is required. Under these circumstances we recommend a transfer, by appropriate legislation, of the functions of the sinking-fund commission to officers of the Treasury Department, to be designated for that purpose, and we believe this would be in strict harmony with the spirit of recent legislation under which Congress has assumed its direct control of the affairs of this District, going so far even as to levy and collect its taxes as well as to control the fund when collected, and furnish much needed relief to ourselves, who have for more than four years devoted our time and best energies to a faithful administration of the financial affairs of this District, so far as committed to us, and to the performance of the duties imposed by act of Congress upon our board, the extent of which was not contemplated when we originally accepted an office supposed to be more of honor than of labor and personal emolument.

In conclusion, we have to thank your honorable body for the courtesy and consideration shown us, and for your co-operation in every movement calculated legally to protect and maintain the credit of the financial interests under our charge. We also make cheerful mention of the faithful service and correct discharge of duty on the part of the staff of clerks rendered necessary by the multiform and varied duties of our office.

With much respect, your obedient servants,

H. M. SWEENEY,

President.

Secretary.

REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, D. C., December 4, 1875.

To the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

The business of this office has increased during the past year. In the Supreme Court of the United States there have been argued the two cases of Dainese, appellant, against the board of public works, in one of which a bill of complaint was filed in the court below, by Dainese, against the late board of public works, to enjoin it from tearing down a row of tenements which were being constructed in alleged violation of the building regulations of the District, and in a manner and of material dangerous to public safety; and in the other of which a bill was filed by the late board, to enjoin Dainese from proceeding with the further construction of the same buildings. In the court below, the bill of complaint brought by Dainese was dismissed, and an injunction was issued in the bill filed by the board. These causes had been decided by the court below a year before the undersigned entered upon the duties of his office, and were then pending in the Supreme Court of the United States, but were recently argued on appeal before that tribunal. In both cases the judgment below was reversed, and the causes remanded for further proceedings; but the decision of the United States Supreme Court turned on a question of practice and a question of fact rather than on questions of law of general interest, or of the authority of District officials.

In the case of the District of Columbia vs. The Washington and Alexandria Railroad Company et al., a bill in equity was filed for specific performance, and the foreclosure of a mortgage given by the Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company to secure certain bonds, some of which are now held by the District, as successor of the corporation of Washington.

Demurrers were filed by the defendants, and upon argument had been sustained, and the bill dismissed. The undersigned found the cause in this condition, and took an appeal to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, in general term, where the decree below was reversed, the demurrers overruled, and leave given to defendants to answer. It is believed that this cause will be carried to successful termination.

Within the past year numerous suits in equity have been brought to test the legality of assessments for special improvements made by the late board of public works. In these cases certificates of indebtedness, representing the unpaid assessment, had been issued by that board, and sold to third parties. The holders of these certificates are the parties immediately in interest in the result of these causes, and where they were not originally made parties, objection for want of necessary parties to the suit has been taken in behalf of the District by plea or demurrer.

The case of A. C. P. Shoemaker vs. The District of Columbia et al., in which most of the questions involved in these suits relating to assessments of the late board of public works, was argued in the supreme court of the District in general term, in October. It was hoped that the judgment in that case would determine the disposition of nearly all similar ones; but the court remanded the cause to the equity court, with leave to amend his bill, so that a decision has not yet been reached.

Another numerous class of cases begun during the past year includes those which were brought to test the legality of assessments for special improvements made under contracts entered into by the late corporation of Washington, but performed after the board of public works entered upon its duties. Under the old municipal government of the city of Washington, the whole cost of special improvements was assessed upon private property adjoining and benefited by it; but the act of Congress of February 21, 1871, creating the late board of public works, authorized the assessment of only a reasonable proportion, not exceeding one-third, of the cost of special improvements made by the board, to be assessed against property adjoining and specially benefited thereby. By the late authorities of the District, property adjoining and benefited by special improvements was assessed with the whole of the cost of work performed, after the board of public works entered upon its duties, but under contracts previously made by the corporation of Washington. These assessments also were transferred by sale or in payment of municipal obligations to third parties; and in them also the holders of the assessments are the parties immediately in interest. Whatever may be the result, either in the suits with reference to assessments for work done under contracts of the late board of public works or the assessments made for work done under contracts made with the old corporation of Washington, it is not believed that the debt of the District will be increased. The grounds of objection to the assessments are of such nature as that, if sustained, the holders of the certificates of indebtedness will not have recourse against the District government.

Still a third class of suits relating to taxes includes those with reference to the general and ordinary taxes upon property. The tax-list authorized by the act of Congress of June 20, 1874, as amended by that of March 3, 1875, was unusually long, because it included property for which purchasers had not been obtained at former sales, and because also it included the delinquent taxes for several years. Upon various grounds, several suits were brought to enjoin the sale of property for these general taxes of different years. But this class of cases, though important, is small, as compared with the two classes above mentioned of suits in relation to assessments for special improvements.

In the case of Robinson vs. The Collector of Taxes, a bill was filed to restrain the collection of a tax based upon an assessment, including the value of a house, which at the time of assessment was not quite finished. An old ordinance of the city of Washington allowed houses, whatever their value may have been, which were unfinished at the time when the assessment happened to be made, to escape taxation. The suit just named was considered a test case, and the amount of revenue involved gave to it much importance. A demurrer, based on repeal of this old ordinance by subsequent legislation, was filed, and upon argument the bill was dismissed.

The case of David L. Shoemaker vs. The District of Columbia, and several similar ones, were suits in equity brought to restrain the collection of a tax on property exceeding $5,000 in value used for manufacturing purposes. An act was passed by the late legislative assembly in June, 1873, exempting such property from taxation for the period of ten years. To the District these cases were the most important of those having reference to questions of taxation. Had the enactment of the assembly been sustained it is difficult to estimate the value of the property which would have escaped taxation, and the consequent burden which would have been thrown upon other property. The cases were argued at the special term and the bills were dismissed. The complainants, however, took an appeal to the court in general term, before which tribunal the cases were argued by the Hon. Reverdy Johnson, but the decision of the court below was affirmed.

Another important case as bearing upon the revenues to be derived from taxation is that of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company vs. The District of Columbia. In this suit is involved the question of the liability of the real estate owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to taxation by Congress for the support of the government of the District. For many years the company has claimed this exemption from taxation by the various municipalities created in the District by authority of Congress, and such taxes have not been collected, although the question involved has never been decisively adjudicated. The same exemption has always been claimed by the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, and no taxes have been collected upon property of that corporation. It is believed, however, that in neither instance does the enactment relied upon contain that clear language by which alone a government can surrender its sovereign power of taxation. The right of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company to continued enjoyment of this enactment will soon be challenged under the act of Congress of March 3, 1875, and it will be given an opportunity to have that question judicially determined. It is hoped that with reference to the property of both the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company and of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company the right of Congress to levy a tax for municipal purposes upon their property will be successfully maintained.

In the case of Espita and others vs. The District and others, a bill was filed to restrain the execution of a contract for the construction of an improved fire-alarm telegraph. Upon argument the bill was dismissed.

In the case of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company vs. The District of Columbia, a bill was filed to enjoin the construction of a branch-sewer to be connected with an ancient sewer opening into the canal. The case has not reached a final hearing, but a motion for an interlocutory injunction was denied.

In the case of Cuigria and others vs. The District of Columbia, a bill was filed to enjoin work upon an alley. Upon hearing the bill was dismissed.

The foregoing are examples of the more important chancery causes in which the District is interested. There have been brought other suits in which private controversies are really involved, but in which the District's interests have had to be protected.

During the year two or three actions at law have been brought against the District for alleged injuries received upon the streets while improvements were in progress. None of these cases have been brought to trial, but care has been taken to ascertain the facts in each instance by means of official written reports, to the end that whoever may hereafter have charge of the defense of such actions may be aided in the preparation and conduct thereof.

The only judgment which has been obtained against the District during the past year was in an action brought by Henry R. Searle for services claimed to be due as an architect in refitting and refurnishing, in 1871, the buildings occupied for District offices. This action was brought in 1872, two years before the present Commissioners entered upon their duties. The amount claimed was $2,280, with interest from March 7, 1872. The amount recovered was $737, without interest, which is less than the sum offered to the complainant several years previously by way of compromise.

Several suits have been brought against the District, based upon contracts of the late board of public works by parties who were not successful or were dissatisfied in the prosecution of claims before the board of audit. It is believed that upon legal grounds the defense is complete in these cases. In one of them a demurrer to the declaration, upon the ground that it did not aver that the work was done in pursuance of an antecedent appropriation by law, was sustained. This decision is, it is believed, fatal in its effect upon other cases; for though the defect may be corrected in pleading by averring such appropriation, it is believed that in none of the pending causes can it be shown that such appropriation had been really enacted.

An action has been brought in behalf the District against the Washington Market Company for the recovery of the arrears of the annual rental of $25,000, imposed upon that company by the act of Congress of May 20, 1870. That enactment directs that the sum so to be paid shall be applied by the District authorities to the relief of the poor. The company claims that the rental was subsequently reduced, first, to $20,000, and afterward to a sum varying from $5,500 to $7,500, by enactments of the late legislative assembly, and stipulation of the late municipal authorities.

The construction of the enactment of the legislative assembly, which is relied upon by the company as reducing the annual rental, is a questionable one, and the power of that body, even by plain terms, to diminish the amount of a trust-fund created by Congress, is still more doubtful. The further attempted reduction of the rent was made by the late board of public works, in consideration of a purchase from the company of land for a site for a building for District offices. But the ground which the company undertook to convey, and the board to purchase, was held by the company on a lease from the United States, subject to certain trusts. It is believed that the market company was without authority to sell, and the board of public works without authority to purchase such land, and that arrears of rent can, therefore, be recovered.

An action has been brought upon the bond of C. E. Evans, a contractor, by whom a large number of pavements were laid under contracts with the late board of public works, and who, upon due notice, failed to repair his work, as required by his contracts. Similar actions will follow on the bonds of other contractors as rapidly as the information shall be furnished by the engineer.

The examination of the accounts of the treasurer of the late board of public works, under the direction of the board of audit, consisting of the First and Second Comptrollers of the United States Treasury, having been finished, and it having been communicated to the Commissioners that the examination resulted in finding that the treasurer had not satisfactorily accounted for the sum of $26,603.71, demand was made by the Commissioners upon the late treasurer, and the sureties on his bond, for the payment of this sum, and an action has since been brought against him and his sureties to recover it.

The District cases, as distinguished from those of the United States, tried before the police-court, include disorderly conduct on the streets, carrying concealed weapons, indecent exposure, vagrancy, violation of the license laws, and of any municipal ordinances. The following table shows the disposition of District cases in that court from December 1, 1874, to December 1, 1875:

As a summary of the foregoing table it may be stated that 5,112 in formations have been filed, of which 245 have never been prosecuted; 4,867 have been tried, resulting in 4,405 convictions, and 217 acquittals; and in 120 convictions appeals to the criminal court were granted. The fines imposed aggregate $21,941.50, of which $6,535.80 have been collected, the residue being satisfied by short terms of imprisonment. Recent reforms have been instituted in the administration of that court by which bail-bonds receive closer scrutiny, and by which the prompt payment to the District treasurer of the sums collected has been secured, and the expenses of the court been made the subject of regular audit and examination by the accounting-officers of the District. Previously, by an arrangement made by former municipal authorities, the marshal of the court retained the sums collected, made disbursements for the expenses of the court, and paid over the residue in quarterly installments. Mr. A. A. Birney, during the principal portion of the past year, had charge of the prosecution of the District cases in the police-court, but relinquished this duty upon accepting the office of Assistant United States Attorney. During a brief interval Mr. J. A. H. Gordon acted as prosecutor. The duties are at present efficiently performed by Mr. Hugh T. Taggart. All these gentlemen brought to the performance of their duties established character for integrity and recognized proficiency in their profession. It is not too much to say that they improved the morale of the police-court, besides rendering efficient service to the District as respects the prosecution of offenses and the collection of revenue from fines and penalties. In former years attention was not always paid to the collection of judgments on appeal-bonds; but now every effort is made to enforce such judgments, and to this end in many cases the land-records have been examined, and where the real estate of the sureties on such bonds has been found to be encumbered, bills in equity have been filed in order to enforce the lien. In connection with the administration of the police-court, it is proper to call attention to the necessity for revision of municipal ordinances. The municipality known as the District of Columbia comprises what formerly constituted three municipalities, namely, the city of Washington, the city of Georgetown, and the levy court, which had jurisdiction over that part of the District outside of the two cities. Thus we have a body of municipal law consisting of the ordinances of the levy court, applicable to that portion of the District outside of the two cities; the ordinances of the city of Georgetown; the ordinances of the city of Washington and the statutes of the late legislative assembly. These ordinances differ widely from each other, and in many respects are contradictory and incomplete. The ordinances of Georgetown have never been collected into a single volume, and no digest of them has ever been prepared. Probably not more than one or two complete sets are to be found in the District. The published ordinances of the levy court are contained in a small pamphlet of eight or ten pages. There should be a revision and consolidation and some amendment of all the municipal ordinances. It is believed that a single statute might be drawn applicable to and uniform throughout the whole District, and comprising all the necessary provisions of ordinary municipal regulation relative to the preservation of order and protection of property.

In addition to matters of litigation, numerous legal questions arising in the administration of municipal affairs have been examined by the attorney and assistant attorney for the District. The legal opinions which have been furnished have been rendered in writing, and a record kept, many of them requiring considerable labor and careful research, and they have ranged over a great number of subjects. The number of separate written opinions thus given during the past year is 507.

The legal business of the District has been all attended to in the office of the attorney for the District without the employment of other counsel. The salaries of the office have covered all the legal expenses of the District for the past year. These salaries are as follows:

Attorney.....	$2,500
Assistant attorney.....	1,600
Special assistant attorney to prosecute District cases in the police-court.....	1,400
Clerk.....	480
Clerk.....	480
Clerk.....	360

It is estimated that the revenues which will accrue to the District from the police-court from December 1, 1875, to December 1, 1876, will be $21,300, and will exceed by $11,300 the expenditures on account of that court, including salaries and rent. This will exceed by about $3,000 the amount heretofore turned over to the District after paying the expenses of the court; and the increase of revenues thus resulting to the District is due in great measure to the change of requiring the proceeds of fines and penalties to be paid at once to the District treasury, and of causing the expenses of the court to be paid in the way in which other expenses of the government are paid, after being duly audited. The undersigned, in closing his second report to the commissioners, again expresses his appreciation of the able services of General Wm. Birney, assistant attorney.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Columbian Building, Washington, December 1, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: Since the date of my last annual report, (December 1, 1874,) all undisputed claims against the present government of the District of Columbia which have been presented to this office have been promptly audited and referred to the comptroller for draft and payment; and the creditors of the District have not in any manner been delayed in the receipt of their dues. The balance due on the bills of the fire department for the years 1871 and 1872, and the claims for services to the late board of public works have been audited and paid, as provided for in the act of Congress approved March 3, 1875.

The account of the United States marshal with the police-court of the District of Columbia has been examined and found substantially correct. All causes of difference in the subsequent settlement of this account have been removed by the arrangement between the police-court, the United States marshal, and the Commissioners of the District, by which all the receipts from the police-court are paid by the marshal to the treasurer of the District, and the costs and expenses of the police-court are referred to this office for audit and settlement. The moneys advanced to the board of health have been properly expended, as is shown by the accounts of the treasurer of the board and the accompanying vouchers which have been forwarded to this office, and have been examined and found correct.

The total amount audited during the twelve months ending November 30, 1875, for which warrants have been countersigned in payment of claims, is $2,862,462.36, which will appear in detail on reference to the summary statement herewith transmitted. The number of audits made during the above period is 3,613, and of warrants countersigned, 18,112.

The estimated expenses of this office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877, are as follows:

Salary of auditor.....	$2,700
Salary of one clerk.....	1,500
Salary of two clerks, at $1,400 each.....	2,800
Contingent expenses.....	350
Total estimated expenses.....	7,350

Hon. the COMMISSIONERS OF THE Sale of June 29, 1875, for arrears of taxes due to June 30, 1875, under act of June 20, 1874, and of act amendatory thereto, March 3, 1875, the following amount of taxes and costs incidental was represented in said sale, $1,661,827.35; of which amount the District of Columbia, by reason of absence of bids, became the purchaser at said sale to the amount of $1,636,466.89. Of the residue of the amount offered for sale for arrears, the following amount was purchased by others, $25,360.46; and the following amount of balance was paid during the period of advertisement of the same, before date of sale, and redeemed since sale, including costs attending said sale, $418,037.98.

From the above amount of balance, $1,218,428.91, there should be deducted from 20 per cent. to 33½ per cent. for special taxes, (which the District of Columbia collects for the holders of scrip representing the same,) property claiming immunity from taxation and other exemptions by reason of errors, leaving a full balance of arrears of tax due the said District of $800,000 to $1,000,000.

By the above exhibit it will be seen that the District of Columbia is obliged, under existing laws, to carry for an indefinite period a large amount of uncollected arrearage of tax, annually increasing, by reason of the District becoming the purchaser, at a very moderate penalty in the matter of interest, and with no limit, practically, to date of redemption, thereby lessening to a very great degree the avails of its normal revenue and unsettling wholly its basis of taxation as a foundation on which to sustain its government, in definitely providing appropriations for the support of its schools, police, &c.

By the above exhibit of general tax-sale of June 29, 1875, it will also be perceived that only a very small percentage of purchases was made by private individuals, and 95 per centum of these purchases were influenced by mortgages and other equitable interests, requiring defense; circumstances entirely fortuitous, leaving the burden of carrying a large arrearage of tax to the government of the District of Columbia in the form of purchase only, for the District has never, since this provision of law was made, yet entered or attempted to enter into the enjoyment of the use of property, that it has for taxes become the purchaser of; nor yet conveyed to itself a single piece so purchased, but the purchase remains in a manner conditional, and optionally redeemable at pleasure by the owner when some constraining influence, other than taxes, enforces settlement.

Such a system of enforcing the collection of taxes gives license to delinquency, and adds embarrassment to a proper administration of government in a community where money can be so much more profitably invested, that the present light penalty in interest is considered a mere trifle.

Some legislation is positively a necessity whereby tax-sale purchases, emanating from the State, shall be made as perfect as those derived by decree from the court; but at present, owing to the many defects incident to tax-sales, they are so greatly discriminated against, and inducements for investments, with more liberal protection and advantage, so generally offered, that but few if any sales to individuals can be made on account of taxes.

The present mode of advertising property for taxes in arrears, is cumbersome, laborious, and expensive. The numerous attempts in the courts to invalidate and break down these tax-sales have made it absolutely necessary to minutely describe, by metes and bounds, said property. Legislation is therefore needed by which descriptions shall be made effective by merely giving the name of the party in whose name the property stood when the tax was levied, the number of the square, and of the lot or part of the lot, and the amount of the tax or taxes due thereon, and time for which the said taxes are due.

In the act of March 3, 1875, levying the tax for the current year, it is made the duty of the collector of taxes in said District to prepare a complete list of all taxes in arrears on the first day of May, 1876, and shall within ten days thereafter publish the same with notice of sale, &c. If this cumbersome and laboriously descriptive method of advertising is to be adhered to, it will be hardly possible to comply with this provision of law, allowing not even full ten days for the actual preparation of this list and the setting of it up by the publisher within the term of days defined, affording neither time sufficient for proper revision on the part of said collector, or correct proof-reading by the said publisher.

Some regulation of law should be made forbidding any subdivision of property being legalized or entered on the public records of the office of the surveyor on which arrears of taxes exist, these subdivisions occasioning much difficulty in enforcing the collections of these arrears, especially so when certificates of stock, tax-lien certificates, &c., bearing interest, have been given, said certificates setting forth definitely the lot or part of lot so assessed, and with its accrued interest and costs regarded as an undivided moiety of tax on the entire property for which said certificate was given.

The present mode of payment in installments of the tax levy for the year ending June 30, 1876, has proved itself greatly acceptable to the tax-payers generally, although, as yet, as far as an estimate can be formed, may not entirely obviate this delinquency above referred to.

I.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES.

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF

ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES,

Washington, D. C., November 22, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: In compliance with your directions, I have the honor to submit a detailed statement of the transactions of this office since my last report.

The preparation of the tabular statements annexed hereto, besides the current work of this busy season, with the assistance of but three clerks, who during the regular office hours are constantly interrupted by the demands of other District offices and the inquiries of tax-payers, has probably consumed more time than you had anticipated, yet I am confident that the fullness and accuracy of this report will entirely compensate for the unavoidable delay.

I have the honor to state that the regular work completed in this office during the fiscal year comprised:

1. The preparation of the general-tax books, consisting of four large folio volumes of about 500 pages each, for the city of Washington, one of about 200 pages for the city of Georgetown, and one of about 400 pages for the county of Washington, which made up in duplicate amounted together to twelve volumes, containing more than 5,000 pages, with about five ledger accounts on each, or 25,000 in the aggregate.

2. The compilation of the general assessment-book for the city of Washington, which, though by contract, was done under the supervision and with the assistance of the employés of this office, serves not only as a numerical index to the tax-book, but probably is the most indispensable book of reference in all the city archives. It consists only of one volume, of over 800 pages, yet requires great labor and accuracy in its preparation, because it alone contains, in systematic arrangement, all the particulars of exact location, value, and ownership for each piece of property in the city of Washington, viz, the number of front and square feet, the rate of assessment, the total value of ground, and the name of the owner of each lot, subplot, or part of lot in each square.

3. The exact entry in the books of all transfers of property effected during the past calendar year. The importance and compass of this particular labor may be estimated from the fact that, since my last report to date, about 4,000 such transfers have taken place, many of them involving a division of one piece of property into several parts, conveyed to different owners, and necessitating the alteration of the account of the former and the opening of accounts with the new tax-payers.

In addition to these three principal classes of work done in this office, it must be observed that, it being in reality the only intelligence-office for all other District offices, as well as for tax-payers, in all matters concerning the present or past location, assessed value, or ownership of property, the applications for such information have been so numerous as to absorb much of the time of the clerks and seriously to interfere with their regular work; for although under the present laws the board of assessors and appeal are separate and independent, their functions could scarcely be exercised at all without constant reference to this office. In similar manner, also, other District offices are compelled to make frequent demands on it, as, for instance, for the examination of bonds and bail offered, or for the establishment of ownership or location of property on which special improvements are to be assessed or claims are presented, &c.; and, moreover, the natural growth and progress of the city and District every year largely increases the labor and responsibility of the office, upon the proper working of which depends by far the greatest part of revenue for the District government and the most important interests of the property-holders.

The total taxable real property in the District, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, as shown by the footings of the general tax-books, is :

Washington City .....	$78, 818, 934
Georgetown .....	5, 849, 317
Washington County.....	8, 784, 433
Total .....	93, 452, 684

The value of real property in the District, owned by the United States Government, exclusive of public buildings, as shown by a report made to the Secretary of the Interior, March 30, 1872, by a committee appointed to value said property, is ... $16, 186, 335

Since that report the United States Government has acquired squares 687, 688, and 2 lots in square 636, amounting to..... 505, 571

Total .....	16, 691, 906
--------------------	---------------------

The value of real property in the District, owned by the District government, as shown by statements Nos. 1, 2, 3, accompanying this report, is :

Washington City.....	$1, 093, 980
Georgetown .....	140, 594
Washington County.....	31, 850
Total ....	1, 266, 424

The value of real property in the District, owned by churches, charitable institutions, &c., exempt from taxation under the act approved March 3, 1875, as shown by statements Nos. 4, 5, 6, accompanying this report, is :

Washington City .....	$3, 605, 622
Georgetown .....	179, 556
Washington County.....	231, 500
Total .....	4, 016, 678

Showing the total value of real property in the District, not including the public buildings belonging to the United States Government, on which no taxes are paid, to be $21,975,008.

I beg leave to call your attention to the fact that probably 1,200 new buildings have been erected in this District since the last general assessment, and that the time is rapidly approaching when the annual assessment of such new improvements should be commenced, so that the preparation of the tax-books for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877, be completed in due season for the prompt collection of taxes for that year.

The new map of the city of Georgetown having been completed, and that city being now systematically arranged by squares, in the same manner as the city of Washington, I would respectfully recommend that the preparation of a general assessment-book of that city be ordered. In making this recommendation, I have no doubt that the increased revenue derived would in a short time more than pay all the expense incurred in preparing said book, and it would add greatly to the efficiency of this office and the convenience of tax-payers, by having a uniform system of assessment for the two cities, Washington and Georgetown.

I would also recommend that a map for the county of Washington be ordered, such being greatly needed, and one of the most effective means to facilitate assessments in the county, and would materially aid in making transfers of property.

I would recommend that arrangements be made for the immediate repair, and if necessary, the reproduction, of all defective books of record in this office, as, for instance, the general assessment-books of 1864 and 1869, the only copies in existence being in such a condition that they cannot possibly last another year.

I would recommend that a numerical index of the first five volumes of transfer-books in this office be made. Almost all of the tax-books for the years from 1812 to 1837 being lost, great inconvenience is caused by the lack of such an index, and the cost of preparing one would be comparatively small.

I inclose an estimate of the amounts that will be necessary for the support of this office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877.

No assessment of personal property, for taxation, for the year ending June 30, 1876, was returned to this office by the board of assessors.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM MORGAN,

Superintendent of Assessments and Taxes.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF ASSESSORS.

To the Hon. Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: In compliance with the request contained in your favor of the 14th ultimo, that the board of assessors should make a full report of their proceedings as to the assessment of the real and personal property of the District, and state the reasons why the law was not executed as to the personal property, with any suggestions they might deem it proper to make, the board has the honor respectfully to submit:

That this board was organized on the 16th day of March last, under an appointment made by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia on the 9th of said month, in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 2, 1875. From the date of its organization up to the 1st day of May, the period limited, in the act of Congress above referred to, for making the assessments required by said act, the members of the board devoted themselves unremittingly to the performance of their official duty, to the entire neglect and abandonment of their respective individual and private affairs.

Regarding a full and just assessment of the real estate of the District as the most important duty devolving upon them, they determined, in systematizing their labors, to address themselves to the performance of this duty in the first instance. They believed they would find a basis for the valuation of this kind of property in the books containing the records of the previous assessment, and that the assistance thus furnished would greatly facilitate and expedite their work; but after examining these books, and before they had made much progress in their labors, they discovered that the assessment they had concluded to take as a basis and a guide had been so recklessly made, was so erroneous, and so unequal in the estimates given of parcels of property owned by different parties in the same localities, and the real value of which was manifestly the same, that they were compelled to abandon the use of this appraisal as altogether unreliable, and make an entirely new assessment of all the real estate in the District of Columbia.

This involved infinitely greater labors than the members of the board had supposed would be necessary to the execution of their duty under the law, and the extent of which will be readily appreciated by the Commissioners; but its importance cannot be overestimated, and was made more manifest by the gross and oppressive irregularities above referred to in the previous assessment.

The proper performance of this work consumed the entire time limited by the law for the assessment by the board of both real and personal property, and hence they were unable to make any assessment of the latter whatever.

The board felt the embarrassment of the situation during the progress of their work, and the correspondence here submitted as part of this report will fully explain the failure to execute that part of the law having reference to the assessment of personal property, and the circumstances that rendered that failure inevitable:

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF ASSESSORS, April 6, 1875.

The honorable the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 5th instant, and the schedule for listing personal property for taxation.

The board of assessors is now engaged in assessing the real estate of the District, and they find the present assessment so unsatisfactory, and that it presents so many instances of inequality, that their labor will be much heavier than was anticipated. They will, however, proceed with all possible diligence in the execution of the law.

If this board should conclude that any assistance can be afforded them in the performance of their duties under the law, which will facilitate their labors, they will avail themselves of the proposal contained in your letter and duly notify you.

Yours, very respectfully,

WM. H. CLAGETT,
Chairman of the Board.

WILLIAM H. CLAGETT, Esq., President Board of Assessors, &c. :

SIR: Referring to your note of yesterday relative to the delivery of schedules, I am directed to ask that your board will not be embarrassed by any suggestions of the Commissioners, limiting the delivery of the schedules to the members of your board personally. The Commissioners advise your board to have such assistants as it may deem necessary to aid in the delivery of the schedules, and this was the meaning they intended to give in their communication to you, to which your note of yesterday is a reply. It will not do to put the delivery of the schedules in jeopardy from any cause.

Very respectfully,

ASSESSORS' OFFICE, WASHINGTON, April 12, 1875.

To the honorable Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: It will be utterly impossible for this board to comply with the law under an act of Congress, March 3, 1875, in making personal delivery of the schedules as required by that act. We find unforeseen difficulties in the assessment of the real estate, and all our time will be required in order to complete the equalization of the same within the time allowed by law.

Very respectfully,

W. H. CLAGETT,

ASSESSORS' OFFICE, April 14.

To the honorable the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN : I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 12th instant. By reference to mine of the same date, of which yours is in reply, you will observe in addition to what you have quoted therefrom the further statement, viz : "We find unforeseen difficulties in the assessment of the real estate, and all our time will be required in order to complete the same within the time allowed by law."

Even were it permissible for this board, under the act of Congress, to deliver the schedules by deputies or assistants, they would be utterly unable to prepare them for delivery by signing and addressing them, or to make such record of them as it is absolutely essential should be made before sending them out for delivery, without endangering the completion of the assessment of the real estate, and, in my judgment, certainly causing that most important part of their official duty to prove a disastrous failure, for the reason of the expiration of the period within which by law it must be fully performed, if performed at all. My communication of the 12th instant was designed to inform you of this unfortunate condition of things, and bring to your notice the fact that all the purposes contemplated by the act of Congress could not possibly be accomplished, by reason of the limitation and imperfections of the act itself.

In my opinion it will be only by the most diligent, persistent, and unremitting labor that we will in any event be able to complete the assessment of the real estate, and should we now suspend our labor upon that subject to prepare the schedules for listing the personal property, the assessment of both species of property would inevitably fail for want of time within which to complete either. It must be apparent that the preparation of the schedules for delivery, and their registration and delivery, however such delivery may be made, and on their return taking the affidavits of each one of the entire tax-paying population of the District, and inspecting and assessing his personal effects, would be an undertaking beyond the power of any five men living to accomplish between this date and the 1st of May. The assessors feel the embarrassments of the position in which they are placed, and are resolved that, if there must be any failure in the execution of the law at all, it shall only be to such extent as cannot possibly be prevented by any efforts on our part. They realize that neither they nor the people, nor the Commissioners, are in any way responsible for this condition of things, but that it must be ascribed to the law itself, and can only be relieved by Congress. This relief can fortunately be had from that authority before the entire amount to be raised by taxation will be needed to meet the requirements of the government. Under these circumstances, we do not think it would be a faithful and conscientious discharge of our duty to suspend the particular work upon which we are now engaged with all our efforts strained to complete it within the time prescribed for its performance.

Respectfully,

W. H. CLAGETT,
Chairman of Assessors.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,

WM. H. CLAGETT, Esq., Chairman Board of Assessors D. C. :

SIR : The Commissioners direct me to inform you that they fully appreciate the embarrassment and difficulties attending the assessment of real estate, as set forth in your letter of this date. In view of them, and to remove as far as possible all cause for failure in that assessment, they have concluded that they will relieve you of the direct supervision of the delivery of the schedules for personal property by assistants, by directing the superintendent of assessments to give personal attention to the matter. He will direct that each assistant appointed to deliver them shall sign his name to it as "for the assessor," after having first filled up the blank as the law directs. Provision can also be made in respect to the oath to be administered. Parties making inquiries can be referred to the superintendent of assessments and taxes, so as to relieve the board of assessors of their interruptions.

The commissioners, in their efforts to thus relieve you of the labors imposed upon you, recognize the primary importance of the assessment upon real estate, which must not, in any event, fail of execution; but they must leave no means in their power untried to secure the assessment upon personal property as well.

Very respectfully,

WM. TINDALL, Secretary.

OFFICE OF THE ASSESSORS, April 26, 1875.

Honorable Commissioners of the District of Columbia:

GENTLEMEN: We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 24th instant, inquiring what progress is being made by the board of assessors in assessing the real and personal property, and to what extent will the duties imposed upon us be performed before the 1st day of May. We beg leave to reply that we are making satisfactory progress in the assessment of the real estate, and hope to complete this portion of our duties by the 1st of May; though we have found it much more laborious than we had anticipated, by reason of not having the assistance from the original assessment books that we had anticipated.

It was our purpose and plan to take the assessment on those books as the basis of the assessment to be made by us; but as we progressed in the work we found the valuations of property heretofore made so unsatisfactory and inequitable, and so unequal in respect of different locations, that we have been compelled to throw those books aside and proceed as though no assessment had ever been made; therefore, it became necessary for us to prepare an entire new assessment of all the real estate, and the improvements thereon, in the District of Columbia. This involved personal inspection of all localities and careful comparisons, with a view to reach just results. We regarded a fair and just assessment of the real estate as all-important to the interest of the District, not only with a view to levying of taxes at present and in the future, but also with a view to the business interest of the people in the sale and exchange of land and in the negotiation of loans on real estate security.

We have, therefore, labored to make such an assessment as would meet the approval of every honest man in the community, and we believe our work will receive a favorable judgment when it is completed. We regret, however, that the time within which it must be done is so limited. In regard to the assessment of the personal property, which the law also imposes upon us, we are compelled to say that all the purposes contemplated in the law of Congress cannot possibly be accomplished, by reason of the limited time allowed for performing the work. We would not be justified in giving any of the time allowed by law to the assessment of personal property, or to any other business or duties whatever; should we be required to do so, the assessment of the real estate would prove a disastrous failure.

That you may realize the heavy duties now imposed upon us and our anxiety to perform the same, the private business of each member of the board has been entirely abandoned since we entered upon the performance of our official duty. We are engaged day and night in unremitting and earnest work on the assessment of the real estate. The completion of this assessment would be endangered by any suspension or intermission of that work. We must rest for our vindication upon the sound judgment of men, which we believe they will pronounce when the work upon which we are now engaged is completed, that we have done all that men could do to perform our duty with honesty and fidelity within the limited time allowed by the law.

Yours, very respectfully,

WM. H. CLAGETT.
GEO. W. HARKNESS.
ROBERT DODGE.
JOHN H. BROOKS.
JOHN H. MCCHESENEY.

APRIL 30, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: This being the last day in which assessments can be made, the Commissioners desire to be informed whether your board will be able to complete them in accordance with the requirements of the law in that respect.

Very respectfully,

WM. TINDALL.

To the BOARD OF ASSESSORS D. C.

ASSESSORS' OFFICE, Washington, April 30, 1875.

To the honorable the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date desiring to be informed whether we will be able to complete the assessment in accordance with the requirements of the law. In reply, we have to state that we will be able to complete the assessment of the real estate to-day, and comply with the requirements of the law as respects this part of the duties imposed upon us, but we have been unable to give the least attention to the assessment of personal property, as we advised you in our letter of the 26th instant, consequently that assessment cannot be completed as contemplated by the act of Congress, March 3, 1875. When we complete the assessment of the real estate, which will be at a late hour to-night, we will adjourn as a board of assessment. To-morrow we will organize as a board of appeals to revise our work, and meet daily until the 20th of May, as prescribed by law.

Yours, very respectfully,

WM. H. CLAGETT,
Chairman Board of Assessors.

The board has every reason to believe that the assessment of the real estate is entirely satisfactory to the property-owners of the District, and having, with an earnest desire to ascertain and determine the actual cash-value of any piece of property assessed, carefully considered all the evidence they could get as to such value, viewed the premises, compared one piece with another, and taken into consideration the sales made within the twelve months preceding the date of assessment, they feel no hesitation in saying that the assessment they have made will serve as a basis and guide for any that may hereafter be required, and at the same time furnish correct and valuable information to parties desiring to purchase real estate in this District, or dealing upon the security of that kind of property.

The members of the board having been necessarily brought in contact with non-resident property-holders, availed themselves of the opportunity of comparing the standard they had adopted for the assessment of property in this District with that adopted in other cities and the States and Territories. In every instance where non-residents were property-holders in this District, and also owners of property in other sections of the country, complaint was made that the assessment made by the board was higher in proportion to the value of the property than it would have been in the State or city where the party complaining held other real estate; and in examining in this connection the various tax-laws throughout the country, the board found that while those laws required the property to be assessed at its true cash-value, the assessors have uniformly adopted a measure of value something less than that specified in the law, upon the theory that, as the assessment is to stand for some years, it is just and proper to provide for a possible depreciation in prices, and also on the ground that the lowest cash price under circumstances the most disadvantageous to the property is the measure designed to be established by the statute.

Under this system it has become the recognized custom throughout the country not to assess property for taxation at more than one-third or one-half the amount of its cash-value as estimated for commercial purposes in the market.

This board, as above stated, determined to follow as near as possible the letter of the law, and has assessed the property of this District at the same rate it would have estimated such property for a commercial transaction in cash; and this fact should be considered by Congress in any comparison as regards the per centum to be levied upon the tax-payers of the District of Columbia with the per centum levied in the several and respective States. It is of easy demonstration that $1.50 per centum upon the $100, (the present tax,) taking the high rate of assessment, is proportionally a heavier taxation than in other sections where the per centum is double but the rate of assessment greatly less.

The provisions of the law in regard to the taxation of personal property developed many expressions of opinion as to the policy of levying such a tax in the District of Columbia for its support. The law was evidently designed to make a certain class of property contribute its portion toward the expenses of the District; but it is equally apparent that this object would have been defeated to a great extent by the conversion of taxable property into property non-taxable under the law, just prior to the day fixed for its assessment, and its reconversion when that day had passed, thereby leaving those who held non-convertible commodities to bear the burden of the tax.

The board had the satisfaction of an explanation from a number of citizens from other sections of the country as to how personal-tax laws were executed in their respective States and cities. If the statements of these gentlemen are correct—and the board has no evidence to the contrary—it is painful to contemplate, and greatly to the discredit of the whole country, that any population should be invited, tempted, and forced to commit the amount of perjury that is evidently committed under all systems of law providing for the taxation of personal property, and having the inquisitorial features of the act passed at the last session of Congress.

After considering all the advantages and disadvantages of the taxation of personal property, the members of the board are compelled to say that such a tax would operate very detrimentally in this District.

The District of Columbia, not being a commercial or manufacturing place, depending entirely upon the disbursements of the General Government and outside capital for its prosperity, the accumulated wealth supposed to be taxable does not exist.

It was truthfully stated in one of the debates at the last session of Congress, when the per centum to be levied for taxation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, was under consideration, "that the city depended entirely upon the Government, and upon inviting outside capital, not for speculation, but for the temporary abode of citizens of the States, of wealth, culture, and education, and making the city of Washington (the capital of the nation) a cheap and attractive resort."

It is not difficult to conclude that all such citizens of the States able to indulge their tastes by having a home in Washington, if followed closely with a personal tax, would accommodate themselves with a very temporary residence in this city, if they came here at all.

After fully considering the whole subject, the board recommends, in lieu of a personal tax, a system of licenses for all permanent business pursuits, similar to that provided for by existing laws. Many reforms might be introduced into the existing system of assessment for the purpose of taxation.

The board was much embarrassed in making an assessment of the improvements, having, according to former usage in this particular, given such improvements a superficial view, and thereby making conclusions by no means satisfactory; possibly doing great injustice to many, and producing an unreliable record of the actual value of the improvements assessed.

The board would suggest, for the correction of these irregularities, that, in whatever law may be passed for the levying of taxes for the year ending June 30, 1877, there should be a provision for a permanent board of assessors, with full and well-defined powers, to go immediately to work, with authority to make any corrections in the present assessment that might be found necessary, taking the present assessment of the land as conclusive, and re-assessing all the improvements, by requiring the property-owners to report in a schedule, specifically setting forth everything relating thereto, and assessing at a rate relative to the value specifically designated in the law. This, once done, would give permanency and reliability to the appraisal, and would be an invaluable guide in the future for all business transactions, such as insurance, sales, and mortgages.

Some provision should be made as regards the status of unfinished improvements in the course of completion during the fiscal year, so that the same may be placed on the assessment-books to contribute their just and fair proportion of the tax.

The large amount of improvements that are completed subsequent to the time for making the assessment escapes taxation under the existing law.

Power should also be vested in the board of assessors to assess improvements at the time of completion, and for this purpose the board should have access to the records of the superintendent of buildings. Such provisions in the law would enable the assessors to advance the assessments with the progress of the District.

The duties of the board of assessors, of the collector, and of the superintendent of assessments and taxes, should be so modified in their relation to each other as to work harmoniously and with greater economy.

The collector should be confined to receiving the taxes and distributing the money to its proper fund; the assessors to assessing values; and the superintendent of assessment and taxes should have charge of all assessment and tax books, and should make out all tax-bills, and be accountable for the safe-keeping of all the records of the office.

It would further be expedient that the recorder of deeds should be prohibited from recording any transfer of real estate until the same should have been transferred on the books of the superintendent of assessment and taxes.

There should be a requirement that the superintendent of assessments and taxes should enter upon tax-bills rendered all taxes of whatsoever character due at the time of making out the bill, both current and arrearages, thus preventing in the future the onerous oppression lately imposed upon the tax-payers by the advertisement of their property for items of taxes in arrears, of which they had never received notice. In some instances these arrearages were the accumulation of errors in the collector's office during a period of ten years, and in not a few cases it was found that the taxes claimed as due, and for which the property was advertised, had been for several years omitted from the bills rendered, while during that entire period all bills rendered had been promptly met and discharged. No subject connected with the government of the District more earnestly demands attention than the system for the levying and collection of taxes. It is replete with abuses and evils throughout that ought to be corrected. Advertising property for non-payment of taxes has been one of the perquisites of the party in power in this District for many years, which has been uniformly bestowed upon some favored party organ at most oppressive and exorbitant rates.

In conclusion, the board respectfully begs leave to call your attention to the heavy burdens that have been imposed upon the people of the District for improvements of doubtful utility—extravagant forms of government and expensive public institutions, inaugurated by the authority of, and controlled by the officers of, the General Government.

In the conduct and management of these costly experiments the taxpayers of the District have had no participation, though it seems they have been expected to recognize them as benefactions and pay the bills with becoming gratitude and praise. It was not regarded as material that the cost was out of all proportion to the resources of the people, and that a burden was entailed upon them in perpetuity to pay for never-ending repairs and repeated reconstruction.

Some men were made rich and happy, and those who were not so blessed only showed themselves disloyal by not pretending to be happy, though they could not help feeling poor as their substance was being abstracted from them.

It would be just and equitable under these circumstances for the General Government to divide equally with the District the cost necessary for the government of the latter, and establish a fixed amount to be levied upon the property of the District to meet its proportion of the burden.

Respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF THE ENGINEER.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
 Washington, November 30, 1875.

To the honorable the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit the following report of the progress and condition of the work performed under your direction in the repair and improvement of streets, avenues, and alleys, sewers, roads, and bridges, in the District of Columbia, from November 20, 1874, the date of my last annual report, to the present time:

At the close of the working-season of 1874 a number of contracts of the late board of public works, whose estimated cost of completion was given in my report at that time, remained unfinished. To these have since been added sixty-four contracts recognized as existing legal obligations.

This extension of the area of improvements, with their progress, and a more accurate knowledge of the worthless condition of much of the old work, soon established the fact that additional work was needed, which must still further increase the estimated cost of the improvements in progress. It was needed for the protection and preservation of existing improvements, or improvements commenced and not completed; for repairing the defective work of former contractors which had become worthless within the period for which its good condition was guaranteed, and now demanded immediate attention at the hands of the District, the contractors failing to fulfill their obligation to keep it in repair. It was needed for the completion of the improvements where the assessment was already levied and paid, and included the estimated cost of completing the work which remained unfinished and unprovided for, and where the unfinished condition of the improvement was a source of injury and complaint in the locality invaded by the work.

These considerations are forcibly presented in the numerous petitions of property-owners which have been received, urging that measures should be taken for their relief and for the extension to them of the benefits of the improvements for which they were taxed. In my report of November 20, 1874, I refer to the matter as follows:

The completion of these contracts, with such indispensable extra work as I have provided for in the estimates, will still leave a necessity for further improvement of certain localities in order to restore them to the condition in which they were found. This is the case with contracts for grading improved streets which do not provide for replacing the carriage-way and footwalks, and with abandoned and closed contracts of which the work is left incomplete. In either case, I have not had time to make the necessary examination upon which to base an accurate estimate, but have given an approximate estimate under the head of improvements, which should be made within a reasonable time. It will be necessary to provide for repairs of existing work, and for the extension of sewerage throughout the city. The latter, as a sanitary measure, and as foreseen when the large expenditures already made were authorized for the main sewers, should not be classed with projected improvements, but accepted as essential to the completion of an approved work, and should be extended as rapidly as consistent with the means available for the purpose.

And under the head of "repairs:"

With the subject of repairs the present condition of contract-work is brought up for consideration. The precaution of requiring that work should be guaranteed for a term of years has been taken by the board of public works, and under this provision of contracts notifications have been sent by me to various contractors that repairs were needed. The majority of these notices have received no attention, and it has been necessary to do the work and charge it to the contractor. Provision must be made for doing a large proportion of this work, and suits must be brought to recover the amount expended from the delinquent contractors or their sureties.

The act of Congress of June 20, 1874, gives to the Commissioners the power of making such contracts and incurring such obligations as may be necessary to the faithful administration of the valid laws enacted for the government of the District; to the execution of existing legal obligations and contracts, and to the protection and preservation of improvements existing, or commenced and not completed, at the time of the passage of this act. The same enactment of Congress requires the board of audit, consisting of the First and Second Comptrollers of the United States Treasury, to examine and audit all claims existing or hereafter created, for which no evidence of indebtedness has been issued, arising out of contracts, written or oral, made by the board of public works, or by or on behalf of the District of Columbia.

Accordingly the work considered necessary has been covered by modification and sometimes by extension of certain contracts of the late board of public works. The accounts and claims thereunder arising were examined and audited by the First and Second Comptrollers of the United States Treasury, comprising the board of audit, and settlements were made by that board in their certificates authorized by the act of June 20, 1874, and convertible into 3.65 bonds. The action taken upon each contract, whether by extension or other modification, together with a summary statement of the nature and the relative importance of the work, will be found in the table of contracts transmitted with this report.

The greater part of the new work undertaken by the Commissioners has been done under that section of the old contracts which requires that the work shall be kept in repair for a term of years; and as the expenditure on this account is so greatly in excess of my estimate for repairs that it bears hardly any relation to it, a thorough explanation of the state of affairs which induced so radical a policy is demanded. Section 9 of the contracts of the board of public works is as follows:

Ninth. It is further agreed that if at any time during the period of — from the completion of the work to be done under this contract, any part or parts thereof shall become defective, from improper material or construction, and in the opinion of the said party of the first part require repair, the said party of the second part will, on being notified thereof, immediately commence and complete the same to the satisfaction of the party of the first part; and in case of a failure or neglect of the said party of the second part so to do, the same shall be done under the direction and orders of the party of the first part at the cost and expense of the party of the second part.

The period during which the contractor is responsible for the condition of his work varies from one to three years. It was found that in general no attention was paid to the notices sent in accordance with this provision of contracts, and it has usually been necessary to do the work at the expense of the District. Where the contractor had still an unadjusted account in the hands of the board of audit, the cost was reported to that board to be charged against him; and in this way minor repairs of contractors' work have been made without loss to the District. It was soon evident, however, that the principal defaulting contractors were no longer in the hands of the board of audit. In my report of November 20, 1874, I refer to this contingency, as already quoted herein, and in allusion to the wood pavements, the replacing of which with bituminous concrete and with stone blocks has, together with the repairs of the concrete, been the principal source of expenditure, that report reads as follows:

It is to be regretted that so large a proportion of the pavement of the carriage-ways is of wood, the life of which, in this District, is very short. Unless some preservative measures be taken, more than a million square yards will have to be replaced within a few years; &c.

At the same time I proposed the remedy commonly known as "poulticing," or covering the wood with a thin concrete, which has been successfully employed in Brooklyn, N. Y. Subsequent observation of the extremely rapid decay of these pavements convinced me of the impracticability of this proposition. The wood was too far gone. It was crumbling away in every direction. Streets that presented a fair appearance in consequence of the absence of heavy travel to break down the blocks have been reduced to a mass of tinder when a run of heavy carts was turned upon them. The treated wood has been the first to rot. The metallic salts which were used, I believe, exclusively in its preparation, seem to have cleared the pores of the wood and increased its power of absorbing moisture without having any preservative effect. In general the blocks have been found partially preserved at the base, which was kept habitually moist by standing water on the undrained road-bed of clay, while the upper surface, from rapid alternations of wet and dry, has decomposed rapidly. A thin shell remained on top, which gave way, leaving the block to be pounded to powder whenever a moderate amount of travel was turned upon the pavement. Wide areas seemed to crumble away at once, and the wood-paved streets were rapidly becoming impassable. The condition of the defective concrete pavements was equally alarming. The upper or wearing surface disappearing rapidly, exposed the foundation of the pavement to destruction, and each day's delay increased the cost of repair. Some of these streets were almost entirely denuded of the top coat and worn into deep holes through the binder and base. Upon others this action was just commencing, and others still were, to casual observation, fair and smooth. The latter, upon closer examination, showed the coarse material of the binder protruding through the top coat, which was rapidly disappearing in dry concrete dust. The hard, metallic ring of horses' hoofs upon the pavement was the first indication that its elasticity was gone, and disintegration near at hand. The worst varieties of these pavements were those which were put down in such a slovenly manner that they never attained the dried-out stage, but were resolved into their constituents by the action of water. Of this character were some of the repairs of contract-work undertaken by the contractors.

Prompt action was necessary in the case of both wood and concrete, and thorough work was determined upon. Mr. C. E. Evans, the contractor for about 80 per cent. of all the defective concrete work, was repeatedly notified to put the same in proper repair, but to no effect. An arrangement had been entered into between himself and the board of public works by which a balance on account which had been retained by the board in the final settlement with him was held subject to his order for repairs, payment being made as far as covered by orders of Mr. Evans, to parties employed by him in the work of repair, upon the acceptance of this work by the board. These repairs were delegated to a subcontractor, Mr. Samuel Barber, whose work I soon found to be rather worse than the original pavement, and condemned it accordingly. It was necessary to look for other and responsible parties, and it was evident that the amount retained in the settlement with Mr. Evans would not suffice to put his work in order.

With the exception of the Neuchatel pavement, all of the bituminous concretes put down by the board of public works are preparations of the bitumen of coal-tar, containing only a small proportion of mineral tar, varying principally in the quality and proportion of the ingredients and the method of manipulation, and all more or less perishable from the rapid loss of the volatile elements of the artificial bitumen. As the first cost of these is much less than that of the natural asphalt, or any preparation of mineral tar which excludes the artificial bitumen, I did not feel at liberty to recommend a departure from the general character of the concretes to be repaired. Accordingly proposals for repairing the defective concrete work of Mr. Evans and of other delinquent contractors were invited, from the representatives of the Filbert vulcanite and the Scharf concrete pavements, which pavements, in consequence either of the superiority of the formulæ or the conscientious performance of the work, had stood the test of use better than any other of the concretes. It was stipulated that payment should be accepted in the District 3.65 bonds at par. The following method of repair was fixed upon:

All unsound portions of the pavement to be cut out and removed, the depressions to be leveled up with an intermediate or binder course, and the whole to be resurfaced with  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches, when compressed, of first-class top coat; the repaired work to be guaranteed to be left in good condition at the expiration of three years from the date of completion of these repairs.

From Messrs. Crawford and Hoffman, representing the Filbert vulcanite pavement, the following offer was received: For resurfacing, $1.40 per square yard; for cutting out and renewing binder, &c., 20 per centum in addition to actual net cost. From Mr. W. C. Murdock, rep-representing the Scharf concrete pavement, the offer was : For resurfacing, 1.50 per square yard ; for cutting out and renewing binder, &c., 18 per centum in addition to actual net cost.

The cost of the miscellaneous work is less than 10 per centum of the whole cost of repairs, and it was evident that the bid of Crawford and Hoffman was much lower than the other. Mr. Murdock subsequently agreed to accept the former terms, and the entire work of repair of concrete pavements has been done by these two firms. The price of $1.10 was subsequently fixed for resurfacing footwalks, and all defective concrete work has been thoroughly overhauled ; 171,827 square yards of carriage-way, exclusive of patching, and 22,729.59 square yards of footwalk have been repaired and resurfaced at a total cost of $267,744.48, and a statement of the cost in the case of Mr. C. E. Evans has been forwarded to the District attorney, who has commenced proceedings in a suit to recover the amount expended.

A claim of Mr. C. E. Evans for additional compensation on account of work done under the direction of the late board of public works, amounting to $373,073.68, has recently been referred to this office by the board of audit for examination. Whatever may be found due under this claim, if anything, can be retained as security for the repayment of the cost of repairs.

This does not include the sum of $19,616.25 certified by the board of audit as having been audited to the Evans Concrete Company, which sum is now retained as security for the repayment of the cost of said repairs.

The concrete pavements are all in good condition at present, but will require constant attention. The Neuchatel pavement has been down one year and eleven months and has not yet required any repairs whatever, except over sunken excavations, for which the pavement was in no way responsible. It has not been severely tried, as its slippery surface causes it to be shunned by regular travel, but if this defect can be remedied the pavement should rank as first class. It has been intimated that the composition which was used in this city was not the native asphalt, but an artificial preparation of limestone and bitumen. If this be the case, it has demonstrated the possibility of imitating the process of nature in the atomic combination of the ingredients, and consequently of making this combination in proportions adapted to various ranges of temperature. The present pavement appears to be unaffected by the climate of the District of Columbia.

The Grahamite pavement is claimed to be a preparation of native bitumen without admixture of the products of distillation of coal-tar. About 500 square yards have been put down in this city at the expense of the manufacturers, as an experiment, and in view of the success of their sample pavement upon Fifth avenue, New York, which remains apparently unaffected by three years' wear, the best results may be hoped for from this.

The remainder of the concretes in the District are coal-tar pavements, containing from 10 to 20 per centum of native bitumen, the introduction of which, if unskillfully managed, is more of an injury than a benefit. The best of these can be laid at from $2 to $3 per square yard, cash, say $2.50, and should last five years without requiring any general repair. At the end of that time they will have become dry and brittle, will begin to disintegrate rapidly, and should be repaired by removing what remains of the top coat and the defective portions of the binder, refilling the holes, and resurfacing. This will cost about $1 per square yard, and must be repeated at the end of the next five years ; so that the best quality of coal-tar pavements can be maintained at an annual cost of about 20 cents per square yard, or less than 10 per centum per annum upon the first cost. This is my opinion after a close observation of the pavements laid by the board of public works, but future experience may so improve these pavements as to diminish the cost of maintaining them.

The greater first cost of the pavements of natural asphalt or of preparations of native bitumen, together with the fact that their complete success in this country is not yet established, prevents them from competing at present on equal terms with the coal-tar pavements; but it seems to me more than probable that the greater first cost will yet be found to be the more economical investment. The native bitumen is free from the radical defect of the artificial variety, remaining sensibly unchanged at ordinary temperatures, being composed of non-volatile elements, and preserving indefinitely the elasticity of the pavement. These pavements can be put down at from $4 to $5 per square yard—say $4.50. The cost of maintenance in the District of Columbia under present conditions of use and climatic influences remains to be ascertained.

The method of repairing the wood pavements was only adopted after mature reflection. A determined effort was made last year by certain of the former contractors for wood pavements to turn over to the District a large amount of material remaining on their hands unused. It was urged that this would all be needed for repairs, and unquestionably there has been room for all of it upon the wood-paved streets; but, in view of the recent experience of the District with this material, it would have been little short of criminal to continue its use, and all propositions to this effect were peremptorily rejected. In order to thoroughly repair the wood pavements it was necessary to get rid of them. To this end, and with a view to the just claims of the delinquent contractors, it was decided to take up all the defective work, to select the sound blocks and relay them, and to put down upon the remaining space a pavement of stone blocks of concrete whose cost should not exceed that of the wood pavement. Where the original pavement was not too far gone, patching was resorted to; but where the decay was universal the entire pavement was taken up. In order to avoid the intermingling of wood with concrete or stone, in alternate patches, a section of the old pavement in the worst condition was selected for removal, to furnish the requisite number of sound blocks for repairing the balance of the work and to be replaced by a section of new material. For the new concrete and stone-block pavements the "board rates" of the board of public works were adhered to, payable in the District 3.65 bonds at par, and for the miscellaneous work of removing the refuse wood blocks and relaying the sound ones, 20 per centum was allowed upon the actual cost of labor. In the case of the concrete pavements a deduction is made at board rates for the two feet of grading required with the pavement, and in the case of the stone blocks a deduction is made for the two feet of grading and for the value of the sand and gravel already upon the street. This fixes the price of $3 per square yard for the concrete and $2.75 for the stone blocks, in bonds. In the case of Pennsylvania avenue, northwest, it was considered advisable to increase the thickness of the concrete pavement from 6 inches to 10 inches, when compressed, and the price of $3.70 per square yard was agreed upon. The average cost of relaying the sound wood blocks has been about 50 cents per square yard, and of removing the refuse a very small percentage of the whole cost. A saving was effected in the cost of removal of the refuse, which was expensive on account of the long haul required, by permitting the poor to carry it away for fuel after the sound blocks had been taken out. In case of a deficiency or a surplus of sound blocks upon the work of any contractor, it was rectified by taking from or giving to another work and proper debits and credits made. This has rarely occurred, each contractor's work being kept in general distinct from that of any other. The contractors for repairs have been held responsible for the old material.

Where concrete was used to replace the wood, the work has been done by Cranford & Hoffman, W. C. Murdock, and Jonathan Taylor. The paving with stone blocks was done by George Neitzey, whose work in the District, principally stone pavement, has been uniformly well performed. The total cost of repairing wood pavements of delinquent contractors, up to this date, is $369,625.07, and the work must be continued rapidly until the majority of these pavements are disposed of. Those selected for present attention were in the worst condition, the period for which they were guaranteed expiring during the present season, and had even been condemned by the board of health. The following extract from the report of a committee appointed by that board forcibly describes the situation:

Second, that probably four-fifths of the newly-paved streets of our city are paved with woods varying in kind, some having been treated with antiseptics before being laid; that within three years from the time they were laid every one of them gave more or less evidence of very rapid decomposition; but that Pennsylvania avenue, northwest and southeast, Third, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, and K streets, northwest, have decomposed so rapidly as to give rise to a mass of dangerous putrefaction.

That your committee moreover find that the broken surface of the pavements above mentioned has allowed the lodgment of an immense quantity of animal and vegetable filth, impossible even to calculate, between and under the blocks of wood, not only greatly increasing the putrefying mass, but adding to the rapidity of the decomposition.

That from said decomposition gases arise, fungi and infusoria develop, which, entering the atmosphere we must breathe, are poisons engendering zymotic diseases such as typhoid, malarial, and intermittent fevers, dysentery, diphtheria, &c.

That in consequence of a condition so dangerous to the health of our community, your committee would recommend that the board of health memorialize the honorable Commissioners of the District of Columbia, praying that so soon as a wood pavement gives indication of general decomposition it be removed, and also that the health-officer be instructed to examine wood pavements from time to time, and report their sanitary condition with a view to condemn, as quickly as necessary, those that, in the opinion of the board, may be considered injurious to health.

It would be unjust, however, to apply this general condemnation to the wood pavements without discrimination. The round-block cedar pavement, untreated, has been laid at less than half the cost of the patent-block pavements, and is still in fair condition. It has had in general the advantage of being laid upon a good slope, which threw off the water rapidly, and upon streets not used for heavy travel. The shape of the block, uncut except transversely to the fiber, and exposing the pores only in a vertical direction, may assist in prolonging the life of this excellent wood. Where this pavement is out of order the sapwood has given way under travel, while the heart remained comparatively firm, and the blocks have worn into a conical shape. This seems to indicate the manner in which it will ultimately wear out, but the present condition of most of it argues a pretty long life, if spared hard usage. None of this pavement has yet been repaired by the Commissioners. The Flanigan pavement, made of round blocks of any sound wood, laid upon a foundation of bituminous concrete and flooded with the same, has been put down by Messrs. Page & Fletcher upon some of the worst-drained streets in the District, and is all in good condition at present. The cost, however, is equal to that of a concrete pavement.

THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The experience of the District with the mass of its wood pavements has been so disastrous that the merits of particular varieties are clouded by the prejudice against their class. It is hardly possible to give them any cordial praise, and even strict justice is accorded with a latent apprehension.

SEWERS.

In continuing the work upon the main sewers it has been found necessary to make some important modifications and extensions. The storms of last summer tried these sewers severely, as well as the secondary or lateral sewers, and developed their weak points more accurately and universally than these could have been determined by long study and computation.

The Seventeenth-street sewer, the completion of which was undertaken this season under the contract of Mr. George Follansbee with the board of public works, was found to be too small. This sewer is 4 feet in diameter at its head, and receives at its inlet the drainage of about 240 acres of precipitous hill-side country which throws off water very rapidly. The stream which the sewer takes up is habitually insignificant, but it is capable of becoming a torrent. This stream had no adequate means of discharging its flood-water, in consequence of the filling up of its bed lower down, and made for itself a reservoir of the squares between Seventeenth and Nineteenth, P and Boundary streets, upon the occasion of every storm, greatly to the discomfort and injury of the inhabitants. The improvement of this part of the city has induced the erection of a number of dwelling-houses, and the frequent inundations of last summer flooded the cellars and covered the squares with water to a depth of several feet, injuring the foundations of the houses and threatening their destruction. Three streets, viz, Boundary, T street, and New Hampshire avenue, which were under contract for improvement, could not be completed until this stream was taken up, as each of these crossed the bed of the stream. The completion of the Seventeenth-street sewer, which had already been carried to Boundary street, was therefore necessary to the protection of existing improvements, and the contractor, who had abandoned the work, was willing to resume it. The construction of an auxiliary sewer was required for its relief. The proper dimensions and route of this auxiliary sewer were still under discussion when the contractor reached the bed of the stream, and, in violation of orders, continued the construction of the 4-foot sewer. The first severe storm swept away about 50 feet of the work and inundated the surrounding country, carrying away a part of the improvement of T street, which had been incautiously extended across the creek-bed. This storm was followed by two others, each of which renewed disaster in this neighborhood and added weight to the arguments in favor of the construction of the auxiliary sewer. It was impossible to avoid the conclusion that immediate action was imperatively demanded for the security of public and private property, and the auxiliary sewer was determined upon. This has been constructed 4 feet in diameter, increasing to 4½ feet, and is carried to Rock Creek by Eighteenth street west, New Hampshire avenue, and Q street. Its construction doubles the capacity of the former sewer, the two receiving the flood-water equally from a common inlet; and the new line forms the intercepting sewer for the area north and west of it, between Eighteenth, Q, and Boundary streets.

In the northeastern section of the city the filling of M street, Boundary street, and Massachusetts avenue across Tiber Valley necessitated the construction, south of Boundary street, of the 6-foot sewer which divides the water of Gales' Creek with Boundary-street sewer. The construction of the common inlet of these sewers doubles the capacity of the old sewer, as in the case of Seventeenth street, but diverts one-half the water into Tiber sewer, which the Boundary-street sewer was intended to relieve. There is no help for this except at great expense. The limit of the relief which can be given at present is the carrying-capacity of the Boundary-street sewer. The inlet has been arranged so as to run the latter to its full capacity before any discharge takes place into the relieving sewer, and in this respect it differs from the Seventeenth-street inlet, which delivers equally into both sewers. The latter form is better for receiving the flood-water rapidly, and for discharging it with the least resistance, but cannot be used to discriminate in favor of the sewer to be spared. Some relief has been afforded the Tiber sewer in another direction, by cutting off from it the drainage of all that section of the city lying south of Maryland avenue and east of Seventh street east, by turning the Seventh-street sewer down Maryland avenue to Fifteenth street where it enters the main sewer emptying into the Eastern Branch. This is the natural line of drainage for the area intercepted, discharging the water by the shortest line and carrying it away from Tiber sewer. The lower section of the line was very much needed for the drainage of squares that suffered from the filling of Maryland avenue.

The North Capitol-street sewer was completed quite late in the season, and delayed all of the work in Tiber Valley, which necessarily awaited the taking up of the creek by this sewer. As soon as this was accomplished, the 9½-foot sewer on F street was carried across the bed of the stream to make the long deferred connection with the North Capitol-street sewer, and with this the present system of main sewers is completed. The water is not yet turned in from the main Tiber sewer to the James Creek Canal, but this will soon be accomplished, and the opening in the former by which the water now escapes into the old canal will be closed and arched over. The sea-walls of the canal will presently be completed, but below N street south the old work is worthless and should be replaced. In excavating for the foundation of the new wall, which is two feet below the bottom of the canal when dredged out, the main piles intended for the support of the old wall have been found with the foot of the pile above the bottom of the canal. When the dredging of the latter is completed, the old wall must fall in.

The B-street intercepting sewer remains a source of complaint from flooded property. It has been recently cleaned, in order to make use of its full capacity, which is no doubt insufficient for the work it has to perform. With a necessarily flat grade, and with the highest point of the sole of the sewer two feet below mean high tide, it has not sufficient reservoir capacity to accommodate the storm-water of 800 acres, nor fall enough to carry it off. Relief may be afforded by the construction of an auxiliary intercepting sewer upon the general line of New York avenue, which will take nearly half this area. Afterward, if found necessary, the drainage of the area lying south of B street may be intercepted by a parallel sewer. This need be only of slight depth, as it will not be required to drain any cellars or basements. It will be needed only to relieve the upper section of the main sewer, and can be turned into the latter at Fifteenth street. When this is all done, the property now suffering, principally from flooding, will still find no permanent relief except in the use of flood-valves, and these can be introduced at once with the same effect. The limits within which these will be required, however, will be reduced, as the water is now backed up extensively in the lateral sewers. It was found necessary to build 354 feet additional of this sewer, in order to complete the grading of Virginia avenue, and the filling of the old canal, under contracts with the board of public works. The capacity was increased from 92 square feet to 115 square feet sectional area, and a direct line taken toward the channel of the river. Eventually the sewer must be extended through the marshes to the new river-front, but this can only be done in connection with the construction of the bulk-head for the latter. A temporary channel has been dredged out along the east side of the Seventeenth-street wharf.

The repairs of certain of the main sewers, reported in bad condition last year, have been made at much less expense than was estimated. The Eighth-street sewer has been put in fair condition at the cost of the contractor. Its appearance is not workmanlike; but, as the settling and cracking have not increased since the first inspection of the sewer, I have only removed and replaced the worst portions of the arch, and believe that, with frequent inspections, the really good cement which was used may be trusted to hold together the balance of the work. On the other hand, the Slash Run sewer has been found to be defective at one point at least. Under the weight of the embankment across this sewer at N street the arch gave way, about 150 feet of it falling in. It was found that the cement-mortar used in its construction at this point was of very inferior quality. None adhered to the bricks, which were washed clean by the running water. The arch had no spandril, and consequently not sufficient rigidity to resist any unequal settling of the embankment. A careful examination of the entire line of the work is being made, and the repair of the broken section is in progress. I anticipate no further disaster to this sewer. The old sewers of Georgetown, some of which were built half a century ago, are, however, falling to pieces quite rapidly. Repairs were in progress upon these during nearly the whole of last summer, one break following another in rapid succession. In each case of repair a section of the old sewer is removed and permanently restored, so that the rebuilding of these is gradually accomplished. In every case the break has occurred where the arch has been pierced by some individual under the promiscuous fashion in which these sewers have been used.

In the localities of the contract-work in progress, a gradual extension of sewerage has been effected, and the sewerage and surface-drainage of the inhabited parts of the cities of Washington and Georgetown are in general provided for. It will be necessary to modify the system of lateral sewers put down during the early days of the improvements, as some of these are too small to carry off the surface-water from heavy rains.

With the completion of the sewer system, the necessity arises of maintaining a vigilant watch upon its condition, and providing in every way for its efficiency, while all its defects which are apparent should be made the subject of careful study. The extensive excavation which has been going on during the last few years, and especially that for the sewers themselves, together with the material brought down by floods from the beds of the streams in the county, and that which, in spite of every precaution, finds its way into them from the city, have contributed to fill them up with deposits of sand and clay and rubbish of every description. Out of the B-street sewer were taken last summer 2,655 cart-loads of mud and sand, 10,493 bricks, and 40 cart-loads of stone. The lower Tiber arch contains large deposits of clayey sand and gravel, reaching at some points to the springing line of the arch; and some of the smaller sewers have been choked occasionally.

The filling up takes place mainly in tide-water, the sewers having elsewhere a sufficient fall to keep them clean. If this filling up were to continue indefinitely at the same rate, the cost of removing these deposits would be a very serious consideration; but it is probable that, when once removed, the accumulation will be very slow thereafter. The gravel-pits at the inlets which receive the streams from the county arrest the sand and gravel brought down by floods, and these have, during the present season, been enlarged and perfected. The silt-basins of the corner traps prevent the entrance of material from the streets. Proper attention to these in keeping them clean will save the expensive process of removing the material from the sewers. The cleaning of these sewers should be completed this winter, together with the dredging of the James Creek Canal, in order to make their full capacity available for carrying off flood-water.

A system of sewerage was prepared under the direction of the board of public works, and the detailed plans are now on file in this office. I can find no record of any report submitted with these plans, and am not informed as to the data and formulæ used in the computation of the dimensions of the sewers. The plans appear to have been adhered to only in the construction of the principal main sewers. On Sunday, the 29th day of August last, these were severely tried by a storm of considerable violence. Rain commenced falling gently about 7 a. m., and continued until 9 a. m., when it began to descend in torrents. Between 9 and 10 three-tenths of an inch fell; between 10 and 11, one and three-tenths; between 11 and 12, seven-tenths, and between 12 m. and 3 p. m., seven-tenths; a total of 3 inches in six hours; an average rate of half an inch per hour during this interval. Two storms of less violence had preceded this, and all three caused some damage to property by the choking of the inlets at Boundary street, and the flooding of the neighborhood by the overflowing water. The B-street sewer backed, as usual, into its several branches, and cellars and streets were flooded. The L-street sewer and smaller laterals proved to be of insufficient capacity, and the weak points have been noted for careful consideration, while the defects are partially remedied by the extension of sewerage this season. The most important feature of these storms is their action upon the lower Tiber arch. In the case of the storm of the 29th of August, the water from the county found its way, after overflowing the inlets, into the open valley of Tiber Creek, and, following the bed of the stream, entered the main Tiber sewer at the opening at E street north, which has received this stream for a number of years. The area of opening was 220 square feet, the sectional area of the Tiber arch from this point down to its outlet in the James Creek Canal. This had been diminished to 161 square feet of irregular aperture by the building of the North Capitol sewer into and under this arch below the old opening, without groining the intersection. The North Capitol street sewer at the time of the storm carried no water of any consequence, the connection not having been made with the upper branches, but the entire discharge of Tiber Creek into the city found its way into the bed of the stream at E street, and, entering the old mouth of the arch, passed through by the contracted opening occasioned by the building in of the connecting sewer on North Capitol street. The conditions were, therefore, favorable to the lower arch, since this contracted opening would prevent as rapid a discharge as would otherwise take place. Notwithstanding this obstruction, the water was not backed up at any time to the crown of the arch at the entrance, showing that the opening was sufficient to receive this storm. The lower end of Tiber arch at Virginia avenue was closed by a dam which prevented the passage of the water into the James Creek Canal, and turned it laterally by two breaks in the arch, of 30 feet and 12½ feet respectively, into the old canal. These openings were partially obstructed by temporary dams reaching to a height of about 5 feet above the floor of the sewer, which is 3½ feet below mean high tide. The total area of opening was about 264 square feet. The tide was high at about 1 o'clock p. m. The sewer was, and still is, obstructed between E street and Virginia avenue by extensive deposits of gravel, sand, and clay.

Under these conditions the sewer ran full at the outlet near Virginia avenue to within 8 inches of the crown of the arch during the maximum discharge. At the Botanical Gardens the water forced its way through the openings left in the arch for the drainage of the gardens, and gradually accumulated in the depression which these gardens occupy, until at 2 p. m. it stood 3.25 feet above the crown of the soffit of the arch. It maintained this height for about two hours, and then gradually subsided. This gives a measure of the pressure sustained by the arch at this point during this time, viz, 209.37 pounds to the square foot, and probably the maximum pressure occurred here. No water escaped through the man-holes at any other point. The brick-work of this arch is 2 feet in thickness, and is covered by about 18 inches of earth. The weight of these combined is 370 pounds, leaving a considerable margin of safety at this point. Eventually an equilibrium was established by the accumulation of the escaped water upon the top of the arch. Notwithstanding the disadvantages under which the sewer acted upon this occasion, it may be that the next trial would be under less favorable circumstances. The completion of the North Capitol street sewer shortens the line between Boundary street and Pennsylvania avenue by about 1,000 feet, and the flood-water will be discharged more rapidly than heretofore into the lower arch. The tide was not high upon this occasion during the critical period of the storm, and storms of greater violence are to be anticipated. The data in my possession are too meager and the time which I have been able to give to its consideration too limited for a thorough discussion of this problem, but a few general conclusions may be stated.

The meteorological records of the United States Naval Observatory, from 1843 to 1866, show that during this time the greatest rain-fall during any one year was 46.862 inches, which fell in 1866. The greatest amount of fall during any one month occurred in October, 1866, and amounted to 10.132 inches, of which 7.92 inches fell in fifty-six hours. The greatest mean rain-fall for this entire period in any month occurs in July, and amounts to 3.806 inches. The detailed phenomena of these storms are not given, but the record shows that they are to be expected at any time between July and October, preferably one or the other of these months, and rarely much earlier than July or later than October. From the records of the signal service the details of the storm of August 29 last were obtained, and although this is altogether the most severe storm of which the office has a record in the District of Columbia, it is by no means exceptional in the rate of precipitation during a limited time.

August 18, 1875, 1.38 inches fell between 3 and 8 o'clock p. m., of which 1.2 inches fell between 3¼ and 4¼ o'clock p. m.

August 2, 1875, 2.25 inches fell between 12½ o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock a. m., of which 1.3 inches fell between 1¼ and 3 o'clock a. m.

October 19, 1873,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches fell in twenty hours, of which 1 inch fell in two hours.

October 4, 1873, nine-tenths of an inch fell in six hours, of which sixty-five hundredths of an inch fell in three-quarters of an hour.

September 13, 1873, 1.86 inches fell in eleven hours, of which eight-tenths of an inch fell in half an hour.

August 17, 1873, 1.85 inches fell in three hours, of which 1 inch fell in three-quarters of an hour.

August 11, 1873, 1.18 inches fell in two hours, of which 1 inch fell in half an hour.

August 1, 1873, eighty-five hundredths of an inch fell in one and a half hours, of which sixty-five hundredths of an inch fell in less than half an hour.

July 27, 1873, 2.44 inches fell in seven hours, of which 1 inch fell in three-quarters of an hour, and two inches in two and a half hours.

A letter from Prof. Joseph Henry to Maj. G. K. Warren, of the Corps of Engineers, now on file in the Engineer Department, gives the record of a storm on the 29th of July, 1865, in which 4.92 inches of rain fell between  $3\frac{1}{4}$  p. m. and  $6\frac{1}{4}$  p. m. Professor Henry says of this: "A violent thunder-storm occurred this day at about half past 3 o'clock in the afternoon, attended with high wind and hail. A larger amount of water fell in the space of twenty minutes on the Smithsonian building than ever fell before since the erection of the edifice. \* \* \* The water appeared to fall in continuous sheets for a few moments."

The rain-fall during this storm was at the average rate of 1.523 inches per hour for three hours and a quarter; more than three times the average rate of fall of the storm of the 29th of August ultimo, and a little more than half its duration. It gives a total precipitation about two-thirds greater in a little more than half the time. The behavior of Tiber sewer in such a storm, with its unballasted flat arch under Third street, is a matter for grave consideration.

It will, perhaps, be safe to assume that the freshets of the Potomac, which occur about the month of April, will never coincide with the violent storms, which are not to be expected before July, so that the most unfavorable condition of the river will be a very high tide at the normal stage of water. The same fact of the late occurrence of storms will prevent their precipitation upon frozen ground in the early spring, and this would rarely happen in the late fall rains. Absorption may, therefore, be depended upon to take up from 25 to 40 per cent. of the rain-fall in the county up to the limit of saturation, and, except in the case of those violent showers, which are sometimes thrown off from very dry ground, with but little loss. Assuming the case of a storm of such violence and duration, that one inch per hour must be carried off, exclusive of absorption, it will be necessary for the Tiber sewer to discharge 2,200 cubic feet per second. According to the formula of Darcy and Buzin for conduits of this description, such a discharge into the James Creek Canal would require a head of water at the Botanical Gardens of 7.92, or nearly 8 feet, all of which is converted into a pressure upon the arch at this point, as the sewer is horizontal. The contraction of the area of the sewer just below the gardens by the flattening of the crown of the arch to accommodate it to the carriage-way of Third street, favors the location here of the point of maximum pressure, and, in fact, during the storm of August 29, although the water touched and caused a rattling of the man-hole covers below, none escaped through the crown of the arch except in the gardens. The weight of the arch and its ballasting here being only 370 pounds, the most sanguine estimate of the cohesive strength of the masonry would fall short of security under these circumstances. In the event of an unfortunate combination of freshet and storm, the capacity of the sewer seems to be no longer doubtful.

A rupture of this sewer, especially at the Botanical Gardens, would be disastrous, as the sewer would then be obstructed, and the entire column of water would be turned out upon the streets. For this reason I am inclined to give more weight to a hasty examination without sufficient data than is generally advisable in the criticism of a carefully-matured plan.

An overflow can be made here, so regulated as to act only when the lower arch is under a pressure of, say, 3 feet, which it can safely bear. It is probable that a storm which would cause an overflow would occur only at intervals of many years, and then the inconvenience would be limited to the escape of the surplus water, while the sewer would be kept at work at its full capacity, and without danger of injury. The measure of inconvenience and damage to property under this arrangement can then be made a safe and sure criterion of the necessity for an auxiliary sewer. This plan involves only a small expenditure, and would not injure the appearance of the gardens, nor occasion any inconvenience, except when the overflow acts, whereas they are now subject to flooding at every severe storm. The construction of an auxiliary sewer, an intercepting sewer to carry off the water into the Eastern Branch, would cost about a quarter of a million of dollars.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT.

Grading and paving and the laying of secondary and lateral sewers have progressed rapidly and, in general, satisfactorily upon streets under contract, notwithstanding about forty consecutive days of rainy weather and several damaging floods. In the northeastern section of the city a part of the work has been delayed until late in the fall by the slow progress of the North Capitol street sewer, and in the southeastern section the delay in the work upon the sea-walls of the James Creek Canal has prevented the dredging of the channel, and also any progress with the lower part of New Jersey avenue. The dredging of the canal can be completed this winter, and the work upon New Jersey avenue should be vigorously pushed as long as the weather permits, and completed in the early spring. With the exception of this work, and possibly a part of Third street east, the present season will close all the contracts of the board of public works. A number of these, opposite which an estimated cost of completion is given in the table of contracts, are already completed, but waiting for a final measurement; the remainder are rapidly approaching completion, favored, until quite recently, by the pleasant fall weather.

In the completion of the contract-work, some modifications of the plans of the board of public works have been adopted. On Capitol Hill the grading under contract has been diminished about one-half, and the work distributed upon other streets. The work of parking under contract has been discontinued. The improvements intended for certain localities have been transferred to others, and the character of the improvement modified as circumstances seemed to demand. The necessity of relaying the old material upon graded streets and of replacing that which was either missing or unfit for use was urged upon the attention of the Commissioners by the appearance of these unfinished streets last winter, and by the numerous petitions which forcibly depicted their condition and the distress of the residents upon them.

Graveling of the carriage-way has been resorted to as a cheap expedient for making the streets passable, wherever this material was at hand and could be advantageously made use of. Where obtained in excavation of other streets, the contractors have been required to deposit it upon the carriage-way of streets requiring it, so that no additional expense has been incurred. In other parts of the city, gravel has been difficult of access, and of inferior quality; the cost of hauling long distances giving it a fictitious value incommensurate with its actual worth as a pavement. Only the best of this material is fit for winter travel, although experience has shown that an inferior variety, after several years of use, becomes so compacted that it will not be upheaved by frost. Cobble-stone, macadam, bluestone, or gneiss rock in irregular blocks, pyramidal blocks of granite or trap-rock, and bituminous concrete have been used where gravel was not considered either suitable or economical. The cobble-stone has been sparingly laid upon streets of light travel. The scarcity of the proper material for this pavement, water-washed pebbles of uniform dimensions, compels the use of the rough angular fragments and bowlders obtained from excavations, and these will not make a good pavement even of this kind. The bluestone is rough but serviceable, and has been laid in preference to the cobble-stone upon streets of similar character. The regular blocks of granite and trap-rock are upon business streets and principal thoroughfares, and the concrete pavements are reserved in general for localities not much used for business purposes. The partial exclusion of the concretes from business streets is less on account of any want of durability than because they do not afford sufficient foot-hold for hauling in wet or frosty weather.

The pavement of the carriage-way upon all streets under improvement was indispensable to the protection and preservation of the work upon the curb and foot-walks, and in the selection of the material for this purpose the proper completion of the improvement has been considered to be a more economical policy than any expenditure for a temporary make-shift. In some cases where gravel has been used, the growing importance of the locality will soon demand a better pavement.

Some action should be taken to dispose of a great obstacle to the improvement of a large part of the city. The Washington Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad breaks the grade of every street and avenue running north and south between North Capitol and Tenth streets east, and occupies the greater part of I street between these limits. If the new depot of the road is to be north of the Capitol, and the outlet in that direction, both the Washington Branch and the Point of Rocks Railroad should be put upon Delaware Avenue. A central space of fifty feet in width should be reserved for the tracks of these two roads, which would then have a common outlet, and this section of the city would be very much relieved.

In the southern part of Washington the old canal, as yet unfilled, is the principal obstacle to improvement. Sanitary considerations, and the proximity of the canal to the Capitol, unite with the interests of this section of the city in urging the importance of this work. I have fixed the grades of South Washington with a view to accomplishing this filling as economically as possible, and the work should be continued.

Along the present Potomac front the swash-channel that now floats a light-draught sand-boat as high as the Seventeenth-street wharf, gives a wharf-line of so little value that squatters have usurped the rights of the General Government unopposed, and occupy the line.

Between this and the river-channel a belt of poisonous marshes stretches from Easby's Point to the arsenal-grounds, and until these marshes are reclaimed by filling them up they must retard the development of the business part of the city, and imperil the health of the inhabitants. The plan of the harbor commission, which has had the attention of Congress, and for which only $50,000 has, as yet, been appropriated, provides for this work, and its execution is in the hands of the Engineer Department of the Army.

The opinion of the Commissioners, that their authority in the matter was somewhat doubtful, has prevented the repaving of Pennsylvania avenue, between the Treasury and the Capitol, this season. This prominent thoroughfare, the principal approach to the Capitol, is now covered with a layer of decomposed wood, except where even this has disappeared in large patches. Its condition is such that all vehicles shun it, and the Capitol is approached from the northwestern part of the city by the back streets. Any further attempt to repair it would be an expenditure thrown away. The avenue requires at once a substantial pavement, and this can be put down early in the ensuing spring, if immediate authority be obtained. An estimate of the cost is submitted herewith, and I earnestly request your especial consideration of this matter.

The wisdom of the policy of the work of improvements is shown very clearly in the immediate stimulus given to individual enterprise. New buildings spring up along the line of the improved streets, and the work is hardly commenced before alterations of the old buildings are taken in hand to enlarge and improve them. The record of the building permits shows that over three and a half millions of taxable property of this character has been added to the District during the present season, and the buildings have followed almost exclusively the line of the improved streets. Even the street-improvements are taken in hand by individual enterprise. As a measure of economy, these have been restricted to the work absolutely necessary to make the street passable, the parking, brick leads to premises, &c., being left to the property-owners to be done at their own expense, and the condition has been promptly and generally accepted.

In my report of November 20, 1874, I estimate the cost of completion of contracts then in hand at $1,721,270.11. Since that time the repairs of contract-work have been undertaken, and have increased this estimate by $666,123.12.

Sixty-four additional contracts of the board of public works have been recognized as existing legal obligations, which, with the amendments to cover work considered necessary, will further increase the cost by $2,146,580.86.

There is now an urgent necessity for a limited annual expenditure to perfect and extend the improvements. The repairs of contract-work; the extension and perfection of the sewer-system; the increase of the water-supply to make up a rapidly-augmenting deficiency and provide for the future growth of the cities of Washington and Georgetown; the extension of the general improvements to other localities, and the protection and preservation of those which are already completed, demand a liberal provision.

PRICES.

A table of board-rates is appended to this report. These are the rates at which work has been done under contracts and extensions of contracts of the board of public works. The prices appear very high, but they are affected by the inflation of the certificates in which the board-work was paid. The joint committee of Congress appointed to investigate the affairs of the District of Columbia fixed upon a bond bearing interest at the rate of 3.65 per centum per annum, payable in currency at the expiration of fifty years, as an equitable basis of payment for work to be done at these rates. This bond was rated by the investigating committee at 80 cents, but, unfortunately for the contractors, it has never reached that figure, but sold at rates varying from 64 to 73 cents, averaging not higher than 70, since the issue was first put upon the market. The equivalent of the board-rates in cash for all work which has been paid for in these bonds is therefore 30 per centum less than these rates; a reduction which leaves a small enough margin for profit upon good work. The reduction of 20 per centum which was contemplated by the investigating committee was fixed upon as equitable after an exhaustive examination extending over a period of six months. I have seen no reason to question the justness of this decision in its general application, and have considered that it fixed the rates at which the work of the board of public works should be completed. The unexpected further reduction of 10 per centum was the misfortune of the contractors, and operated to the disadvantage of the District in making it extremely difficult at times to force a vigorous prosecution of the work. The precaution has been taken in every case of continuing work under the Commissioners to stipulate that the contractor shall accept payment in 3.65 bonds at par, receivable in exchange for the certificates of the board of audit.

I am still of the opinion expressed in my last report that the work of repair and improvement in this District can be done to better advantage by organized labor under the immediate direction of the engineer office than under contract. Possibly the experience here would not differ from that of other cities where this has been tried and the cost usually found to be greater than by the contract system. The greater probability of getting good work is more than an equivalent for increased cost, and it is by no means certain that the latter is to be expected. The operations of the water department and the current work of repairs are independent of the contract system, and make a creditable showing for this season, notwithstanding the large amount of work done.

In this connection I venture to quote from my last report the conclusion at which I had then arrived, and which I have seen no occasion to modify:

The working of the contract system has been pretty thoroughly tested in the improvements of the capital, and in the light of present experience it does not appear to advantage. When contracts are advertised to be let to the lowest bidder, it is difficult to discriminate in favor of responsible parties, and the work is liable to fall into the hands of contractors who depend upon slighting their work to make good the loss on their bid. In such cases the sufficiency of their sureties is not adequate protection to the District. Whatever may be recovered from these by the slow process of law cannot make good the loss of time and the indirect injuries sustained.

For all work under contract it is necessary to maintain a force competent to assume the direction and control of all the work, in order to protect the District from the consequences of fraud or incompetence, and to keep such accurate account of the work as may serve as the basis of monthly estimates and settlement with contractors. The cost of such a force is hardly less than would suffice for another, competent to undertake the supervision of the work and its safe completion without the intervention of the contractor, without any margin for profits, and with comparative immunity from the chances of bad work. If in general material only were furnished under contract, and labor and supervision organized with a distribution of responsibility, I believe that work could be done in the District of Columbia more cheaply, and certainly better, than the average of the present contract-work.

WATER DEPARTMENT.

The water-registrar has been compelled to follow up the contract-work with additional mains, besides meeting the growing demands for an extension of the distribution of water. The policy was early adopted of excluding all pipes from the carriage-way of concreted streets, in order to avoid the necessity of breaking them up for repairing leaks and making connections. The parking upon either side of the broad streets and avenues of Washington gives ample room for sewer, water, and gas pipes on each side, and the duplication of these pipes permits a diminution of size, and makes the service of one side of the street independent of accidents to the other side. As far as possible, the water-fund has been saved by requiring the lowering of mains and other work resulting from a change of grade to be done by the contractor for the street. This fund has been severely taxed since improvements commenced in the District, the extension of the water-supply having had to keep pace with the other improvements; and no provision being made for the extraordinary demand upon it, as a consequence small mains have multiplied, and larger ones cannot be laid for want of means.

REPAIRS.

The storms of last summer brought disaster to the county roads and bridges, and have occasioned an unexpected expenditure for repairs. Nearly all of this injury has been made good, gutters and culverts enlarged, and bridges restored; but in some cases the excessive cost of a proper remedy has led to the adoption of a temporary expedient. The Broad Branch road was laid out many years ago in the narrow valley of that stream. At certain points there is not room for both road and stream, and upon occasions of flood the latter takes possession. An effort was made to confine the stream at these points, and to cut off certain bends by a wall of cement masonry, which left to the creek hardly a fifth part of its natural water-way. The wall was completely demolished and the road washed out. I am informed that this happened but once before, about eight years ago, when the wall was rebuilt. The road is now arranged as a ford where the breaks occurred, and for permanent relief must leave the bed of the stream where the sectional area of the latter is only sufficient for its flood-water. The steep rocky hill-side on either bank will make this expensive, and by submitting to the inconvenience of fording, the work may be deferred. Upon no account should the restoration of the wall be attempted.

The Seventh-street culvert over Piney Branch Creek is not of sufficient size, but will probably carry off flood-water, as it is well constructed and considerably below the level of the roadway, giving a chance for a good head of water. It was slightly injured by the storms last summer and has been protected by an apron and riprap.

Up to this time, owing to the magnitude of the work and the want of the necessary machinery, all repairs of concrete pavements have been made under contract. It is a class of work which, less than any other, can be advantageously done in this way. By the purchase of the requisite machinery and the employment of an expert to superintend the work, a great saving may be effected in the cost of the minor repairs and patchwork, which require incessant and prompt attention, and in all probability the laying of new pavements can be done more cheaply and satisfactorily. An estimate of the cost of the necessary machinery is submitted, and I recommend this plan to your favorable consideration.

INSPECTION OF BUILDINGS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND WHARVES.

The committee appointed by the Commissioners to prepare and submit to them a revision of the building-regulations for the District have not, as yet, concluded their labors. A careful examination will be made of the regulations in force in the principal cities of the United States, with a view to the selection from these of whatever is best adapted to the interests of this community. The experience of the past year has shown that a highly important subject for consideration is the proper means of summary enforcement of whatever regulations may be adopted.

In this connection a system of grades for Washington and Georgetown is in process of preparation, to be submitted for establishment by law. The general change of grades which has been made, necessarily without due notice to property-owners before the work was commenced, has given very reasonable ground of complaint, and has been the foundation of numerous claims for damages. If a system of legal grades be adopted, unchangeable except by act of Congress, all the consequences of proposed improvements will be known in advance of the work, and buildings can be erected with a foreknowledge of the precise change to be made in the grade of the street. This will permit their construction in such a manner that they can be readily adapted to the new grade. If, then, all buildings should be required by law to be so constructed, a change of grade can be effected without serious injury to property, even in the heart of the city, by waiting a sufficient time for the present buildings to be replaced by their successors before the improvement is commenced.

The public markets of Washington and Georgetown are not only self-supporting, but a source of some revenue. The provision made for them is hardly yet commensurate with their importance. The Georgetown market, the Eastern and the Northeastern markets, have suitable buildings, adapted to the present wants of their localities. The Western and Northern markets, although the best paying of all, are clusters of wooden sheds, put up for temporary use, and continued on account of delay in the construction of the buildings intended to replace them. The contract for the Western market having been recognized by the Commissioners, that building will be completed this winter; but the contract for the Northern market has not been considered an existing legal obligation that could be recognized, and this building could not be proceeded with. The foundation was laid under the board of public works. The temporary sheds have now been in use several years longer than they were expected to last, and are utterly unfit for service. If it be considered desirable to complete the market-house upon this square, one wing at least of the proposed building should be put up next season for the accommodation of the present dealers, and I am satisfied that the stalls could be sold at a profit of $15,000 or $20,000 upon the cost. A system of market regulations has been prepared and approved by the Commissioners, which regulations are now in force, and will greatly promote the efficiency of the administration of the markets.

ASSESSMENTS.

The assessments for special improvements have been made up and transmitted to the deputy comptroller for collection as rapidly as the statements of expenditures could be obtained from the board of audit. The report of the surveyor of the District, who has had the immediate charge of this matter, shows the streets and avenues assessed since my last report, and the total of expenditures transmitted for assessment up to the present time, together with the distribution of the whole amount.

The total expenditure on account of special improvements under the board of public works and under the Commissioners, upon streets not yet assessed, may be approximately stated as follows:

Total expenditures up to November 1, 1875, obtained from the records of the board of audit, as an approximate statement from the bills in their hands at that time, both audited and unaudited.....	$9,446,232 15

The amount, or so much thereof as shall be collected, will constitute an asset to be applied to whatever purpose may be authorized by law.

I learn, upon inquiry from the commissioners of the sinking-fund and the deputy comptroller, that prior to January 1, 1875, and before the present Commissioners of the District entered upon their duties, interest was paid upon these 8-per-cent. certificates from funds derived from other sources, to the extent of $133,575.00, for which re-imbursement in cash has been made from cash payments on assessments for special improvements to the extent of $48,325.03, so that on interest-account of the 8 per cent., the special fund derivable from assessments for special improvements is indebted in the amount of $84,669.97. If the excess of assessments made and to be made over and above the principal of the 8-per-cent. certificates, and the interest thereon due for January 1, and July 1, 1875, shall all be collected, which excess, as above stated, amounts to $1,689,844.74, there will then remain, as representing an estimated surplus of assessment made and to be made upon private property over and above the above-mentioned amount, the sum of $1,605,174.77.

It is to be remembered, however, that to the District treasury, and not to any other creditor, this special fund is indebted, as respects the above-mentioned sum of $84,669.97. The estimated surplus of assessments made and to be made over and above the claims of creditors other than the District is the first-mentioned sum of $1,689,844.74; and it is to be remembered that the availability of any part of this sum as an asset depends upon payment or collection of the assessments for special improvements. Upon their payment or collection to a sufficient extent also depends the retirement of the 8-per-cent. certificates, which are receivable in payment of such assessments, or are to be paid from the fund arising from cash payment of such assessments. Meanwhile interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum upon these certificates, and 10 per cent. per annum upon the lien-certificates issued upon property, the owners of which are delinquent in this tax, will continue. No account is made in the foregoing estimate of the accrued interest upon lien-certificates, issued to November 30, 1875, nor is the interest upon the outstanding 8-per-cent. certificates accrued since July 1, 1875, considered. The interest upon the latter is due only semi-annually, although it is allowed up to date when the certificates are presented in payment of the special-improvement tax, or for redemption, the interest upon the lien-certificates being computed from the date of presentation of bill to the time of the payment of the tax.

The present system of taxation for improvements, which levies upon the property immediately benefited a tax of only one-third the cost, has been found to induce a vigorous competition among property-owners for the extension to them of the benefit of the improvement. The owners of property as yet unvisited by the work complain that they are taxed for two-thirds of the cost of especially benefiting other property, while sharing only indirectly in this benefit. There is every reason to suppose that a moderate increase in the proportion of the tax paid by the property in the vicinity of which the improvement is made, while it might have a tendency to moderate the demand for the improvement of outlying streets where property is of little value, would not retard the progress of the improvements where they are most needed. Up to the time of the board of public works, the entire cost of such improvements has been assessed against the adjacent property. It is, of course, to be considered whether such a departure from the present system of taxation would now be equitable.

In the case of alleys, very few of which have yet been assessed, there can be no question of the injustice of requiring the general public to contribute any part of the cost of improvement. These alleys are originally laid out and subsequently improved for the sole benefit of the adjacent property. The cost of their condemnation is now by law paid by the property bordering upon them, and the cost of their improvement should be similarly defrayed.

It is next to impossible to obtain a strictly equitable adjustment of the special-improvement tax in every instance; but I recommend the subject of the taxation for the improvement of alleys to your immediate consideration.

CONCLUSION.

For the details of the work done during the present season, the condition of the public buildings and wharves, the progress of erection of private buildings under the building regulations, the purchase and disposition of property and material, and the character and extent of the current work of repairs, I respectfully refer you to the accompanying tables and reports, and invite your attention especially to the reports of the water-registrar, the inspector of buildings, the superintendent of property, the overseer in charge of repairs, and the parking commission. By direction of the Commissioners the purchase of all supplies for the various departments of the District government has been made by contract, under the supervision of the superintendent of property. A detailed statement of the purchases is appended to his report.

In conclusion, I have to acknowledge my indebtedness to the efficient industry of my force for all that has been accomplished during the season. The superintendence of the details of the work has been under Mr. Bodfish, assisted by a corps of levelers. In the preparation of the plans and the direction of the work I have been assisted by Mr. Oertly. The expenditure of about $3,000,000 upon plans which could not all be readily adapted to the work already done has required a laborious consideration and an assumption of responsibility that we should willingly have shared with other and abler heads. It is hoped that whatever mistakes may have been made will be found to be errors of detail only, and it is sincerely regretted that in the prosecution of the work it has not been always practicable to reconcile the conflicting interests of all parties in the details of the plans. I feel justified in saying that it would perhaps be difficult to perform so large an amount of work more economically, as we have been favored indirectly by the cheapness of labor and general reduction of prices which prevailed during the past season and induced the contractors to proceed with their work, accepting the 3.65 bonds at par.

Very respectfully,

R. L. HOXIE,
Lieut. Engineers U. S. A. and Engineer D. C.

The total length of water-mains laid by the department from organization, July, 1859, to November 15, 1875, is 559,458½ feet, or 105  $\frac{959}{3280}$  miles.

From November, 1874, to November 15, 1875, there were laid—

Of 12-inch, 13,860 feet.

Of 6-inch, 42,365 feet.

Of 4-inch, 1,712 feet.

Of 2-inch, 574 feet.

Making a total of 58,511 feet, or 11  $\frac{981}{3280}$  miles, of which the following is a correct list:

By an act of the legislature there were laid, under the direction of the chief engineer of the Washington aqueduct for the District of Columbia—

Of 36-inch main, 21,998 feet.

Of 30-inch main, 1,750 feet.

The length of mains laid by the Washington aqueduct is 93,730 feet, or  $17\frac{752}{3280}$  miles.

The late corporation of Georgetown laid in that city 55,000 feet, or  $10\frac{41}{3280}$  miles of water-mains. This gives a total length of supply and distributing mains now in use within the District of Columbia to be 794,547½ feet, or  $150\frac{422}{3280}$  miles.

WATER-SUPPLY.

Washington and Georgetown receive their daily supply of water through three great mains, viz, 12, 30, and 36 inches in diameter. These mains have capacity to deliver over 30,000,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours, that is, provided the ends of the mains are wide open and the water flowing freely. Under pressure it is estimated that each main would deliver as follows :

	Gallons.
12-inch main .....	1, 150, 560
30-inch main .....	11, 368, 200
36-inch main .....	17, 935, 200
Total .....	30, 454, 560

Recent experiments made as to the consumption of water in the two cities show that every twenty-four hours we use a fraction over 23,000,000 gallons.

The following figures illustrate the rapid advance in the consumption of water, viz :

In 1864 we used 8,000,000 gallons daily.

In 1870 we used 12,000,000 gallons daily.

In 1873 we used 17,000,000 gallons daily.

In 1875 we used 23,000,000 gallons daily.

That is to say, we use to-day 15,000,000 gallons, daily, more than we did in 1864, 11,000,000 more than in 1870, and 6,000,000 more than in 1873.

In 1864 there was to each inhabitant a daily supply of 80 gallons.

In 1870, 100 gallons.

In 1873, 131 gallons.

In 1875, 158 gallons.

This enormous increase in the use of water can be accounted for in part by the rapid growth of our city; by the luxurious manner in which nearly every modern house, so far as relates to water-fixtures, is furnished, and by the increased number of water-takers and population, as shown below :

General Meigs, in his report to Congress dated February 12, 1853, on supplying Washington and Georgetown with water, estimated the population of Washington at 49,339, and the total number of dwellings at 7,811.

At this date it is safe to estimate the population of Washington and Georgetown at 146,000, and the number of houses I can give with accuracy to be 25,283, viz: In Washington City, 10,944 brick and 12,177 frame; in Georgetown, 1,051 brick and 1,111 frame—total, 25,283; and the annexed table will illustrate the growth of Washington City by squares, taking General Meigs's figures of 1853, and those made by this Department during November, 1875.

In August, 1872, the 36-inch main was completed; this brought into the city an additional daily supply of 17,000,000 gallons; since which time we have extended our distributing-pipes 229,241 feet, or 43.222 miles, and added to the regular water-takers 4,470. This will answer the question so often asked, "Why do we not get the same supply of water now as when the 36-inch main was first laid?"

From the foregoing facts and figures it will be seen that we have a daily supply of water greater than in any city in the country.

The following table shows the average number of gallons of water to each inhabitant in the cities named:

Washington .....	158	Montreal, Canada .....	55

These figures illustrate the more than abundant supply of water in American cities, and the very meager supply to European cities and capitals.

The mode and manner of supply also differ in every way. London and its surroundings are supplied by eight different companies to as many separate districts, the water being pumped from the rivers Thames and Lea into various reservoirs, where, before passing into the distributing-pipes, it undergoes a process of filtration. The daily average supply is about 103,000,000 gallons, or 29 gallons to each inhabitant; this number includes the water used for quenching fires and like purposes. The delivery of water to consumers is intermittent; each house must therefore have a cistern, or some other means of reserving water enough to meet the requirements of the house when the supply is interrupted. There are a few houses that receive a constant supply, or what is called such; even then the service-pipe being throttled with a button that allows only a very small stream to pass.

Within the past few years the cry comes almost incessantly from people living on the higher grounds, that water will not flow to their second stories during the day, and the popular notion, so often expressed, that "water finds its own level," is not in our case confirmed, nor is it anywhere, when applied to water-supply in cities; the matter of bends, curves, the thousands of connections and stop-valves, and the constant draught from the service-pipes, materially reduces the pressure in the pipes, so that when we get above any part of the city 90 feet above tide, the pressure is very weak and the supply meager.

General Meigs, in his report of 1853 in reference to the Capitol, says: "Were it not for the great importance of protection to this building, it would be better to reduce the height of the reservoirs in order to diminish the pressure upon the mains and service-pipes, which require to be made of great strength to resist the strain caused by such a head. The full head, however, has an advantage in permitting the use of much smaller leaden pipes for services in houses."

Whether the extreme pressure above referred to was ever realized I am unable to state, but we now have arrived at that period when it is absolutely necessary to increase the pressure on all our mains; and the equal distribution of the water to all parts of the city is the problem to be solved. Probably the most perfect and available system would be to divide the city into a high and low service. All that part of the city bounded by Boundary street and L street northwest, and Twenty-sixth street and First street northwest, and all east of the Capitol be supplied from a reservoir built on the heights above the city, at an elevation not less than 175 feet above tide, somewhere between Fourteenth street and Seventh street northwest, with a capacity for 50,000,000 gallons of water, the same to be fed by pumping-engines supplied by a 30-inch main, to run from the distributing reservoir, through Georgetown, along Boundary street to a point below the site of the reservoir. From this reservoir a number of large mains to radiate through the north-western part of the city and around the high grounds east of the Capitol; this is to be the high service.

The low service to be all that portion of the city bounded by L street, northwest, the river, Twenty-sixth street and First street, northwest; to be fed by the present 12, 30, and 36 inch mains, together with a new 12 inch main running from Rock Creek bridge, along Virginia avenue, to D street, south; thence, along D street, to the intersection of Pennsylvania and Eighth street, east. These, with at least six 12-inch mains laid at equal distances between Rock Creek and Seventh street, east, and running north and south, would divide the supply, equalize the distribution, and give sufficient pressure on the mains for an ample supply on the very highest elevations of the city.

Without a minute survey of localities and cost of material, &c., I am at present unable to give an exact estimate for such an improvement, but, approximating from information and experience at hand, I estimate the cost to be $1,250,000.

In addition to this, the almost everlasting waste of water will have to be stopped, and how to do it is a matter not alone applicable to this District, but it is now agitated in every city of any magnitude in the country. During the past summer, the efforts of this department have been directed in a great measure to accomplish, at least in part, this very desirable end. An order was issued by the honorable Commissioners, dated June 18, 1875, requiring in all public places a change and repair of water-fixtures so as to prevent waste. The order was rigorously carried out, but yet a great waste goes on in all places, public and private. It is well known that over one-half the private houses in the city allow closets and spigots to constantly run, and it is estimated that near one-quarter the daily supply is wasted therein.

In 1870, the late corporation of Washington passed the following act, based on section 3 of the act of Congress dated March 3, 1859, as follows:

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the supply of water to all manufacturing establishments, hotels, livery-stables, and other places requiring a large quantity, shall be determined by meters erected and maintained at the expense of the consumer, and the said corporations of Washington and Georgetown shall charge and collect for the quantity so determined a price not exceeding 3 cents per hundred gallons.

AN ACT to procure and test the efficiency of water-meters.

Be it enacted by the board of aldermen and board of common council of the city of Washington, That the water-board be, and is hereby, authorized and requested, by and with the advice and consent of the mayor, to advertise for and contract for a sufficient number of the most improved water-meters now in use, as may be necessary to carry into effect the requirements of said act of Congress, not, however, exceeding fifty meters in number, not more than ten of the same kind, and to be delivered in Washington ready to be set up for use by the 1st day of March next.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the water-registrar to cause said meters to be set up ready for use by the first day of April next, in such hotels, livery-stables, and other places as the said board may select.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the water-registrar, immediately after a meter is set up in any establishment, to present to the owner or occupant thereof a bill of the cost and expense of setting up said meter, which shall be payable at the office of the water-registrar within ten days from the date of rendition, and if not paid at the expiration of said ten days, then it shall be the duty of the inspector and tapper of water-mains, under direction of the water-registrar, to turn off the water from said premises, which shall not again be turned on until all arrearages are paid and two dollars extra for expense of turning water on and off from the same.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the water-registrar, immediately after the passage of this act, to procure a suitable book for the entry of the names and keeping the water-accounts of all persons who may use Potomac water through meters, to make out and deliver on the premises of every party in whose name a meter is used, on or before the last day of every quarter, a bill of the number of gallons of water registered by the meter upon said premises, the rate to be fixed by the water-board, but in no case to exceed three cents per hundred gallons used, which shall be payable at the office of the water-registrar within ten days from the date of rendition, and if not paid on or before the expiration of said ten days, then it shall be the duty of the inspector and tapper of water-mains, under direction of the water-registrar, to turn off the water from the premises of such delinquents, which shall not again be turned on until all such arrearages are paid and two dollars extra for expense of turning water off and on from the same.

SEC. 5. And it is further enacted, That in order to carry into execution the provisions of the foregoing act, a sufficient sum is hereby appropriated, payable out of the water-fund.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That any person or persons who shall willfully violate any of the provisions of the foregoing act by refusing admittance to his, her, or their premises of persons in the employ of the water department, for the purpose of setting up a meter or meters, or of taking off the registry of said meters after they are set up, or to ascertain if they are in proper repair, or who shall in any way obstruct or hinder the water-tapper while in the prosecution of his work, or who shall deface, injure, or meddle with the register of any meter while in use, shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than thirty nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and be liable, in addition, to the penalty imposed by the fifth section of act of Congress of March 3, 1859, upon this subject.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

Approved February 16, 1871.

This law was partially carried out by placing on certain public places, such as livery-stables, restaurants, hotels, &c., meters to the number of about 30. In a little while the majority of the machines stopped registering, were failures, and had to be taken out as useless. We have still in use a few meters as a matter of information to the Department. The question of applying meters to general use is one that has more or less occupied the thought and time of nearly every water department throughout the country; yet, so far as I know, none have made such application, but limited their use to special cases, and in all such have materially increased the revenue from rentals, but it does not follow that the waste is stopped. The following extract from a late report of the Cochituate water-board on this subject is pertinent:

The sale by meters does not entirely stop waste. This will appear by the annexed table showing the consumption in the principal hotels by meter, and the amount shows but little variation from what was used before meters were used. Manufactories would doubtless show the same fact. Hotels are taken, however, because their needed supply is more uniform. The table also exhibits the gain to the city pecuniarily by the use of meters. The whole number of meters in use is: 1,100, and it is owing to their introduction even to this limited extent that the increased revenue from the sales of water has come to pass.

So far as this District is concerned, I doubt the practicability of their general application; that is to say, placing meters on all places where water is used. The first cost of the meter itself would be a serious obstacle, and if applied to all using water would amount to near $350,000. Aside from this there are other reasons, sanitary ones, for instance, and the yearly cost of repairs, inspection, and such like.

During the past month the few meters that still remain good and register correctly were re-set on certain public places, and after ten days' registration furnished the following figures, which are believed to be near correct, viz :

	Gallons.
One hotel .....	660, 222
One restaurant .....	53, 621
One livery-stable .....	38, 322
One dye-house .....	33, 963

I do believe and recommend that meters should be placed on all premises, other than private residences, and that such be charged a moderate rental for the water used. The law requires this and should be enforced. In addition to this, the fixtures in all private residences should be of such pattern and style as to reduce use and waste to a minimum.

GEORGETOWN.

The system of water-supply in Georgetown differs from that of Washington, both as to distribution and arrangement.

All that portion of the city 100 feet above tide is supplied from the high-service reservoir, corner of High and Road streets, (210 feet above the same being fed from a 10-inch main from a steam force-pump situated on Fourth, near High street. This pump is supplied by a 12-inch main from the large mains in Bridge street. In addition to this, we have in use a water-pressure engine, the property of the General Government, situated in the abutment of Rock Creek bridge, which is at times of the utmost service in keeping up the supply. The pump is in very bad condition, and it is only by constant repairs we are able to keep it in use. A new pump of greater power and capacity is a necessity.

All that part of the city below the level of 100 feet is supplied direct from the 12 and 30 inch mains in Bridge street.

The whole number of water-takers is 1,200, by whom no water-rents are paid.

The mains in this city were laid under an ordinance of the late corporation, approved May 9, 1859, which provided for the levying of a water-tax, as follows :

SEC. 3. And be it further ordained, That to enable this corporation to redeem said stock and pay the interest thereon, and to pay other expenses attending the introduction and maintenance of the water establishment, there be, and is hereby, levied a water-tax of ten cents per foot on every front foot on each side of every street, lane, or alley through which the water-mains have been or may be laid hereafter; and that said tax shall be collected by the collector of this corporation under the laws already passed for the collection of the general tax of this town, as follows: one-fourth annually, commencing the 1st day of July, 1859, viz : He shall collect 15 cents of the above tax in that year, 15 cents in the year 1860, 15 cents in the year 1861, and 15 cents in the year 1862, and he shall pay over to the clerk of this corporation such sums as he collects, retaining 3 per cent. as his compensation for collecting the same; and the clerk shall place said funds as he receives them to the credit of the water-fund, and the same are hereby pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of all the stock that shall or may be issued under the authority of this ordinance.

In addition to the foregoing, appropriations were made from time to time out of the general fund for repairs, hydrants, high service, &c.

During the past few years these expenses have been paid out of the water-fund of Washington City, and as a matter of justice should be refunded to the same. I annex herewith a statement in detail of these expenses, amounting to $10,983.89.

I see no good reason why the water-system of Georgetown should not be placed on the same basis as that of Washington City, and I recommend legislation on the subject.

IMPURE WATER.

In June and July of this year the Potomac water became offensive, both to smell and taste, and so continued for a period of over thirty days. The river at the head of supply, (Great Falls,) and as far down as Fort Washington, was so impregnated with matter as to be almost unfit for drinking and culinary purposes. Various theories were advanced and arguments made as to the cause and cure. The most prominent argument was the necessity for filtering the water before it enters the great mains. This subject is one of so much importance, and so little reliable information is within my reach, that I cannot enter into any extended remarks on the subject with the intelligence I would desire.

Filtration on a great scale is based on the same principle as the small filters used in houses, the water being strained through sand, gravel, charcoal, or other ingredients; but, when this is applied to the filtration of millions of gallons instead of pints, the difficulties are increased, and filtering becomes an elaborate and expensive machine. To filter the water-supply of this District would require an enormous outlay, and the erection of numerous reservoirs and filter-beds; and, even then, it is questionable whether the remedy is reached for purifying water from the taste and odor peculiar to Potomac water last June and July. The honorable board of health of the District gave the subject of impure water a good deal of attention at one of their meetings. A report on the subject was made by their president, the principal points of which I quote below:

I am inclined to refer it rather to the sudden decay of minute animal organisms produced by a sudden elevation of temperature during the hot season.

The Potomac water which we use in our houses for drinking and culinary purposes has been for some time so turbid and charged with offensive organic matter as to produce wide-spread complaint, thus inviting inquiry on the part of the board of health as to the cause of such persistent turbidity and impurity, and the proper remedy, if any. Accordingly a letter was addressed to the chief engineer of the Washington aqueduct, and a prompt reply returned by that officer under date of March 24, 1875.

The muddy state of the water he refers to the condition of the river at Great Falls, whence our water is derived, in consequence of the heavy and frequent rains falling in that region; and secondly, the small capacity of the distributing-reservoir in proportion to the amount of water consumed, requiring a constant influx from the river to preserve the level of the "flow-line." A reservoir of larger capacity would allow the water to settle without disturbance from this cause. The deepening and extension of the reservoir and the use of meters are alluded to among the feasible means of correcting the existing nuisance; the former by giving the water time to settle before entering the iron mains; the latter accomplishing the same object by reducing the water-waste and thus obviating the necessity now existing of keeping the reservoir constantly flooded to the "flow-line."

Pernanganate of potash has been employed as a test and also a corrective of impart; in water. In the report on epidemic cholera, (circular No. 5,) issued from the Surgeon-General's Office, is a brief but instructive contribution from Dr. Craig, the accomplished chemist to this board. A number of samples of water were submitted to him for examination, with a view to ascertain the tendency of water to become the vehicle of disease, or to produce any of the effects which are commonly attributed to its bad quality. As a standard of comparison he selected the water supplied from the Washington aqueduct, "which," he says, "is decidedly impure water, containing more organic matter than that supplied to London from the Thames." He then gives in grains and decimals of grains the amount of permanganate of potash required to purify each gallon of the offered samples of water. Of the five specimens Washington aqueduct water indicated a less degree of purity, requiring 0.5106 grains, and was inferior only to certain specimens from New York Harbor pronounced unsuitable for drinking purposes in their present condition.

The quotation from Dr. Craig's report created in this community a certain alarm, as for the first time the people were informed that the Potomac water was decidedly impure and contained more organic matter than that supplied to London from the Thames. An inquiry on the subject brought the following reply :

WAR DEPARTMENT, SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., October 29, 1875.

DEAR SIR : The water of which I spoke in the report to which you allude as Washington aqueduct water was taken from the water-tap in the laboratory, and my recollection is that the water was understood at that time to come from the Powder Mill Branch altogether, or in large part. When the water supplied to London from the Thames is spoken of as a standard of comparison, it is to be borne in mind that this water is taken from above London and is passed through filter-beds before entering the supply pipes, so that the idea of great impurity which is often connected with the Thames water does not properly belong to it. It is purified more or less thoroughly by the different water companies and may be taken as an example of an average drinking water, not of the best quality but not dangerously bad.

Yours, truly,

B. F. CRAIG.

T. LUBEY, Esq.,
Water-Registrar, District of Columbia.

It is proper here to state that the water analyzed by Dr. Craig was not Potomac water, but came from the receiving-reservoir then supplied by Powder Mill Branch, which drains 4,000 acres of the surrounding country. And at the date of his report, August, 1866, no Potomac water was supplied to the District. I desire also to add to this the following extract from a letter of Prof. Jno. Torrey, M. D., to Lieutenant Meigs, dated February, 1853, viz :

All the waters are soft, and very good both for washing and for drinking. There is no hurtful ingredient in any of them. The quantity of free carbonic acid which they contain is from two to three cubic inches to the gallon. Of solid matter left by evaporation, there was in no case more than a fraction over five grains to the gallon. Of this residual matter the quantity of salts soluble in water did not exceed one grain, consisting chiefly of chlorides of calcium, sodium, and magnesium. The salts insoluble in pure water (and undoubtedly held in solution by the waters examined by an excess of carbonic acid) were the carbonate of lime and magnesia, the quantity varying in the different waters from three to four grains in the gallon. Of sulphates we could find only a trace. Organic matter was present, but less than half a grain to the gallon. Our chief difficulty in analyzing these waters was their purity and the small quantity submitted to us for examination. Several of the constituents were only to be estimated approximately from the minute amount of them existing in the waters.

Finally, I would say that the waters sent us exhibited a great uniformity of composition, and are all sufficiently pure for drinking or manufacturing purposes; indeed, they are superior to the Croton water according to the analysis of Professor Silliman.

I would not be willing to undertake a new analysis, except on a larger quantity of water, or, what would amount to the same thing, on a quantity of solid matter obtained by boiling down at least twenty gallons of each variety of the water to be examined.

We have now our processes so perfected that a re-analysis would take comparatively little time.

I am, dear sir, yours, respectfully,

JOHN TORREY.

NOTE.—The waters submitted to Professor Torrey for examination were—

A.—Two gallons taken from the Potomac at Great Falls.

B.—Two gallons taken from the Potomac at Little Falls.

C.—Two gallons taken from the Potomac 300 feet below Mason's foundry, above Georgetown, at high tide, 2 p. m., November 6, 1852.

D.—Two gallons taken from the Potomac 400 feet below Mason's foundry, taken at low tide, 8½ a. m.; November 6, 1852.

E.—One and a half gallons taken from Rock Creek, on Hoyle's farm, November 25, 1852.

M. C. MEIGS,

Lieutenant Engineer.

I also add two short papers on the subject from General Meigs and Colonel Samo, both of whom have had a large experience in all matters pertaining to the water-supply of this District, and from which it will be seen that, although written at different periods, (nine years apart,) both arrive at the same conclusion as to cause, viz, confervæ or vegetable matter; and I will add that in this they are sustained by the opinions of very many whose experience and knowledge is extensive on the subject.

OFFICE OF WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT,
Washington, D. C., November 11, 1875.

SIR: In compliance with your request, I inclose extract from a paper prepared by me in June, 1866, for the information of the Hon. Secretary of the Interior, relative to certain impurities that did then, and have since at various periods of the year, affected the water supplied by the Washington aqueduct.

Respectfully, yours,

THEO. B. SAMO,

Assistant Engineer, Washington Aqueduct.

Col. T. LUBEY,
Water-Registrar, Washington, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT,
Washington, D. C., June 11, 1866.

SIR: The impurities which have recently affected the water supplied by the Washington aqueduct, and which have given to it the odor and taste of fish, render it both proper and necessary that I submit for your consideration such facts on this subject as I have been able to obtain.

My attention was first called to this matter in January, when the fishy odor and taste had become so powerful as to render the water exceedingly offensive. Supposing that the trouble proceeded from impurities in the receiving-reservoir, I had the gate in the sluice-tower opened and the water from the bottom of the reservoir drawn off, when the taste improved and the impurities disappeared.

About the beginning of May the fishy odor and taste again appeared, and by the 20th the water had become so impregnated as to be unfit for culinary purposes. Numerous complaints were made by consumers, and it was the prevailing opinion that the offensiveness proceeded from fish in a state of decomposition in the reservoir and pipes.

On the 24th of May the water-mains throughout the cities of Washington and Georgetown were thoroughly flushed. Contrary to general expectation, very few fish were found, and these were alive.

This flushing materially improved the condition of the water, but in a few days the fishy odor and taste re-appeared. The waters of each reservoir were carefully examined, and from these examinations I am convinced that the impurities are not due to fish either in the reservoirs or pipes.

The water-works of other cities have at different times been affected in a similar manner. In 1854 the waters of the Cochituate Lake (supplying Boston) were affected with the fishy odor and taste, and Professor Hosford and Dr. C. T. Jackson were appointed to examine into the nature and origin of the evil.

After examinations, and a thorough analysis of the water taken from different portions of the lake, they arrived at the same conclusion, namely: that the impurities complained of are derived from vegetable decomposition existing in the lake itself. The Cochituate water-board also instituted inquiries to ascertain whether the deterioration of water was peculiar to the lake, or whether other lakes and ponds had not been subject to the same trouble. They found that the difficulty had been by no means confined to Cochituate Lake. Round Pond, near Haverhill, Jamaica Pond, and several wells near the lake and in other places had had their water affected in a similar manner.

In 1862 the water in Ridgwood reservoir, Brooklyn, became affected with the fishy odor and taste, and had to be emptied to obviate the difficulty.

In the reservoir at Cohoes, N. Y., supplied by pumping from the Mohawk River, and in the reservoir at West Albany, the water in the summer of 1865 possessed the same offensive qualities.

During the year 1865 the water of Rennselaer Lake and Bleeker reservoir, supplying the city of Albany, were affected with impurities.

In the report of the water commissioners to the common council of the city of Albany, the superintendent, Mr. Geo. W. Carpenter, states "that there are two distinct causes (each imparting to the water an odor and taste peculiar to itself) that have affected our reservoirs at different periods during the past few years, the one giving the water the odor and taste of fish, the other imparting to it a musty odor and taste sometimes detected in dead wood."

In the former it is extremely difficult to satisfy consumers that the impurities are not due solely to fish in the reservoirs, while in the latter they are equally confident that the reservoirs are little else than stagnant pools. The superintendent further says "although sufficient data may not yet have been collected to determine with absolute certainty whether the fishy odor and taste have an animal or vegetable origin, from the observations which I have made I am convinced that they are due to infusoria rapidly developed under certain favorable physical conditions of the atmosphere and water. In that these conditions exist, how far their operations may be modified by counteracting influences under our control, why they are not confined to any particular period of the year, and whether they are climatic, are questions which at present cannot be satisfactorily answered."

Long-continued observations and experiments in the future may discover the true cause of the evil, when a remedy to lessen or remove it may be applied,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THEO. B. SAMO,

Engineer in Charge Washington Aqueduct.

Hon. JAMES HARLAN,

JUNE 10, 1875.

The disagreeable odor and taste recently noticed in the aqueduct water is due to the presence of a green conferva, one of those plants which seem to make the connection between the vegetable and animal kingdoms. About this season of the year this plant seems to attain its greatest development. It spreads over the surface of quiet pools of clear water, and accumulates until it forms a scum visible, particularly when the surface is broken by an oar.

The plant appears to need calm and warm weather for its greatest development, and it prevails so as to be troublesome only at intervals of two or three years. I think we escaped it last year, but it was investigated a few years ago by a committee of the board of health, which rode to the Great Falls and found it covering all the broad, quiet reaches of the Potomac as they went up the river. It had caused much complaint for several days. A heavy thunder-gust and rain-storm broke out that day, and when the committee reached the city again the plant had disappeared and the water was pure and tasteless again. I first noticed it in the aqueduct a year or two after it was opened, when the whole supply of water was derived from the reservoir fed by Powder-Mill Branch. A storm of wind and rain broke up the scum, after it had been troublesome for some days, drove the green fibers upon the shore, where they collected into a fringe of dark green, almost black, as it dried up.

It has appeared at intervals since. I recollect three or four seasons in which it has been troublesome and disagreeable. It is by no means peculiar to the Potomac. It thrives in the clearest spring water; it has made Boston unhappy by its presence in the clear water of Lake Cochituate, a lake in a sandy bed, fed by springs of filtered water. The Croton reservoir has once or twice been infested and covered with its green scum, giving the same disagreeable taste and odor of which we now complain. The Ohio has been covered with it, and the city of Cincinnati, whose water-supply is pumped by steam directly from the river, has suffered as other cities.

The evil is too extensive to admit of relief except by the operation of natural causes. The first violent thunder-gust will probably relieve us.

M. C. M.

On the night of June 21, the great mains were thoroughly flushed, which necessitated the water being shut off from all parts of the District for several hours. This operation, in case of fire, or break in mains, is attended with great risk, and should not be resorted to, unless in case of extreme necessity.

H. Ex. 1, pt. 7—18

The flushing of the mains did not better the condition of the water, but about the middle of July the impurities all disappeared.

I annex hereto a statement of property received, expended, and remaining on hand, together with estimates; also, map of the city of Washington, showing location of fire-plugs, stop-valves, and water-mains, corrected to date. Also, a series of recommendations, the adoption of which would do a great deal toward insuring good plumbing-work, stopping the waste of water, and increasing the revenue of this department.

In conclusion, I desire to make honorable mention and acknowledgment to the gentlemen connected with this office for the faithful and efficient manner with which they have discharged their respective duties, and also to the inspector, Mr. Larman, whose technical and mechanical skill has been invaluable to this department.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

TIMOTHY LUBEY,
Water-Registrar.

RECOMMENDATIONS TO PREVENT WASTE OF POTOMAC WATER.

1st. Before any plumber shall perform any service in a building where Potomac water is used, he shall be duly licensed, shall be a citizen of the United States, twenty-one years of age, residing and doing business in the District of Columbia, shall furnish satisfactory certificates, from two licensed plumbers of his regular practical instruction in the business, shall give a bond for faithful work, shall make no alterations or additions without notice to and consent of the water department; shall make monthly returns of work done calculated to increase or decrease the water-rate of premises, and of all work put into newly-erected premises, and the water shall not be turned on until all the fixtures, pipe, &c., have been examined and tested to the satisfaction of the water department.

2d. No class of fixtures shall be in use, no material or work furnished, excepting such as the water department shall approve of.

3d. Running closets and urinals be either altogether abolished or their character changed by substituting self-closing fixtures.

4th. Potomac water used in hotels, restaurants, dye-houses, breweries, livery-stables, &c., be charged by meter measurement.

Five alleys have been assessed for benefits and damages for and against the property-owners interested, on account of land taken from property condemned by the United States marshal of the District, through a jury empanelled by him, and the assessments transmitted to the deputy comptroller for collection on the one hand and payment on the other.

The late sewerage assessment sheets are being copied into books prepared for that purpose, and are part of the records of this office.

The books of special assessments are journalized and posted to date, and balances brought down to this time.

The sheets for additional drawbacks have been properly kept, and certificates in each and every case of allowance filed away according to their regular numbers.

SURVEYS AND PLATS.

During the past year, in accordance with your official orders, I have made surveys for numerous roads, streets, and alleys throughout this District, in view of their condemnation by the United States District marshal for public purposes, and I have also established lines of various streets, avenues, and alleys in Washington and Georgetown, D. C., for special improvements.

For the use of the superintendent of taxes, I have prepared books of subdivisions of the different squares required; also, special surveys of squares 556 and 690, with plats showing the location of each lot or part, with the calculation of the areas, and names of proprietors. For the assessors, have been furnished copies of plats and maps to assist them in determining the valuation of the property assessed.

I have, for the commissioner of the Almshouse, surveyed the land required for the uses of a cemetery for the poor of the District, and also prepared a large map showing the different blocks and lots, together with a register-book for the names, &c., of deceased persons interred in said cemetery, and finally have marked the different corners of each block by large stakes.

Surveys have been made and maps prepared locating hospital buildings, with levels, &c., for grade of ground.

For the attorney of the District, I have made searches of a laborious character, relating to old condemnations of various streets in Washington, Georgetown, D. C., and the county, and prepared other information in connection with and relating to the various suits against the District, and transmitted copies of papers relating to the same.

I am now engaged in making a thorough survey of the western line of the Potomac River from P street to Monument lot; also the Eastern Branch of said river, showing each wharf as at present occupied by the different parties claiming the right of ownership, lease, or occupancy as squatters, to be laid down upon a scale of 20 feet to the inch, showing the actual size by written dimensions of each wharf, dock, or house, with the names of the parties now using them, and the area used. All of these most extensive and important surveys are to be used in the different courts of the District in suits now pending, and upon which depends the future water-right along the Potomac River and Eastern Branch of the same.

I am also preparing a map, upon a scale of 70 feet to the inch, showing the lines of the Elliott plan of docks and wharves, as approved in 1839 by Martin Van Buren, President of the United States.

Of the importance of these different and difficult duties you are fully cognizant.

To meet the requirements of the collector of taxes, I have had to regulate many of the "old corporation" assessments to correspond with the different transfers of property, so that the parties interested could pay their special-improvement taxes due under the laws of the said corporation, and the calculations of which have proved troublesome and arduous.

The inspector of building is having prepared for him a book of maps of all the public schools, police-stations, market-houses, and other property owned by the District of Columbia.

I regret to have to state that in relation to Meridian hill, and other adjacent additions to the city, there were no bound-stones planted by which to determine the different lines of the streets and avenues, and this fact is the more apparent from my not having been able to lay down the lines of condemnation for the new sewer without a general survey of the whole place.

I would, therefore, in view of the facts stated, respectfully ask that measures be adopted tending to the resurveying of the lines of the streets and avenues, and that proper stones be planted at each angle of the different squares, the want of which has already been referred to.

In consequence of suits arising, growing out of troubles of one nature or another that are or may be committed near the boundary line of this District, and which becomes a matter of consideration as to jurisdiction, I would recommend that the said lines be run and stones planted at every quarter of a mile, so that the United States marshal and the police of the District may know the limits of their jurisdiction.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. FORSYTH,

Also, tabular statements of property owned by District of Columbia, together with wharves in Georgetown and Washington, so far as I have been enabled to determine.

The record of property owned by the District has been irregularly kept heretofore, and it has been very difficult to obtain as full information as could be desired.

A property-book, with your approval, has been provided, carefully detailed for statements, a counterpart of tabular statements herewith transmitted, together with sheets for plotting of land owned by the District of Columbia, and the outlines of buildings thereon. The large amount of time required to obtain the necessary information and data for this book has necessarily delayed its completion. It is now in the hands of Mr. William Forsyth, who is engaged in plotting the outlines of the land in city and county, and which we hope at an early day to deposit in the office of the engineer of the District of Columbia.

The tabular statement for repairs on buildings, for the year, shows those only which have been made under your direction, it having been impossible for the inspector to obtain correct data for the repairs made by other departments of the government. Repairs amounting to $44,-873.79 have been made by your orders under my supervision.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

There is now in the course of erection the "Berret school-building," giving additional six-room accommodation for the second school-district, and owned by the District. To this department of the government I especially invite your attention.

Of the one hundred and eighty-one rooms occupied for school purposes in Washington and Georgetown for white pupils, sixty-four are rented rooms, very many of which, though paying in many instances exorbitant rentals, are totally unfit in every respect for such use.

Of the one hundred and eight rooms occupied for colored schools, nine are rented rooms; all, or nearly all, entirely unfit for the purpose for which they are used.

For these rented rooms, for white and colored, the extraordinary sum of $20,635 per annum is paid for rentals, being $282.67 per room. Add to this sum the amount annually expended to keep these dilapidated buildings in repair, and which amounts to about $3,000; the total at 8 per cent. per annum would give a capital sum of $295,000, which would furnish ten buildings equal to the Berret school, or ninety rooms, being an excess over present accommodation (including the Berret school) of twenty-three rooms. This sum should be provided the coming year; also, a further sum for repairs to school-buildings owned by the District of $9,000.

In my opinion additional legislation should be had, so far as school-funds are concerned, that the law setting apart a certain percentage of the fund for either white or colored schools should be repealed, and that the wants of each should be supplied from the common fund as their necessities may demand. Upon this subject very much might be said. It is evident that it is the duty of the District government to provide the necessary buildings for the education of the rising generation, without regard to race or color. In the county this plan has been in operation for years, and, I believe, works satisfactorily to all.

The county schools under your direction have been very generally repaired, including the painting of the exterior of the buildings, at a cost of $1,716.50.

One room has been added to the colored-school building at Benning's bridge, at a cost of $967.63.

Additional school-buildings are required as follows: A two-story brick building at Mount Pleasant, and a four-room brick building in the vicinity of Tenallytown; this recommendation was made in my report last year. These two sections of the county are rapidly increasing in population, and have many children who are without school accommodations.

During the ensuing year it will be requisite that the fencing around the several lots should be replaced; in most cases they have been destroyed. The property-book in course of preparation will contain plots or diagrams of land owned in the county. In many cases the metes and bounds are uncertain, and I recommend that the surveyor be directed, preparatory to setting new fencing, to run the lines of said lots.

MARKETS.

The erection of the Western market, commenced in 1873 under the board of public works, and suspended, has been resumed, and it is expected that, by the middle of January, 1876, this improvement, so long needed in this fast-growing section of the city, will be completed, and witness the removal of the unsightly sheds now located upon the sidewalks.

The Northern Liberty market, fronting on Seventh, O, and P streets, northwest, was commenced in 1873 by the market-house commission appointed by both branches of the late legislative assembly, and still remains suspended, much to the inconvenience of this rapidly-developing portion of the city. Upon the purchase of this square by the District government for market-house purposes, there were erected upon this site temporary sheds, which, though intended but for a short season, still remain, and dealers are compelled to occupy them. Under your direction new felt roofs have been laid on, which will temporarily shield from the storm dealers and citizens; the whole being a mere apology for a market-house. Notwithstanding these disadvantages, through the efficiency in part of Mr. J. A. Stevenson, the market-master, and the necessities of the rapidly-increasing population of this section, it has become a wonderfully flourishing market. From these facts it is apparent the contemplated market-building must be erected, and I recommend that such arrangements be made at the earliest practicable moment.

It is true that some opposition has been made to the erection of this market; but, in my opinion, if careful inquiries be made, it will be found that it arises from private interests, or the interests of corporation markets.

The Northeastern market, located on H street, between Second and Third streets northeast, is built upon leased ground. Although at present but a limited business is done, yet it is destined at no distant day, judging from the improvements made in this section of the city during the past year, to become a flourishing and paying market, and I recommend that the conditions of the lease, resulting in the purchase of the land, be consummated, and secure to the District a market with abundant ingress and egress, leaving sufficient and well-located sites for engine and station houses, as was originally contemplated.

The Georgetown market is located upon Bridge street, and extends to the north side of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. I recommend that 40 feet of said market-house (now occupied as a fish-market) be cut off and added to the street, and that sheds be erected upon the bank of the canal for a fish-market. This would be a decided improvement to this market, giving additional stalls for general market purposes in the building, and also provide a turning-space for wagons around the market-house. I further recommend that the hall over the market be thoroughly repaired and put in a condition to fit it for renting to societies and others.

HAY-SCALES.

The hay-scales, six in number, under your direction were sold July 16, for cash, aggregating $780, which sum was turned over to the treasurer of the District.

The scale in Georgetown is worn so that its accuracy is impaired, and it should be replaced by a new one, at a cost of $210, which I recommend.

WEIGHERS AND MEASURERS.

Some dissatisfaction having been expressed as to the manner in which the duties of sealers of weights and measures, weighers, measurers of wood, and counters of lumber have been conducted, and in the proper performance of whose duties the people are so largely interested, I would suggest at as early a date as practicable a thorough re-organization of these departments of the government.

STATION-HOUSES.

The necessity for additional station-houses is apparent from the fact that no additional accommodation has been provided for this department of the government for many years, while the population has increased, and improvements have extended on every side. From these facts, without comment, it is apparent that additional accommodations must be provided.

The station-house on Tenth street northwest, recently leased, to take the place of the central guard-house, is susceptible of being enlarged at little expense to meet the requirements of this precinct for many years to come, and I recommend its purchase under the terms of the lease, as also the station-house similarly leased on Massachusetts avenue northwest. I further recommend the erection of a station-house on the lots adjoining the Northeastern market; also, the purchase of a site and erection of a station-house in the first precinct in the southwestern portion of the city.

It is evident that additional precincts will be required. In that event a station-house in the northwestern portion of the city will be needed.

The only station-house for the accommodation of the county or mounted police being located on the Seventh-street road north of Boundary street, (recently leased by the government,) and the territory patrolled by them being many miles remote, extending from Uniontown to Tenallytown, it is evident that additional accommodations are required and should be provided, and I recommend that a small building be erected, with the necessary police accommodations, in Uniontown, and also one at Brightwood, where prisoners can be detained when necessary. To accomplish this end I recommend the sale of the central guard-house on Louisiana avenue; also, the site recently occupied by the sixth precinct on Ninth and New York avenue; also, the lot on C street near Four-and-a-half street northwest, and the old town-hall in Georgetown, which, in my opinion, would realize a sufficient sum to meet the above demands.

ENGINE-HOUSES.

To keep pace with the improvements of the city it is important that this arm of the government should be augmented by the addition of at least two engine-houses; one in the northeastern and one in the northwestern portion of the city.

Should the conditions of the lease of the Northeastern market be complied with, as already intimated, this would provide a site at the corner of Third and H streets northeast. The other should be located in the northwestern portion of the city. To aid in this improvement, I recommend the sale of a lot on Eighth street southeast, purchased some years ago for an engine-house, but found illy suited for the purpose. Also, the site of the powder-magazine on Georgetown Heights, comprising about one-half acre of land, with magazine-buildings thereon.

I do not wish to be understood as dictating the location of these additional accommodations by these recommendations, but expect the details to be indicated by the various departments having charge thereof.

The estimates for annual repairs will be found in detail in the tabular statements under their respective heads, and aggregate $22,660.

BUILDING FOR DISTRICT OFFICES, POLICE COURT, POLICE HEAD-QUARTERS, ETC.

The necessity of providing a building for these purposes is apparent from the fact that the buildings at present occupied are temporary, and the one occupied by the police court entirely unfit for the purpose, having been condemned by the board of health; and in any event a more suitable building must be supplied at an early day. Estimates have been prepared for the erection of a building for a police court upon a site owned by the city, and I believe it would be for the best interests of the government to cause this building to be erected.

I have taken considerable pains to estimate the cost of a suitable building for city offices, and which will be found in the statement of estimates for public buildings.

The amounts required to furnish suitable buildings and sites for the various departments of the government aggregate $797,300, (but from this can be deducted $65,700, the estimated value of lots and improvements thereon recommended for sale,) which may appear startling, but when you take into consideration the little attention that has been paid (with a few exceptions) during the last eight years to the erection of new and suitable buildings, it diminishes the magnitude considerably. The energy of the government has been put forth in extending our streets and avenues, and in beautifying the same, by the expenditure of millions, and which has had the co-operation and met the approval of a very large majority of our citizens, as well as of the country at large; and I ask for your careful and favorable consideration and co-operation in bringing up this important department of the government to its proper standard.

Another argument why those buildings should be erected is, that it is the duty of the government to keep pace with the citizens in the improvement of the city, by a proper and judicious expenditure of money.

By reference to the tabular statement of permits issued for the erection of buildings by private enterprise, 1,744 in number, and aggregating in value nearly $1,000,000, compiled from data entirely reliable, the improvements, distributed equally over the length and breadth of our city, will be found a strong evidence of their unity on the subject of improvements.

WHARVES AND DOCKS.

By reference to the tabular statement it will be seen that the condition of the wharves in Georgetown, with but few exceptions, remains the same as last year, as reported by Mr. William Forsyth, surveyor.

From this report, as well as from personal observation, it is apparent that portions of the street are occupied, and have been for years, by private parties without authority, or the government being benefited thereby. It would appear that the acts of the late councils of Georgetown, in declaring the foot of streets be set apart for the public use, have been misconstrued, at least so by practice, whereon private parties have erected buildings or sheds for their own use. By reference to tabular statement and remarks thereon, it would appear that the foot of these streets have been leased, by what authority I know not, which leases have expired, but possession is still held by the lessees or their successors. It appears that a large area of land upon the Georgetown side of Rock Creek has been filled in or reclaimed, and is said to belong to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company. In view of the encroachments upon streets on the river-front in Georgetown, and the uncertainty of metes and bounds of lands or lots, the title of which I believe to be in the District government, authority should be given to Mr. William Forsyth to run out the lines and determine them. This having been done, the buildings and sheds found encroaching upon said streets should be removed.

During the past year the Seventeenth-street wharf has been repossessed by the government, and the arrearages of rent paid into the District treasury, I believe.

The value of our water-line around the city has yearly grown into notice and importance; its commerce has grown and its property-value largely increased; new lines of steamers are being organized for local and distant traffic; and the time is not far distant when the whole river-front will be needed for the increasing demands of trade. That portion of the river-front from the mouth of Rock Creek to the arsenal, and from the east side of the arsenal-grounds, or the mouth of the newly-cut James Creek Canal, to the navy-yard, is invaluable to the future commercial and manufacturing interests of our city; and, when disputed rights shall have been determined by the courts, improvements of a permanent character will be made, and witness the removal of the unsightly wharves and sheds of the present.

GENERAL BUILDING-INTERESTS OF THE CITY.

By reference to my last report, it will be seen that there were issued, from November, 1873, to July 14, 1874, 407 permits, and from July 15 to November 15, 1874, permits for 295 brick buildings and 151 frame buildings, and repairs, making a total of 446, or 853 permits issued for the year 1874.

This year the number of permits issued (1,744) is more than double in number those of last year. This may be accounted for in part by assuming that many buildings were erected without permits prior to the present year; but it is evident that several hundred buildings have been erected in the past year in excess of any year previous.

The estimate of cost ($3,655,500) is based upon data entirely reliable.

These improvements have been distributed almost equally over the entire length and breadth of the city. The western and northwestern sections have kept pace in improvements with their usual activity, while in the eastern and northeastern portions there have been erected a greater number of buildings than in any previous year in the history of the city, an unmistakable evidence of prosperity and the confidence of our citizens in the government, and their indorsement of the improvements that have been made in extending streets and avenues and beautifying the same.

The prospect for the coming year, from the best information I can obtain, bids fair to excel the past. This may be attributed to the fact that prices of material are low and labor abundant at reduced prices; in each approximating to a solid basis and certainty, as to insure a reduction in cost over previous years of from 15 to 20 per cent.

Another fact that may be considered as having a salutary influence on building enterprise, is the easy and pleasant access to the more remote portions of the city by the horse-railroads.

That buildings, heretofore the homes of two or more families thrown together in unhealthy and ill-ventilated rooms, are being rapidly converted into business places, and their occupants enabled to obtain comfortable houses with all the comforts of home at figures within their means, are facts not realized but to a limited extent.

It is apparent that it becomes the duty of the government to procure enactments and adopt regulations of a liberal character to facilitate and give encouragement to private building interests. To accomplish this the honorable Commissioners have appointed a commission to examine and recommend such regulations as they may think the best to regulate the construction of buildings in the District.

The existing building regulations, though very deficient in many respects, have been very generally complied with by a large majority of our builders and citizens, and to them your inspector is indebted in the decided improvement in the construction of buildings during the past year; for it is an indisputable fact that the style and mechanical construction of our buildings have wonderfully improved during the past year, and in this respect we are rivaling our sister cities.

Any changes in the regulations should be given to our citizens at least three months prior to the commencement of the building-season, or say, April 1, 1876.

The experience of the past year has evinced the fact that the fire-limits should be extended so as to include the whole of the cities of Washington and Georgetown. There will be, doubtless, arguments both for and against this proposition.

It is a fact that the frame, or so-called frame, buildings for which permits have been issued in localities permitted by the regulations, can scarcely be considered frame dwellings, but are simply inclosed sheds, in very many cases so poorly constructed as to answer the purpose of shelter but for a short time; and money expended in this direction is simply thrown away. In these poorly-constructed tenements the laboring man defeats the object he has in view, that of providing a home for himself and family, or investing the savings of years. It is a fact that cannot be controverted, that wherever frame buildings of the class indicated are erected, the value of the property adjoining the same, and sometimes the whole square, deteriorates in value from 5 to 20 per cent.

Should this character of buildings be prohibited by law, with the comparative cheapness of bricks and mortar, we would find neat and comfortable tenements of limited proportions arise in their stead, for this class of buildings can be constructed at a very small percentage over the cost of frame.

This leads us to notice the responsibility and mechanical ability of persons applying for permits for the erection and construction of buildings. In other departments of the government permits are issued only to skilled mechanics, while no safeguards of this character are thrown around the erection of buildings, wherein necessarily the lives of our citizens are jeopardized or secure by secure or insecure construction. This is a matter in which our citizens one and all are deeply interested, and our government to some extent responsible for its practice: and I respectfully call the attention of the committee appointed for the revision of the building regulations to this important matter.

During the past year the duties of the inspector have been arduous, difficult, and uncertain; while this is true, it has been my endeavor to discharge my duty with fidelity to the government and impartiality to our citizens. How far I have succeeded is best known to my superiors; and to you I am indebted for counsel and assistance on all occasions.

To properly administer the regulations and conduct the business of the office of the inspector, there will be required for the ensuing year two assistant inspectors of buildings, and one inspector of boilers, furnaces, ranges, &c., his duty to supervise the setting up of all character of fire-works; also, a permit-clerk. I further respectfully recommend that the office of the inspector be an office of record.

Respectfully submitted.

K 4.—APPENDIX D.—REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PROPERTY.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, November 30, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith the annual report of the superintendent of property, showing the amount of material and supplies received, issued, and remaining on hand for the year ending November 30, 1875, as follows, viz: Total on hand, received, and to be accounted for, $456,394.10; issued, $315,282.04; balance on hand, $141,112.06; to this should be added $73,576.41, the value of old material received throughout the city, and made available on the work whenever the character of improvements would admit. The general order of the engineer, promulgated when the present District government organized, holding the contractors directly and pecuniarily responsible for old material during the progress and until the completion of their work, has had a most salutary effect, resulting in greater economy in handling and the disposition of this class of material than was formerly enforced. Much embarrassment has been encountered, however, by property-holders and tenants appropriating to private uses material on the streets which has been required for public work, under the mistaken opinion that their property having at some distant day paid an assessment for special improvements, they thereby acquired title to material used in these improvements, and, having acquired title, they were at liberty to dispose of it the same as private property. I am aware that this opinion is entertained by some prominent men, and it may involve delicate legal points; but it is a question which should be effectually disposed of, as it causes trouble with people who, either through ignorance or malice, or both, dispose of the old material, much to the annoyance of contractors and increased expense to the District. The order of the engineer referred to requires that all material found upon any line of work shall, if suitable, be made available and used on the work, and this order has been rigidly enforced in every instance.

Your attention is respectfully invited to the fact that a much greater amount of construction-material has been handled this year than last, notwithstanding the clerical force was reduced about one-half when the Commissioners assumed charge of the District government, and the expenses of the office further reduced by consolidating five property-yards into two. To receive and issue this large amount of material, employes have, of necessity, been on duty during regular working-hours instead of the usual office hours, and with the limited clerical force it has required the closest application to business to dispose of current work. Besides this, the purchase of supplies for the various branches of the District government, which has been added to the duties of the office within the past year, imposes increased labor, involving the duties of quartermaster, commissary, and purveyor. Thus far the work has been performed without increasing the force, but efficiency and promptness in transacting the business of the office, with its various details, requires additional help, and I respectfully ask the appointment of at least one good accountant to facilitate business.

It is gratifying to report in this connection that the employes have met their arduous duties faithfully and efficiently, uniformly working extra hours.

In conclusion, permit me to thank you, sir, for the uniform kindness and consideration you have extended to me in our official relations.

Yours, respectfully,

E. B. TOWNSEND,
Superintendent of Property.

K 6.—APPENDIX F.—REPORT OF OVERSEER OF GAS AND LAMPS.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
Washington, December 1, 1875.

SIR: I herewith submit my report of work done and expenditures incurred from December 1, 1874, to December 1, 1875, as shown by the certified bills of this office, giving a total of $146,692.67.

The law regulating the lighting of the street-lamps of Washington, I am enabled to say, has been fully carried out during the past year by the Washington Gas-Light Company. The law regulating the number of hours (which is under the control of this office) has been strictly complied with, as the lamps burned twenty-two hundred hours and ten minutes.

I would also state that the Washington and Georgetown Gas Companies have both cheerfully complied with all requests from you for the extension of their mains for the erection of street lamps.

During the past year 249 lamps have been erected, and they only on streets where it was actually necessary for the safety of persons and property.

There have been erected by the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, on streets bordering on Government reservations, 36 street-lamps, which have been turned over to this office, and are now being lighted by the city.

I would respectfully recommend that no more lamps be erected, except on streets which have been or are now under improvement, as it is not only a waste of service-pipe, but incurs an additional expense of moving the post when the new curb is set. I would also call your attention to the bad effect of granting permits allowing parties to place transparencies and private lamps on the public posts, which not only causes great inconvenience in lighting them, but often results in breaking them.

I would also call your attention to the monthly increase in the gas-bills of this city, caused by the steady increase in the number of lamps, and which will continue for some years to come, as there are large portions of this city entirely destitute of light; and as some steps should be taken to economize the consumption of gas, I would again respectfully call your attention to the large number of Government lamps which the city is lighting, and which the attention of Congress should be called to in their appropriations for this District.

In Georgetown the lamps have been extended on Water street to the Aqueduct bridge, which is a great protection to a large amount of property stored along the wharves on that street. Washington street has been lighted from Bridge street to Water street, Mill street from West to Stoddard street, and on Bridge street the lamps have been reset and extended to the Aqueduct bridge. The posts used in the lighting of this street were old posts abandoned by the General Government and left standing on the streets.

K 7.—APPENDIX G.—REPORT OF THE PARKING COMMISSION.

SIR: We have the honor to submit the following report relative to the operations of this commission for the past year:

During the year ending the 31st of October, 1875, five thousand three hundred and eighty-three trees have been planted on the streets and avenues of this city; two hundred and twenty large decayed or otherwise useless trees have been taken out and débris removed, and fifty-eight trees have been removed from positions and transplanted to new grades.

The trees in the reserve-nursery grounds number over one hundred thousand, in various stages of developement, several thousand being available for immediate planting on the streets, and all of them rapidly attaining sufficient size for that purpose.

The spring-planted trees were greatly retarded in their growth on account of the protracted dry weather that prevailed during the early portion of summer, but, by constant attention to watering and mulching, very few losses occurred, and the rains that followed encouraged a growth which has been notably luxuriant in all the older trees as well as in those of the latest planting.

The removal of decayed trees, together with the pruning, boxing, and securing of the many thousands that have been set out during the past three years, occupies and absorbs a large portion of the labor and means appropriated for the purposes of this commission.

These duties, however, are indispensably necessary, especially in regard to young trees; but at no period of their existence can city trees be left utterly neglected, if the best results are to be realized.

RUNAWAY HORSES.

The damages done to trees and tree-boxes by runaway horses during the past year have been unusually great. Accidents of this kind are particularly aggravating from the knowledge that are so frequently the results of gross carelessness. It is to be presumed that no one who has a due regard for the public weal would endanger life (either animal or vegetable) by trusting even the most amiable quadruped in a crowded city wholly unprotected; and yet from such careless acts accidents are of frequent occurrence. The want of facilities for securing horses undoubtedly tends to increase the number of these accidents, and it may not be out of place to repeat a suggestion heretofore made, that suitably-sized rings be fastened to the curbstones for this purpose. These would not be conspicuous, would not interfere with the rights of pedestrians, nor in any other way be objectionable, while they would be greatly conducive to public convenience and safety.

DRAINAGE.

Notwithstanding all the care that may have been exercised in the selection of trees, in the removal of poor soil and its replacement by an ample supply of suitable material for plant-growth, in the planting, pruning, and watering, there is still a fundamental evil that will constantly retard healthy growth, and which is not in the power of this commission to remedy; that is, the drainage of the soil in which the trees are planted.

It does not seem to be generally recognized that a city may be very perfect and complete in its sewerage arrangements, and yet be imperfectly drained. Although it is a popular impression that sewerage and drainage are almost of synonymous meaning, yet they are more nearly the antipodes of each other. A sewer is a close, joint-cemented channel for conveying water or sewage from one point to another; whereas a drain is an open-jointed series of short tubes or pipes, capable of receiving the surplus percolations from rains or from surface irrigations. Tree-holes excavated in a clay subsoil, without drainage, are simply receptacles for the retention of water and exclusion of air; and although the trees thus placed may appear to flourish for a year or two, while the roots are confined to the drier surface, yet they will inevitably suffer when the roots reach a stratum subject to constant saturation during winter, when vegetation is least active. Some of the earlier-planted trees already indicate diminished vigor from this cause.

This city presents unusual facilities for a perfect drainage system; the parked space between the building-line and sidewalk could readily be made available for this purpose.

A common tile-drain, laid about three feet in depth, run in the center of this space, parallel with the street, would not only benefit vegetation, but, what is of vastly more importance, would benefit the health of the inhabitants. Surface-drainage and surface-ventilation are the primary conditions toward a healthy city; all others are secondary to these.

With a perfect system of surface-drainage secured, this city might well claim a greater degree of perfection in parking and planting than any other on this continent. In the disposition and position of trees it cannot be excelled anywhere.

When trees are so close to dwelling-houses as to overshadow them for the greater portion of the day, so that the direct rays of the sun cannot reach the building, they become an evil, and oftentimes a very serious one, rendering dwellings unhealthy, while the cause of injury is not recognized.

The narrowing of the streets, and consequent projection of the sidewalks to a greater distance from the buildings, is certainly one of the most valuable incidental advantages of recent improvements. This arrangement secures all the valuable sanitary effects of trees in cities, and affords shady promenades without an excess of shade on dwellings. The constant evaporation from the foliage of trees has a decided cooling effect upon the immediate surrounding space, thus imparting a balmy influence to an atmosphere rendered arid by contact with heated surfaces of stone and brick, and, independent of these sanitary effects, their decorative beauty is nowhere so conspicuous or so impressive as when contrasted with the hard, monotonous lines of city architecture.

The disposition to retain some of the older trees has interfered to some extent with the completeness of these improvements, a circumstance which will always be a source of regret, as it prevents uniformity of feature, a point of first importance in lines of trees in cities.

Washington will in future be known as the "City among Trees;" and with the alteration of a word we may adopt the proverbial expression of the Italians, "See Naples and die."

Respectfully submitted.

K 8.—APPENDIX E.—REPORT OF THE OVERSEER OF REPAIRS.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, November 30, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to submit my report of the operations of this office from December 1, 1874, to November 30, 1875, inclusive.

The mechanics and laborers under me have been employed in the repairs of avenues, streets, alleys, sewers, sewer-traps, pumps, and the making of new roads, bridges, and culverts, and the repairs of the same, in the county of Washington, and the cleaning of sewers and sewer-traps.

Two gangs of men are kept steady at work cleaning sewers and sewer-traps. The large expenditures for this branch are on the large or main brick sewers. The following is a statement of the amount of material removed from the B street intercepting sewer between Seventh and Seventeenth streets, northwest: 2,655 cart-loads of sand and mud, 10,000 brick and 40 loads of stone. Many of the main sewers are in a like condition, and I respectfully recommend an increase of the force for this work. Five men, with two carts, clean the traps of Washington and Georgetown once every sixty days, or about five times a year.

The repairs and making of new pumps, digging and deepening wells, have been done this year by days' work, under my supervision; and I call your special attention to the saving from the amount paid out under contract for this work last year of $4,984.97. Many new pumps were required, as the contractors for several years past kept the old ones in working order by continual temporary repairs. The inside work of nearly every pump had to be removed.

Gangs of men with carts are continually employed in making repairs of streets and alleys, sewers and sewer-traps, in Washington and Georgetown, and in cleaning gutters.

The chain-gang has again proved itself a success, and should be increased in the spring for the repairs of county roads.

Extensive repairs have been made in the county this year, caused by the unprecedented rain-storms. Many of the roads were made impassable by the great storms of July and August. In some cases the entire road-beds were washed out, and bridges and culverts carried away, among the number being the large bridge over Rock Creek, on the Woodby Lane road; but, by steady work, the roads are again in good order. Some of the roads are yet in need of repairs, but owing to the lateness of the season it was thought best to reduce the force employed upon this work until spring.

Very few repairs have been made on the wood pavements, owing to their dilapidated condition, and then only in cases where it was absolutely necessary to prevent accidents.

The cleaning of streets, by the contractor for that work, is well done, and helps in a great manner to keep the sewers and sewer-traps in working-order.

I have the honor to again call your attention to the practice existing here of allowing store-keepers and others to sweep the litter from their stores into the streets, as well as open boxes, barrels, and crates on the sidewalks, which is extremely disagreeable to pedestrians, and very much mars the appearance of the streets and avenues.

I would respectfully recommend that the police be requested to use stringent measures to prevent the throwing of ashes loose in the alleys, as many of the sewer-traps are rendered useless by this practice, besides making it impossible to keep the alleys in a good sanitary condition. If a few examples were made, I have no doubt this practice would soon cease.

In conclusion, permit me to call your attention to the annexed detailed statement of the work done during the year under my supervision.

Very respectfully,

CHAS. W. CUNNINGHAM,
Overseer of Repairs, &c.

K 9.—APPENDIX L.—REPORT OF THE CHIEF CLERK.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, November 30, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of work done by the clerical force of this office since my last report dated one year ago:

Total number of communications received, briefed and recorded, 12, 217.
Upon these there have been 17,420 indorsements, and the same number of reports.
Number of letters written ..... 7,557
Number of histories of contracts prepared ..... 87
Number of copies of contracts prepared ..... 200
Number of permits (gas, sewer, water, and miscellaneous) issued. 3,034

A comparison of these figures with those presented in my last report will show the large increase of clerical business. With this increase of work there has been no addition to the office-force; and the fact that the work has been kept up, proves the fidelity and efficiency of the clerks under me.

Very respectfully,

FRANKLIN T. HOWE,
Chief Clerk.

Lieut. R. L. HOXIE, U. S. A.,
Engineer of District Columbia.

REPORT OF THE WATER-REGISTRAR.

Washington, D. C., November 15, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: In accordance with the following order, "Ordered, That the water-registrar be requested to prepare and submit to the Commissioners, on or before the 15th proximo, a proper system for water-taxation," I have the honor to state that the amended act of Congress, approved March 3, 1863, by which the late corporation of Washington was authorized to "levy and collect a water-tax on all real property within the corporate limits of the city of Washington, which binds on or touches on any avenue, street, or alley in which a main water-pipe has been laid or may hereafter be laid by the United States or by the corporation of Washington, which water-tax shall be as nearly as possible equal and uniform, may be levied on lots in proportion to their frontage or their area, as the said corporation may determine, and may be collected in not less than three nor more than five annual installments, of which installments all after the first shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum, commencing from the date at which the first installment becomes due, but may, at the option of the owner of the property taxed, be paid and discharged in full, at any time after the same shall have been levied, which water-tax shall be as nearly as possible equal and uniform."

By virtue of the above the late corporation of Washington passed the following act:

SEC. 44. To enable the water-board to defray the expense of laying the water-mains as authorized in the preceding section of this act, there be, and is hereby, levied a water-tax of seven-eighths of a cent per square foot on every lot or part of a lot which binds on or touches on any avenue, street, or alley in which a main water-pipe has been laid or hereafter may be laid by the United States or by this corporation, which tax shall be collected by the water-registrar under direction of the water-board in five annual installments to be collected on the first of July succeeding the levying of said tax, and on the first of each succeeding July until the whole amount of tax so levied shall be paid: of which installments all after the first shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, commencing from the date at which the first installment becomes due, but may, at the option of the owner of the property taxed, be paid and discharged in full at any time after the tax shall have been levied: Provided, That the first of said five annual installments shall be due and payable on a day to be fixed by the water-board after the same shall have been assessed by the water-registrar under direction of the water-board, on the lots and parts of lots respectively chargeable therewith, of which notice shall be given by the water-registrar by publication in some newspaper published in the city of Washington, setting forth the number of the square in which the property on which the tax due is situated, and the street or avenue on which it fronts, which notice shall be published three times a week for three successive weeks, and the water-board is authorized and directed to allow an abatement of six per cent. upon the taxes levied, when the same shall be paid in full within thirty days from the time notice is given of the levying of said tax; and not more than one tax shall be levied upon the same lot.

AN ACT to authorize the corporation of Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, to lay and collect a water-tax, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the mayor, recorder, aldermen, and common council of Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, shall have full power and authority to levy and collect a tax not exceeding sixty cents per front foot on all lots and parts of lots within said corporate limits in front of or parallel to which water-mains have been or may hereafter be laid; or, in their discretion, to appropriate from the corporate funds generally so much money as may be necessary to supply the inhabitants of said town with Potomac water from the aqueduct, mains, or pipes now laid or to be laid in the streets of said town by the United States; and to make all laws and regulations for the proper distribution of the same, subject to the restrictions prescribed by this act, and the act approved March 3, 1859, and entitled "An act to provide for the care and preservation of the works constructed by the United States for bringing the Potomac water into the cities of Washington and Georgetown, for the supply of said water for all Government purposes and for the uses and benefit of the inhabitants of said cities."

Sec. 2. And be it further ordained, That the mayor be, and is hereby, authorized, whenever and as the same may be needed in the prosecution of the work, to issue the stock of this corporation, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and redeemable at the pleasure of this corporation within ten years, in such sums as may be required, provided the whole amount shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars, for the purpose of introducing water through the city.

Sec. 3. And be it further ordained, That, to enable this corporation to redeem said stock and pay the interest thereon, and to pay other expenses attending the introduction and maintenance of the water-establishment, there be, and is hereby, levied a water-tax of sixty cents per foot on every front foot, on each side of every street, lane, or alley through which the water-mains have been or may be laid hereafter, and that said tax shall be collected by the collector of this corporation under the laws already passed for the collection of the general tax of this town, as follows: One-fourth annually, commencing the 1st day of July, 1859, viz: He shall collect fifteen cents of the above tax in that year, fifteen cents in the year 1860, fifteen cents in the year 1861, and fifteen cents in the year 1862, and he shall pay over to the clerk of this corporation such sums as he collects, retaining 3 per cent. as his compensation for collecting the same; and the clerk shall place said funds, as he receives them, to the credit of the water-fund, and the same are hereby pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of all the stock that shall or may be issued under authority of this ordinance.

The late legislative assembly of the District of Columbia passed the following act, approved June 23, 1873, under which all assessments for laying water-mains are now made :

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That hereafter, in order to defray the expense of laying water-mains and the erection of fire-plugs, there be, and is hereby, levied a special tax of one and a quarter cents per square foot on every lot and part of lot which binds on or touches on any avenue, street, or alley in which a main water-pipe may hereafter be laid and fire-plugs erected, which tax shall be assessed by the water-registrar within thirty days after such water-mains and fire-plugs shall have been laid and erected, of which assessment the water-registrar shall immediately notify the owner or agent of the property chargeable therewith, setting forth in said notice the number of the square in which is situated the property on which said tax is assessed, and the street, avenue, or alley on which it fronts; and the said tax shall be due and payable in four equal installments, the first of which shall be payable in thirty days from the date of the notice, and the other three shall be due and payable annually, one in each year, dating from the time when the first installment became due, and all of the said installments shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, commencing from the date of the notification of the assessment; but the owner of the property taxed may at his option at any time after the assessment pay the same in full, and if the said tax shall be paid in full within thirty days from the time notice was given of the laying thereof, an abatement of 6 per cent. shall be allowed on the whole amount of the assessment, and in no case shall the same lot be chargeable with more than one tax for the laying of water-mains and the erection of fire-plugs.

The foregoing extracts from the laws of Congress, late corporations of Washington and Georgetown, and legislature of the District of Columbia, are all that have direct reference to the subject of assessing property for the laying of water-mains.

There is no doubt in my mind but that the system of taxing property for the laying of water-mains by the square foot is the correct one; for the reason that while a front-foot tax may be as nearly as possible equal and uniform, the square-foot tax is equal and uniform; yet owing to the fact that in laying water-mains across streets, avenues, or alleys, along church property, and in front of public property, for which the government receives no remuneration, deficiencies often exist between the actual cost of the work and the assessment made for the same. I will illustrate: This past season a number of streets were assessed for the laying of water-mains and erection of fire-plugs. The assessment amounted to $16,749.40, while the actual cost of the work and material amounted to $23,600.44, leaving a deficiency of $6,851.04. To overcome this, and other deficiencies in the future, I recommend:

First. That the present law be so amended as to make the said tax due and payable in two equal installments instead of four, the first payable within thirty days from date of assessment without interest, the other be due and payable one year thereafter, and with interest at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum from the date of assessment. If the first installment be not paid within thirty days from the date of assessment, then all shall bear interest at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, said rate of interest to commence from the date of assessment.

Second. That where mains cross streets, avenues, alleys, or public reservations, the actual cost of the same be paid by the District government out of the general fund.

Third. That the law exempting church and charitable property from taxation for the laying of water-mains be repealed.

Fourth. That no water shall be turned on, or water-mains tapped, for the use of any property one year in arrears for assessment made for laying of water-main.

The interest named, 10 per cent., is greater than has heretofore been levied for the non-payment of taxes for the laying of water-mains, but it should be borne in mind that the assessment is simply to re-imburse the government for moneys actually expended for work and material; and that water-mains are only laid on petition of property-owners, for their benefit; and the assessments in the majority of cases are small; for instance, the tax on a lot  $25 \times 100$  feet = 2,500 square feet, amounts to \$31.25.

WATER-RENTS.

The following section of act of Congress approved March 3, 1859 refers to annual water-rates, viz:

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the said corporations shall have authority by ordinance, act, or otherwise, to establish a scale of annual rates for the supply and use of said water, apportioned to different classes of buildings in said cities, according to their size, dimensions, assessed values, exposure to fires, uses for dwellings, stores, shops, stables, manufactories, or other purposes, number of occupants, or consumption of water, measured by meter or otherwise, and to modify, alter, amend, increase or reduce such scale from time to time, and to extend it to other descriptions of buildings and establishments; to collect such rates or rents when so fixed, in advance or otherwise, through such agents or commissioners as they may authorize, from the owners or occupants of all such buildings or establishments respectively, who may use the water therein; to stop the supply of water to any such dwelling or establishment upon a failure to pay any such rate, charge, or rent; and generally to enact such laws as may be necessary to supply the inhabitants of said city of Washington with pure and wholesome water, and to carry into full and complete effect the powers herein granted: Provided, That the rates levied by the cities of Georgetown and Washington shall never be a source of revenue, other than a means of keeping up to the said cities a supply of water.

The ordinance of the late corporation of Washington, passed in April, 1861, based on the above act of Congress, is as follows, viz:

SEC. 22. The annual rents to be collected by the water-department shall be as follows, to wit: On all tenements two stories in height, having a front width of sixteen feet and under, the sum of three dollars, and for each additional front foot twenty five cents, and for each additional story one dollar per story.

SEC. 23. The extra and miscellaneous water-rents shall be in addition to the regular annual water-rates on the houses when occupied as dwellings, as follows, to wit:

Bakeries: For the average daily use of flour, for each barrel the sum of one dollar per annum.

Bathing-tubs: In all public bathing-establishments and barber-shops, three dollars per annum each.

Fountains: For the first jet one-eighth of an inch, three dollars; for each additional jet of one-eighth, one dollar; for the first jet of one-fourth of an inch, five dollars; for each additional jet of one-fourth, two dollars; for the first jet of three-eighths of an inch, ten dollars; for each additional jet of three-eighths, three dollars; for the first jet of one-half of an inch, fifteen dollars; for each additional jet of one-half of an inch, five dollars; but no fountain or jet shall be permitted on any premises where the water is taken for other purposes, and to an extent sufficient for these purposes.

Horses, (private,) including water for washing carriages: For each horse, one dollar.

Livery stables, including water for washing carriages: For each stall, twenty-five cents.

Horses, omnibuses, carts, drays, or other vehicles: For each horse, fifty cents.

Hotels and boarding-houses shall, in addition to the regular annual water-rate for private families, prescribed in the twenty-fourth section of this act, be charged for each bed-room for boarders or lodgers within the same, the sum of fifty cents.

Stationary steam-engines: For each horse-power, two dollars and fifty cents per annum.

Locomotive-engines, making not more than two trips per day, one hundred dollars each, per annum; if more than two trips per day, in the same proportion.

Refectories, eating-houses, club-houses, confectioneries, taverns, ordinaries, provision shops or stores, market and fish stalls, refreshment and oyster saloons, from five to twenty dollars per annum, to be fixed by the registrar.

Stores, shops, warehouses, offices, billiard-saloons, barber-shops, and apothecary-stores, from $3 to $15 per annum, to be fixed by the registrar.

All manufacturing and other business requiring a large supply of water are to be charged therefor at the rate of one cent per one hundred gallons, on the daily average estimated quantity during the year, the year to be computed at three hundred days.

All water required for purposes which are not specified in the foregoing tariff shall be paid for at such rate as may be fixed by the corporation.

The proprietors, or persons having charge of hotels, boarding-houses, and manufacturing establishments, may place within their respective premises, at their own expense, a sufficient and accurate water-meter, to be approved by the water-registrar, for the purpose of measuring the quantity of water used by them, respectively. And when, in any case, the quantity used shall be so ascertained the water-registrar shall establish a water-rate therefor, instead of the specific rate hereinbefore required to be paid.

The mayor may grant permission to such persons as he may deem proper, who will comply with all the conditions of this or any other ordinance of this corporation, to use the water from such of the fire-plug hydrants as may be designated by the inspector and tapper of water-mains; or if erected by the United States, then by the engineer in charge of the Potomac water-works, for the purpose of sprinkling any of the avenues, streets, or alleys, in this city; and no charge shall be made for the water so used.

PROPOSED WATER-RATES.

In lieu of the foregoing, I recommend the adoption of the following rates per annum for—

Private dwelling-houses.

Front width.	One story.	Two stories.	Three stories.	Four stories.	Five stories.
16 feet and under .....	$3 00	$4 00	$6 00	$7 00	$8 00
18 feet and over 16 feet .....	4 00	5 00	7 00	8 00	9 00
22 feet and over 20 feet .....	6 00	7 00	9 00	10 00	11 00
25 feet and over 22 feet .....	7 00	8 00	10 00	11 00	12 00
30 feet and over 25 feet .....	8 00	9 00	12 00	13 00	14 00
50 feet and over 37 feet .....	10 00	14 00	16 00	17 00	18 00

For the rentals named in the foregoing schedule there will be allowed to each house one bath-tub, one water-closet, one sink, two spigots, (hot and cold water in kitchen,) one wash-stand, and one street-washer. All additional fixtures to the above shall be charged extra per year, viz: For bath-tubs and water-closets, $1 each; wash-basins or sinks in pantries, closets, or rooms, 50 cents each; street-washers, $3; hydrant in yard, $3; but when there are no water-fixtures in the house, and the hydrant in the yard is the supply to the same, no extra charge shall be made over the foregoing rates.

Bakeries, from $5 to $25 per annum.

Bath-tubs in public establishments, $5 each per annum.

Barber-shops, from $6 to $25 per annum.

Boarding-houses shall, in addition to the regular annual rate for private families, be charged for each furnished bed-room for boarders or lodgers the sum of $1 per annum.

Buildings.—The following rates shall be charged for the use of Potomac water in buildings occupied for offices or by different tenants for business purposes, viz: For each office or tenement having a faucet, $3 per annum; and for each office or tenement not having water within the same, but taking it from faucets in common with other tenants, $1.50 annually. And in addition to these rates there shall be charged for each water-closet within the office or tenement $1 annually, and when the water-closet is located so as to be used in common, the charge for each office or tenement shall be 50 cents extra.

Building purposes.—Bricks per M, 7 cents; stone per perch, 3½ cents.

Fountains.—Fountains are to be supplied with water at the discretion of the water-department, and the charge shall be from $5 to $25 per annum, but no fountain shall be permitted on any premises where the water is not taken for other purposes, and to an extent sufficient for those purposes.

Hotels, eating-houses, club-houses, taverns, restaurants, bar-rooms, refreshment and oyster saloons, railroad-depots, locomotive-engines, wharves, breweries, livery-stables, dye-houses, all manufacturing and other establishments requiring a large supply of water, are to be charged therefor at the rate of — per 100 gallons per meter measurement, or at the rate of — per 100 gallons on the daily average estimated quantity during the year, the year to be computed at 300 days, the estimate to be made and fixed by the water-department.

Private stables from $3 to $10 per annum.

Stationary steam-engines shall be charged at the rate of $2.50 per horse-power per annum.

Stores, provision shops, market and fish stalls, schools, printing-offices, drug-stores, and confectioneries from $5 to $25 per annum, to be fixed by the water-department.

All water required for other purposes which are not specified in the foregoing tariff shall be estimated and paid for at such rates as may be fixed by the water-department.

In addition to the above rates I recommend that all buildings on the line of water mains into which the Potomac water has not been introduced shall pay an annual water-rent of from $2 to $8 per annum, which rate shall be levied with reference to the assessed value of the buildings: provided, however, that when the water is regularly introduced to the buildings or premises, this special rate shall be discontinued.

An ordinance of the late corporation of Washington, approved October 10, 1863, exempts all orphan asylums, all churches, and all charity-schools from the payment to the corporation of the annual rent for the use of the (Potomac) aqueduct-water.

I recommend that the ordinance above referred to be repealed, and that all places and premises on the line of the water-mains be obliged to contribute to the support of the water-department.

The adoption of the schedule named is, in my opinion, necessary so as to provide revenue sufficient to meet the growing and increasing demand for greater water-facilities throughout the District, particularly on the higher elevations, where it is now a positive necessity to provide for the laying of large mains, the erection of a capacious reservoir so as to provide water for domestic use and the protection of property against fire.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

TIMOTHY LUBEY,
Water-Registrar.

Hon. COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Over 4,000 children are now compelled to attend schools in rented buildings, most of which are not well adapted to the purpose, and many are badly lighted and ventilated, damp and unhealthy. For these rooms, 73 in number, an annual rent of $20,635 is paid, and in addition a large sum, estimated at not less than $5,000, is expended in fitting up and repairing them, which, with the rental, makes $25,635. To purchase sites and erect suitable plain but substantial buildings to meet the present wants of the public schools of the District will require an expenditure of $400,000.

The United States has from time to time made liberal donations of public lands to aid in establishing and sustaining common schools in all the Territories as they became States. The District of Columbia, the permanent seat of the Government, over which Congress exercises exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, has had no share in the distribution of these educational benefactions. It would seem only just that the public schools of the District of Columbia should receive from the General Government equal benefactions with the like schools in the States and Territories, either in the form of land donations or by some equivalent mode, and we respectfully ask you to invite the favorable attention of Congress to this subject.

The special reasons for asking Congress to aid in establishing and supporting a system of public schools for the District of Columbia may be briefly stated as follows:

First. About one-third of the school-population is colored, composed largely of the "wards of the nation" who have come into the District since the beginning of the war. They add but little, if anything, to the school-revenues.

Second. About 30 per cent. of the enrollment in the white schools is composed of children whose parents or guardians are in the employ of the United States Government, and the school-revenues receive but little benefit from these residents.

Third. The United States Government is the owner of about one-half of all the real estate in the District of Columbia.

For a very full discussion of the propriety of Government aid to the public schools of the District of Columbia you are referred to the annual report of the public schools for 1873-'74, pages 50 to 58.

COLORED SCHOOLS OF WASHINGTON AND GEORGETOWN.

The future prosperity and success of the colored schools of Washington and Georgetown will depend upon the faithful execution of the present laws of Congress dividing and apportioning the school-fund, which, from practical experience, have been found to be just and equitable and entirely satisfactory to all classes of citizens.

We therefore urgently recommend—

First. That no change be made in the present laws of Congress dividing and apportioning the school-fund, but that the acts of Congress of June 25, 1861, and July 23, 1866 (vide chapter 12, sections 306, '7, '8, '9, '10, and '11 of the "Revised Statutes of the United States relating to the District of Columbia," and the act of the legislative assembly of the District of Columbia approved June 23, 1873,) shall remain in full force as the basis of all future disbursements on account of schools.

Second. That Congress be requested to make the necessary appropriation to pay the proportionate amount of school-fund (to wit, $20,346) due the colored schools upon the expenditure of $50,865 for the erection of the Georgetown public-school building, to be expended in the erection of a school-building for colored children in said city.

Third. And in view of the decision of the attorney of the District of Columbia, that there is not now sufficient authority for that purpose, such remedial legislation as will authorize the trustees to expend the fund to the credit of the colored schools, for their support, and the purchase of the necessary sites, and the erection of buildings for their accommodation in the cities of Washington and Georgetown.

OFFICE BOARD OF FIRE COMMISSIONERS

Washington, November 18, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to state that I have been instructed by the board of fire-commissioners of this District to forward to you the report of the board to the 15th of the present month, in accordance with your request. Accompanying it is the report of the chief engineer of the department and of the superintendent of the fire-alarm telegraph.

N 1.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE FIRE ALARM TELEGRAPH.

OFFICE OF FIRE-ALARM TELEGRAPH,

486 LOUISIANA AVENUE NORTHWEST,

Washington, D. C., November 13, 1875.

To the honorable the Commissioners of the Fire Department of the District of Columbia:

GENTLEMEN: In my last annual report, as in several former ones, I earnestly recommended the reconstruction of the fire-alarm telegraph in this District.

It affords me great pleasure to report that, during the past summer, the honorable Commissioners of the District, by contract with Messrs. Gamewell & Co., of New York, rebuilt the entire telegraph, and we now have a strictly automatic system, embracing all the late valuable improvements known to the art.

On the 29th day of September last the new system was put into successful operation, and has rendered thus far entire satisfaction in all its workings.

From the 1st day of November, 1874, to November 1, 1875, there were transmitted over the fire-telegraph 158 alarms, as follows, to wit:

During the month of November, 8; December, 22; January, 19; February, 11; March, 13; April, 15; May, 16; June, 8; July, 15; August, 5; September, 6; October, 20. These alarms were given from sixty-seven different stations. And while using the old system, boxes 14, 24, 37, 39, 47, 61, 69, 76, 78, 79, 82, 85, 86, and 91 were each turned in once; boxes 2, 3, 12, 16, 18, 19, 32, 34, 36, 74, 81, and 95, twice each; boxes 8, 9, 35, 41, 43, 48, 63, and 92, three times each; boxes 4, 7, 21, 26, 29, 45, 52, 59, and 94, four times each; boxes 27, 31, 38, 62, and 71, five times each; box 68 six times, and box 25 eight times.

Since the new system went into operation, and up to November 1, box 212 has been pulled three times for fires; box 128, twice, and boxes 24, 31, 35, 37, 42, 47, 61, 124, 126, 131, 137, 141, 216, 217, and 314, once each.

The total cost of maintaining the fire-telegraph for the year just closed, exclusive of the salaries paid its commissioned officers, but including the compensation paid the regular "repair-man," has not exceeded $2,000. This does not include the fitting up and furnishing the new office, nor the expense of taking down the old telegraph-wire and boxes, but covers the legitimate expense of repairs and of maintaining batteries, &c.

For the ensuing year, owing to the greatly increased amount of battery (about four-fold) and with fully double the length of wire to be kept in repair, it will require fully $3,000 for the ordinary repairs and battery-supplies. This sum, exclusive of all regular salaries, ought to be provided for; as, although the wires are new, running as they do over the house-tops, during the building-seasons almost constant changes have to be made in the routes, to accommodate the new buildings being erected, which necessarily increases the cost of repairs.

For a number of years past, in each of my annual reports, I have called attention to the limited number of operators in the fire-alarm office. The law provides for but two men for that duty, which involves the keeping of the office open constantly day and night, every day in the year. Of course no two persons can perform that amount of labor without impairing their health.

As a relief, I have for the past two years employed a repair-man of sufficient skill to perform the duties of an operator, and detailed him for duty in the office. By so doing, however, I have, as a matter of necessity, had to do by far the larger share of repairing the wires myself. Now, with the increased length of wire to be kept in repair, together with the multiplication of instruments and signal-boxes, requiring constant attention, it becomes a matter of pressing necessity that an additional operator may be appointed, at a salary equal to that of those now employed, to the end that the repair-man may be re assigned to proper duty.

In conclusion, I desire to make favorable mention of and to commend the operators and repair-man under my direction in office, and I hereby tender to each one of them my sincere thanks for the cheerful and efficient manner in which they have discharged the duties of their respective stations.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

HENRY R. MILES,

Superintendent Fire-Alarm Telegraph.

REPORT OF CHIEF ENGINEER.

OFFICE OF CHIEF ENGINEER
FIRE DEPARTMENT, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, November 18, 1875.

To the Hon. the Board of Commissioners of the Fire Department of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit the following report of the present condition and efficiency of the department in my charge, embracing a statement of the number of fires, the losses and insurance, also full and complete lists of the officers and men (or privates) attached to the department, and an inventory of all property held in charge by the several companies on the 15th day of November, 1875.

The number of alarms for the past year was 158, 15 of which were false, 8 were for chimneys, 2 were test-alarms, and 133 for fires that involved a total alleged loss of property of $67,900, with an insurance of $39,000.

The number of fires of this year compared with that of last year, shows an increase of 23 over the former, and compared with the average of the past ten years, an increase of 32.

The total alleged loss of this year compared with that of last year shows a decrease of $32,400, and compared with the average loss, per year, of the past ten years, a decrease of $82,500.

The continued and fast increasing necessity for two additional fire-engine companies, one to be located in the northern and the other in the northeastern section of the city, and one additional truck-company to be placed in the western section of the city, requires me to again urge that they be formed and placed in service so soon as it can be effected.

The stock belonging to the department is comprised of 28 horses ; 25 being in actual use, 3 being retained as substitutes.

The hose belonging to the department is 7,000 feet of leather, in fair condition, and 750 feet of gum, in bad condition.

The force of the department is composed of 1 chief engineer, 1 assistant chief, and 59 officers and men assigned to six companies; and the apparatus consists of 5 steam fire-engines, 7 hose-carriages, and 2 hook-and-ladder trucks.

The workings of the new fire-alarm telegraph have given complete and full satisfaction, and gives to this city a system of fire-alarm telegraph unsurpassed by any in the world; and will afford this department that definite location of the existence of fires so essential and necessary to their effective extinguishment.

The companies of the department have invariably been active and efficient in the discharge of their duties, and have never failed to be prompt in responding to alarms. Their success speaks volumes for them, as the fires have never spread, notwithstanding the worn-out condition of the apparatus of the department.

I must renew my thanks to the gentlemen comprising the board of fire-commissioners for the zealous care they have displayed during the past year for the efficiency of the department; and to the assistant chief, and the officers and men under my charge, for their ready and willing aid in all matters pertaining to their duties; and I cheerfully bear testimony to the assistance rendered to the department by the officers and men of the Metropolitan Police.

In concluding, I desire to return my sincere thanks to the honorable Commissioners of the District for the courtesy they have extended to me on all occasions, and the great interest manifested by them for the welfare of this department.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MARTIN CRONIN,

Chief Engineer Fire Department, District of Columbia.

Washington, D. C., November 15, 1875.

To the honorable the Commissioners of the District of Columbia :

GENTLEMEN: The board of fire-commissioners of this District have the honor to make the following report of the transactions in that department for the past year :

The expenditures for that period of time, exclusive of the cost of placing the new fire-alarm telegraph in working order, aggregate a sum total of $79,097.51, being for the salaries of the officers and men, veterinary services, farrier expenses, laundry expenses, forage, repairs, painting and improvements to apparatus, repairs and new work on houses and fire-alarm office, supplies of all kinds, the purchase of eight new horses, new harness and repairs to harness, fuel, gas, and refurnishing houses.

The buildings occupied by this department are as follows, to wit: Office for commissioners and chief engineer, room 20, Columbia building; central office of fire-alarm telegraph, No. 486 Louisiana avenue; fire-engine houses, and one truck-house.

The repairs to houses and changes in the localities of offices, &c., made during the time embraced in this report, are as follows:

Room No. 31 of Columbia building being too small for the requirements of this board and the chief engineer, their office is now removed to room 20 of same building, which is of ample size for the general business and the meetings of the board.

To accommodate the machinery, battery, and other appendages of the new fire-alarm, it was found that more space was required than the old office would afford, and the alarm was placed in the adjoining building.

New wooden plank floors have been laid in engine-houses Nos. 4 and 5, and in the truck-house; and the rooms in which the apparatus is housed have been wainscoted. New carpets have been put down in the bunk and sitting-rooms of houses Nos. 1 and 2 and the truck-house.

Only slight repairs have been made to houses Nos. 1 and 2. The latter is in a very dilapidated and dangerous condition, unfit for occupancy by the company. We respectfully recommend the erection of a new house for this company, and also a change in the site.

Engine company No. 3 moved into their new house in the month of June last. It is located on Delaware avenue, near C street, northeast, and was completely fitted out with new furniture.

The stalls of engine company No. 1 have been changed to make the horses face east and west, which, being more convenient in hitching the horses to the apparatus, is a decided addition to the efficiency of the company.

The stable of No. 2 engine company is in the same bad condition as is the house of that company, and requires extensive repairs.

The stable of No. 3 engine company being new, is in perfect condition, and is well adapted to its purpose.

For engine company No. 4 a new stable was built, and is now in perfect condition and complete.

The stables of engine company No. 5 and the truck-house were in good condition; only needed slight repairs, which have been made.

The apparatus of the department consists of four second-class Amoskeag steam fire-engines, one Silby second-class rotary engine, seven four-wheel hose-carriages, and two old-style hook and ladder trucks, all of which has had the best care bestowed upon it and been kept in the best possible order.

As it is absolutely necessary that our apparatus should be at all times in perfect working order, and ready for instant use also, equal to the work required of it, some extensive changes and repairs have been made to No. 4 boiler, engine, and pumps. The change in the boiler was made by enlarging the grate-surface one-third, and fitting a new set of composition smoke-flues and copper water-flues. The repairs to engine and pumps were thorough.

It is but simple justice to the builders of that engine to state that the above mentioned were the only repairs needed to it in five years of service.

Engine No. 5 has had thorough repairs, including a new set of composition flues for its boilers.

The boilers of engines Nos. 1, 2, and 3 are completely worn out by the hard service they have performed during the last eleven years, and must be replaced by new ones, otherwise the department will only have two reliable steam fire-engines in service.

This is a very serious matter for your consideration, and unless immediate attention is given it, the result may be a fearful conflagration—a distressing calamity. These boilers have been repaired from time to time, but cannot be depended upon for duty, and they must be discarded.

The running-gear of the apparatus has been kept in that first-class condition so necessary; defects in this particular, which could be borne in other services, cannot be risked in this, as where the loss of human life or the loss of property which might ensue upon the breaking of gear, thus causing detention of the apparatus, cannot be permitted; the running-gear must be of the best and be kept in perfect order.

In addition to these repairs, the following improvements have been made: Pumpy's automatic relief-valves and shut-off nozzles have been placed in use with all the engines, and have increased the efficiency of the companies, especially by reducing the damage from water; heaters, which keep the water in the boilers at all times to a boiling-point, have also been placed on engines Nos. 1, 2, 4, and 5, thus making them ready for instant use, which is of the greatest importance; new suction-sleeves have been placed on all the engines.

From the foregoing it will be seen that all proper measures, in the way of repairs and improvements, have been taken to make the engines serviceable and efficient.

Hose-carriages.—Those belonging to companies Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, have all been furnished with new and stronger wheels and spools, and other alterations have been made, necessary to prevent any accidents to the carriages, horses, or men while passing over the ruts and holes which abound in the rough portions of the pavements throughout the District. These carriage are in good condition and require no considerable repairs.

Hook and ladder.—Those now in use are two old-style trucks, manned by one company. These trucks run to all alarms of fire in the District; consequently constant repairs have been necessary after nearly every alarm to keep them in the service. The truck is a most valuable piece of apparatus, and is required in nearly every case of fire.

Horses.—Eight were purchased during the year, and, with a few exceptions, the stock of this department is in good condition.

No new hose has been purchased during the past year, but a considerable quantity will be required in addition to the stock on hand.

Fire-plugs.—To insure the required amount of water at a convenient distance from the probable scenes of fire in the business sections of the city, it is highly necessary that the fire-plugs now in use should be increased in number; and, for greater dispatch in connecting the hose with the plugs, some of which have 9-inch and some 10-inch outlets, we urge that all the plugs be fitted with 10-inch outlets.

This board would respectfully call your attention to the stores and large quantities of gaseous oils and alcoholic liquors in the business densely inhabited parts of the District, with an utter disregard for the safety of property; also to the frequent alarms of fire occasioned by accidents from the use of coal-oil. The low price at which an inferior quality of coal-oil is furnished is a temptation, to the poor especially, to use it. Many careless persons purchase it, and the result is a recurrence of conflagrations, not to mention the frequent and distressing losses of life. Some stringent law regarding these matters should be enacted.

This board would be derelict in their duty, for the reasons hereinbefore set forth, did they not bring to your notice and earnestly urge that two additional engine companies, completely equipped for service with apparatus and appurtenance, one for the northern and the other for the northeastern sections of this city, and one additional hook and ladder company, likewise equipped with the best modern improvements in its peculiar kind of apparatus, for the western part of this city, be formed and put into immediate service.

In support of this addition to the force and apparatus of the department, it is only necessary to observe the vastly-increased limits of the improved portions of the District within the past eight years, and the considerable number of rows of houses being erected, and erected with Mansard roofs, which are not only very dangerous in character, but have heretofore been almost unknown in this District. No addition has been made to the number of engines, but a diminution of it. Eight years since, in addition to our present force, three Government steam fire-engine companies responded to alarms with their apparatus, and aided to extinguish the fires.

Experiences here and in other cities show the necessity of having a full, at least a sufficient, fire-force to provide protection, not only against small fires, but extensive conflagrations.

With our present force we could not cope with such an emergency as two fires, widely distanced, occurring simultaneously, or the one immediately succeeding the other, or should a large fire occur in a thickly-built portion of the District and during a heavy storm of wind.

Your attention is respectfully called to the report of the chief engineer, and statements accompanying it, in reference to the property under his charge, the men comprised in his force, and the statistics of fires for the last eleven years; also to the report of the superintendent of the fire-alarm telegraph, both of which reports, having been approved by this board, accompany and form part of this report.

The report of the chief engineer shows the number of fires to be greater than that of last year, and the losses less; and we concur in his indorsement of the officers and men under his charge.

From the report of the superintendent of fire-alarm telegraph, it will be seen that the new automatic system, which was placed in working-order on the 29th of September, renders most excellent service, and is perfect in its appointments.

For the reasons stated by the superintendent in his report, we recommend that an operator be added to his present force.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER OF THE WASHINGTON ASYLUM.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF THE
WASHINGTON ASYLUM, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
COLUMBIA BUILDINGS,

Washington, November 15, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: I respectfully submit the following report in reference to the Washington asylum since November, 1874. This institution is divided in two parts, one occupied by the poor, and known as the almshouse, the other by prisoners, and known as the workhouse.

THE ALMSHOUSE.

On the 1st day of November, 1874, there were 181 inmates in the almshouse; admitted since, 451; born, 12, making a total of 644. Of this number there were discharged, 412; died, 77; total, 489. Number of inmates now in the almshouse, 155. Of the 451 admitted since November 1, 1874, 267 were males, 184 females; 256 were colored, 195 white. Of the 451, 134 were born in Virginia, 100 in Maryland, 81 in the District of Columbia, 60 in Ireland, 11 in Pennsylvania, 10 in Germany, 10 in North Carolina, 9 in England, 6 in New York, 4 in South Carolina, 3 in Kentucky, 2 in Illinois, 2 in Tennessee, 2 in Ohio, 2 in Delaware, 2 in Italy, 1 in Massachusetts, 1 in Alabama, 1 in Florida, 1 in Minnesota, 1 in Mississippi, 1 in New Jersey, 1 in Missouri, 1 in Louisiana, 1 in Georgia, 1 in Spain, 1 in West Indies, 1 in Scotland, and 1 in Poland.

THE WORKHOUSE.

On the 1st day of November, 1874, the number of prisoners confined in the workhouse was 111; received since, 1,739; in all, 1,850. Discharged during the same period, 1,672; escaped, 25; died, 3; total, 1,700. Number now in the workhouse, 150. Of the 1,739 prisoners admitted since November 1, 1874, 1,234 were males; 505, females; 1,042 were colored; 697 white. Of the 1,739, 525 were born in Virginia, 429 in District of Columbia, 326 in Maryland, 177 in Ireland, 43 in Pennsylvania, 34 in New York, 31 in England, 24 in Germany, 15 in Massachusetts, 13 in Maine, 13 in New Jersey, 11 in Ohio, 9 in North Carolina, 9 in South Carolina, 8 in Kentucky, 8 at sea, 7 in Scotland, 7 in Tennessee, 7 in West Virginia, 4 in Georgia, 4 in Connecticut, 4 in Illinois, 3 in Missouri, 3 in Delaware, 2 in Florida, 2 in Michigan, 2 in Louisiana, 2 in Denmark, 2 in Brazil, 2 in West Indies, 2 in Switzerland, 2 in France, 1 in South America, 1 in New Brunswick, 1 in Sweden, 1 in Poland, 1 in Persia, 1 in Canada, 1 in Newfoundland, 1 in Alabama, 1 in Rhode Island. Out of 1,739, 1,524 were committed for disorderly conduct, vagrancy, and profanity. Of these 1,739, 63 were thirteen years of age and under, 78 were sixteen years and under, 198 were eighteen years and under, 319 were twenty-one years of age and under, 532 were thirty years and under, 289 were forty years and under, 178 were fifty years and under, 53 were sixty years and under, 21 were sixty-eight years and under, 4 were seventy-six years and under, 4 were eighty-nine years and under.

The report of the intendant and matron, which I annex, calls attention to various subjects, and the report of the visiting physician details important matters connected with his department.

During the past year various improvements have been made in and around this institution. The ground heretofore known as "Potter's Field" has been laid out as a cemetery for the poor, surrounded by a neat and substantial fence, and divided into grave-sites and sections; a record of deaths and burials established, and care taken to prevent the graves being desecrated. The main building has been painted and repaired; plumbing-work and water-fixtures repaired; the kitchen renovated, and several other important matters in the way of repairs made.

The hospital, consisting of four wooden buildings, formerly situated in the rear of the main building, has been moved to a new site, fronting on Nineteenth street, and east of the intendant's house. These buildings have been thoroughly repaired and painted, and in addition one new hospital-ward 75 feet long built, together with a kitchen, dining-room, and office, now in course of construction, and are being fitted with necessary bath-tubs, closets, hot and cold water, and, in a very short time, will be ready for occupancy. The grounds attached are being graded and laid out in walks, and when finished will form a very creditable arrangement compared with anything of the kind heretofore sustained by the District.

The Georgetown almshouse, also the property and under the direction of the District government, has also been repaired and painted. The immediate charge of this institution is under the supervision of a number of benevolent ladies, whose labor of love is devoted to the interest of the poor. The number in this institution is small.

Attention is again called to the very large number of young persons confined from time to time in this institution. During the period covered by this report, there were 63 persons under thirteen years of age; 73 were sixteen years and under; 198 were eighteen years and under, and in all 339 persons who were under eighteen years of age. Many of these were mere children, sentenced for petty offenses, and while confined here are necessarily the companions of bad and hardened characters. Cannot some provision of law be made to meet such cases, and provide for them in the Reform School, or some other reformatory institution? The workhouse part of this building needs many repairs and alterations, as the repairs made here during the past year were only such as were absolutely necessary to keep the building in order, as the understanding is that on the completion of the new jail, all prisoners are to be sent there. This will give us the use of the entire building for an almshouse, but before being used for such purpose it will have to be thoroughly overhauled and repaired. The sum of $15,000 in my opinion would be sufficient to do this.

SMALL-POX HOSPITAL.

The small-pox hospital is a frame building situated about 1,200 feet northeast of the asylum building. I wish to call special attention to this matter, and urge the immediate selection of some more isolated locality for use as a small-pox hospital; the present building is old and not suited for hospital purposes, and I earnestly recommend that means be taken to carry out this recommendation. I quote below the law bearing on this matter:

The building provided for the accommodation of persons laboring under infectious or contagious disorders shall be considered an appendage to the Washington asylum, and as such it shall be the duty of the intendant to take charge of it, under the control of the guardians, and to receive therein and take proper care of all persons who may be sent to him laboring under diseases, when such persons are sent by the mayor or a member of the board of health; and the physician of the asylum shall give the same attention to all such persons as he is required to do to persons laboring under disease in the asylum, accounts of which shall be returned with the other accounts of the asylum, and settled in the same manner. But nothing in this act shall be construed to allow the intendant or physician any pay in addition to that now allowed by law.

The commissioners of the asylum shall take immediate control over said hospital, and make such regulations and conditions for the admission and proper care of persons laboring under small-pox as to them may seem proper, and the accounts for such hospital shall be kept separate and distinct from any other, and the money supplied therefor by specific appropriation.

It shall be the duty of the physician of the asylum to attend to the patients of the small-pox hospital, as well as the patients of the asylum, without additional compensation. (Act of May 12, 1846.)

I call special attention to the necessity that exists for a thorough reorganization of the whole system of charity and the care of the poor of this District. A matter of so much necessity ought not to be deferred. As the system now exists, we have the District of Columbia sustaining and governing a few institutions, the General Government a number, and private institutions of like character receiving yearly support both from the District and General Governments. Such a system does not produce the best results, nor is there in it much unity of action or concentrated effort toward the end desired. It will be seen by the annexed table of appropriations made by both Governments—General and District—that in two years $379,246.73 have been appropriated to various institutions, all of them under different forms and management. To harmonize these and to increase the efficiency of control, I recommend that all public institutions of charity, asylums, hospitals, &c., be placed under the control of the District government, and managed by a board selected from among our best citizens of both sexes, who shall have general charge, and that all appropriations of public moneys be made in the aggregate and be apportioned and disbursed by them; that they shall have at all times the right of inspection of all charities, public and private.

I give below a list of all private charities in this District, so far as I was able to obtain the same, giving in each case a brief review of their history as furnished me by those in charge.

The estimates for salaries and contingent expenses from December 1, 1875, to June 30, 1876, and from July 1, 1876, to June 30, 1877, are herewith inclosed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

TIMOTHY LUBEY,

Commissioner Washington Asylum.

I would respectfully state that it has been the custom of this institution to furnish shelter and food to that class of poor, termed "tramps," or transient paupers. We have furnished food and shelter during the same period to seven hundred and sixty-six of this class.

Those prisoners reported as deceased did not die in prison, as would appear by the report. When prisoners are reported to the intendant as being unwell, they are brought before the physician for examination, and if found to be sick they are once transferred to the hospital for medical treatment; therefore these prisoners did not die in prison proper, but in the hospital department of this institution.

Of the 25 prisoners reported as eloped, 21 escaped from the chain-gang, and 4 from the grounds of the asylum, many of whom were promptly recaptured and returned, and made to serve their time according to law.

The chain-gang established September 1, 1874, continued to work on the streets and roads of the District to October 19, 1875, since which time they have been employed with the other prisoners in grading in this vicinity.

The male inmates of the workhouse are at present engaged in grading Georgia avenue and Nineteenth street east, and other work on the asylum grounds. During the summer the Potter's Field has been inclosed with a neat, substantial fence; the grounds have been graded, and walks laid out; the bodies are all buried in regular order, two feet six inches apart, according to the regulations of the cemetery. A record is also kept of the burials, each grave properly numbered, in order that the bodies can be exhumed at any time, in case the relatives or friends of the deceased should desire to remove them. Number of burials from November 1, 1874, to October 31, 1875, 459.

The brick floor on the workhouse side, being damp and unhealthy, has been removed and replaced with one of stone flagging, laid in cement, which is perfectly dry, adding much to the comfort and health of the inmates.

In regard to the female prisoners, some are employed in making and repairing clothing for the almshouse and workhouse; others are engaged in washing, ironing, and general house-work, keeping the building and hospitals in a clean condition.

The frame hospitals have been removed from their former positions to the high grounds fronting on Nineteenth street east, which was formerly used as a garden for the institution, where a new hospital is being built; the grounds are being graded, and walks laid out; shrubbery is to be planted to beautify that portion occupied for hospital purposes.

Many of the paupers, when admitted, are found to be in such a filthy condition, and covered with vermin, that we are compelled to furnish them a new suit of clothes. The object of many seems to be to obtain clothing, and then ask for their discharge; hence it costs the District a considerable sum to furnish them with clothing. This appears to be an abuse, and should not exist. When inmates are received into the institution their clothing should be taken from them and properly cleaned, repaired, labeled, and kept in the clothes-room, in order that they may be returned to them when they leave the asylum, and the clothing furnished them during their stay should be the property of the asylum, and not of the inmate, as has been the case heretofore, and is at present.

I would therefore recommend that there be some substantial material procured, and clothing made for both male and female, and issue to each inmate every week a clean suit, thereby keeping them in a clean and healthy condition. I also recommend the erection of two plunge-baths and wash-rooms, one of each for the use of males and females. This I consider an actual necessity, and would add much to the comfort and health of the inmates in a sanitary point of view.

We manufacture all coffins for the poor of the District on receipt of a telegram or order from the board of health. Coffins are furnished for the burial of deceased paupers, and the ambulance is sent to convey them to the cemetery attached to this institution; also to other burying-grounds. Number of coffins furnished from November 1, 1874, to October 31, 1875, 537. The ambulance is also employed in conveying sick and disabled paupers to the asylum; also to various other hospitals, and to the Government Hospital for the Insane.

In regard to the moral condition of the inmates of the institution, religious services are held every Sabbath afternoon. In the workhouse they are conducted by the members of the Young Men's Christian Association, and in the almshouse by ladies and gentlemen from the Ebenezer church. I feel under great obligations to them for their active exertions in trying to better the condition of these poor unfortunates. At present we are compelled to hold divine service in the female dining-room of the workhouse, which is inadequate to seat all of the male prisoners, the females being deprived of religious services altogether. In the almshouse the only place we have is the passage on the first floor, which is also inadequate, there being room only for the females, and thereby depriving the males. I would therefore recommend that a chapel be erected, in order that all those who desire to attend divine service may have an opportunity of doing so.

The general health of the inmates is good, there being only forty-two under medical treatment.

As our city has increased in population, so also has the number of prisoners increased, and to such an extent that the present workhouse is inadequate to the demand. That portion of the building used for sleeping apartment by the males is 46 feet 6 inches long and 36 feet wide; at present there are 99 men and boys confined therein. The sleeping apartment of the females is the same size, and in it there are 51 females. As cold weather is fast approaching, the numbers will increase accordingly. You can, therefore, imagine the necessity of enlarging this portion of the building to accommodate the increasing numbers, and which cannot be much longer delayed.

Very respectfully,

JOS. F. HODGSON,

TIMOTHY LUBEX, Esq., Commissioner Washington Asylum.

WASHINGTON ASYLUM,
November 1, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to report that since my appointment as matron of this institution I have taken charge of the female portion of the inmates, some of whom have been employed in making and repairing clothing and other articles used by the inmates of both almshouse and workhouse; others have been engaged in washing, ironing, and general housework. The rooms of the inmates and hospitals have been scrubbed and cleaned once every twenty-four hours, thereby keeping them clean and healthy. The following articles have been made by the inmates for use of the institution from November 1, 1874, to October 31, 1875, viz:

60 petticoats.

117 bed-ticks.

Besides those regularly admitted to hospital treatment, there are a great many cases in the establishment prescribed for of which no account has heretofore been kept, but which, in future, I propose to put on file, that all the work done in the medical department may be shown.

There has been instituted a faithful hospital record of cases, showing date of admission, with name, age, nativity, occupation, treatment, &c., with direction of friends, so that any patient coming here can easily be traced by his or her friends, when wanted.

The rate of mortality, (which by record shows an average monthly decrease, owing to increased facilities for treatment, diet, &c., furnished by those in charge, who have the wants of the institution at heart,) at a casual glance, appears large to those unacquainted with nature of admission into this hospital.

In the first place, it is the only general hospital in the District of Columbia admitting cases of every class, and in every stage of disease, in any of which other hospitals refuse, as not being of the class which they admit. Others are admitted with worse forms of disease, fastened on constitutions already depraved and contaminated with a generation of inherited trouble, perfectly hopeless. Many are brought in in articulo mortis, merely to swell the lists of the hospital death-certificates. A large proportion, also, of these fatal cases are those who have been the rounds of the hospital, and, when no longer rightful tenants, according to their rules, come here in extremis, as being the only case open to them, to be attended in their last days, or to take their chances of recovery. General status of hospital is greatly improved. The grateful improvements now in course of accomplishment will soon make their beneficial effects apparent to every one.

While the hospital department is becoming effectively organized in most respects, in others it is very much wanting; for instance, in the nurse department. I cannot urge too strongly or too often the early appointment of a head nurse—a competent and responsible man—to take the supervision of administering medicines in wards, attending to diet-table, temperature of the wards, and carrying out a certain hospital discipline indispensable to advantageous treatment of disease. I would recommend particularly, in completing the hospital, to have the water-closet outside of the wards, so as entirely to exclude impure air from the sick. I think a bath-tub on casters, so as to be conveniently brought to the bedside of very ill patients, exceedingly necessary to each ward. The establishment of a mess-room, accommodating convalescents with their meals outside of sick wards, will be eminently conducive to the health of both sick and convalescents. One of the most important regulations to be adopted is that of having hospital clothes on hand, in each ward, for the sick, as they are admitted. The sick, when brought in, ought to be divested of all they have on in bath-room, thoroughly washed, and if necessary have their heads shaven; re-invested with hospital clothing before being put to bed in the wards, their own clothing being sent to wash, and afterwards stored away for their use when going out. This is a very important matter, as whole wards are sometimes infested with vermin from the want of the bath and a suit of clothing for patients heretofore entering the wards, and the only sure method of averting such a misfortune is to have a suitable number of suits, under lock and key, in the wards, that the patient may at once be dressed in clean garments, without the alternative of taking his filthy clothes to bed, or waiting hours outside until clothing can be furnished.

Nothing but a conscientious desire to promote the welfare of the sick and the efficiency of the hospitals, prompts me to dwell at such a length on the above-mentioned points.

It gives me pleasure to say that our resident physician, J. H. Thompson, M. D., is capable, efficient, and prompt, and that the nurses appointed perform their parts in a satisfactory manner.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

WM. M. PAGE, M. D.,
Visiting Physician.

TIMOTHY LUBEY,
Commissioner Washington Asylum.

THE AGED MEN AND WOMEN'S HOME, WASHINGTON, D. C.,

Is in charge of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The Sisters support this house from contributions of the charitable throughout the city. At the present time the number of inmates is 80. They have received from the United States Government, to assist in paying the debt on the lot and toward the erection of their house, the sum of $25,000. Cost of the lot $12,000; cost of wing and stable, $20,000; and cost of the main building, $26,000.

THE AGED WOMEN'S HOME, GEORGETOWN, D. C.,

(Mrs. A. Covington, directress and acting secretary,)

Is a branch of the Female Union Benevolent Society; it provides for twelve indigent women, each one being supplied with a separate room, fuel, and one dollar's worth of groceries per month.

During the past year the society has expended among the poor of Georgetown (white and colored) the sum of $1,658.50, all of which was collected from private sources by the lady managers. Frequent application has been made to the Government for assistance, but thus far without avail.

The society is under the control of a president, secretary, treasurer, four directresses, and twenty-four managers. They own the building known as the "Aged Women's Home," which is in the hands of trustees, and there is a small debt upon it.

THE CENTRAL FREE DISPENSARY, WASHINGTON, D. C.,

Is in charge of a board of directors, and attending staff; they have an active corps of attending physicians, and distinguished and skillful consulting board, all serving gratuitously, with quarters free, located at the corner of Tenth and E-streets, northwest, easily accessible to perhaps the largest portion of our poor population. It fills an important place among the beneficiaries of the city, while it stands unhelped, save by private contribution.

Instruments, surgical appliances, certain drugs and medical agents, are needed, together with utensils for use in the laboratory; this, with the precarious method of support which has thus far been afforded, leads to the seeking of some more permanent and enlarged help.

A recapitulation of the whole number of patients for the year shows a total of 1,063; operations performed, 7; number of native patients, 792; foreign patients, 271; white patients, 555; colored, 508; of these 544 were male, 519 females; adults, 940; children, 123.

THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL, OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

In his address to the board of directors of this institution, the president states that during the year ending November 30, 1874, 120 children have been under treatment in the several wards of the hospital. Of this number 84 were white, 36 colored; 68 have been discharged, cured; 23 improved, and 8 have died, leaving in the different wards, up to that date, 25 children under treatment—20 white, 5 colored.

In addition to this relief extended to sufferers, they have had under treatment in the dispensary during the year 833 patients—451 white, 432 colored, a large number of whom have been permanently benefited.

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN, AND LYING-IN ASYLUM,

(Doctor J. H. Thompson, Surgeon-in-Chief.)

Indicates a success that will compare favorably with the experience of any institution of the kind in the country. The death-rate during the past year is stated to have been lower than that among the general population of the District, and though many difficult surgical operations were performed, some of them the most important known to surgery, no case of death occurred as the result of surgical interference. The number of patients treated during the year was 343; total treated in dispensary, 2,553; cured, 1,891; relieved, 349; died, 23; incurable, 40; results unknown, 174; under treatment at close of the year, 214. Of the patients treated 2,292 were natives of the United States, and 328 of Ireland; 1,076 were natives of the District of Columbia, 791 of Virginia, and 621 of Maryland, leaving at that time 75 persons receiving medical and surgical treatment.

Referring to the report of the treasurer, it will be perceived that on the 30th November, 1873, there was a balance of cash on hand of $1,915.35, and that there has been collected during the past year $8,874.49, making a total of $10,789.84. The expenses during the year ending November 30, 1874, have been $7,336.31, leaving in the hands of the treasurer $3,453.53, and by adding to this sum the amount which could at present rates be realized from the sale of $2,000 of certificates of indebtedness issued in favor of the hospital by the late District government, say $1,360, would make a total of $4,813.53 to the credit of the hospital, and which is exclusive of the building-fund.

As the expenses of the hospital are increasing each year in proportion to the increased number of patients admitted to the hospital and treated in the dispensary, the president urges upon the directors the necessity of making every exertion to meet the increased expense.

From an examination of the monthly reports of the executive committee of the board of lady visitors, it is found that the domestic affairs of the hospital have been conducted with economy and thorough system, and the board tender their thanks to the house physician, Dr. G. M. Acker, and his assistant, Dr. W. M. Streeter, for the efficient manner in which they have discharged their duties, as well as to the matron and other employés of the hospital.

LOUISE HOME, WASHINGTON, D. C.

This institution, situated in the northwest section of the city, and occupying an elevated and commanding site, is a large and beautiful establishment, occupied solely as a home for elderly ladies, who through pecuniary misfortune and the death of friends have been left desolate. It was established by the benevolence of Hon. W. W. Corcoran, and is entirely sustained by him. The Louise Home is under the management of a board of lady regents—president, directors, secretary, &c.—and in point of beauty of location and great usefulness, is one of the attractions of the capital.

PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Sister Beatrice, matron in charge of this institution, states that during the year ending September 16, 1875, 959 patients were received and treated. Of this number 300 were residents of this city.

Congress makes an annual appropriation of $15,000 for the support of 75 transient paupers, but for the past two years has given nothing to the hospital.

THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' ORPHANS' HOME, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The lady managers of the Home state that during the year ending December 31, 1874, they have labored under great financial embarrassments, owing to the failure of Jay Cooke & Co., which deprived them of the appropriation voted to them by Congress for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874, amounting to the sum of $11,350. In order to meet the demands of their large household, it was determined by the trustees to appropriate the proceeds of some bonds belonging to a legacy from the estate of Mr. Ward, the amount to be returned to the fund when the deficiency appropriation should become available.

The health of the children is stated to have been excellent. The home school is under the charge of Miss Frost, whose influence over the children, both in the school and in the family, is beneficial. They attend the church and Sunday-school of the Epiphany.

They report the constant well-doing of the boys and girls who, having reached the age of sixteen, have returned to their parents or guardians. Two of the eldest boys have had situations provided for them at Springfield Armory, where they are learning their trades.

● Owing to the provision of their act of incorporation, that "only destitute orphans of soldiers and sailors who have died in the late war," no children have been admitted during the year.

The number of beneficiaries is 42; 24 are males, 18 females, ranging from the ages of two to thirteen years.

Recapitulation of payments during the year shows disbursements on all accounts amounting to $13,938.03, and on account of donations the treasurer acknowledges receipt of $173.83.

ST. ANN'S INFANT ASYLUM, WASHINGTON, D. C.,

In charge of the Sisters of Charity, Sister Agnes, matron, is an institution sustained entirely by private contributions, and has never received any assistance from the Government.

During the year ending September 17, 1875, they received and cared for 75 foundlings and orphans, nearly all of whom were destitute, besides a number of homeless women. For some three or four years an addition to their building has been greatly needed, but owing to a want of means the society has been unable to make it. Finding it impossible longer to defer increasing the size of their building, they have commenced an addition, and intend, at the coming session of Congress, to ask for an appropriation. All the colored foundlings are received, but they are unable to take all the colored children, not having the room nor the means to provide for them.

SAINT JOHN'S HOSPITAL.

About five years ago this hospital was established by ladies connected with Saint John's Church in this city. It is a free institution, open to all, without regard to sect, and is sustained by contributions from the public. The average number of patients is 40, and during the year there have been three deaths. At present the health of the children in this institution is good. Some three years ago, Congress made an appropriation of $25,000 for the support of this hospital, all of which amount is regarded as lost by the failure of Jay Cooke & Co., in whose bank the money was deposited. There is a branch of this hospital, a school, located on Twentieth, near H street, in which there are at the present time some 70 pupils, male and female. Though regarded as a children's hospital, these benevolent ladies have not refused to receive occasionally destitute women who were sick and friendless. Help, to the extent of their means, is freely given to all who apply. The hospital is under the control of a board of managers, president, and secretary. It occupies rented quarters, and about the house there is an air of neatness and good management highly commendable.

SAINT JOSEPH'S MALE ORPHAN ASYLUM.

This asylum is also in charge of the Sisters of Charity, and is sustained by the contributions of the charitable. It has never received aid from the General nor District government, notwithstanding the number of soldiers' orphans received and cared for during the late war.

The number of orphans in the asylum is about 100; number of pupils in the school, 100; number of pupils free, 30. Cost of support, $7,000.

SAINT VINCENT'S ORPHAN ASYLUM.

This institution was incorporated by Congress, February 25, 1831, and in July, 1832, made an appropriation of $20,000, viz, $10,000 to Saint Vincent's Orphan Asylum, and $10,000 for the Washington City Orphan Asylum, and has received no aid from the General nor city government since that date.

At present the number of orphans provided for is 140. Number of pupils in the school is 230; of these, 70 are free scholars. Cost of support of the orphans is $12,000 per annum.

The orphans of Saint Vincent's Asylum, when arrived at suitable age, are transferred to Saint Rose's House of Industry, to be taught trades. The number now in this branch is 30, and the proceeds of the work of the orphans support the house. Cost of support, about $4,000, all of which is maintained by private contributions.

WASHINGTON CITY ORPHAN ASYLUM.

(Mrs. S. P. Lee, first directress; Mrs. G. S. Gideon, secretary.)

This excellent institution, one of the oldest if not first originated in this city, was established very soon after the close of the war of 1812, by a few ladies of Washington, aroused by the needy condition of orphans made by that war. They resolved themselves into a committee for benevolent purposes, from which arose the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

At the close of the year 1874, 114 children were enjoying the benefits of this asylum—55 boys, 59 girls; 3 boys and 7 girls, having arrived at suitable age, were placed in positions where they could learn useful trades; and 22 boys and 11 girls were received during the year. There were, at the close of the year, 64 children, of both sexes, in the school, which is under the excellent management of Miss A. R. Charles, teacher, and Mrs. J. H. Wright, the matron. At present this asylum occupies a rented house, and is in a generally prosperous condition; but in view of their expected removal in the coming spring to their new home on Fourteenth street, between R and S. streets, northwest, they appeal to friends and contributors for continued help. Their subscription-list is small, and constant effort is required to meet daily demands. The asylum is under direction of a board of managers, consisting of seventeen ladies, and the board of trustees. The lady managers gratefully acknowledge receipt of donations during the year, consisting of groceries, provisions, clothing, shoes, and money, and to the Great Falls Ice Company for the supply of ice during the year.

THE WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION, WASHINGTON, D. C.,

(Mrs. Wm. Stickney, president; Mrs. Thos. Wilson and Miss Laura Sunderland, secretaries.)

Gives a very full and detailed statement of their operations for the year ending December 31, 1874—announcing that they have a large and suitable piece of ground, free from incumbrance, on which to erect a "Home building," and present their thanks to Congress for an appropriation of $25,000 to accomplish that object.

The lady managers return their heartfelt thanks to their patrons, from the President of the United States down to the humblest contributor who has aided them in any way. This excellent association has its "Employment," "Home," "Purchasing," "Foster Home," "Devotional," and "Visiting" committees, and the meetings of the board of managers is held on the first Tuesday of every month. These meetings are well attended, and reports from each branch of the society are presented. The managers are confident, could they bring these reports immediately before the public, they would meet with a ready response from the liberal-hearted. The duties devolving upon the ladies of these various committees are well and faithfully performed. Besides the support derived from regular contributions, the friends of the society will perceive that efforts are made to attract and keep their interest and attention by strawberry festivals, tableaux, and other entertainments, and that the ladies do not spare themselves any hard work, or leave anything undone by which they may increase their treasury, and are thus enabled to extend a helping hand to the needy and unfortunate.

It appears, from the showing of the "Employment" committee, that through this channel relief has been afforded to 211 women during the year; and when it is remembered that in most of these cases each woman represents a family depending upon her exertions for support, some idea may be formed of the magnitude of the work. Of this number, 52 were employed in the sewing-rooms, but the greater number were supplied, each Wednesday, with work, by the piece, at their homes. During the year the receipts of this committee, from labor, materials, sales, donations, and proceeds of a festival, amounted to $2,979.96, while their expenditures for fuel, rent, labor, and material amounted to $1,473.92. Expenditures in excess of receipts, $1,493.96.

In summing up the work for the year, the ladies feel that great allowance should be made for the increased expenditures. The employment branch has been carried on independently of the "Home," thus requiring rent and other expenses not called for heretofore. The demand for help has been very urgent, and they have endeavored to turn away no one who needed employment.

The association gratefully acknowledges donations of groceries, provisions, shoes, and money from the public, and solicits cast-off garments and rags, as the garments are remodeled for children, and the rags are sewed together by them and are woven into carpets for the institution. More than one hundred yards have thus been furnished.

Out of the 75 children cared for during the year, but two have died—one from disease, and one the result of a fatal accident. The sheltering arms of the Home are open to the children of want, so far as it is possible to provide for them. Mothers can here place their fatherless children while they go to seek and earn a livelihood. The amount of money received for the year from subscriptions and donations is $839.31, and from bequests, church-collections, &c., $1,391.53. The Women's Christian Association consists of 87 life and 174 active and contributing members.

The management of the Western burial-ground, (Holmead.)

THE GARBAGE SERVICE.

The number of tons of garbage removed by the collectors from December 1, 1874, to March 31, 1875, inclusive, was 1,577, an average of 394½ tons per month, or 15 tons per day; the cost of the service for that period being $4,928.20, or at the rate of $3.13 per ton.

March 19, 1875, the following communication was received from your office:

BOARD OF HEALTH.

GENTLEMEN: Referring to so much of your letter of the 11th instant as relates to the collection and removal of garbage from within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, without nuisance or offense, and its conveyance by railroad beyond the limits of the District, I am directed to say that the Commissioners have carefully considered your proposition, with the manner in which you propose to do the work, and have decided to charge you with the performance of this service for one year, commencing April 1, 1875, the price of the same not to exceed $1,300 per month.

Very respectfully,

WM. TINDALL,
Secretary.

By virtue of the authority herein given, the board of health, subject to the conditions and restrictions named, assumed entire control of this branch of the sanitary service, and entered into contract with Messrs. H. F. Turner & Co., for the period of one year, for the collection of all garbage and refuse animal and vegetable matter from dwelling-houses, markets, and other places within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and the suburbs thereof, in air-tight casks or barrels, to be sealed when filled, and with the further proviso, that said garbage, refuse animal and vegetable matter, should be by them removed and transported in said casks, at their own cost and expense, to a building or depot within the District of Columbia, designated for that purpose, and by them transferred and delivered directly on board of cars for removal from said District, and without creating any nuisance or offense, &c.

Work was begun under this contract April 1, 1875, and now is in full and successful operation. From April 1 to October 31, 1875, 4,028 tons of garbage were collected by the contractors in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and removed by rail beyond the limits of the District, being an average of 575½ tons per month, or upward of 22 tons per day; the expense of which service to the District was $9,100, or at the rate of $2.25 per ton.

From the almost total absence of complaints, and from the experience of the past, we can confidently assert that the service as now performed gives entire satisfaction to the community, while, as shown by the figures given above, the expense of the work under previous systems has been materially reduced.

THE SICK POOR.

The system inaugurated by the board of health under the provisions of your order of September 1, 1874, governing this service, has been strictly adhered to. With a single exception, no neglect of duty on the part of any of the physicians to the poor has been brought to the attention of the board. The party complained of was promptly removed.

The quality of medicines furnished has been fully up to the standard, as shown by the reports made from time to time by the chemist to the board; and generally the service has been performed, as we trust and believe, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

The number of persons treated by the physicians to the poor from November 30, 1874, (date of last report,) to October 31, 1875, inclusive, was 5,797.

Pay of physicians and clerk of records for the same period .....	$4,866 41
Cost of medicines, books, and blanks.....	2,162 65

Total expenses for eleven months .....	7,029 06
--	----------

BURIAL OF PAUPERS.

During the eleven months ending October 31, 1875, the bodies of 308 poor persons were buried in potter's field. Received from the various hospitals, and buried at public expense in other cemeteries during the same period, 152. Total burials at public expense, 460, of which number 88 were still-born children. Number of coffins furnished was 434.

HOLMEAD CEMETERY.

The custody and management of this old cemetery, otherwise known as the "Western burial-ground," was transferred to the board of health by your order of November 14, 1874. We found it in a very dilapidated condition: fences destroyed, trees and grave-stones broken down, and bricks and other material stolen therefrom by parties unknown.

The former superintendent, Richard W. Brown, was arrested upon complaint of several lot-owners; but they failed to convict him of the crime of appropriating the material for his own benefit. He was dismissed from the position by us, and Edward Woodland appointed to fill the vacancy.

As your order expressly provided that no expense to the District of Columbia was to be incurred in the discharge of this trust, the board of health, in April, 1875, required the registrar of vital statistics to charge a fee of 50 cents for each permit for disinterment, the proceeds to be applied to defray the necessary expenses of material, labor, &c., for repairs. Under that regulation $23 have been collected, and $20.16 expended under the supervision of the health-officer.

The condition of the cemetery is now greatly improved, and depredations have entirely ceased. To the date covered by this report, (October 31, 1875,) 147 bodies have been disinterred and removed to other cemeteries within the District of Columbia. These grounds are now some 8 or 10 feet above grade on Boundary street, the bank in danger of caving down, leaving the coffins in old graves exposed. It is earnestly recommended that some immediate permanent improvement be made, either by the lot-owners or the District, or, preferably, (if authority exists,) that an order be issued requiring the disinterment and removal therefrom to other cemeteries, within a reasonable time, of all bodies now remaining within the inclosure, and its abandonment as a resting-place for the dead. Should the latter course be deemed best for all concerned, it will be necessary to make provision for the disinterment and removal to the Eastern burial-ground, or other cemetery, of the remains of the many indigent and unknown poor deposited there in past years.

Q 3.

DEPUTY COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,

November 13, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: On the 30th November, 1874, I reported to the commissioners of the sinking-fund the cost of all the improvements made by the board of public works to that date. The information was obtained from the board of audit, making a total of $15,487,247 24. From this data I reported the amount assessable on property fronting said improvements, being one-third, $5,162,415.75. The only set-off against this amount, known to me, was the assessments made by the board of public works, under the act of the legislative assembly approved August 10, 1871, $1,232,685.57, leaving a balance of $3,929,730.18. There was no record in my office of any other credit, and of payments made by the United States for work done in front of their property, I was not informed; and, as the custodian of the assessments, I could not do otherwise than report upon the records in my possession. Taking the credits I had as a basis, there was a clear balance as above, pledged by the legislative assembly, act approved May 29, 1873, for the redemption of $2,000,000 8-per-cent. certificates. From this balance so pledged I deducted, to wit:

Auditor's certificates received in payment for assessments.....	$95,472 41
Cash deposited to credit commissioners sinking-fund in National Metropolitan Bank.....	16,380 63
Accrued interest allowed on 8-per-cent. certificates.....	9,478 82
Interest paid, including estimate for January, 1875.....	191,370 95
	<hr/> 315,702 81

Making an excess of sums chargeable by way of assessments of $1,614,027.37. From the information accessible at that time, I could not realize any other result.

Since then I find in the United States Statutes at Large several appropriations made by Congress, specifically in payment for work in front of United States property, and the amount included in the aggregate expenditures, viz:

June 10, 1872, page 350.....	$192,620 00
June 10, 1872, page 350.....	68,365 00
January 8, 1873, page 406.....	1,241,920 92
March 3, 1873, pages 526, 527.....	2,020,030 26
	<hr/> 3,522,936 18

One other appropriation was made on March 3, 1873, of $188,002.75, "to re-imburse the late corporation of Washington, etc." As this appropriation was not for the board of public works, it cannot be deducted from the aggregate expenditures made by the board, and has no relation to the foregoing.

With this subsequent information, I submit the following as a more correct showing of the improvement-account:

Total expenditures.....	$15,487,247 24
Less paid by the United States.....	3,522,936 18
	<hr/> 11,964,311 06
One-third assessable to private property.....	3,969,103 69
Less assessments by board public works.....	1,232,685 57
	<hr/> 2,736,418 12

To assessments against United States, and included in assessments made by the board .....	$144, 102 09
Pledged for $2,000,000 8-per-cents .....	2, 899, 547 21
Less auditor's certificates received in payment of assessments .....	$98, 472 41
Cash deposited to credit of commissioners sinking-fund in National Metropolitan Bank .....	16, 390 63
Accrued interest allowed on 8-per-cents. received in payment of assessments .....	9, 478 82
Interest paid by commissioners sinking-fund, and estimated amount for January, 1875 .....	191, 370 95
8-per-cent. certificates .....	2, 000, 000 00
	= 2, 315, 702 81
	583, 844 40

Leaving as the amount by which the assessments actually made to November 1, 1874, for special improvements, and the sums estimated as chargeable for assessments for work done to that time, will, if collected, exceed the $2,000,000 8-per-cent. certificates and accrued interest thereon to January 1, 1875, for the payment of which certificates and interest the assessments are by law set apart, the sum of $583,844 40.

Very respectfully,

GEO. M. BEALL,
Deputy Comptroller.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.

I have the honor to present the fourth annual report of the board of health of the District of Columbia, indicating the variety and amount of sanitary labor expended during the year terminating September 30, 1875.

The earnest zeal and unflagging energy which have hitherto distinguished the operations of the board, will be found to have suffered no abatement, and the results of its well-intended efforts will, it is believed, compare favorably with the hygienic achievements of similar organizations elsewhere. A striking feature in the progress of its history is the rapidity with which the public mind has been educated to the importance of sanitary discipline, and the prompt and hearty support which, with few exceptions, has assumed the place of the early reluctance, not to say opposition, which marked the inauguration of health measures in this community four years ago. Indeed, at no period have the preservation of health and the prevention of disease, by suitable regulations and ordinances, so attracted public attention as at present, or so widely enlisted the sympathy and co-operation of all classes of people. The press, but a few years ago indifferent, and, indeed, often aggressive, is now contributing its powerful influence toward the dissemination of sound, practical sanitary information among the masses, and bestowing the most liberal encouragement upon the various State and municipal boards organized for the humane purpose of protecting life and limb from disease and injury. The cordial indorsement by the leading popular journals of the recent National health proceedings, at Baltimore, affords striking evidence of the extent to which sanitary science has taken possession of the public intelligence, judgment, and approval.

Perhaps in no community more completely than in our own have health requirements been more exacting or more rigidly enforced, and certainly in none of equal extent has so little serious opposition been arrayed against the well-meant policy of the board of health in promoting the most vital of human interests. May we not hope, year by year, for still more intimate and effective co-operation on the part of all classes, in the great and good work before us, and confidently anticipate a period not distant, when every landlord and tenant, every professional man and merchant, every architect and mechanic, will become a voluntary and earnest agent, laboring diligently, in his respective sphere of occupation, to push on to perfect consummation a sanitary system which will not only subjugate existing maladies, but absolutely prevent the occurrence of an immense class of diseases, originating chiefly, if not wholly, from disregard of sanitary laws? What higher motive can inspire the individual citizen than that of shielding his home circle against the subtle agencies ever conspiring to shorten a life, at the longest but brief? What more valuable to communities and nations than that inestimable material interest, sound public health? What stronger appeal to legislators, State and National, than that which pertains to the vigor and endurance of the masses—conditions which underlie true national prosperity? Physical deterioration is inevitably succeeded by degeneracy of the mental, moral, social, and political status of a people, to say nothing of its effect in paralyzing productive labor, and thus crippling the financial resources of the nation. Indeed, the truth is becoming more and more patent to intelligent legislation that labor and capital, the great supports of the state, are disastrously affected, both in peace and war, by the prevalence of disease, which proper regulations are capable of preventing altogether or materially modifying both in type and severity.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

I had occasion to refer last year in terms of strong commendation to the exact and able manner in which the duties of the secretary's office were discharged. The same fidelity, order, and efficiency continue to characterize this important department of the service; indeed, at no time have the multiplied and varied records of the board been more perfectly executed or rendered more conveniently available; presenting, as they do, a model of precision and correctness of detail rarely equalled.

The extensive correspondence, local and foreign, the accurate recording and careful preservation of the voluminous minutes of board meetings—regular and extraordinary—the copying of reports of standing and special committees, and the methodical arrangement of separate volumes for reference, embracing a wide circle of sanitary material, afford some conception of the duties, constantly increasing, which devolve upon the accomplished secretary and his diligent and experienced clerical subordinates.

The library, to which suitable reference has been made, is of necessity limited in extent, and simply to be regarded as the foundation of what will become, it is hoped, in the future a credit to the labors of its founders, and a depository of the most valued published information, foreign and domestic, upon various topics of hygienic interest. Great care has been exercised in the selection of books, and already a large mass of interesting material placed on the shelves, accessible under certain regulations to all connected with the office who may desire to add to their acquirements knowledge so essential to the proper performance of their functions as sanitarians.

In my last report allusion was made to the correspondence already inaugurated with various sanitary organizations of Europe, which has added to our stock of printed matter much valuable information in regard to sanitary matters controlled by European commissions, as well as the internal constitutions and modes of action adopted by various foreign health organs. Through the courtesy of the State Department, these important foreign contributions still reach us from time to time, and will form, with the present collected material, most valuable additions to the archives of the board.

As explained in my last annual statement, the reports of the European boards and commissions indicate a wider scope of subjects treated than are yet fully under the direction of the boards of health of the United States, but which intelligent legislation is rapidly incorporating within their legitimate duties and aims. The vast importance of rendering the sanitary department of a State or municipality undisturbed by political or other injurious influences, and, to a great extent, supreme in its authority in all matters affecting the public health, is clearly demonstrated in the suggestive documents received from other countries. Especially is this illustrated by the independent action and almost supreme power of the health boards of the Ottoman Empire. What a barrier has this great organ become against the inroads of plague and cholera, marching eastward from Asia, the hot-bed of epidemics! And how, by simply enforcing cleanliness and the ordinary rules of health, has it diminished to a minimum the death-rate of the pilgrim swarms who, in former years, crowded the temples of Mecca, reeking with filth, covered with vermin, and dying by thousands! It is the intention of the board to maintain, as far as practicable, communication with the various sanitary institutions of the civilized world, and to collect and preserve in its archives published facts of value emanating from the advanced organs of public health everywhere.

The secretary, in concluding his report, makes honorable mention of the chief clerk and his assistant, and properly commends the able and efficient manner in which their duties have been performed.

HEALTH-OFFICER'S REPORT.

The suggestions and recommendations of this able officer are so replete with information upon every subject pertaining to the sanitary operations of the District, as to require little or no elaboration on my part of the topics embraced in his masterly and exhaustive report.

From tabular statements we glean the following figures: Nuisances reported and abated, 24,511; value of food condemned, $17,018.53; animals impounded, 2,891; tons of garbage removed, 6,155; privy-boxes cleaned, 38,826; dead animals removed, 4,614; premises sewered, 792; ponds of stagnant water abated, 170; houses condemned, 198; cases referred to attorney, 116; telegrams received and sent, 1,408; complaints of citizens acted upon, 2,273; official letters written, 2,003; poor persons treated, 8,591; cost of medicines furnished to the poor, $2,123.40; number of bodies buried at public expense, 309. Record of this work has been carefully kept in the health-office upon the various forms and books on file therein.

In presenting these tables the health-officer calls attention to various subjects, which, in his opinion as executive officer, during the past year, have been especially interesting or suggestive of improvement. The people, he remarks, have been uniformly ready and willing to accept sanitary regulations, and conform to their requirements, showing a marked improvement in that particular, even over the previous year.

He again urges action upon the subject of the improvement of alleys, concreting, sewerage, introducing of Potomac water, lighting, and flushing. These he forcibly presents as essential to the sanitary condition of the District.

Of the removal of offal he speaks in praise of the manner in which the contractors have performed their work, and calls attention to the great benefits accruing from the development of the present method of removal and disposition of these offensive and poisonous masses, as compared with that formerly in operation—the use of “night-carts” and “slop-carts.” He recommends the distribution to the people of printed regulations governing the service for its guidance and direction.

He notices a large number of houses unfit for human habitation still remaining, and the difficulty of causing satisfactory abatement of these nuisances, and recommends that some action be taken to relieve the poor owners of houses left below grade in very unsanitary condition by the filling of streets and alleys.

Upon the subject of house sewer connections he dwells at some length, detailing the alarming state of many of our dwellings on account of imperfect protection from sewer gases and bad workmanship, and suggests the enactment of a law making it a misdemeanor punishable by heavy penalty for any plumber, or other person employed, to place in a dwelling-house, hall, or other building where people live or congregate, any basin or other open connection with a public sewer which shall not be provided with such traps or other contrivance as shall effectually, at all times, prevent the escape of sewer gases.

In commenting upon the abatement of ponds of stagnant water, he urges, as an important sanitary matter, provision for the passage of spring and rain water through the old water-courses of Washington and Georgetown, which are now being rapidly filled; calling attention to the effects of this filling upon the health of inmates of houses built in such localities.

In regard to the inspection of food he notices the excellent general condition of the markets and groceries, and the efficiency of the corps of food-inspectors, but insists that no satisfactory fulfillment of the requirement of the organic act of Congress in this particular can be accomplished before we are able to control the source of its supply. He recommends also an abattoir, and the inspection of milk, &c., in the hands of wholesale merchants.

He urges again further legislation upon the subject of licensing dogs, and the prevention of grazing and driving cattle within certain limits.

He calls particular attention to the service of medical treatment and dispensation of medicines to the poor, and shows that the pledge of the board of health to the honorable Commissioners of the District of Columbia to reduce the entire expenditure to $8,000 has been strictly executed.

The remarkable fact has been developed that the poor have been treated at an average of 86 cents to each person. Full and intelligent tables, detailing the work and cost of this service, are presented. He recommends that concentrated food be furnished, as well as medicine, as essential to securing the best results. He also presents extracts from the annual reports of the physicians to the poor, and urges the necessity for the establishment of a general charity-hospital in the District of Columbia, for the treatment of those who have no suitable homes, or the necessities to sustain life, and are consequently ready victims to disease.

In concluding he presents several subjects requiring action by the proper authority, and bearing directly upon the sanitary interests of the District:

First. The improvement of the sewerage system.

Second. The increased supply of Potomac water to the highest parts of Washington.

Third. The concreting, sewerage, and lighting of the alleys.

Fourth. The improvement of the malaria-generating river-banks.

Fifth. The removal of obstructions to drainage through the old water-courses.

Sixth. The abandonment or improvement of the rented school-buildings.

Seventh. The improvement of the ventilation in the public department buildings.

The suggestion in regard to the establishment of a charity-hospital is of much importance. It is remarkable that in a city of so large population, and that, too, the nation's capital, no general hospital exists in which all classes of persons and diseases can be treated. Such an institution, constructed with strict regard to hygienic requirements, and embracing the best modern appliances, with ample provision for the sick poor, conducted under rigid sanitary regulations, is an indispensable need which should no longer be deferred.

REGISTRAR'S REPORT.

Dr. C. A. Harris, of the New York Board of Health, in his last report on vital statistics, justly observes: "That the accurate registration of the three signal epochs of human life—the birth, marriage, and death—of each individual is an obligation due alike from the citizens to the State, and from the State to the individual inhabitants, is an admitted truth." The importance of this observation cannot be overrated. A proper system of statistics that brings into aggregate form individual and isolated facts, which, when reduced to classification, present a view of the sanitary status of the community, suggests many important uses to which it is applicable. It includes the prevailing diseases of the locality, and the various conditions which lie at the foundation of these maladies. Wherever these investigations have been liberally encouraged and faithfully performed, corresponding benefits have accrued, the causes of morbid derangement have been exposed, measures of prevention enforced, and, as a logical sequence, a diminution of the rate of mortality has invariably succeeded. The ratio of births, marriages, and deaths, the extent of disease in a given population, comparative mortality in different periods of life, and the influence exerted by various professions, trades, and occupations upon life and longevity, are among the important subjects embraced in a well-digested system of vital statistics.

The report of the able and indefatigable registrar of the board indicates a vast improvement in this department of sanitary service. A system of vital statistics which, before the legislation of Congress, was hardly a decent approximation to correct results, has now become, by more liberal enactment, aided by the extraordinary energy of the officer in charge of this department, one of the most accurate and important features of sanitary work in the District. In correspondence with the law, a more general acquiescence has been exhibited by enlightened physicians and others in the demands of the registrar's office, greatly facilitating his onerous and responsible duties. It is true that the total registration of births and marriages is not so complete as desirable, the deficit in such returns being rated by the registrar at thirty per cent.

The ignorance and irresponsibility of midwives is stated as a great cause of deficiency in the report of births, and legal proceedings are threatened against this class of persons, who, for more reasons than one, need to feel the strong arm of the law. Disregard of the demands of the law by the clergy, in respect to marriages, explains the imperfections of the record in this regard.

The total number of births reported during the year is 3,915, of which the largest proportion were white. The percentage of white births to the white population is estimated at 2.189, or 21.39 to 1,000; of colored, 3.104, or at the rate of 31.04 to 1,000; percentage of births to the whole population, 2.447, or at the rate of 24.47 per 1,000.

The certificates of marriages received and recorded during the year was 694; not one-fourth, the registrar thinks, of the whole number solemnized.

In the classification and analysis of death-returns, the registrar's office has looked carefully into the circumstances of zymotic or preventable diseases. Thorough investigations have been made into the local causes likely to produce contagious or other maladies, with a view to their subsequent prevention; and the low rate of deaths from such diseases in the District affords ample evidence of the systematic and thorough sanitary work achieved by the board.

THE TOTAL NUMBER OF DEATHS REGISTERED

for the year ending September 30, 1875, from all causes, was 4,353; 2,210 white and 2,143 colored, being 3.72 of the total population, or at the rate of 27.20 per 1,000. The number of deaths from zymotic diseases in the District were 595 white and 510 colored; of these 532 were male and 513 female. Cholera infantum is cited as a prominent cause of death, with the usual disproportion of white and colored. Of constitutional diseases, including scrofulous, tubercular, and kindred maladies, the mortality of the colored population is represented as more than two and a half times that of the white. Diarrhœal diseases loom up in large proportion, and it is stated that the considerable death-rate of children under five years of age is induced by bowel disorders which prevail during the summer months. The total number of deaths of children under five years of age, from all causes, was 2,187, or 50.25 per cent. of the total mortality for the year. Half the human mortality is represented as occurring before the age of five years. In these cases, also, the largest proportion of deaths is among the colored population. Phthisis pulmonalis is also represented as among the frequent causes of death in the District.

The able and suggestive report of the registrar, which we have merely glanced at, is accompanied by full and accurately-prepared tables, illustrating the text, which cannot fail to be of much interest to statisticians and others engaged in the study and causes of diseases.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The report of the treasurer embraces an itemized statement of all receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, from appropriations made by congressional act, June 23, 1874.

The receipts are as follows:

From the United States Treasurer.....	$32,220 00
From the Treasury of the District.....	32,220 00
Total.....	64,440 00
Expended from United States Treasury funds.....	32,220 00
Expended from District funds.....	32,220 00
Total.....	64,440 00
In addition to the above there was due the board from appropriation by the legislative assembly, act June 26, 1873, the sum of.....	13,312 71
Which amount the honorable Commissioners of the District were authorized and directed by Congress to pay to the board (act March 3, 1875) to enable it to discharge indebtedness incurred during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874. From this amount there was paid to "poor persons" for clothing, &c., destroyed to prevent the spread of small-pox...	7,029 61
For other indebtedness.....	6,283 11
Total.....	13,312 71

Customary accuracy distinguishes the report of the Treasurer, and it will be seen by the statement of that careful officer that the distribution of public funds in furtherance of the sanitary interests of the District has been made upon the most economical scale possible.

REPORT OF ATTORNEY TO THE BOARD.

This report is an able exposé of the proceedings had by the attorney during the past year, from which the following facts and figures have been carefully gleaned:

Number of cases prosecuted in police court during year.....	128
Number of convictions in such cases.....	61
Number of cases dismissed or acquitted in police court.....	13
Number of cases nolle prosequi or discontinued.....	55
Total amount of fines imposed.....	$575
Of these cases there was referred by health-officer, (nuisances).....	91
Of these cases there was referred by health-officer, (sale of unwholesome food)...	4
Hindering and interfering with inspectors and officers.....	4
Referred by registrar of vital statistics, (violation of vital-statistics regulations).	12
Cases in which arrests were made for nuisances by officers of Metropolitan Police and prosecuted by attorney of board of health.....	15

Number of cases in which appeals were taken from the police court to criminal court .....	8
Appeals abandoned by appellant .....	2
Found "not guilty" by jury in criminal court .....	2
Information quashed in criminal court .....	1
Convicted in criminal court .....	3

In addition to above, the attorney has defended three civil suits—one against the board for money claimed on contract, and two against Inspector Ludington for value of fish condemned by him; also, a prosecution against the pound-master for alleged cruelty in dog-catching. In all these judgments were entered for defendant. The large proportion of cases nolle prosequi or discontinued is owing to direction of health officer on being satisfied of abatement of nuisances complained of.

The decrease of number of cases presented this year—128—as compared to number in last year—170—is believed to be due to energetic action of health office, the vigorous enforcement of orders and regulations of the board, the improvement of public sentiment and knowledge with regard to sanitary matters, and the wise manner in which the board of health has been sustained by the courts.

No decision has been rendered by courts during the year denying to the board powers conferred by Congress. This is of the utmost importance, because appropriations being limited, and cases in which the board could, by its own, or the act of its agents, remove nuisances, are comparatively few. The main recourse of the board for the protection of the public health is the prosecution of offenders in the public courts. In this way the facts are submitted to judicial investigation, and the law enforced by judicial authority, while trial by jury is always secured to defendants on appeal. It is to be hoped the board may still continue to be sustained by the courts in the interests of the community; and if additional legislation is further needed to define the powers and duties of the board, and to specify more in detail the mode of procedure, and measures to be adopted by the board in performing its duty in providing for the removal of nuisances injurious to health, the subject may be properly presented to and wisely acted upon by Congress.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON THE CONDITION OF WOOD PAVEMENTS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The important question which forms the basis of this valuable report is "whether wood pavements in a state of decay, and wood pavements which, on account of their broken condition, allow decomposed animal and vegetable matter to collect in large quantities in holes, or under their surface, are not a source of malaria or infection, thus constituting a nuisance injurious to health?" The committee were also required to examine and report upon the condition of the wood pavements of Washington and Georgetown.

The whole subject is one of much interest, and has been ably and exhaustively treated by the committee. Since the report was communicated to the board condemning, upon specific grounds, wood pavements, and declaring them highly insanitary in a state of decay, numerous letters have been received from other health organizations indorsing the conclusions to which the committee have arrived.

FOOD-INSPECTION.

The food-inspectors of the board are required daily to visit the markets, green groceries, and other places where meats, vegetables, and fruits are offered for sale, and condemn such articles as are diseased and unsound. By reference to the health officer's report it will be seen that an immense work has been accomplished through the diligence and zeal of these useful officers. Yet it must be admitted that the field of food inspection is far from being covered by the imperfect means at command. In order to secure efficient compliance with the law forbidding the sale of unwholesome food, the practical application of chemistry and microscopy to the various articles of diet by skilled inspectors is imperatively demanded. For the investigation of the various forms of disease, and of insect life in certain kinds of meat, as well as the detection of impure and poisonous adulterations in a large class of articles of daily food, a sufficient appropriation should be promptly made. Adulterations of the commonest necessities of life is a rapidly-increasing evil, and should, if possible, be arrested.

While our inspectors have accomplished a most important work by protecting the community in a very considerable degree from the imposition of unsound meat, poultry, marine products, fruits, and vegetables, it must be admitted that the increasing sanitary requirements of the day demand a higher standard of personal qualification, and a more perfect method of exposing the poisons that lurk unobserved by the senses in the aliment offered for the nourishment of our bodies. To this end the board, recognizing the importance of keeping step with the sanitary advancement of the period, has already adopted a higher plane of qualification to be required of employes, and will continue hereafter to labor zealously in the same progressive direction.

WATER-SUPPLY.

The quality and supply of drinking-water constitute considerations of growing interest to scientists and sanitarians. Its constitution; the sources whence derived; its chemical analysis and microscopic inspection; its bearing directly and remotely upon the death-rate of communities; and the means of correcting and preventing its impurities are proper material for careful investigation by health organizations. That many disorders are justly referable to a contagion contained in drinking-water is a conceded fact. The researches of prominent medical observers demonstrate that various forms of fever, especially typhoid, may be traced to impurities in the water we drink, while the testimony of Chalice, Martin, and others, before the English Thames commission, show clearly that cholera has frequently a similar origin.

It will be remembered that last spring the Potomac water became suddenly and unusually turbid, and charged with offensive matter to a degree demanding prompt inquiry into its condition. The chief engineer of the Washington Aqueduct, in reply to a communication addressed to that officer, ascribed its muddy state to the frequent and heavy rains at Great Falls, whence our supply is derived, in connection with the small capacity of the distributing reservoir to the amount of water consumed, thus requiring a constant reflux from the river to preserve the level of the flow-line. To obviate this, he suggested a reservoir of larger capacity, which would allow the water to settle without disturbance from this cause. The deepening and extension of the distributing reservoir, and the use of meters, were also proposed by him among the possible means of correcting the existing nuisance; the former by giving the water time to settle before entering the iron main; the latter accomplishing the same object by reducing the waste, and thus obviating the necessity now existing of keeping the reservoir constantly flooded to its flow-line.

In regard to the cause of the impurity of the water at the time opinionous were divided; some contending that it originated in the rapid decomposition of confervæ, masses of algæ, and other plants, others referring the offensive condition to the decay of small fish and minute animal organisms. The latter opinion seemed to receive confirmation by the subsequent thorough flushing of the pipes, which washed out immense quantities of decomposed animal matter. The suggestion of the engineer in regard to the enlargement of the reservoir and the application of meters deserves special attention, as presenting the most available means of adding to the supply of water in the more elevated locations now imperfectly furnished by virtue of the immense waste which obtains in other sections of the city. The occasional impurities to which I have alluded can be best corrected by proper filtration at the point of general distribution, in the pipes near the entrance into buildings, or by small filtering arrangements in the interior of houses. In regard to the use of meters the views expressed in my report at the time of the disturbances in the water alluded to have been confirmed by subsequent observation. Asthen remarked, next to air, water should certainly, for all essential and sanitary purposes, bear the smallest possible tax; but unequally as at present distributed and lavishly wasted, some check would seem to be desirable, if not imperative.

The amount of water provided to the District is abundant to an extent well-nigh unparalleled. The average supply to fourteen English towns of second magnitude was, in 1867, rated at twenty-four gallons per capita; many of the towns averaged fourteen gallons per person, and the maximum estimate reached only twenty-four gallons per head where the most liberal supply was allowed for closets, baths, stables, and other unavoidable wastes. At present, if equally distributed, each man, woman, and child in the cities of Washington and Georgetown would be supplied daily with at least one hundred and twenty gallons of water. But it is not equally distributed; great waste occurs in the public service, in mechanical, manufacturing, and even private use. While one part of the community keeps its pipes running recklessly, and is more than furnished with sufficient water for drinking, bathing, and sanitary purposes, another part may be actually stinted in its proper proportion of this health-inspiring agent. Hence, the advantage of a general and required use of meters, that no private citizen, corporation, or branch of Government may consume more than a fair allowance without paying for the surplus. A suitable degree of economy and avoidance of waste should be demanded. While the benefits of the water-supply would be less equally and generally distributed to every citizen, the very check to the extravagant waste or overflow would give time for water to settle in the reservoir, thus relieving us of the periodical visitations of mud. This arrangement, while allowing to each person a larger quantity of water than is actually distributed in any other city per capita would diminish waste to the extent of remedying the present objection to the insufficient supply in certain sections of the city. Let each dwelling and public building be furnished with a meter, from the water company, by which the waste may be measured and charged for. This can be done without stinting any part of the community of its proper allowance, and will at the same time, as before stated, provide all classes with an abundant quantity for purposes of luxury and health.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS, SCHOOLS, AND PRIVATE DWELLINGS.

Attention was called in my last report to the sanitary conditions of our public buildings. These refer especially to overheating, inadequate ventilation, and overcrowding, by which the health of the employés of the Government is constantly being sacrificed. The duties of the board have been confined to an inspection of the mischief they are, as yet, powerless to remedy. The earnest attention of Congress is invoked for the means to correct the evils that have too long remained a burning disgrace to a wise and beneficent Government.

Similar defects exist in the internal arrangements of our school-buildings, where, most of all, strict regard should be had to the adaptation of hygienic principles. It is useless to dwell upon the deleterious effects of confined and vitiated air, especially upon children, who require a larger amount of pure oxygen than adults, and its depressing influence upon the vital powers, rendering the system vulnerable to the action of all sorts of deranging agencies. School hygiene is of vital importance; and it cannot be denied that disease and premature decay too often originate in the impure atmosphere of badly-ventilated school-rooms. The large class of congestive and nervous disorders, so frequent in childhood, are directly traceable, often, to the insanitary condition of these nurseries of instruction. Weak digestion, defective vision, spinal deformities, and other disorders may properly be ascribed to the same prolific cause of physical derangement.

One of the most serious outrages upon the health and lives of the young is a system of forced education, which still, to some extent, prevails. Nothing is more pernicious or sure to be succeeded by premature decay of both mind and body. In extreme youth the nervous system predominates over the muscular, and is exceedingly sensitive to impressions and violent disturbances. It needs no spur to activity or development. On the contrary, unrestrained physical exercise, in order to develop the imperfect muscular structure, is necessary to a proper physical equipoise. Compulsory brain-work is succeeded by depreciation of all the other vital functions, to be followed by wreck of health and life.

The number of hours proper for the detention of pupils in school, the mechanical appliances of the building, the period and amount of exercise, the æsthetic arrangements for amusement or diversion, all enter into the sanitary condition of the school-room.

Unwarrantable neglect and carelessness not unfrequently prevail in connection with the sanitary needs of the homes into which we gather our loved ones, it may be, for a life residence. A board of construction is occasionally established by our authorities, composed of engineers and mechanics, but strangely omitting the judicious sanitary representative. It is a singular anomaly in the history of the human mind that those who exercise extraordinary judgment and skill in the management of ordinary business affairs indicate the least in matters pertaining to the vital interests of health. When ill, men appropriate every species of quackery within reach; when well, they utterly ignore the means of preventing disease. That which concerns individual health, the most important of all considerations, is treated with inexcusable indifference. Thus we build splendid mansions, embellish them with every appliance of comfort and luxury, utterly ignoring the sanitary features of construction. Hot-air furnaces, defective drain-pipes, imperfect water-pipes and sewer connections, and a score of other defects exist in the most splendid private dwellings, poisoning the air, and bringing down to beds of sickness and death the heads of the household and the innocent prattlers of the fire-side. The following editorial from a late issue of the New York Tribune, in reference to the proper mode of heating our dwellings, deserves perusal:

A French physician noticed that a peculiar class of diseases was prevalent among the occupants of certain wards in the hospital at Savoy, but not in the other wards. His studies led him to the belief that the blood of those patients was poisoned by the air they breathed. The symptoms were similar to those observed where persons had attempted to kill themselves by the favorite method of suicide in France—a close room and a pan of burning charcoal. It has been ascertained that the poison in that form of suicide is due not to the carbonic acid but the carbonic oxide inhaled. Of the two, the latter is far the more deadly, acting as a blood-poison. Both gases are produced when hard coal is burned in the furnace, but the oxide is chiefly produced when the draught is turned off after a hot fire has been started. It has no smell; it is not absorbed by water; hence, if it gets into the air outside the furnace, it will not be taken up by steam or moisture. Next came the discovery that this carbonic oxide passes through red-hot iron as easily as water through a sieve. The French Academy investigated the facts and determined them by abundant experiments. Meantime the stoves of the Savoy hospital had been replaced by open fire-places, and the whole train of peculiar symptoms among the patients disappeared. General Morin afterward showed that cylinders of cast iron allowed the gases of combustion to pass freely through their substance, even at a heat much below redness. Quite recently Mr. W. Chandler Roberts has demonstrated similar facts as to other forms of iron.

In short, the furnace to heat air is very little better than the open pan of charcoal. It sets free the same gases when its iron is near a red-heat, and fills the apartments above with more or less diluted poison. If the pores of the iron were filled with some fire-proof glazing, perhaps the escape of gas could be prevented; but nobody has yet, we believe, come forward with such an invention. Stoves of terra-cotta have been suggested, but certainly have not made their appearance here. Steam-heating apparatus is unfortunately rather costly, though every year becoming less so. Meanwhile, those who will continue to use furnaces may save the general health of their households, and economize in doctors' bills as to a variety of obscure diseases, by observing two rules: do not let the iron of the furnace approach red-heat except while the draught is wide open; and do not let the burning fuel come higher than the lining. The furnace, under such treatment, will last longer; which, however, is a doubtful advantage.

It may be added that the use of a proper evaporator, which modifies the extreme dryness of the heated air, will render the atmosphere of the house far more tolerable and less injurious. A simple and useful apparatus for this purpose is the evaporating jar, of porous earthen ware, invented by Dr. Colburn, of this city, which is readily suspended by a wire connection to the open register. I can confidently recommend its general use as a convenient mode of rendering less exsiccating and oppressive the heat of the ordinary house-furnace.

SOCIAL EVIL.

In a number of our principal cities ordinances have been enacted looking to the medical inspection of prostitutes and the sequestration of the diseased, with the view of arresting the spread of a malady appalling in its effects, not only upon the victim, but not unfrequently upon his unoffending posterity. The legalization of bawdy-houses for so humane a purpose, startling as it may be to a sensitive moral sense, has many powerful advocates among the thoughtful, wise, and philanthropic of the community. Dr. S. T. Gross, of Philadelphia, than whom no higher sanitary authority exists, has published a paper strongly advocating the agitation of this subject, and the enforcement of legal enactments for the prevention of and arrest of a widespread evil. He regards it, of course, from a purely hygienic stand-point. "The prejudices which surround the subject," he says, "must be swept away, and men must march to the front and discharge their duty, however much they may be reproached and abused by the ignorant and foolish; positive action must be organized to check positive evil, to promote public good, and to heal the festering sore under which the country has so long groaned. All must lend a helping-hand in the great enterprise—the physician, the legislator, the philanthropist, the churchman, and the politician."

"What would be thought of a man," he continues, "who went about deliberately scattering poison and thus sowing the seeds of death? Is it less criminal to kill a person with the virus of syphilis than with the virus of small-pox, scarlatina, and ship-fever? Are there not stringent laws for the prevention of these and other contagious diseases? When yellow fever prevails in a foreign country, is quarantine not strictly enforced against all vessels touching at our shores? When the cattle-plague prevails, is not the importation of cattle strictly prohibited? Prostitution is an occupation, a profession, a trade, a business; and is the degraded creature who follows it and infects those who hold commerce with her any better than the baker who sells unwholesome bread, the woman who poisons her customer with decayed vegetables, or the butcher who sells infected meat—a crime which the dark ages used to punish by death?"

I have alluded to this subject because it is at this time attracting the attention of sanitarians in various parts of the country, and may at no distant day be forced upon the consideration of the health authorities of this District.

SMALL-POX.

Since the complete extinguishment by the board of the epidemic which prevailed in this District two years ago, extraordinary exemption from the disease has been experienced. Recently, however, the occurrence of a case in the heart of the city became, from failure to report the fact of its existence to the health authorities, a cause of no small disquietude. A few exposed individuals have since been affected with the malady; but the extraordinary vigilance and thorough treatment of persons and premises by the inspectors, acting under the direction of the health-officer, continue to keep the disease under perfect control.

ABATTOIRS.

It is unnecessary to refer to the immortal treatise of Cabanis to prove that man is especially adapted to mixed diet, and that animal food constitutes an important part of his essential nourishment. Hence the quality of meats he consumes is of immense sanitary importance. That this is materially affected in its qualities of nutrition by causes apparently trivial can no longer be questioned. It has been well remarked, that flesh contains the elements of the most virulent poisons, and a slight change in its conditions may convert that which is the very essence of its nutriment and life into a source of disease and death. In the conversion of animals into food, three important points are to be carefully considered: the condition of the animal before and at the time of slaughtering; the mode of killing; and the disposition of the meat after killing and before consumption. The contrast between the humanity, not to say tender kindness, practiced by those between whom and domestic animals exists a peculiar bond of sympathy and even familiarity and those who trade in them for gain is painfully apparent. From the moment the poor beast leaves the pleasant pastures and warm shelter of his owner for the market his sufferings begin. Confined cars are called into requisition and packed to their utmost limit with these hitherto unfettered rovers of the field. Unfed, without water, rushed over rough railways at a fearful rate of speed, they are driven and often kicked into a noisy inclosure, whence they are frequently urged over long, dusty, or stony roads, exposed to scorching suns and driving storms, to the various slaughter-houses where they are destined to be killed for food. Weary almost to death, panting for breath, and footsore, their lives are taken with indecent haste. Endowed with consciousness, sensibility to pain, emotions of grief and affright, it is not hard to determine the physiological effect produced upon the animal when these qualities are taxed and tortured to the utmost limit of endurance. The flesh of mammalia is notoriously deteriorated in its qualities of nutrition by long absence from food and water, disturbance of sleep, and physical suffering. Yet, with all these inhuman conditions present, the poor sufferer meets its final doom in the filthy shambles of the butcher.

In the next place, the mode of killing, and the surroundings of an ordinary slaughter-house, add materially to the deteriorating effect upon the healthy and nourishing quality of the flesh. Environed by their fellows in every stage of butchery, snuffing the blood, which to many animals is frightful beyond description, dragged resistingly by rope or lasso, conscious of his impending fate, the poor beast, frenzied and agonized, sinks with protruding eyes and quivering lips as the knife severs the throat and liberates the crimson current of life. Humanity suggests relief from the barbarities described, and claims a more painless mode of destroying the creatures that contribute so much to us in their life and death, and whose helplessness should appeal to our tenderest sympathies.

Another serious objection to the present mode of slaughtering is the frequent exposure of fresh meat after killing to the vitiated and offensive air of the building. Having already been subjected to influences of excitement before death, thus preventing healthful circulation, and producing by the heat thus generated a chemical reaction in the blood and juices of the flesh, precipitating putrefaction, and besides being subjected to offensive odors that check the circulation and purification of blood in the lungs, as well as to the morbid effects consequent upon the interruption of those important functions, the slaughtered animal readily absorbs germs of decomposition from the impure air, thus adding materially to its unfitness for food.

It is not surprising that the attention of sanitarians everywhere has been earnestly directed to the correction of the abuses to which I have referred. In most of the principal cities slaughtering within the corporate limits has been prohibited, and abattoirs established. Prominent among these are the establishments at Boston, Jersey City, and New Orleans. It cannot be doubted that slaughter-houses located in populous cities or districts, however carefully treated, become not only offensive to residents, but open to serious sanitary objections. The killing of animals, boiling of bones, rendering of fats, and the utilization of blood and offals should be conducted in one establishment or a series of buildings grouped together at some point removed from population, with every appliance for cleanliness and dispatch, possessing an abundant supply of running water, and easy and rapid facilities for transportation to market. The strictest hygienic requirements should be enforced, the entire arrangement being submitted to and conducted under the direction of a well-regulated board of health. Nothing short of this can effect exemption from a fearful nuisance, and secure to the consumer sound meats properly slaughtered.

With the abattoir should be connected an ample drove-yard where animals may rest from travel prior to being killed for food, be properly tended, fed, and sheltered, and critically inspected by suitable judges, for the purpose of detecting the least evidence of unsoundness or previous disease. The success of this plan, both in Europe and at home, justifies the reform in this District, where locality, water-supply, and other incidental advantages conspire to render it both feasible and eminently advantageous. In many places the more intelligent butchers, as in Boston, recognizing the importance of the measure in a sanitary view, have co-operated in the establishment and proper management of this important means of promoting the comfort and health of the community. The time has arrived when slaughter-houses, within the limits of Washington and Georgetown or their suburban neighborhoods, should be declared nuisances injurious to health, and abolished. Slaughtering, dressing, or hanging of meat, fat-rendering, boiling, &c., should be prohibited in any part of the cities of the District or suburbs, under severe penalty, thus compelling the establishment, under supervision of the board of health, of suitable buildings where the several occupations incident to the death and slaughtering of animals shall be conducted without offense and with regard to the comfort and health of the population. The saving of material now wasted, and the utilization of blood and offal immediately after slaughtering, thus preventing the vicious exhalations which proceed from animal matter in a state of putrefaction, are among the manifest arguments in favor of this mode of disposing of animals after death. In addition to these may be added machinery substituting manual labor, and the convenience afforded the health-officer for thorough and satisfactory inspection.

SEWERS.

That a proper system of sewerage is essential to public health admits of no question. While due regard has been had to the material and magnificent improvements which have added to the beauty and attractiveness of our cities, the construction of the sewers has also claimed much careful consideration. No human work is perfect, and, however correct the intention of its originator, it will sometimes fail of the desired results.

The perfect sewerage and drainage of large cities is a difficult problem to solve, and the best plans of construction will sometimes fail in vital points. That defects may exist in the smaller sewers of the city (which admit of comparatively easy repair) is not surprising, but the principal mains, it is believed, are in excellent condition. It has been contended that the B-street sewer, extending from Seventh to Seventeenth street, is, throughout its length, of inadequate capacity, and is, therefore, not prepared to carry off with sufficient rapidity the accumulating contents of its lateral branches. The objection is met, however, by the fact that in ordinary rain-floods no overflow of this sewer takes place, showing its adequacy to all ordinary emergencies. It is possible that, in the case of moderate tides partially filling the sewer, the remaining space may not be sufficient for the usual amount of fluid poured into it by its tributaries. When entered by an extraordinary tide or river-flow, the diameter of the sewer makes little or no difference, as in any event inundation is inevitable. Defects are also urged in connection with the draining of Tiber Valley, but the arrangements now in progress, when completed, will, it is thought, fully accomplish the object desired. These, however, should be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. With no intention to reflect on those who accomplished so many and vast improvements in our midst, it nevertheless becomes the duty of the board of health from time to time to investigate carefully the present sewerage system of our cities, with a view to speedy correction, if possible, of any defects which may occur endangering the public health. In few places have more pains and skill been expended than in the construction of our city sewerage, and whatever its defects, it cannot be denied that it has accomplished important sanitary results in draining the low lands along the well-remembered canal, the cess-pools along the Tiber and Slash Run, and the swamps of the northern section of the city. It has furnished sewer facilities for a large proportion of our population, heretofore dependent upon the alternative of back-yard or gutter, and wrought a miracle in the purified atmosphere of our streets and alleys. The chief objection to the present system is the fact that the outlet is below high-water mark, exposed to the danger of influx from the river in high tides or freshets, thus producing gaseous regurgitation, and forcing poisonous exhalations into many private dwellings. The correction of this great public defect is a problem difficult of solution; but that the mischief must and will be remedied at no distant day cannot be doubted. Carefully constructed as may be a net-work of sewers, they sometimes, after all, become the means of conveying into our homes the insidious and fatal germs of disease. Drinking in, as these sewers do, the impurities of the earth in malarial districts, receiving fetid and other matters from thousands of houses, and accumulating filth from streets, they become charged with the poisonous gases resulting from rapid decomposition. These gases, seeking vent somewhere, penetrate and saturate the air of our halls and sleeping-chambers, which are in direct connection with the receptacles in which they are being constantly generated and evolved. Carbonic acid, nitrogen, carbureted and sulphureted hydrogen, ammoniacal compounds, and fetid exhalations, although to a considerable extent diluted in the pipes and carried off into the river, are still present in variable quantity and intensity, insinuating themselves through imperfect house-connections into our living and sleeping apartments, to the imminent peril of life. In a large number of houses the traps, so called, are very imperfect. Indeed, no system of protecting our dwellings in this manner has been found effectual to resist the pressure of these gases when operated upon by the forces that work in our sewers. Especially is this the case with that portion finding outlet via Tiber Creek and B street sewers, embracing substantially the territory between Fourteenth street east and Seventeenth street west, B street south, and the boundary. I mention particularly Tiber Creek and B street because they are both tide-locked for over 6,000 feet from their outfalls, together with all the branch sewers between B street south and E street west. The result is that twice in every twenty-four hours by the flow of tide the capacity of these main sewers is so materially diminished as to obstruct the passage of the sewage entering them from the laterals, thus completely closing the outlets to the latter, and by the continuous flow of water, &c., from the more elevated portion of the city, contracting the air-space, and correspondingly increasing the pressure upon the gases—the tidal force guarding and forcing an entrance at the mouth of the sewer, to be met by the descending waters from the northern part of the city. While the effect is not particularly marked in the immediate vicinity of the tide-locked sewer, it is abundantly manifest in the higher portions of the city, where the gases are driven with such force and rapidity as to find an escape at every unguarded or weak point. This is alarmingly apparent during a heavy fall of rain, when a sewer, ordinarily running half full, is, by the increased flow, running three-fourths full, thus diminishing by one-half the capacity of the air-chamber, and proportionately increasing the pressure upon the gases. Owing to the vast amount of small pipe sewers, mostly twelve inches in diameter, this condition is not only likely to occur, but is well-nigh unavoidable.

That it does occur is evident from the fact that not unfrequently during heavy showers are these small pipes found running full bore. As these gases cannot be annihilated, they must have space, and not finding it in the sewers they are forced out at the weakest points, and these are invariably at the house-connections. Other powers and forces are at work, too, in our sewers, and operating upon these gases. Heat and cold, alternately expanding and contracting the atmosphere, are capable of developing a force irresistible by the ordinary system of trapping. Barometric changes and prevailing southerly winds materially affect the current of air within the sewers. As it is evident that these gases cannot be confined within the sewers, where will they be allowed to escape? Shall it be within our dwellings, and at night when our houses are closed and the whole atmosphere has been robbed of its vital properties; when, wrapped in slumber and the physical energies relaxed, we are comparatively powerless to resist the approach of disease? Or shall it be in the open outer air, where by dilution these gases may be dissipated and rendered comparatively harmless, or by a wise provision their properties be entirely changed and rendered innocuous?

There can be but one opinion upon this point, and, in view of its vital importance to the health of the city, I cannot too strongly urge the necessity for thorough ventilation of our sewers, and the arrest of their direct communication with our dwellings. As this is evidently a sanitary measure of great importance, it should not be left to the uncertain skill or honesty of contractors, but should be under the immediate supervision, if not control, of the health authorities. Let it be insisted that every house-connection with a sewer shall have communication with the outer atmosphere before entering the building, the trap being located between the main sewer and the outlet for ventilation. In this way by no possibility can the gases enter our dwellings. Moreover, by the application of a proper ventilator at these outlets, the gases may be so far changed in their properties as to become entirely innocuous.

An admirable arrangement to effect this object seems to be one suggested by Mr. W. H. Chase, whose important services in connection with our sewers are well known and appreciated. This invention—an improvement on the European ventilators—has been submitted to the board and favorably reported upon by its sanitary committee. It deserves and should receive a fair test. Should this, or any other discovery, accomplish what is proposed—the exclusion of poisonous gases from the interior of dwellings—an inestimable boon will be conferred upon whole communities who are now at the mercy of insidious and fatal enemies to health, approaching, at all hours, into our homes, although unappreciable to our senses.

OFFALS.

Frequent allusion has been made to the important reform inaugurated by the board of health in the mode of emptying privy-vaults and boxes, and the equally inoffensive transportation of the material, thus collected, beyond the city limits, as contrasted with the old and still remembered system of scavenging. It was the purpose of the board, at an early period of its existence, to rid the District of one of the most revolting and pernicious of nuisances; and so soon as the means were at hand by which to avail of an improved mode, the old plan, so long tolerated, was promptly and firmly abolished. After much time consumed and experiments made with various machines, the conclusions reached were in favor of the pump and air-tight tank offered by the "Odorless Excavating Apparatus Company." After a long and faithful trial of this machine, during which the work has been uniformly and thoroughly done, by day, without the slightest disturbance or offense, we have every inducement to continue its use, and confidently recommend it as, in all respects, admirably adapted for the purpose to be accomplished. Since the introduction of this reformatory measure many inquiries have reached the board from other and distant quarters, which have resulted in the successful introduction of this apparatus into most of the principal cities. In New York, however, strange to say, the influence of the old scavengers has proved a serious obstacle to the adoption of the modern system. Up to April 30, 1874, according to the last report of the board of health of the city of New York, nearly all the scavenging had been done by the old process. Upon the 11th of July, of that year, the board was authorized by the mayor to issue permits to scavengers. The complaints, however, of the citizens became so frequent as to the manner in which the night-men performed their duty that an investigation was demanded and instituted by the sanitary superintendent. Still later, in August, the board of health deemed it of sufficient importance to appoint two special inspectors to observe the operations of the scavengers. He concludes his report to the board in the following significant language. Admitting, unreservedly, an evil the health department seems unable to remedy, he says: "The system now in vogue in this city of scavenging is utterly unworthy of the age. Although it is undoubtedly possible, by great care and neatness, to empty vaults without offense by it, the temptation of darkness, which prevents surveillance, and the character of the employés, to whom odor is not a nuisance, will insure the work being often done in a slovenly manner, allowing the air of densely-populated blocks to be nightly filled with the most poisonous and disgusting emanations, by which low forms of fever, diarrhea, and dysentery are created, or seriously aggravated." In his allusion to the subject, C. F. Chandler, president of the board, remarks: "This board adheres to the opinion that night-scavenging should be done by air-tight apparatus, (pumps and air-tight tanks and cans,) and that the use of open carts and buckets, and the offensive nuisance which necessarily attends them, should be prohibited in this city. But under the act of the legislature which has removed from this department all practical control over night-scavengers, this board is powerless to effect any reform in the method of conducting this offensive business or of enforcing any regulations which may have been made for the purpose of securing proper care and cleanliness in the operations of the scavengers." In the presence of this humiliating confession, it is cause for congratulation that, under the powers conferred by Congress, the board of health of this District was enabled early to grapple successfully with this colossal mischief, thus wiping out effectually a most flagrant nuisance, by which the death-rate of our cities had been largely increased. Within the past year a marked improvement has been inaugurated, by which the night-soil, after having been deposited at the depot for that purpose, is transported by rail beyond the limits of the District. Formerly this service was performed by means of barges and tugs, the offals being thus conveyed to a remote point on the river. The severity of the winters obstructing navigation rendered it often impossible to transport the material by water, and thus by its detention the very nuisance was created which it was the intention to avoid. Accordingly, last April a contract was made with a responsible party requiring them to remove the night-soil without offense to a point approved by the board. In compliance with this agreement, the work of transportation has been conducted in a thorough and satisfactory manner, and at an annual saving in cost to the Government, over the former mode, of the considerable sum of $12,500.

GARBAGE SERVICE.

On the 1st of March, 1875, the work of removing and collecting the accumulated garbage of Washington and Georgetown was placed under the direction and control of the board of health by the Commissioners of the District, with the condition annexed that its removal should be made by rail, in sealed vessels, beyond the District limits, and with the further condition that the cost of the service should not exceed \$1,300 per month. Although, owing to the excess of fruits and vegetables during the past summer, the amount of garbage was greatly increased, the work has been promptly performed to the satisfaction of the community, and at greatly reduced cost. From December 1, 1874, to March 31, 1875, inclusive, (under the old plan,) 1,511 tons were removed, an average of  $39\frac{1}{2}$  per month, or 15 tons per day, the cost for that period being \$4,938.20, at the rate of \$3.13 per ton. From April 1 to October 31, 1875, (under the direction of the board of health,) 4,028 tons were collected and removed, an average of  $57\frac{1}{2}$  tons per month, or upwards of 22 tons per day. Expense to the District, \$9,100, or at the rate of \$2.25 per ton.

It will be thus seen that, under the existing arrangement, an exact saving has been secured to the Government, annually, over the former system, of $6,400.

THE SICK POOR.

The service of caring for the sick poor is another duty imposed upon the board, under certain conditions, by the Commissioners of the District. From the date of last report to the 31st of last October, 1875, inclusive, the number of persons treated by the physicians to the poor was 5,797; pay to physicians and clerks amounted to $4,866.41; cost of medicines, $2,162.65; making a total for eleven months of $7,029.06; the amount of expenditures within the period mentioned has been $304.15 less than the sum allowed by the Commissioners for the conduct of this important work, or a saving over former years, since placed in charge of the board of health, of $18,207.92.

The burial of paupers and the custody and management of Holmead cemetery are also among the objects committed to the direction of the board, interesting facts in connection with which may be gleaned from the appended report to the Commissioners.

NECESSARY LEGISLATION.

Upon this subject I can only repeat the opinions heretofore expressed that additional legislation is needed to place more immediately under the control of the board of health certain sanitary agencies not at present submitted to their direction, except in a partial degree. Among these may be included the cleaning of streets and alleys; of sewer traps; the removal of garbage; the power to make and enforce suitable quarantine regulations, and to take cognizance of whatever is dangerous to life and limb. To these should be added the inspection of hospitals wholly or partially supplied at public expense, the determination of worthy objects of charity, and the issuing of permits to such institutions. These and all other subjects involving sanitary agencies or such as endanger life and limb should be considered and disposed of by the board of health.

CONCLUSION.

The reports of the various departments of the board of health in fullness of detail leave little to be added in the way of elaboration. The last year has been marked by extraordinary zeal and efficiency on the part of officers and employés, attended by corresponding evidences of progress. No drones have lingered in our official hive; every department has contributed its utmost of time and effort to the common stock, and a sense of responsibility and the necessity of personal co-operation have animated every individual toiler in the field. The result has been the accomplishment of a beneficent work, challenging the good opinion of the intelligent and the philanthropic of our own community, and attracting the attention and commendation of prominent sanitarians in other parts of the country. It is true, at the beginning we were obliged to combat the usual prejudice incident to every enterprise which presumes to interfere with the supposed comforts and imaginary rights of the citizen. This, however, speedily yielded to a firm discharge of duty on the part of the board, and steadily and surely the wholesome reforms inaugurated and carried out changed the current of public sentiment, and made friends of those who were before enemies. Dr. Elisha Harris, than whom no more accomplished or laborious sanitarian exists, in a recent paper read at the American Health Association, held in Baltimore, thus alludes to the board in connection with the sanitary improvements of the District: "Though at the outset," he observes, "the District of Columbia organized the board of health under State auspices rather than under the pressure of medical and social demands, it must be conceded that to create a board endowed with powers for such efficiency as this board has evinced was an act fit for the National Government and District authorities." The same able writer, in a paper read last year before the Social Science Congress, at Glasgow, Scotland, referring to this board, says: "The work goes on, and will go on, because the life and health of 140,000 residents and of a million of transient visitors are jeopardized by delay or interruption in this great duty of sanitary drainage, grading and paving."

It is cause for congratulation that an orthodox spirit is diffusing itself throughout the country in respect to the hitherto much-neglected and abused interests of public hygiene. A few years have developed from crude and undigested material a broad and comprehensive science, challenging universal admiration. Every city and town has its separate sanitary organization, and it will not be long ere the smaller country villages, if destitute of a board of health, will be without claim to even decent respectability. Municipal boards have proved the precursors of State organs, and State boards point to the ultimate establishment of a comprehensive national sanitary bureau—to an era in our country's history, keeping step to the march of an enlightened civilization, when the health of the masses, which constitutes the foundation of the State in physical development and prowess, and, therefore, in moral and intellectual growth, will be recognized of vital and paramount importance; when a part at least of appropriations and appliances devoted to the investigation of diseases in animals will be spared for the study of human maladies and the best modes of mitigating, arresting, or successfully preventing their fearful ravages.

In concluding our labors for the year past we have just cause to acknowledge the general acquiescence by an intelligent community in the importance and propriety of the measures instituted for the amelioration of the public health, the encouragement and assistance rendered by Congress in extending our powers and making suitable appropriation for the duties imposed upon us, and, finally, the prompt and courteous response to our requests uniformly made by the distinguished Commissioners of the District, with whom we have been in constant and agreeable official contact.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY, WITH ACCOMPANYING PAPERS.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, BOARD OF HEALTH,
Washington, November 15, 1875.

SIR: As required by the rules of the board, I have the honor to submit my annual report for the year ending September 30, 1875.

The correspondence has been as follows:

Letters received .....	2,324
Replied to by indorsement .....	629
Letters written and recorded .....	622
Referred to health officer for report .....	231
Referred to committees .....	387
Referred to registrar of vital statistics .....	103

The proceedings of 106 meetings have been duly recorded, signed by the president and attested by the secretary after approval by formal vote in public meeting. This record, of which a comprehensive subject-index has been made, covers 358 closely written pages. A correct record has been kept, in books prepared for that purpose, of all letters received and sent; of applications and appointments; of accounts rendered against the board for work performed and materials furnished; and all ordinances enacted by the board have been duly engrossed in the book of ordinances.

The correspondence with the various health boards throughout this country and Europe has been quite extensive, and the information thus obtained has been profitably utilized.

So great has been the demand for copies of our last annual report, that the large edition published, viz, 2,000 copies, is quite exhausted, while not a single copy of the preceeding report remains for distribution.

The matter of the construction and repair of sewers in different sections of the District; the filling of lots below grade covered with stagnant water; the Georgetown powder-magazine; the extension of the B-street sewer; the draining of lots under act of the legislative assembly of August 21, 1871; the payment of small-pox claims; the conduct of the garbage service; the management of the Western burial-ground (Holmead;) the care of the sick poor; furnishing hospital accommodations for same, &c.; the burial of paupers; the condition of wood-pavements, the ventilation of school-buildings; the erection of public urinals; the conditions of streets, avenues, and alleys; the herding of domestic animals on unincluded grounds; the condition of the Potomac water; and the filling of wells, have all been subjects of correspondence with the honorable Commissioners of the District.

The work of the board under authority conferred, or duties imposed by the Commissioners of the District, is briefly reviewed in report made to them on the 9th instant; copy herewith submitted.

So many demands have been made upon us during the past year for information as to the regulations of this board governing the disposition of offals, that I deem it not inappropriate to present with this report, for publication, the several contracts under which the work is performed.

During the year large additions have been made to the library, which now contains many valuable works on the subject of sanitary engineering, public-health laws, live-stock inspections, veterinary sanitary science and police, arrangement and ventilation of buildings, food and its adulterations, &c., all of which have been carefully catalogued, and records of the same kept as required.

An inventory has been taken of all the property of the board, and duly recorded, as required by the regulations. The estimated value of such property is $3,824.

A large number of reports have been presented by the several standing and special committees, all of which were duly considered by the board, and action had thereon.

From the committee on ordinances, reports upon the authority of the board and regulations for its adoption with regard to the matter of the collection and removal of offals, preparing contracts for the same, &c., the subject of vital statistics, the filling of lots below grade and the drainage of the same, the matter of sewer-connections, the use of old barrels for re-packing flour, &c., defective plumbing, and the revision of the code. Copies of ordinances, regulations, and orders of the board, as revised by this committee and adopted by the board, are herewith presented.

The report of the attorney to the board, whose duties are performed under the supervision of this committee, is submitted herewith.

From the sanitary committee, reports on the condition of sewers in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, slaughter-houses, the construction and ventilation of privies, water-closets and the like, the water-supply for drinking and culinary purposes, public urinals, the cleaning of sewer-traps, the kind and application of disinfectants, and the use of explosive illuminating-oils, &c., have been made.

From the sanitary police committee reports have been made, among other subjects, on the conduct of the pound service, qualifications of inspectors, and on rules governing appointments in the service of the board.

From the finance committee, on all accounts presented for work or materials furnished for the service of the board, and generally upon all matters involving expenditures for any purpose, full reports have been made.

A standing committee, styled the committee on food-inspections, was organized by the board September 10, 1875, to which are referred all matters pertaining to the general subject of the inspection and condemnation of articles of food. This committee has had under consideration and reported upon the organization and conduct of this branch of the service, recommending the appointment of a chemist and microscopist for such service. Other matters of importance pertaining thereto are at this date being considered.

The reports of these several committees have been duly recorded, and so classified and arranged as to be immediately available for reference.

The books and accounts of the treasurer have been kept in this office under the supervision of such officer, and it is a subject of congratulation that, since the organization of the board, four and a half years since, not a single error has been made in the treasurer's books, and his accounts have all been examined by the proper accounting-officers of the Government, found correct, and closed. His report of receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, is herewith presented.

I cannot close this report without making special mention of the skillful and efficient manner in which the chief clerk of the board and his assistant have discharged the onerous and sometimes perplexing duties of their positions. Both have shown themselves earnest, faithful, and laborious; while the conscientious and wise performance of their duty has been of the greatest advantage to me, and contributed largely to the efficiency of the board of health itself.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.

JOHN MERCER LANGSTON,

Secretary.

Hon. C. C. Cox, M. D.,

President Board of Health.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, BOARD OF HEALTH,

Washington, November 9, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: Conformably with your request of the 15th ultimo, we have the honor to report that by virtue of authority granted and duties imposed by your orders, work has been performed under the supervision of the board of health, during the eleven months ending October 31, 1875, as follows:

The collection and removal of garbage from the cities of Washington and Georgetown and suburbs thereof.

The care of the sick poor of the District, furnishing medical attendance, and supplying medicines for the same.

The burial of paupers.

THE GARBAGE SERVICE.

The number of tons of garbage removed by the collectors from December 1, 1874, to March 31, 1875, inclusive, was 1,577, an average of 394½ tons per month, or 15 tons per day; the cost of the service for that period being $4,938.20, or at the rate of $3.13 per ton.

March 19, 1875, the following communication was received from your office:

BOARD OF HEALTH.

GENTLEMEN: Referring to so much of your letter of the 11th instant as relates to the collection and removal of garbage from within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, without nuisance or offense, and its conveyance by railroad beyond the limits of the District, I am directed to say that the Commissioners have carefully considered your proposition, with the manner in which you propose to do the work, and have decided to charge you with the performance of this service for one year, commencing April 1, 1875, the price of the same not to exceed thirteen hundred dollars per month

Very respectfully,

WM. TINDALL,

Secretary.

By virtue of authority herein given, the board of health, subject to the conditions and restrictions named, assumed entire control of this branch of the sanitary service, and entered into contract with Messrs. H. F. Turner & Co., for the period of one year, for the collection of all garbage and refuse animal and vegetable matter from dwelling-houses, markets, and other places within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and suburbs thereof, in air-tight casks or barrels, to be sealed when filled, and with the further proviso that said garbage, refuse animal and vegetable matter, should be by them removed and transported in said casks, at their own cost and expense, to a building or depot within the District of Columbia, designated for that purpose, and by them transferred and delivered directly, on board of cars, for removal from said District, and without creating any nuisance or offense, &c.

Work was begun under this contract April 1, 1875, and now is in full and successful operation.

From April 1 to October 31, 1875, 4,028 tons of garbage were collected by the contractors in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and removed by rail beyond the limits of the District, being an average of 57½ tons per month, or upward of 22 tons per day, the expense of which service to the District was $9,100, or at the rate of $2.25 per ton.

From the almost total absence of complaints, and from the experiences of the past, we can confidently assert that the service, as now performed, gives entire satisfaction to the community, while, as shown by the figures given above, the expense of the work under previous systems has been materially reduced.

THE SICK POOR.

The system inaugurated by the board of health, under the provisions of your order of September 1, 1874, governing this service, has been strictly adhered to. With a single exception, no neglect of duty on the part of any of the physicians to the poor has been brought to the attention of the board. The party complained of was promptly removed.

The quality of medicines furnished has been fully up to the standard, as shown by the reports made from time to time by the chemist to the board, and generally the service has been performed, as we trust and believe, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

The number of persons treated by the physicians from November 30, 1874, (date of last report,) to October 31, 1875, inclusive, was 5,797.

Pay of physicians and clerk of records for the same period.....	$4,866 41
Cost of medicines, books, and blanks .....	2,162 65

--	----------

BURIAL OF PAUPERS.

During the eleven months ending October 31, 1875, the bodies of 308 poor persons were buried in Potter's Field. Removed from the various hospitals and buried at public expense in other cemeteries during the same period, 152. Total burials at public expense, 460, of which number 88 were still-born children; the number of coffins furnished was 434.

HOLMEAD CEMETERY.

The custody and management of this old cemetery, otherwise known as the "Western burial-ground," was transferred to the board of health by your order of November 14, 1874. We found it in a very dilapidated condition, fences destroyed, trees and gravestones broken down, and bricks and other material stolen therefrom by parties unknown.

The former superintendent, Richard W. Brown, was arrested upon complaint of several lot-owners, but they failed to convict him of the crime of appropriating the material for his own benefit. He was dismissed from the position by us, and Edward Woodland appointed to fill the vacancy. As your order expressly provided that no expense to the District of Columbia was to be incurred in the discharge of this trust, the board, at the suggestion of the health-officer in April, 1875, required the registrar of vital statistics to charge a fee of 50 cents for each permit for disinterment, the proceeds to be applied to defray the necessary expenses of material, labor, &c., for repairs. Under that regulation $23 have been collected, and $20.16 expended under the supervision of the health-officer.

The condition of the cemetery is now greatly improved, and depredations have entirely ceased. To the date covered by this report, (October 31, 1875,) 147 bodies have been disinterred and removed to other cemeteries within the District of Columbia. These grounds are now some eight or ten feet above grade on Boundary street, the bank in danger of caving down, leaving the coffins in old graves exposed.

It is earnestly recommended that some immediate permanent improvement be made, either by the lot-owners or the District, or preferably, (if authority exists,) that an order be issued requiring the disinterment and removal therefrom to other cemeteries, within a reasonable time, of all bodies now remaining within the inclosure, and its abandonment as a resting-place for the dead. Should the latter course be deemed best for all concerned, it will be necessary to make provision for the disinterment and removal to the Eastern burial-ground, or other cemeteries, of the remains of the many indigent and unknown poor deposited there in past years.

CLEANING PRIVY VAULTS AND REMOVAL OF OFFALS.

This agreement, made this 7th day of October, A. D. 1874, between the board of health of the District of Columbia of the first part, and the Odorless Excavating Apparatus Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of Maryland and doing business in Washington, D. C., of the second part, witnesseth :

That the party of the first part, in consideration of the covenants and agreements herein made by the party of the second part, covenants and agrees with said party of the second part to appoint, authorize, and designate, and does hereby appoint, authorize, and designate, said party of the second part to abate a nuisance in said District of Columbia, declared to be such by declaration and ordinance of said board of health passed September 16, A. D. 1873, by the removal and transportation of night-soil and fecal matter from privies, privy-boxes, vaults, sinks, cess-pools, and other places where such night-soil or fecal matter may be deposited within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, in said District, and the more densely-populated suburbs of said cities, by means of their improved "odorless excavating apparatus," and in accordance with the terms and provisions of said declaration and ordinance. This contract to be and remain in force during the full term of five years, beginning from the 15th day of October, A. D. 1874: Provided, That at the expiration of three years from said 15th day of October, A. D. 1874, said board of health may, if the interests of the District of Columbia require, annul this contract, giving notice thereof three months before the expiration of said three years.

And the said party of the second part, in consideration of the foregoing covenants and agreements by the party of the first part, covenants and agrees with said party of the first part that said party of the second part will, for and during the term of years hereinbefore mentioned, promptly and thoroughly remove, in the day-time, and at their own cost and expense, all the contents of the privies, privy-boxes, vaults, sinks, cess-pools, and other places used as depositories for night-soil and fecal matter in said cities of Washington and Georgetown, and the more densely-populated suburbs thereof, by the use of air-tight apparatus or pneumatic process, and transport said contents in air-tight casks, in such manner as to prevent said contents of privies, privy-boxes, vaults, sinks, or cess-pools from being agitated or exposed in the open air during such process of removal and transportation; and shall deliver said contents in said air-tight casks on board of the barges or vessels designated as receptacles for such night-soil and fecal matter, at the foot of S street, southeast, wharf, and at the foot of Seventeenth street, northwest, wharf, in the city of Washington, D. C., or at such other place or places in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, D. C., as may be designated by said board of health; and will perform such work of removal, transportation, and delivery in accordance with the ordinances and regulations of said board of health, and under the direction, and subject to the approval of the same, and at the following rates or prices, to be paid in advance by, and collected by said party of the second part from the person or persons owning or occupying the premises whereon said privies or other receptacles of night-soil and fecal matter are situated, to wit:

For removing the contents of each box not exceeding 3 feet in length, and 18 inches in width, and 18 inches in depth, the sum of $1; and in the same proportion for boxes of larger dimensions, and for removing the contents of every bucket or other vessel not exceeding 18 inches in diameter, the sum of 37½ cents; and for removing the contents of every bucket or other vessel exceeding 18 inches in diameter, at the rate fixed for the removal of the contents of said boxes.

And said party of the second part further covenants and agrees with the said party of the first part that said party of the second part will provide such suitable receptacles in the several districts for notices for said service as shall be prescribed by said board of health, and shall make such reports of their service from time to time as may be required by said board; that when boxes used as receptacles for night-soil or fecal matter in said cities of Washington or Georgetown or their suburbs are unfit for use, said party of the second part will report the same to said board of health, and will remove said boxes when ordered by said board, at an expense to the owner thereof, not to exceed 50 cents per box; that said party of the second part will furnish and use all necessary deodorizers and disinfectants to prevent the escape or diffusion of noxious or offensive gases or odors from the contents of privies, privy-boxes, vaults, &c., during the process of removal, at their own cost and without charge for the same, the quantity and quality of said deodorizers and disinfectants to be determined by said board of health; that said party of the second part will perform the work of removing, transporting, and delivering night-soil and fecal matter as herein provided, carefully and efficiently, and will keep constantly on hand and use good, complete, and effective apparatus for such purpose, and whenever any portions of said apparatus become worn or broken, so as to no longer prevent the escape of noxious gases and offensive material, will repair or renew the same, and will keep the same at all times in good and effective condition; and that said party of the second part will turn over and deliver, free of charge, to the party of the first part, on or before the 15th day of October, A. D. 1874, all barrels or air-tight casks now in the possession of or in use by the Odorless Excavating Company, of Washington, D. C., for removing and transporting night-soil in said District of Columbia, and will hereafter turn over and deliver to said party of the first part one hundred and fifty of such barrels or air-tight casks during each year of the continuance of this contract, as required by said board of health; and will furnish, free of charge, all necessary fixtures for all barrels used for removing night-soil by said board.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first hereinbefore written.

SEC. 4. That it shall be the duty of each inspector of food to attend the market or markets within his inspection-district every morning, at the time when sales commence, and carefully inspect all meats, fowl, game, and vegetables offered for sale, and condemn, seize, and cause to be removed such as may be diseased, or from any other cause rendered unfit for food. He shall also visit, as early as practicable each day, every green-grocery or other place within his district, where articles of food are kept for sale, and perform his duty of inspection, condemnation, seizure, and removal as hereinbefore prescribed. He shall report his official proceedings daily to the Health-officer, and in the performance of his duties shall be under the direction of said officer; and the inspectors of food shall perform such other duties and special inspections as may be directed by the Health-officer.

SEC. 6. That it shall be the duty of the inspector of fish and other marine products to examine and inspect all fish, oysters, clams, lobsters, and other marine products, landing by boat, arriving by rail, or otherwise brought by any person or persons into the cities of Washington and Georgetown; and if, upon such inspection, said inspector shall find any of the said marine products to be in an unsound, diseased, or unwholesome condition, it shall be his duty to prohibit their sale; and the said inspector of fish is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to condemn, seize, and remove any unsound, diseased, or unwholesome fish, oysters, clams, lobsters, crabs, or other marine products which may

SEC. 8. That upon any cattle, meat, birds, fowls, fish or other marine products, vegetables, or other articles of food being found by any inspector or other officer of the Board of Health in a condition which is, in his judgment, unwholesome, and unfit for use as human food, or in a condition or of a quality forbidden by the ordinances of this Board, but with respect to the quality and condition of which articles of food said Inspector or other officer may be in doubt, he shall forbid the sale thereof, and order that the same be set aside, and shall at once notify the Health-officer of such action; and if, upon inspection, the Health-officer shall concur in the judgment of the Inspector or other officer aforesaid, said Health-officer shall prohibit the sale and order the removal of said articles, according to the regulations of the Board of Health; and if the Health-officer shall not concur in the judgment of the Inspector or other officer aforesaid, the sale of said articles shall be allowed. ### Rules and regulations in regard to small-pox.

THE DISEASE.

The essential nature of small-pox is to diffuse itself, and, under certain favorable conditions, it is not only communicable from person to person, but capable of being transported to great distances.

To prevent the propagation of the specific poison, the following sanitary regulations have been adopted by the Board of Health and approved by the Governor of the District of Columbia:

VACCINATION.

Parents and guardians shall cause their children and wards to be vaccinated before they attain the age of two years, and revaccinated whenever the Board of Health shall, after five years from the last vaccination, require it.

The Board of Health hereby orders and requires the vaccination of all the inhabitants in the District of Columbia, and, whenever in their opinion the public health demands it, the revaccination of all persons who do not furnish satisfactory evidence that they have been successfully vaccinated or revaccinated within five years.

The Board of Health will furnish the means of vaccination to such persons as are unable to pay for the same. For this purpose the physicians to the poor, or their assistants, will be directed to vaccinate the poor gratuitously; and, whenever the exigency requires it, physicians will be employed to go from house to house for the purpose of vaccinating all people who need vaccination.

Principals of incorporated manufacturing companies, superintendents of almshouses, reform and industrial schools, lunatic-hospitals, and of all other charities where the poor and sick are received; masters of houses of correction, jailers, keepers of prisons, and directors or officers of all institutions supported or aided by the District of Columbia, shall, at the expense of their respective corporations or institutions, cause all inmates thereof to be vaccinated immediately upon their admission thereto, unless they produce sufficient evidence of previous successful vaccination having taken place within five years.

ISOLATION.

Small-pox being eminently contagious and infectious, isolation forms an imperative necessity for the prevention of its propagation. Whenever, therefore, a case of small-pox occurs in a dwelling containing more than two inhabitants, it shall be the duty of the head of the family to select the most remote apartment for the occupancy of the person afflicted with small-pox—the highest room in the dwelling to be preferred.

And whenever, in a tenement-house and lodging-house, boarding-house, or hotel, the person afflicted by the small-pox cannot be isolated to the satisfaction of the Health-officer, said person shall be removed to the small-pox hospital by agents employed for the purpose by the Board of Health.

WARNING-SIGNS.

Wherever a case of small-pox breaks out in any dwelling or place, the warning-flag (made of yellow flannel) shall be attached to, and exposed from, the premises occupied by said case, as a warning to the passer-by of the presence of small-pox in that locality. And if the yellow flag be not immediately attainable, a placard, on which is written, in large and legible letters, "Small-pox here," shall be fastened upon an exposed part of the infected house or dwelling.

DISINFECTION.

It shall be the duty of those in whose dwellings small-pox occurs to fumigate the house, and the room of the patient, with sulphur three times a day; to cleanse and disinfect every part of the dwelling by the free use of chlorinated soda, carbolic acid, bromo chloralum, or such other disinfectant as the Board of Health may direct.

A cloth of the size of a square yard, steeped in a solution of chlorinated soda, carbolic acid, or bromo chloralum, shall be hung in the patient's room and kept constantly saturated with the said disinfectants.

CARE OF THE SICK-ROOM.

The room of the patient shall be kept thoroughly ventilated, and no other person than a nurse who has had the small-pox, or a member of the family, shall be allowed to enter the same. Persons being in attendance upon the sick shall not come in contact with other inmates or persons, unless they have been previously properly fumigated and disinfected, and have changed the clothing worn by them while in the sick-room.

It shall be the duty of said attendants to see that no clothing is conveyed from the sick-room that has not been previously disinfected and fumigated. And, moreover, all clothing in said room, or worn by the patient while affected by small-pox, shall be kept distinct and separate, and shall be given out to be washed only to persons who have had the small-pox, the fact to be stated in every instance that they are from a small-pox patient, and must, therefore, be kept and washed separately.

NOTICE TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

It is the duty of every good citizen immediately to notify the Board of Health of every case of small-pox coming to his knowledge. But it is especially enjoined by law upon the proprietors of tenement-houses, lodging-houses, boarding-houses, and hotels, to notify the Board of Health of the presence of small-pox in their respective abodes, under penalty of fine and imprisonment, and this law against all persons concerned will be strictly enforced.

INTERMENTS.

It shall be the duty of the citizen to immediately notify the Board of Health of the death of any person from small-pox, of which he may have knowledge, and no one except such as may have had the small-pox, and the officers of the Board of Health assigned to that duty shall take charge of, dress, or bury the body of the person who has thus died.

The interment of persons dying from small-pox shall take place within six hours after death, or as soon as the circumstances of the case will allow; and no person who has died of small-pox shall be buried in private or public cemeteries or burying-grounds without a permit from the Board of Health, a member of the same, or the Health-officer.

Whenever funeral obsequies may be desired, the body shall be placed in a hermetically-sealed metal coffin, and no person will be allowed to be present at said obsequies or follow the corpse to the grave except the nearest kin-relations; and under no circumstances shall a corpse infected with small-pox be taken to a church or meeting-house, but it shall be conveyed directly from the house to the grave.

When people are so poor as to be unable to incur the expense of coffin and burial, any undertaker appointed to furnish coffins to the poor shall provide the coffin, and in every case shall take the same to the house in which the corpse lies, but shall not place said corpse in the coffin, or take any part in laying out the dead, unless he has had the small-pox, and properly fumigated and disinfected his clothing. The laying-out of the body and the burial shall be done by the officers appointed for that purpose by the Board of Health.

The small-pox ambulances shall be kept at the small-pox hospital.

The ambulance shall be accompanied by an inspector whenever needed for the removal of small-pox patients or otherwise.

The inspector accompanying the ambulance and the driver are forbidden from entering street-cars or any public conveyance.

They shall also keep a suit of clothing to wear during the service of removing small-pox patients; said suit of clothing to be kept fumigated and disinfected at all times, and under no circumstances shall they wear the said clothing when off duty.

The inspector attending to small-pox patients and the driver of the ambulance shall, until otherwise ordered, wear a linen suit while on duty.

The inspector detailed to attend to the removal of small-pox patients shall fumigate and disinfect the dwellings where small-pox cases occur. He shall see that the clothing is properly disinfected, packed up, carried safely to the ambulance, and destroyed. He shall keep an account of the clothes or furniture of poor persons which have been destroyed, the probable value of the same, and the names of the parties to whom they belong, and give a receipt for the same.

Under no circumstances shall the ambulance be allowed to tarry in the streets, except for such length of time as will be required to remove the patient or the body.

The ambulance shall not be taken to any place for repair; but, if repair is needed, a person having had the small-pox shall be engaged to mend it at its regular depository.

In driving the ambulance to any point, care shall be taken to avoid crowded streets, school-houses, or frequented places. The driver shall, as far as practicable, keep out of crowded thoroughfares, and shall avoid meeting or passing any procession, funeral, or large concourse of people.

The inspector shall display the yellow flag from every dwelling containing small-pox; and if said flag be taken away without authority, the Health-officer must be immediately notified of the fact.

The inspector of each district shall be notified of the presence and locality of small-pox cases in his district; and it shall be his duty to see that the quarantine regulations relating to houses having the small-pox within are properly enforced, and that no person exposed to the contagion be allowed to go out of the dwelling or come in contact with any other person.

The inspector shall, in an urbane manner, inform the people of the quarantine regulations imposed by the Board of Health regarding small-pox, but shall cause no unnecessary hardship.

The inspector detailed to attend to the small-pox shall first ascertain whether the case can be isolated in the dwelling, so as not to expose the other inmates to the disease.

Whenever a patient in a tenement, lodging-house, boarding-house or hotel is so situated that he cannot be isolated from other inmates, he or she shall be removed and taken to the hospital; and if any person interferes with the execution of this order, or the patient refuses to obey, the law shall be enforced against such person or persons.

If it come to the knowledge of any inspector that cases of small-pox are kept in tenement-houses, lodging-houses, boarding-houses, or hotels without the proper notice having been given to the Board of Health as required by law, the inspector shall make immediate report to the Health officer, stating the name of the person or persons causing or abetting in the violation of this law.

In all cases where there is doubt whether a person is really afflicted with small-pox, a physician's opinion should be secured before removing the patient.

The inspector shall see that the rules regarding the interment of persons who die of small-pox be complied with.

The foregoing rules and regulations are made and promulgated by the Board of Health of the District of Columbia, in accordance with an act entitled "An act for the prevention of diseases in the District of Columbia," passed by the legislative assembly of said District, and approved by the governor thereof, June 19, 1872.

HEALTH-OFFICER'S REPORT.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, BOARD OF HEALTH,
Office of the Health-Officer, Washington, October 1, 1875.

SIR: Again it becomes my duty and pleasure to offer for your consideration the annual record of the operations of the executive office of the health department of the District of Columbia.

The official year ending September 30, 1875, in the various departments under my direction, is remarkable for great progress in general sanitary work, and in the activity and effectiveness characterizing the labors of the several classes of employés. Distinct as are the branches of duty, the comprehensive system of blank forms employed for reports and records, checking the detail of every separate service, assures harmony, promptness, and satisfaction in the execution of this important trust.

A prominent feature presented by the experience of the past year has been that noted in the history of every enterprise or institution tending to ameliorate the moral or physical condition of individuals or communities. Distrust, ridicule, even determined opposition, have, with rare exceptions, met, often defeated, the best digested plans of benefactors of the human race, particularly when the development of those plans necessitates, private or public expenditure; but when, in due course of time, persistent effort brings visible, tangible results, and unmistakable benefits accrue, then, oftentimes, the loudest prophets of failure are the readiest sharers in the glory of success. Sanitary operations in the District of Columbia have much the same chronicle. Two years ago the sanitary inspector was an unwelcome visitor; a paid trespasser upon private premises; a meddlesome minion of an expensive and worthless appendage of the city government—the Board of Health. But day after day our faithful workers plodded on, searching out and finding nuisances injurious to health in every nook and corner of the District. Then notices to abate were often insultingly thrown in their faces by those whose health and life they were seeking to protect. Still, they dealt steady blows, until the results becoming conspicuous, convincing proofs of their efficiency, have captured the enemies of sanitary progress.

A growing interest and intelligence in these vital subjects is manifested among the people of every class, and they now seek, rather than ridicule, the advice of our officers. We hear frequently the remark that the health department is really accomplishing a great work and must be sustained. To have gained this important position is to have won more than half the battle. With co-operative effort on the part of the people, our labors, though never ceasing, will be more and more agreeable to ourselves, and productive of benefit to the community we serve.

The wisdom of the Board in the careful re-examination of its Inspectors, and the requirement of quarterly reports from them, is manifested by the stimulus given to those officers in the pursuit of information, scientific and practical, upon the subjects with which they deal, and although some at first demurred, they have since expressed gladness that their eyes have thereby been opened to a clearer view of the extent and importance of their daily duties. And they must not rest here. Useful knowledge of these matters is now more eagerly sought by the people from newspapers and books and their own investigations. Sanitary officers should not be found lagging behind, but must be far in advance, able always to instruct and advise, and it should be a subject for congratulation in the community that the Board has determined that no officer shall remain in its corps of Inspectors, by fear or favor, who is not thoroughly competent to testify as an expert in the courts, and to lead in the knowledge of all that pertains to sanitary regulations and appliances.

I gladly bear witness to the zeal and industry which have characterized the conduct of the present corps. Few cities, if any, in this country, are as fortunate as this District in the selection of their Sanitary and Food Inspectors; they are earnest, faithful men, and deserving of all commendation for the accomplishment of the immense labor recorded in the following tabular statement.

Official notices to make sewer-connections were issued against 1,342 premises.

Number of notices to fill lots having stagnant water thereon, 177.

Number of houses condemned as unfit for human habitation, 198.

Number of cases referred to the attorney for prosecution, 116.

Every nuisance noted in the table has been reported to this office on blank forms of daily return as follows, and registered here, a certain time being allowed for abatement, and always a second time inspected :

Committed by—	Location.	Nature of complaint.	When notified.	Time allowed for abatement.	Remarks.

The abatements have generally been prompt before the expiration of the specified period. A few delinquents, careless or lawless, have been referred to the Attorney for suit, as shown below the table, and been taught lessons of wisdom in Police Court which are rarely forgotten.

It will be observed that the aggregate number of nuisances, 24,511, is 3,265 less than last year, which is accounted for by the fact that 4,410 dead animals removed were erroneously included in the last table. The number removed this year, viz, 4,614, if added to the total nuisances, would give an aggregate of 29,125, or 1,394 more than last year.

The labor required in this inspection of these nuisances has been much greater than that of previous years, because of the necessity of passing over more territory to find each recorded nuisance, greater care being exercised by tenants to keep their premises clean, knowing that the officer may be expected in his regular round.

The word "nuisance" is defined by Blackstone to be "anything that worketh hurt, inconvenience, or damage." Our attention has been directed, as the table indicates, to those nuisances which work hurt by inducing disease. How much sickness and how many deaths have been prevented by our interference and the abatement of these nuisances, we cannot of course calculate; we do know that such as these existing in the immediate vicinity of human dwellings hazard good health, life, indeed. We have found them and caused their removal, and have thereby, we believe, been the principal agent in securing to the residents of the District of Columbia during the year unprecedented freedom from disease, particularly of the zymotic type.

As we study the table we find much the same relative numbers of nuisances of the several classes as in former years. Being told the large number reported in one year, we would naturally exclaim "What a filthy place this District of Columbia must be that we find so many objects of complaint!" No; not filthy, but clean throughout. Not only its broad, beautiful streets and avenues are swept and free from all that is offensive, but every private yard in turn receives its share of public attention through our officers. Nothing that may prove injurious to health is allowed to remain anywhere, whether under private or public care, which we may abate by notice or enforcement in the courts. Cleanliness to-day does not insure the same condition to-morrow or next week. Sanitary labor in a city is a ceaseless, ever-recurring routine, and herein, I believe, our method excels those of other cities. Every corner of the District has its day appointed for the visit of the Inspector, just as the good housekeeper has her day for washing or cleaning. Sure as the day the scrubbing-brush is applied, and as surely is the necessity revealed. So do we find, at every visit, nuisances, small or great, accumulated, and we note them and insist upon their abatement. The effect of this systematic regularity of inspection is apparent already in the habits of particularly that class occupying the meaner habitations in the alleys and unimproved streets. Greater care and an increasing pride in the appearance of their own premises is noticed, and it is not unusual to find rudiments of hygiene developing in the lowliest shanties, the result of the frequent visits of the intelligent Inspector.

ALLEYS.

As in former years, these public outlets from back yards have been the subjects of frequent complaint, and the source of much anxiety on the part of the Inspectors. In my two previous annual reports, I have not neglected to write with earnestness my impressions as to the baneful effect of these hundreds of receptacles of filth upon the health of our people; and I have ventured as often to suggest the remedy for this, the greatest evil we contend with; but it has been deemed, thus far, unwise or inexpedient by the authorities to accept or carry out the suggestion. The consequence is, in many parts of the city, long lines of alleys which are, particularly in the very warm months, constant, very offensive nuisances injurious to health. We contend that in building a city the first care should be the protection of the health of its people. Its beautifying is essential, but of secondary importance. I testify that the health of our community is put in jeopardy constantly, in many parts of Washington and Georgetown, by the imperfect, careless manner in which the alleys have been graded and paved, and by the lack of proper drainage. Asphaltum, well laid, is the only suitable pavement. Sewer-traps at convenient distances, and Potomac water, and daily flushing, so that they may be thoroughly washed, by men employed for that purpose, and gas-lights, are indispensable requisites. I write with full knowledge of my subject, and I would urge that the Board now bend their utmost effort to the accomplishment of this desirable end. We are proud of our streets and avenues; let us no longer be ashamed of our alleys. The contractors for sweeping streets and alleys have, under our observation, performed their duty faithfully. The immense street-sweepers do their work admirably, and are an institution which we trust will be preserved; but many of the alleys have been, and are, in such imperfect condition as to defeat all efforts to keep them clean. It is true, that they are made filthy by deposits from premises bordering on them, but a force of Inspectors five times the present could not entirely prevent these accumulations in an alley full of holes and not sewered. The best preventive of these deposits is the substitution of a smooth and well-sewered pavement which the lowest class will take pride in keeping clean.

THE REMOVAL OF OFFALS.

The accompanying table shows the total number of tons of night-soil and garbage and the number of dead animals removed during the year; also the number removed each month:

The extent of this service, and its important bearing upon the sick and death rates of the District, few people know or appreciate. When we speak of thousands of tons removed, they are incredulous; but how this enormous quantity is disposed of, and what machinery and labor is necessary to its accomplishment, is, of course, the occasion of little thought or speculation by them, providing it be done promptly and cheaply. The ignorance and apathy upon this subject, of citizens of every community or city, forms a great barrier to the progress of sanitarians. For this reason Boards of Health not independent of local politics find it difficult to inaugurate or carry out improvements in the old, time-sanctioned methods, no matter how crude and barbarous they may have been, particularly if the innovation runs counter to the business interest of a few individuals or classes; but, fortunately for the District of Columbia, its Board of Health has persistently urged and achieved such a revolution in this service as to have worked infinite benefit to its people, and been a leader among the great cities of the country in the practical application of means for the inoffensive disposal of material which formerly was constantly agitated in the open air, and from its decomposition was, undoubtedly, the prolific source of disease.

The pneumatic or odorless apparatus for the removal of the contents of privy-boxes has been in constant use during the year, and given universal satisfaction. Fewer accidents have occurred, or complaints been lodged at this office, than we might expect, considering the character of the work and the thousands of people served. The company has been careful to employ laborers skilled in the use of the apparatus, and well acquainted with the localities, and has manifested a disposition toward the people of courteous accommodation while fulfilling the terms of their contract.

The aggregate number of boxes cleaned was 3,061 less than last year, which is probably owing to the fact that, with the gradual extension of the public sewers to the outskirts of the cities, water-closets have been introduced where formerly privies were, thus greatly reducing the number to be cleaned. The present indications are that the number will be greatly decreased during the coming year, as into almost every new house built, water-closets are introduced, and many owners who can afford the expense are substituting them in the older portions of the city, the offense from the fermenting mass in the boxes in crowded localities, especially in summer-time, being so great.

I dilated extensively in my last report upon this omnipresent nuisance. Of this filthy, baneful, disgusting disgrace upon our boast of cleanliness, the half has not been told. Cemented vaults below the surface, as once described, upon which the Board have acted, but not finally, are a necessity. I would urge immediate action looking to the gradual introduction of this improvement so essential to health and decency.

A new system of removing garbage, inaugurated during the past year, has proven itself to be another long step in the progress of sanitary regulations. The era of "slop-carts," as well as "night-carts," is ended. The low-bed, goose-neck wagons, with barrels properly constructed for the transfer of the material, and the careful organization of the collection-force, place this service far in advance of the same in any other city in the country, and as our system is developed and perfected, it will, no doubt, become the model of usefulness and efficiency the Board have striven to build for the benefit of the people. The unexpected and unprecedented quantity of garbage to be collected during the months of July and August well-nigh overwhelmed the collectors, but the experience gained will suggest some plan to prevent the recurrence of a similar embarrassment in this service.

It is found difficult to correct the habits of the people served, induced by the old, careless methods. They have never known when to expect the collectors, and have therefore dismissed all thought of placing receptacles at a point most convenient for collection. Another class of housekeepers, more nice than wise, tell us their servants must not soil their hands by carrying the garbage to the gate, but the collector must ring the front-door bell, and, with his hat off, present his card, with his compliments, and politely request that the servant unfasten the back-gate, that he may pass to the kitchen-door and remove whatever crumbs may have fallen from the family board; and, if the collector dare murmur, maledictions innumerable are heaped upon his devoted head. And these represent no small class of our citizens, who are foremost to complain of the great burden of taxation, but demand that an odorless excavator and garbage collector be detailed for their individual case; too thoughtless to consider that their little deposit is not one ten-thousandth part of the whole quantity to be collected each day.

The distribution again to every house, of printed regulations, detailing the duties of both housekeeper and collector as to this service, is recommended, to assure the best results to all concerned.

The collection and removal of dead animals from the District of Columbia has been generally prompt and satisfactory. The close wagon constructed for the purpose and used by the contractors in this service is a great improvement over the old, lumbering carts, and has rarely been found offensive. The number of large animals removed, such as horses, mules, cows, &c., for the year, was 972; 2,095 of the total shown in the table were dogs killed at the pound.

When we consider the quantity of these offals daily removed through our streets, and the comparatively little offense created thereby, we may certainly justly congratulate ourselves and the people, and ask that, rather than condemn or blindly criticise the action or motive of the Board of Health in instituting these important reforms, they inform themselves upon the true merits of the subject, and suggest improvements, if any occur to them, since their own health is involved in the issue; not sit with folded arms and complain because the system is not already perfect and distributing the odor of roses in its pathway. They have only to recall the condition four years since, when a cordon of decomposing filth, from daily deposits, was drawn around our cities, sending its fatal poisons back into our homes.

HOUSES UNFIT FOR HUMAN HABITATION.

Of these, 699 were reported by the Inspectors during the year, and 198 condemned by the Board—a less number than last year, although we have made more real progress in this direction than during the two previous years. This results from the ready acquiescence of many owners with our efforts to abate this class of nuisances without the formal notice of condemnation. The class of dwellings totally unfit for habitation, although still numerous, is becoming “beautifully less” every year, receding before advancing improvements in all parts of Washington and Georgetown, and under the inevitable, authoritative notices of the Board of Health.

That a house with leaky roof, damp walls, below grade, having decayed floor, in general filthy condition, is a nuisance injurious to health is not difficult to demonstrate, except your listener be the owner of several such, from which he realizes a comfortable income, equal to the full value of the houses each year. When such interested party receives a notice, detailing in exact terms wherein the unsanitary condition of his source of revenue must be corrected, involving more or less expenditure, he immediately feels himself aggrieved, believes himself to be the victim of persecution, condemns the Board of Health itself as a nuisance which he promises to abate at the earliest opportunity, and wants to know what business it is to us, since it is his property, and his tenants do not complain; but let the miserable shanties of some other owner stand in the way of his projected improvement, and he makes haste to inform the Board of Health of the terribly offensive and injurious condition, and insists, with the unfeigned loftiness of a taxpayer, upon his rights, through the exercise of the authority he was just now ready to overthrow.

The very poor we have with us always, and they must find some place to lay their head. They must seek those shanties or tenement houses where rents are lowest. The most dilapidated and the worst located are cheapest, and the tenants are the last to complain; are frequently even found testifying on the side of the landlord against a Board seeking to improve the conditions which hazard their own and the public health.

The avarice of the landlord and ignorance of the tenant are strong barriers we constantly encounter in the abatement of this important class of nuisances, but the good results of our persistent effort are apparent on every hand, and are now forcing a reluctant admission of their value from the would-be annihilators of the Board of Health.

The filling of streets and alleys, in many instances, has left these houses far below grade, in very unsanitary condition, their owners too poor to raise them, so they must remain, indefinitely, unless the District authorities assist. This seems a great hardship upon a worthy class, and some relief will, I trust, be offered.

HOUSE SEWER CONNECTIONS.

Of notices for this object, 792 have been complied with during the year, and during the past three years, 3,522.

Recognizing this and the ventilation and proper construction and trapping of sewers as bearing more directly, perhaps, than any other subject upon public health, much careful attention has been paid to them and expert service employed. Another year's experience and study have confirmed me in the opinion expressed in my last report on this question.

The reckless criminality characterized in the work of some of the plumbers in the District should be made a misdemeanor indictable by the grand jury. Elaborate analyses of sewer-gases, and discussions and dissertations upon their effects when inhaled, are every week published in our books of science and hygiene, but, notwithstanding all, there is scarcely a block of houses in this city where we may not find, in one or more, these gases flowing freely from untrapped basins and sinks into the rooms, breeding disease and death for the inmates. The successful man builds his costly mansion, and demands all the modern improvements, so called. He plans a water-closet for convenience adjoining his own chamber, and every night lies down to sleep with his family in fancied security, while all night long, through the open door, are creeping enemies worse than vampires, poisoning the lifeblood of their victims. And some wonder that children and mothers, who are most exposed to these baneful influences, have pale faces, weak lungs, are dyspeptic, have fevers and coughs, and die so young.

The true remedy lies in the education of the people on this subject, not through scientific books, read by few, which deal in analyses and theories, but through popular lectures and the daily papers, teaching in language which must convince how great the peril and how simple the preventive. None but an insane man will deliberately drink from a bottle labeled "poison." A little child might not know better. We have been astonished to find, while inspecting, how many intelligent men and women are as ignorant as the merest child upon the subject which should have been their first lesson; and until this lesson be learned by many it may be impossible to secure the requisite legislation or to arouse the people of the cities to a sense of their danger. But I believe our own Board of Health could not do a wiser act, nor confer a more permanent good upon our cities, than by securing the enactment of a law declaring it a misdemeanor, and fixing a heavy penalty, for any plumber or other person employed to place in any dwelling-house, hall, or other building where people live or congregate, any basin or other open connection with the public sewer which shall not be provided with such traps or contrivance as shall effectually, at all times, prevent the escape of sewer-gases. That such a law does not stand prominent upon the pages of the code of every city is a disgraceful reproach upon the intelligence and civilization of the present age. We would bring to speedy punishment the druggist who carelessly dispenses poisons, or the grocer who fraudulently sells for food deleterious compounds, but permit a plumber, and pay him well for his trouble, to open a direct communication between our chambers and the general receptacle of the foul drainage of the city, trusting to his honor for protection, and he goes unpunished for his fraudulent practices, while we ignorantly allow the health—life, perhaps—of our family to be sacrificed by his neglect.

Other defects in private sewers have been frequent objects for our official action, such as faulty material and construction, broken or leaking at the joints, &c. The plumbers' bad jobs, like the doctors', are quickly buried out of sight, and it is with great difficulty, oftentimes, that we discover defective and leaking portions which cause damp floors and walls, and much injury to health. By the use of bluing, a solution of which is allowed to run into the suspected sewer, imperfections are more readily found, as the color is sure to appear on the surface near the leak. This simple method has been of great service to the Inspectors. The honorable Commissioners appreciating the necessity, have caused the extension of the public sewers very generally in the various parts of the two cities, thereby relieving the soil, saturated by rain, hydrant, and waste-water, and greatly benefiting the public health. We have kept pace with them, serving our notices to make private connections, and these have been generally complied with. There are still many localities densely populated suffering from want of this improvement; but I learn that the comprehensive plans of the Engineer of the District include the supply of these necessities, as well as many important changes in the sewerage of Washington which are loudly called for.

A recent author writes: "Proper drainage and the proper disposition of the accumulated filth of a city, are two of the marks of a high state of civilization, while the absence of them savors strongly of barbarism." The District of Columbia bids fair to reach that high state at the hands of its present departments of improvement and health, should their extensive projected plans be pursued to full maturity.

STAGNANT PONDS.

Of these, 230 have been drained or filled during the year. They were mostly much smaller than those abated last year, and nearly all resulted from raising the grade of the streets and alleys bordering thereon, or from filling across old, natural water-courses. And here is a subject of great interest bearing upon the health of the District. It is a proposition well established, that water from springs or from the clouds is prone to seek old water-courses, even though they may have been filled for years. This filling is thereby constantly saturated, and is a most unhealthy location for dwellings, as shown in the carefully-prepared statistics of many of our large cities, where the line of prevalence of fatal zymotic diseases is distinctly drawn over the bed of these old streams. It is certainly wise to profit by these warning experiences, if not already too late, and, if possible, to provide against their repetition here, where so many such fillings are constantly made. A foundation deposit, or lowest stratum of coarse stone, and the construction of deep-lying, blind culverts, which would permit the constant percolation and passage of the water through its natural courses off to its old outlet, would appear to be an essential sanitary provision, and I would recommend that it be the subject of special consideration by the Board.

In the extreme northeastern and northwestern sections, and between Seventeenth and Twentieth streets northwest, south of E street, are most of the ponds now remaining. These are rapidly disappearing. The difficulty of abating these nuisances under the law, where the owners of the lots are non-residents, has been a constant embarrassment, which I trust will be removed by enactment by the coming Congress, that the Board of Health may have power to go on and abate, and recover from the property so improved. Our labors with this class of nuisances have been very satisfactory, the owners being, with rare exceptions, prompt to respond to our requirements.

INSPECTION OF FOOD.

Herewith are presented consolidated tables showing the results of our efforts in this direction; also the joint report of the Inspectors of food, and report of Inspector of marine products. Our officers in this service have pursued their object with industry and zeal. Early and late, at the markets and wharves, their duties have been required and faithfully performed.

The markets have been remarkable during the year for the very small quantity of unsound or unwholesome food offered for sale. The first-class dealers have been in full accord with us in our efforts to insure that wholesome food alone be sold within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and they not unfrequently have assisted the Inspectors to ferret out delinquents. The courts have uniformly sustained us, and, by their decisions, made it clearly known that dealers who attempt to impose upon the people by selling poisonous, unsound food, may expect no mercy at their hands. This assurance has, no doubt, had a salutary effect upon many who formerly made a business of the worst quality of meats and provisions, which they sold cheap to the poorest people, who were obliged to take that or starve. There are no better markets in this country than supply our two cities, and I believe there is less unwholesome food sold here than in any community of like population.

The recent action of the Board, looking to the increased efficiency of this service, will, if perfected, be productive of still more valuable results, by enabling us to sift more intimately the good from the bad, not only in the markets, but also in the shops, and wherever food or drink is distributed. The real practical value of constant, expert inspection, consists, not so much in the frequent discovery and condemnation of unwholesome food, as in rendering it next to impossible for tradesmen to deal in fraudulent or unwholesome articles within the limits of the two cities, through fear of detection and punishment. The full consummation of this millennium can only be, of course, when every purchaser becomes such an expert. Six or even twelve inspectors, with all the wisdom of experience and the books, could not prevent the appearance, on their own tables every day, of adulterated, deleterious compounds as food. Full obedience by the Board of Health to the mandates of the organic act, viz, "the prevention of the sale of unwholesome food within the cities of Washington and Georgetown, is an impossibility." Nor shall we approach near to that desirable object before we control more directly the great sources of supply. For meats and milk, per example, the most important of all, we are entirely at the mercy of the producers, and must continue so to be until the abattoir, or some other system, be established by which it may be possible to inspect every animal at the time of slaughtering, and until some carefully-organized plan of checking adulteration of milk be inaugurated.

These are the first essential requisites, and the Board of Health have the same power to insist upon them, as preventive means, as they have to condemn a pound of unwholesome meat exposed in the market for sale. Daily chemical or microscopical analyses of food from shop to shop, by experts, would be productive of great good, especially in the detection of frauds in groceries, liquors, &c., but our experience in the service has taught us we need to deal a strong blow at the root of this tree of evil, not content ourselves with attempts to analyze the poisonous properties of its fruit. And this I find is the principle acted upon in many of the European cities. Aiming to control the fountains of supply, the authorities largely prevent deleterious and adulterated food from reaching the hands of the retailers. This idea we are practically carrying out in our inspection of marine products, and with marked success. Fish, oysters, clams, &c., are inspected at the wharves or depots as they arrive on board boats or cars, and not unfrequently whole cargoes are condemned, the owners forbidden to land them, and they are taken away out of the District in bulk, none of them reaching the city dealers, thereby greatly simplifying the service, while at the same time the markets are carefully watched to prevent the sale of products which, though landed fresh, may have become unwholesome from being too long out of their native element.

The aggregate market-value of food condemned, had it been of whole-some quality, was, during the past year, $17,018.53. During the last three years, under the direction of this office, it has been $51,350.41, showing that this branch has been fully up to the standard of activity and efficiency.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
OFFICE OF THE HEALTH-OFFICER,
Washington, October 1, 1875.

SIR: We have the honor to submit herewith report of the operations of our branch of the service for the year ending September 30, 1875.

BEEF.

It will be seen by reference to the table that but 6,489 pounds of beef were condemned during the year, 3,210 pounds less than last year. This falling-off is accounted for in great measure by the vigilance of the Inspectors of food, which has caused dealers to offer a better class of beef. Also the decrease in the price of ice from that of the previous year has enabled dealers to use it more freely in the preservation of meats.

BACON.

But 4,043 pounds of bacon were condemned during the year; 3,347 pounds less than last year. By reference to our last annual report, it will be noticed that large quantities of third-class bacon were shipped to this market, and promptly condemned before it reached the hands of small dealers. This prompt action on our part entirely stopped the shipment of third-class bacon to our markets, and it is safe to say that to-day there is not a pound of this class of bacon offered for sale by any dealers in the District of Columbia. We have now the first and second classes of this meat, both of which are of good quality, and accounts for the small condemnations.

EGGS.

On account of the high price of the article offered in our markets this year, large quantities of eggs were shipped here from the eastern and western cities, a great number of which were pickled. These were condemned wherever found.

VEGETABLES.

The large shipments of vegetables to our markets from Georgia, North and South Carolina, often arrive here in a heated and moldy condition, and have to be closely watched. As the shipments from New York commence to arrive, the condition improves, and when we receive them direct from our own market-gardens, they are fresh, and but few condemnations are made.

FRUITS.

This has been a most productive year for all kinds of fruits. Never before in our experience has there been such an abundance of this delicious food. Peaches were shipped here in such quantities as to produce a glut in the market, having been sold in some instances as low as 10 cents per bushel. Water-melons were also so plentiful as to compel wholesale dealers to dispose of them at any price they could get. Large numbers which arrived here became stale before sale could be made, and were consequently condemned, the excess of condemnations this year over last being 12,712.

VEAL.

Here, also, we have an improved showing over that of last year, there being 486 pounds less condemned this year than last.

POULTRY.

The falling-off of the condemnations of this class of food from that of last year we attribute to the condition in which it was received by our dealers, it being much better than at any previous year.

VENDERS OF MEAT AT LARGE.

We would respectfully recommend that some provision be made by the honorable Board of Health to reach this class of dealers, as it is impossible under the present system. If an Inspector were appointed by the Board, whose duty it would be to visit the slaughter-houses where this class of meat is killed, and inspect the quality before it is offered for sale, it would, no doubt, result in stopping, to a great extent, the sale of what are termed third-class meats. This subject we would especially commend for consideration.

In conclusion, we would respectfully submit that good results have been obtained by the large amounts of condemnations, and by our daily experience we acquire a knowledge of our duty which can only be obtained through practical teachings.

Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

WILLIAM WOLF,
ROBERT WILSON,
S. PIFFERLING,
Inspectors of Food.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
OFFICE OF THE HEALTH-OFFICER,
Washington, October 1, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith my report, showing the inspections and condemnations of marine products for the year ending September 30, 1875, and such suggestions as appear, in my humble judgment, to be for the best interest of our community.

SHAD.

I would invite your attention to my remarks on this species of fish, published in the third Annual Report of the Board of Health, wherein I stated that this variety was plentiful every third year; and by reference to the comparative statement it will be seen that this is verified by the receipts this year, and those of the past two years, there has been a gradual decrease in the catch.

The shad-fishing of 1875 has been the most disastrous to fishermen ever known; with the exception of about three shores, these men have lost money. I am of the opinion that the scarcity of this, as well as other kinds, was owing to the high winds which prevailed from about April 16 to the 1st of May, and which no doubt drove the fish to the eastward, thereby missing the Potomac River in their passage up the Chesapeake Bay. As a proof of this, the fish were more abundant up the Chesapeake than they have been for a number of years, and the shippers of Alexandria and Washington, who have been in the habit of sending fish to Baltimore, suspended operations about the 1st of May, owing to the fact that prices were much less than here.

Much having been said in regard to shad being eaten by eels, I would state that by my experience I learn that the shad are never attacked by eels, except when hanging in gill-nets; and in nine cases out of ten, only the female is attacked, owing, no doubt, to its soft nature, while the male shad, being harder, is seldom ever touched. Thus an enormous quantity of eggs are destroyed, and it is safe to say that this is the most destructive enemy the shad has.

The Potomac River is now alive with young shad three inches long, which were spawned about the middle of last May; the fishermen are using them as bait for larger fish; they are caught by the bucketful, and by some used as table-food. This practice should be stopped by some protective law, as nearly, if not quite, as many are caught in this way as will spawn in our river.

HERRING.

By comparing the receipts of this fish with those of last year, it will be noticed that there has been a very large falling off. This is accounted for in a great measure by the high winds mentioned above. As there is a great decrease of these fish on all the shores of the Potomac, I would again urge the passage of a law prohibiting the catching of herring after the 1st day of June of each year.

STURGEON.

These fish, which are chiefly used by the poorer classes, have been plentiful this year. Whenever there is a scarcity of shad and herring, we have an abundance of this variety.

BUNCH-FISH.

The fish which come under this head and enumerated in my last annual report have not undergone sufficient decrease to excite much comment, as the varieties of these fish are found in the Potomac during the entire year. The fishermen are compelled, however, to go farther down the river for them this year, on account of the heavy rains during last spring.

OYSTERS.

Here, also, we have a large decrease in the receipts, which is accounted for by reason of the river being frozen up last winter, compelling the supply to be brought here by rail.

When the river is frozen, first-quality oysters are shipped north, and those received here are small and of inferior quality, but bring high prices. A winter such as last makes it profitable to the dealers, and consumers are compelled to pay first-class prices for second-class oysters.

The opening of the oyster-trade this fall is more favorable than it has been any year "since the war." The qualities are fine, and dealers experience difficulty in supplying the demand for them. The prices range from 60 cents to $1.50, and in some instances as high as $2, per bushel.

During last August oysters were landed at Alexandria, and being in violation of the corporation ordinances which forbid the landing of oysters in the shell, prior to the 30th of the month, they were brought to this market and sold at a reduced price. I would, therefore, again urge the passage of an ordinance similar to that existing in Alexandria, as during certain months in the year oysters are filled with spaw, and not fit for food.

The oysters which I have condemned have different causes for being unfit for food. A large quantity of what are termed "smothered oysters" have been received here, which have been condemned whenever found. These I have been enabled to detect by a small black spot on the flat or top shell near the center of the oyster, and caused by being transplanted too thickly. They present a firm appearance, and may be readily sold for good oysters. Another kind, of what is known as "sour oysters," is also readily sold for good oysters. They may be detected by opening them and examining the liquor, which is thick, and of the consistency of molasses; the meat puffs up and becomes white. This condition is caused by not having sufficient air while in the vessels and becoming overheated.

In examinations of fish, I find by experience that the surest indication of their being unsound is the sinking of the eyes. Where the fish have been drowned, which is frequently the case in hauling the seine, or where they are kept in a live-box, the eyes and body puff out, and the color changes. In some instances perch, rock, and cat-fish turn green underneath from feeding on grass, and people refuse to buy them on this account. They are, however, wholesome, and just as good as any fish of that species.

"Heated fish"—those which are brought here by steamers, and packed too thickly after landing—are stored on ice, and commence to spoil as soon as they are exposed to the air.

Many would suppose that fish which are broken are unsound, but such is not the case. Trout and taylor are of a very soft nature, and, when packed in ice, they become cut and broken, but are still in healthy condition and fit for food.

The United States Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, Prof. S. F. Baird, has been making surveys of the Great Falls of the Potomac, with a view to establish a fishway there, and is now communicating with General Babcock and Engineer Samo on the subject. Such an establishment has been decided as practicable, and before another year we may have this additional source of supply.

Great credit is due to Professor Baird for the zeal and energy he displays in stocking our rivers with choice fish. His efforts thus far have been crowned with unlooked-for success. The California salmon which he planted in the headwaters of the Potomac in January and February, 1874, have not been heard from yet, it not being time for them to attain their growth.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. LUDINGTON,
Inspector of Marine Products.

THE POUND-SERVICE.

By some accident, or strange association of ideas, the "prevention of animals running at large within the cities of Washington and Georgetown" was enacted by Congress to be the duty of the Board of Health. It is possible that the intimate relation which the preservation of the health and life of our beautiful trees and parks will bear to the health and life of our people, was clearly foreseen by the originator of said enactment. Be that as it may, the accompanying statement of our operations in this direction must, I think, convince that we have not been negligent of our trust, and that our Poundmaster and his men have pursued their calling with a doggedness of purpose worthy of the cause. The only effective arguments brought by the people to bear upon them in their visits to the outskirts of the cities have been sticks, and stones, and other missiles propelled by the indignant mob, fighting for the liberty of their goats and geese, but our representatives invariably preserved the dignity of the law, and were neither cowed nor rendered hors de combat.

Another year's observation of this service emboldens me to urge again some action by the proper authority upon the suggestion presented at length in my last annual report, viz, the licensing of dogs, and the capture, all the year round, of those not licensed and properly collared. It is a simple, practical method of ridding the city of thousands of worthless curs that make night hideous and day dangerous, while owners of valuable dogs may be saved the great annoyance of keeping them imprisoned five months, or buying muzzles which are as often stolen, or the frequent paying of pound-fees. I would not advocate the immediate annihilation of the whole race of dogs, as proposed by some cynical people, but so prolific are they, that all should be impounded and killed whose owners do not value them sufficiently to pay a license-fee for keeping them. The experience of other communities where this law has been rigidly enforced has been satisfactory to all concerned.

I am also convinced that the Board cannot entirely fulfill the spirit of the law, unless the limits of grazing-grounds, if they be permitted at all within the cities, be prescribed, and the streets through which cattle may be driven be clearly defined and published. With the utmost care, there is constant danger to little children on the streets, and to the trees and parkings, from the droves of cattle, great and small, to be seen at all hours crossing the city, and which, unless confined to some limits, often defeat the objects of this service.

Complaints of illegal impounding have been rare during the year, and, in every instance, have been proven to be unfounded, reflecting great credit upon the Poundmaster for his good judgment and strict attention to duty.

HOLMEAD CEMETERY.

I have to report relative to Holmead Cemetery, that at the date of the transfer of the control to the Board of Health by the honorable Commissioners, November 14, 1874, it was in a very dilapidated condition, fences destroyed, trees and grave-stones broken down, and bricks and other material stolen by parties unknown. The former superintendent, Richard W. Brown, was arrested, upon complaint of several lot-owners, but they failed to convict him of the crime of appropriating the material to his own profit. Edward Woodland was soon after appointed superintendent by the Board of Health, and immediately set to work to repair the fence and place the ground in decent condition.

As the order of the honorable Commissioners expressly provided that no expense to the District of Columbia was to be incurred by the Board of Health in charge of this cemetery, at my suggestion the Board, in April, 1875, adopted a regulation requiring a fee of 50 cents for each permit for disinterment, the proceeds to be devoted to defraying the necessary expenses of material, labor, &c., for repairs. Under that regulation $23 have been collected, and $20.16 have been expended, the most of the expense being for rails and pickets.

The condition of the cemetery is now greatly improved. The superintendent, who is a very trustworthy man, makes frequent visits to prevent further depredations.

The whole number of bodies disinterred from Holmead from May 30, 1874, (the date of the first record in office of Registrar of Vital Statistics,) to October 31, 1875, is 147, most of which have been removed to other cemeteries within the District of Columbia.

These grounds are now some eight or ten feet above grade on Boundary street; the bank in danger of caving down, leaving the coffins of old graves exposed, and are generally in such a dilapidated, unsightly condition as to render it very desirable that some immediate, permanent improvement be made there, either by the lot-owners or by the District authorities.

SMALL-POX.

In this connection, I have to congratulate the board and the people of the District. While the scourge of fearful epidemic has raged with more or less virulence in many of the northern cities, especially in New York and Brooklyn, we here have had only eight isolated cases. Our success in arresting the spread of the disease has indeed been remarkable, and I attribute it entirely to the activity and thoroughness with which we have, in every instance, taken possession of the case and premises.

Our cases were as detailed in the accompanying table:

* Died December 25, 1874.

† Died March 12, 1875.

A thorough quarantine was established at every house for fourteen days; the premises were fumigated with burning sulphur; the floors washed with a strong solution of carbolic acid, and the walls and ceilings whitewashed, carbolic acid being strongly mixed with the wash; the clothing carefully burned, and the immediate locality, all the yards, alleys, &c., cleaned. That this disease, as well as every other of the zymotic class, can be controlled absolutely by the enforcement of sanitary regulations, is established beyond a doubt. It follows directly, as effect follows cause, contagion cannot live without contact. If chained where it cannot escape, it must die of its own venom. Activity, promptness, absolute power are the requisites to the accomplishment of this end. How long will communities and cities suffer these terrible enemies of human life to stalk abroad, numbering their victims by hundreds each week, while facts and figures such as these are presented to prove how easily, how simply the first approaches may be guarded and the havoc prevented? A statesman in one of his powerful speeches in Congress, referring to some portending political calamity, startled his hearers by exclaiming, "Mr. Speaker, there is a lion at the door! Shall we shut the door and keep him out, or let him in and see if we can get him out again?" How great a roaring lion is small-pox when it rages in a city, and how torn and scarred are they who survive the struggle for his expulsion; and yet how easily the door is shut if we be wise enough to heed the herald of his approach.

Some immediate action should be taken by the District authorities for the building of a new small-pox hospital in a more suitable location, which is indeed the one great necessity of the service. The present building is entirely unfit. Although we enjoyed safety from this disease last year, and although every means possible for prevention may be applied, we cannot be assured of still longer immunity. The hospital must be provided with ambulance and appliances, ready and waiting, that our work may be the more promptly and effectually performed when the emergency is presented.

I desire to commend Inspector D. V. Colclazier, detailed especially for the removal of small-pox cases, and for disinfecting and quarantining infected premises. I have found his experience, firmness, and untiring zeal of the greatest value in the service. Such men, although in subordinate position, are our strength and reliance in times of greatest need.

MEDICAL SANITARY INSPECTOR.

This officer's duties have been, during the past year, the investigation and report of cause of death of cases not attended by a registered physician; the investigation of the pecuniary condition of persons applying for burial of relatives at public expense; the inspection as to the local cause of zymotic disease, and other matters of importance from time to time referred to him.

Industry, thoroughness, and great zeal have characterized the labors of the medical sanitary inspector, Dr. W. D. Stewart, in the several duties mentioned, as shown in the elaborate tabular statement herewith presented.

PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS TO THE POOR.

The honorable Commissioners of the District, very soon after their installment, discovered that the expenses of this service were very greatly disproportionate to its requirements. Irregularities had crept in through lack of strict accountability, and careful, systematic checks upon its operations. The Board of Health, after calculating as closely as possible the probable cost, expressed their opinion that the service could be conducted upon the most economical basis for $8,000 per annum, and at the request of the honorable Commissioners agreed to assume the additional duty of organizing and perfecting its detail and conducting the business, with the assurance that the expense should not exceed the amount named. This they have done; the whole expenditure for the year ending September 30, 1875, amounting to $7,406.31.

It is true that there has been no epidemic among the poor to cause extraordinary expenses, but when we learn from the comprehensive tables herewith presented that there have been 8,591 patients treated, 16,995 calls of the physicians made, and 10,441 prescriptions compounded for $2,123.40, adding the cost of physician's attendance, $4,361.41, and clerical services and blanks, making a sum of $7,406.31, or an average of 86 cents to each patient, many of them old, chronic cases, we cannot fail to acknowledge that such result could not have been accomplished except by the exercise of the most rigid economy.

The sudden suspension of work by the Engineer's department left many men with their families out of employment to beg or starve. The appropriation of $10,000 by Congress of course did much to alleviate distress, but it seemed but a small sum to us who come in actual contact, day after day, with the suffering poor, and know intimately just what their extreme necessities are. Here I would suggest that the true channel for the distribution of such charities to the poor is through these physicians, whose duty it is to know who are deserving of public aid in the several sanitary divisions. Wholesome food is often a more essential prescription than medicine in the treatment of disease among these people, particularly in those prostrating diseases of the lungs so prevalent among this class, the effects of exposure to cold and storms, and the influences of the atmosphere in which they live. If the Physicians to the poor, under the direction of the Board of Health, and subject to the same rigid regulations as with medicines, were permitted to give orders for certain varieties of nutritious food, such as meats, meal, rice, &c., upon one or two reliable grocers in their district, with whom contracts as to the lowest price had been made, and whose accounts, submitted weekly, would be carefully supervised, much permanent good would result, and the death-rate among these people be greatly reduced, for medicine without nutriment to sustain and rebuild the tissues wasted by disease is of little or no account.

The physicians to the poor have, in response to a circular issued to them by me, each forwarded an annual report of the operations of the service in his sanitary division during the past year. These reports are so full of valuable information and suggestions that I present extracts from them which are of interest to all who study or labor in the cities for the benefit of the poor. Prominent among the subjects treated are, the necessity for placing at their command nutritious, concentrated food, the same as medicine, which they, without exception, advocate as a rational as well as economical measure; and the demand for a general hospital, which is urged in a forcible and practical manner, showing that their actual experience with the poor has convinced them that such an institution is indispensable to the proper care of many cases presented to them. The system governing this service adopted by the board is commended by them as proving, in a year's practical application, the wisdom of the change from the old order.

I regret that these reports could not every one be read by the people of the District. They would not only instruct upon a subject too little studied, but would also convince that this branch of the public service is intrusted to the care of zealous, high-minded, skillful men, ever watchful of the public interest, as well as the physical welfare of the most miserable human being who stretches out his bony hands to them for help in the hour of his extremity.

The number of patients treated by each physician during the year, ranging with several above one thousand, is an index of the great labor they are called upon to perform, and when I know from personal observation and inquiry that the service is rendered so faithfully and cheerfully, that their presence is welcomed, not dreaded, in the most miserable cabin, I cannot fail to congratulate the District government and the poor upon the fortunate selection of these physicians to serve them.

Annexed are tables showing the diseases treated by each physician, in his sanitary division, and of the medicines furnished by apothecaries to the poor, with the monthly services and cost of medicines furnished.

From report of Dr. J. W. Little, first (Anacostia) district.

No disease of a specific nature has prevailed to any great extent in my district during the past year, except that incident to exposure and the deprivation of the necessaries of life.

The result of treatment of those enumerated in my report has been as satisfactory as could have been expected, the class of people, their habits of life, &c., being considered, the mortality is exceedingly small.

I have no suggestions of a sanitary nature to present, except in regard to the fund appropriated for the relief of the poor to be expended in the purchase of food. The committee having charge of it last winter used, I believe, their best endeavors to distribute it carefully and economically, and, so far as those not suffering from actual disease were concerned, it accomplished much good; but with the sick it was not so satisfactory, as the provisions furnished were not of such a character as to prove valuable in restoring to health those who were very ill. Through the suggestions of the Board of Health it could, perhaps, be so arranged that a part of the fund which I have no doubt will be appropriated for the coming winter will be expended especially for the sick, thus procuring articles of diet better suited to their suffering condition.

It will appear strange at first that I should have a greater mortality among the whites treated than the colored, but it is readily explained. The whites rarely, if ever, call on me as "physician to the poor," except when there is great destitution and there is no hope of recovery. That was notably the case in the two cases of phthisis, and also in the two of cholera infantum. Those were beyond reach of the therapist.

I feel compelled to refer here to the system adopted last winter by the District government in the distribution of the poor-fund. I suppose the other physicians found it the case in their divisions as I did in mine—that parties received the benefit of that fund who were not in need or deserving of it. And this occurred because the agents knew little or nothing of the true condition of the party applying for aid. Now I sincerely hope that the Board of Health will take this matter in hand; and I suggest that the physicians be made the agents of the Board to recommend who shall receive it. I am sure that none better know the needs of the suffering poor than they, and it would enable them to supply a proper diet to those who really perish from need of it. I know I have frequently lost cases just from want of proper nourishment. The Board could reduce the mortality among this class by so doing—issuing the required articles upon the presentation of a certificate (or a prescription, if you please) from the physician residing in that district. I know this will give the physician extra work, but it will be a humane one, and I, for one, am perfectly willing to undertake it, and would be glad to have the privilege in many instances.

It will be observed that diseases of a malarial nature predominate in my district, owing to the fact that a large portion of it borders on the river, and another portion, embracing a common, covered extensively with vegetable matter, which, in its proper season, yields a large crop of its favorite disease. The severity and number of these cases so far this year has been much less than previous years, notwithstanding the usual supposable causes appear to be as numerous as heretofore. The absence of that low form of fever which prevailed a few years ago in the extreme eastern section of my district is, I am sure, (and as many of the residents assert,) owing to the cessation of depositing of night-soil in a locality that has been used for that purpose for a great many years. Diseases of a catarrhal nature are numerous, but not more so than could be expected, considering the frequent exposure to the exciting causes of this trouble among the class of patients coming within the province of the physician to the poor.

The entire absence of diseases of an exanthematous nature in my division has been very marked, particularly small-pox, but one case coming under my notice, and that imported. In this connection I would respectfully recommend house-to-house vaccination, as was done under the direction of the Board of Health a few years ago, knowing the number would be very small and the expense consequently light, judging from the fact that I have not had a single applicant from the school-going portion of the population of my district, that being one of the prerequisites in order to obtain admission to the schools, and that class being by far the most numerous.

In conclusion, permit me to say that after an experience of several years as one of the physicians to the poor of this District, I am satisfied that the present method is as near perfection as possible, considering the limited amount of funds at the disposal of the Board of Health for the purpose of regulating the sanitary condition of the District of Columbia.

The mortality may seem large to private practitioners, but we find the reason when we come to visit the dwellings or hovels of the poor. The unfortunate creatures are found in alleys nearly starved, almost naked, without fire in the coldest weather, with the roofs of their habitations badly thatched, and with chinks on every side; add to these conditions disease in its various forms, and you have the average patient the ward physician is called upon to treat in his official capacity.

Our city is greatly in need of a general hospital. The transient sick are well cared for at the excellent institutions of the General Government, as the Board are aware; but the city has no place for its indigent sick, other than the ill-provided hospital department of the Washington Asylum. An experience of two years at that institution, as resident medical student, enables me to appreciate the want of hospital accommodations there, though I am bound to acknowledge that the officers make the best use of the means at their command. The space is insufficient for the numbers under treatment; and there is no special fund for the support of this department.

Four buildings are devoted to hospital purposes, each building having but a single floor, and accommodating about twenty persons. They are, however, well ventilated, and three of them are furnished with water-closets and bath-tubs.

Now, with the buildings reasonably full, at the best of times, it will readily be seen that in sickly seasons they must be overcrowded, and, of necessity, convalescents are hurried out prematurely to give place to new patients. In the separation of sexes and colors, there can be but one building appropriated to patients of the same sex and color, and accordingly all classes of disease (excepting small-pox) are thrown together; measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever, erysipelas, and syphilis are mingled promiscuously, rendering patients with one disease liable to infection from another. Not only is this commingling objectionable in a medical, but in a moral point of view.

Moreover, the buildings are badly situated, being on the shore of the Eastern Branch, nearly surrounded by marshes which emit a miasm from their decaying vegetable matter. Intermittent and remittent fevers attend the year throughout, abating but little in cold weather.

The surroundings of the institution are not such as to encourage the recovery of patients. The almshouse and work-house on one side, the jail and penitentiary on the other, the small-pox hospital in the rear, and potter's field, the holy horror of the indigent sick, do not afford encouraging subjects for the contemplation of the sick.

Are not these influences sufficient in themselves to demand another site for the new hospital which is said to be in contemplation? The subject is worthy of very serious consideration.

In conclusion, I will state that I held a position of physician to the poor for one year before it came under the jurisdiction of the Board of Health, and am prepared to express the opinion that the present system far surpasses the old in every particular.

Report of Dr. J. E. Brackett, fifth sanitary division.

There is probably no class of practice that causes so much annoyance to the physician, so difficult to manage, so unsatisfactory, and attended with such unfavorable results as that devolving upon the medical attendant to the poor of our cities and towns. The reasons are obvious; at least to those who are at all familiar with the sanitary and hygienic condition of this class of people inhabiting alleys and filthy streets, crowded together as they are in close and ill-ventilated apartments; inhaling noisome and noxious gases impregnated with the germs of disease; wretchedly protected from the cold, and subsisting upon such nourishment as their slender means will obtain, often badly prepared, and always of the coarsest kind.

Can it be wondered at that our efforts are sometimes fruitless; our medicines frequently inadequate, and that our time and attention often seem wholly lost? So long as the exciting causes exist, how can we ever hope to combat disease successfully? Yet, despite all these discouraging conditions, we have every reason to congratulate ourselves on cures obtained, pain and suffering alleviated, and misery lessened.

A large per cent. of cases coming under my treatment, as will be seen by reference to the table, are of the miasmatic order, intermittent fever being considerably in excess of any other.

My practice thus far has been singularly exempt from exanthematous diseases, having had but three cases of circumscribed erysipelas, and a few cases of rubella. Scarlet fever seems not to have made its appearance among the poor of my division, although it prevailed throughout the cities of Washington and Georgetown to a greater or less extent. There were, however, two cases of a mild form of small-pox which came under my observation, but they were removed almost immediately to the hospital for the treatment of that disease, where they happily soon recovered. The cause, in these two cases, we were unable to trace conclusively. The premises were thoroughly cleaned and fumigated, the occupants of the house vaccinated, and nothing further of the disease was manifested.

My attention has been drawn to the alarming number of miscarriages which have occurred recently, and my suspicions aroused that they may not have been the result of causes attributed by the patients. It is a well-known fact that the poor are blessed with many children; this is especially so with our colored population. The fact is not entirely unknown, too, that this increase is a source of deep regret and annoyance to them. May they not, therefore, in order to avoid this, seek such means of deliverance as they may be able to command, without knowledge or appreciation of the terrible consequences likely to ensue from such a course? It occurs to me that here is a wide field for the philanthropist, the moralist, and the clergy. The physician may do much, but he is scarcely regarded in the light of a teacher; then, too, he is called in cases like these when a strong impression to be made upon the mind is impracticable; besides, if it were made, it would probably be too late to obviate the disaster.

It was my good fortune, during the severe part of last winter, to be associated with an informal organization for the relief of the poor living in the eastern part of the city. The ladies were indefatigable in their efforts to alleviate the sufferings of the poor, and although the sum of money placed at their command was small, the amount of good done with it was surprisingly great. I attribute many of the recoveries among my patients to the generous diet and devoted attention they received from this society.

There is probably no institution that this city needs more than a hospital for the reception of its sick poor. Yet why a site so inconvenient, so inaccessible, so objectionable as that of the almshouse, in a sanitary, hygienic, and moral point of view, with the jail on one side, work-house and almshouse on the other, partially surrounded by swamps, and bordered by the river, with the potter's field immediately in its rear, should have been decided upon is certainly beyond the comprehension of any intelligent physician or sanitary officer. I would strongly support and recommend the erection of a city hospital; but certainly a site in every respect more desirable than this could be found. The ward physicians well know, appreciate, and understand the great repugnance the poor have to being sent to the asylum hospital. It is often with the greatest difficulty and strongest persuasion that they can be induced to consent to a transfer from their own miserable hovels, with starvation staring them in the face, to this hospital. It is a prejudice which exists, and one which nothing can eradicate; and this hospital is at present the only recourse we have for our indigent sick. Providence Hospital is exclusively for non-residents, Freedmen's Hospital for the colored race, Children's Hospital inaccessible to patients over fifteen years of age; our poor innumerable and their condition deplorable.

I wish sincerely to call your attention, and that of the honorable board of health, to this subject; a subject replete with interest and importance, and if there is any possibility of an effort being made in behalf of the desired object, it may be made in a right direction.

The total number of cases attended by me was 1,440; the mortality 60. The largest mortality, excepting that from phthisis, you will find was during the winter epidemic of pneumonia, and among the children this summer. The death-rate during the winter was undoubtedly owing to the unprecedented scarcity of work. That during the summer is easily understood by any one who sees much of our lower classes. They are utterly ignorant of the proper food for their children, and, when told, many are too poor to get it. I can call to mind at least six cases where children two weeks old have been fed entirely upon table-tea since birth. A large number of these children are illegitimate. In this class of cases the utmost efforts of a physician are almost useless. The majority are syphilitic, and, with all the aids of wealth, could hardly creep through the days of infancy; but when we consider the sore trials they are subjected to, by ignorance, indigence, and carelessness, it is surprising that any survive it. The mother, as soon as delivered, seeks work, neglects to nurse her child, loses her milk, and abandons it almost entirely to the care of others, who, already overburdened by the duties of their own households, invariably abuse the trust. It is improperly fed, dosed with opiates to keep it quiet, badly clothed, kept in the closest of rooms during the hottest summer days, with the fires of winter, and when at last the wretched little one yields to these accumulated abuses, the physician is called to the hopeless task of curing a disease whose causes he cannot remove. For this there is and can be but one remedy—an institution where these infants can be cared for; a place where the mother can place her child while she goes to her daily work. There are many of them who would not only be willing but too happy to pay what they can for this care, could they but obtain it. Such an institution would, I believe, reduce the present mortality 50 per cent., and, setting aside humanity, none could have greater claims as a political economy. At a small cost a life's labor would be gained. While our present hospitals are, to a great extent, crowded with cripples, devoted to the useless members of society, this one would be rearing new lives to fill their places. But, even if this is impracticable, something might be done in another way. Food could be furnished them. There is a large fund yearly appropriated for the poor of this District. Properly used, it would to a great extent, remedy this evil. Formerly the city found it difficult to provide attendance for the poor at $26,000 a year. Now we supply it at $8,000. Such a difference is there between discreet and indiscriminate charity. Could the Board obtain control of this sum, they could work wonders for our poor, and save hundreds of lives.

The physician to the poor is brought daily into contact with poverty in its most distressing forms—poverty without a ray of hope; without a hand to help; unable to plead for itself, and consequently unknown and unaided. Such cases we see hourly. The heads of families are sick; the little ones do not know where to look for help, and thus the most worthy are left without assistance, either because they are unknown, or unable to press their claims in person, while those strong enough to work hunt up the charities of the city and speedily exhaust them.

I would suggest the propriety of obtaining, if possible, for the ensuing year, a right of admission to the hospitals for such patients as present a proper certificate from the physician to the poor. Such a right will be a great boon to us and the poor; for now the method of obtaining admission is so intricate, and the delay so great, that the applicant is worn out before he gains admittance.

From report of Dr. C. V. N. Callan, seventh sanitary division.

Last winter, after the public works were discontinued and our laboring men thrown out of employment, the Citizens' Relief Association, and other charitable bodies, took up and faithfully discharged the duty of relieving the wants of the suffering poor. Food, fuel, and clothing were freely distributed, and the only recommendation required was that the party applying be really in distress. It sometimes happened that sick persons would ask for food, and for some unavoidable reason could not be attended to until days had elapsed. I would suggest, in order to remove this difficulty for the future, that each apothecary to the poor be furnished in winter with a good quality of canned meats for the use of the poor, to be ordered, when deemed necessary, by the physician to the poor, it being understood that none but the sick under his immediate care shall be benefited by this arrangement, and that he be required to certify, in every case where this food is prescribed, thus avoiding delay in applying to those having the fund in charge. It is evident that if this plan be adopted, many patients, reduced by a long course of unwholesome and insufficient food, would more quickly respond to medical treatment.

Although the present system of caring for the poor has been in operation only one year, its advantages are apparent to the most superficial observer. Based upon principles of economy, a large sum of money has been saved to the city that would have been, under different management, improperly disbursed. A man owning property, or having employment, cannot get medicine at the public expense; only the pauper is, as he should always be, the object of charity.

While the strictest vigilance is demanded of the physician, that he may detect attempted impositions upon him, he is expected and required to attend faithfully to the poor who claim his professional aid. He has to account for every person treated by him at the expense of the city, in weekly reports to the Health-officer, giving full particulars of every case, and any neglect of duty would be immediately discovered. The plan of supplying medicines is, in my opinion, so nearly perfect that it could not be improved upon nor made more efficient. The apothecaries to the poor in my division are responsible, conscientious gentlemen. Always accommodating, they have taken an interest in the system, and by their efforts have contributed largely to its successful working.

By an arrangement made between the physicians and the apothecaries, those patients who cannot pay a physician, but are willing to purchase medicine, can have their prescriptions filled at reduced rates. In this way a considerable expense is avoided, which would otherwise be thrown upon the city.

From my observations of the workings of the system, I consider that it is an advantage to the District in its economy; it is an advantage to the tax-payer who may know that the public money is, in this regard, judiciously expended; it is an advantage to the pauper who can demand the services of the physician, and the necessary medicine, with an absolute certainty that his case will receive all the attention it merits; it is an advantage to the medical profession, because many persons who heretofore imposed upon the generosity of the city, are now required to pay for medical attendance, and finally it discourages idleness, and is educating an improvident class of the community to be industrious and self-sustaining.

In reviewing the work of the past year, it is with satisfaction we give our testimony to the excellence of the plan adopted by the Board in conducting the medical attention to the poor. It fully demonstrates the wisdom of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in placing it in the hands of a body qualified by an intimate knowledge of the sanitary condition of every portion of the District, the wants of the poor, and a just sense of economy. The system proposes that the poor receive proper attention, the District government be protected from imposition at the hands of persons able to pay for medicines and medical attendance, from exorbitant prices for medicines, and the neglect of the sick on the part of the physician. All this has been accomplished, perhaps even beyond the highest expectations of its originators.

During the year we have met with one difficulty in treating paupers that should be remedied. Medicines, in many cases, are only secondary to a nutritious diet; such a diet cannot always be had by the poor. In looking over the death-list, we recognize not a few that might have been saved by judicious nursing and a generous diet.

In view of this, we would earnestly recommend that you, through the Board, appeal to the honorable Commissioners for a portion of the fund annually set aside for the poor. This to be for the use of the sick alone, and to be drawn on by the physicians to the poor in the same restricted and economical manner as the fund for medical stores. The articles furnished should be crackers, condensed milk, fresh meats, rice, and such other nourishments as your judgment may determine. By pursuing such a course, making this, as it were, a general hospital system, much suffering might be alleviated and many of the poor receive the help intended for them at the most opportune time, and thus many lives be saved.

It would add to the value of the service for each physician to note from personal experience, and from information obtained from other medical practitioners, those localities most frequented by various diseases, the causes of those diseases and the character thereof, these belts of disease to be indicated on charts by means of colors, these charts of sanitary divisions to be combined at your office for future reference.

The topography of disease is, relatively, of the same importance to the sanitarian as the topography of land and water is to the engineer. The Board, through its sanitary force, knows thoroughly the condition of every part of the District. From the mortuary statistics, it well knows those haunts where Death is wont to seek his victims. But a large majority of diseases do not ordinarily result in death. It is of peculiar importance that this missing link be supplied in a reliable manner, and one that will convey its information at a glance.

It will be observed that remittents and intermittents occupy a large space of the eighth sanitary division, all that section west of Twenty-fifth street and south of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal being, during a greater part of the year, affected by these cases. This is owing to miasm wafted by the breeze from the marshes about Annapolis Island, and what is known as Kidwell's rice-fields. The winds constantly following, more or less, the course of the river, it will readily be seen that those marshes are fruitful sources of disease in the southern portion of the division.

On the square bounded by West, Stoddard, Congress, and Washington streets there is an open drain or sewer, which is the cause of much disease. The same may be said of the ravine between Warren and Lingan streets. Again, it is the same in that section bounded by High, Fourth, and Frederick streets. The square of this space, bounded by High, Market, Fourth, and Fifth streets, is probably the most filthy in the whole of the two cities combined. Originally a deep ravine, for years it has been the receptacle of the offal of the town. This, decomposing in the hot sun of the summer months, is a constant source of disease to the inhabitants of that neighborhood.

The cases of typhoid fever already brought to your notice evidently originated from the stirring up of this filth to lay a sewer.

There has prevailed, especially in the northwest section of the division, during the winter, spring, and summer, a very general epidemic of whooping-cough, indicated by red dots on the map herewith submitted.

There have been sporadic cases of scarlatina throughout Georgetown during the winter, spring, and summer, which, as the colder days approach, tend to become epidemic in the eastern portion of the town. These have been the principal diseases except those which result from exposure to vicissitudes of weather.

As it is desirable that the standing of the physician to the poor should be high in practical knowledge of the pathology of disease, post-mortem examinations should be encouraged and backed by the moral support of the Board. These should be made by the physician in charge, with the assistance of one or more of his colleagues, in a thorough, quiet, and cleanly manner, so as not to give public offense. The results of these examinations, together with the previous history of the case, to be recorded in the case-book, and such interesting specimens of pathology as may be deemed of importance to be placed at the disposal of the curator of the United States Medical Museum."

I have, at some pains, obtained from several of our large cities information as to their manner of conducting this service, but find no two methods the same, and none at all similar to our own. In many of the cities much more is done by private donations than here. In Boston this is the custom altogether, some 20,000 sick poor having been so treated there last year, the physicians of the city giving their services when called upon. Others have the dispensary system, giving treatment and medicine to all who call, but making no visits to the houses of the applicants.

After studying all the plans pursued, I am led to conclude that the one now adopted in the District of Columbia is, in all respects, least liable to abuses, and brings most real, practical good to the unfortunate persons requiring treatment at public expense.

Protection and justice to both parties concerned require that the service should be organized, and such checks and responsibility imposed as will prevent imposition upon the District by the unworthy, which is very likely to occur, and neglect of the worthy by the physician, which might otherwise often happen. Hence the necessity for the employment of the paid agent, and his pay should be adequate. He should be skillful and a man of good judgment, to visit, personally, the houses of the applicants for charitable offices, and determine if indeed they be worthy.

Much expenditure has in this manner been saved the District during the past year, as shown by the several reports, the patient being frequently found able to pay for medicine, and even medical attendance.

The very poor of Washington and Georgetown are a class peculiar to those cities. Many have, in former years, particularly in those following the late war, come with the vague idea that they were to be clothed and fed and cared for as wards of the General Government. Their previous condition of servitude having taught them to throw all care or anxiety as to what they should eat or what they should wear upon some other person, no matter whom, so long as the necessities of life were daily supplied. The tendency with such classes is all the time to pauperism—to sit and wait in their miserable cabins until charity seeks them out and feeds and clothes them. Hence the difficulty, which is more or less true in all communities, of discriminating as to the real deserving destitute sick. For were there not such exercise of good judgment, we might indeed be found encouraging indolence and vagrancy. Our physicians to the poor have been careful to exercise this discrimination, and have thus accomplished a double benefit to the District.

The necessity for the establishment of a District general hospital, in a suitable location, has been urged by the physicians, and has been the subject of consideration by the board. Certainly those men who are everyday observers of these cases are the best judges of this need. The prospective grandeur and perfection of this capital city of the United States comprehends a commodious and properly-appointed hospital, where its sick and wounded poor of every class shall find a home and charitable care. Is it not an opportune time, this very year, to lay the foundation for this structure? Although every safeguard should be thrown around the treasury to prevent careless or unnecessary expenditure, a city is honored by its institutions of charity, whether founded by public or private means; and the precepts of humanity and the highest civilization teach that such are foremost evidences of prosperity and dignity in all that constitutes a state.

CONCLUSION.

Thus I present in detail the labor accomplished under my direction during the year, and suggestions, the direct fruit of experience, from intimate every-day contact with the nine separate departments, and it is a record of which any city may be justly proud. To have inspected and abated 24,511 nuisances, condemned $17,018.53 worth of unwholesome food, removed 13,155 tons of offals and 4,614 dead animals, impounded 2,891 animals running at large, treated 8,591 sick poor, investigated 694 causes of death, and buried 309 bodies in potter's field, and kept perfect register and careful check on all this work, is certainly evidence that our duties embrace a very important share of the government and protection of the District of Columbia.

I cheerfully bear witness to the cordial co-operation of the police department with our own in the execution of our ordinances, and in other matters where association has been necessary for public or private protection. The officers of the two departments are often brought into immediate relationship, and courtesy toward each other has invariably distinguished their conduct, a condition eminently desirable at all times.

Ours is not, ordinarily, a pleasant duty to be performed, because it is never pleasant to complain to your neighbor of his own defects, which, if he fail to correct, will subject him to penalty and disgrace. No matter how willingly the abatement may appear to be done, there is always a lingering sensitiveness, no doubt, because we have found such defects on his particular domain. We have endeavored always to cause the burden of the law to fall as lightly as possible upon the people, who are in these years struggling with the payment of taxes for the magnificent, expensive improvements of the streets, avenues, &c. Whenever the health of the community or household was at all jeopardized, we have been firmly adherent to the provisions of the ordinance for each case made and provided, and rarely fail to meet a ready response. One hundred and sixteen cases have been referred to the attorney of the board for suit in the police court. Eight cases have been tried upon appeal in the criminal court. In many a nolle pro. has been entered by us, the defendants, at the eleventh hour, abating the nuisance and promising to promptly respond in future, and the promise has, almost without exception, been kept. Few, having once felt the grip of the iron hand of the law, as applied in the police court, will knowingly submit to its second application. The powers and duties of the Board of Health having been so clearly defined on several occasions by leading legal minds, none but the ignorant and stubborn now attempt to contest them.

The great subjects which call loudly for action by the authorities of the District of Columbia bearing heavily upon the health of the community are—

- 1st. The renovation and improvement of the general system of sewers.
- 2d. An increased supply of Potomac water to the most elevated parts of Washington.
- 3d. The removal of obstructions from old water-courses.
- 4th. The improvement of the malaria-generating river-banks.

5th. The concreting, daily flushing, and lighting of the alleys.

6th. The abandonment or improvement of the quarters now rented as school-rooms. The occupation of these ill-ventilated, partially lighted, and undrained buildings is constantly increasing the sick and death rate among pupils and teachers, and must not longer be tolerated in our cities. It is a poor economy, although the parents seem slow to realize the danger.

7th. The thorough improvement of the ventilation of the public department buildings, where a large majority of our adult population pass six hours of every day, and which are sending hundreds of consumptives home every year.

Each involves large expenditure, but all demand consideration; and the grand scheme, the magnificent development of which we hope in future years to see, must include, first and foremost, these essential features. The sooner their beginning, the better for the citizens of this capital city, and for the representatives of our own and foreign states, who, with their families, make this their temporary home, and who ask and expect, what we shall be proud to assure them, immunity and protection from influences endangering public health.

I would represent to the board the clerks in the Health Office. The records speak for their industry and faithfulness. They share equally in the commendation all the employes under my direction merit, and I doubt not will receive, at your hands.

For myself, I feel, as I look over the exhibit of this busy year, that our time and strength and thought have been devoted to one of the noblest objects of human effort—the preservation of the health of a wide and populous district. I believe that our services will not fail of just appreciation by the people, and our errors will be counted of little moment when reckoned with the earnestness of our endeavor to do our whole duty.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

REPORT OF REGISTRAR OF VITAL STATISTICS.

OFFICE OF REGISTRAR BOARD OF HEALTH,
Washington, D. C., October 1, 1875.

SIR: In presenting this report upon the subject of vital statistics in the District of Columbia for the twelve months ending September 30, 1875, it gives me pleasure to state that completeness and perfection, in good degree, have characterized the records of death for the past year.

A marked improvement has been manifested in the accuracy of the individual certificates from physicians, evidencing a higher appreciation of the practical value of such records and data by the medical profession.

Owing to the absence of suitable legislation upon the subject of vital statistics in this District until the passage by Congress, in 1874, of the law now in force, this is the first occasion in the history of the capital of this country when a report upon this important subject, in any degree approaching correctness, could be made.

The practical value of such records as applied to the health, life, and prosperity of the people is becoming more generally understood and appreciated by the educated classes, and I confidently anticipate a near future when the intelligent demands of an enlightened people will secure the enactment and execution of adequate legislation for the protection of life, and the social interests of the state.

The individual reports are as complete as could be desired, but the total registration of births and marriages falls short of the actual number which should appear on our records.

These important epochs in the life of each individual, bearing such intimate relations to the vital and social conditions of the people, should be correctly registered by competent authority, that the legal and personal relationship of every citizen, a simple inheritance from the state, may be sacredly preserved.

A wise and just government, in the exercise of its beneficent and wholesome authority, reaches out its strong arm to enforce a registration of the vital and social changes of its people, thus protecting the natural rights of the innocent and dependent members of society against the unprincipled and designing.

The total number of births registered in this office during the year was 3,915, of which number 2,518 were white, and 1,397 colored; 59 were twin-births, 39 white and 20 colored.

The percentage of white births to the white population is 2.189, or at the rate of 21.89 per 1,000. The percentage of colored births to the colored population is 3.104, or at the rate of 31.04 per 1,000. The percentage of births to the total population is 2.447, or at the rate of 24.47 per 1,000.

This exhibit is in marked and favorable contrast to the registration of births for the year 1874, which was 1,394, or 0.929 per cent. of the total population, or at the rate of 9.29 per 1,000.

An intelligent estimate of the natural increase of the population by births, indicates a deficit in the returns of at least 30 per cent. This result is largely due to the ignorance and irresponsible character of a majority of the professional midwives, who attend the accouchment of a greater number of the poorer classes of the community. The registered physicians of the District are, as a rule, making returns with promptness and regularity. Measures have already been instituted to secure evidence of neglect in this particular, and legal proceedings commenced to enforce a proper compliance with the law.

There have been reported to this office during the year, 370 still-born infants (not included in the total of births,) and permits issued for their burial, a proportion alarming, when compared with the whole number of births registered. 147 were of white parents, and 223 of colored. The preponderance of colored still-births is, in my judgment, attributable in great measure to the severe and often unsuitable labor performed by the females of this class during the period of gestation, the unwholesome influences of their overcrowded and ill-ventilated tenements, located in the most insalubrious regions, their absolute poverty affording but a meager supply of indifferent and unsuitable food, which causes directly tend to the sad results here exhibited.

It is important that marriages, which are the foundation of civil society, should be accurately registered, that the moral and social condition of the people may be preserved, and that reliable testamentary evidence may be available in the settlement of estates.

The certificates of marriage received and recorded in this office during the year was 694, which probably represents not more than one-third of the whole number of marriages solemnized in this District during that period.

This fact is an evidence that a majority of the clergy of the District disregard the important trust imposed upon them by law ; and it is an unfortunate reflection upon the profession that they have failed to respond to this wise provision, but rather have presented the only serious obstacle to the execution of a law bearing directly upon the welfare of the community.

From a recent conference with prominent clergymen, I learn that the impression prevails that no competent authority resides in the board of health to enforce the regulations governing this subject, which, in my judgment, can only be dissipated by the rigid enforcement of the law.

Confidence in their intelligence and readiness to comply in the absence of legal proceedings has led me to refrain from calling into requisition the power vested in the board by Congress, but their non-compliance forces the necessity upon me, and I recommend that in future legal proceedings be instituted against delinquents.

The subject of human mortality, viewed in the light of its sanitary and testamentary relations to the living, and its official reference to the dead, is practically the most important department of vital statistics. Upon a reasonable exactness as to the cause and circumstances of death, and other facts correlative to the decedent, largely depend the interests of families and communities.

The classification and analysis of death-returns of this country are becoming important studies, and are most appreciated by the sanitarian, who recognizes in these collated facts the evidence of suffering and deterioration of the human race, and suggests measures for its protection, while the political economist only estimates the value of such exhibits as evidences of waste.

The local circumstances attending the mortality from zymotic, or preventable diseases, have elicited the special attention of the board of health of this District, with a view of removing the causes which may exist to such a degree as to express themselves in typical evidences.

Immediately upon the receipt of certificates giving information of deaths from contagious, infectious, or other prominent zymotic diseases, it is the uniform custom of this office to make immediate reference of the case to the health officer for investigation and report whether, in his opinion, any local cause exists likely to produce the disease, and, if there be such cause, it is his special province to effect its removal. If deaths from infectious or contagious diseases are referred, he informs the family and others in the immediate vicinity, and instructs them as to its character, the necessity for isolation if other cases exist, and the selection and employment of suitable disinfectants. The wisdom of these precautionary measures, has been exemplified in a marked degree during the past year by the arrest of variola, eight cases of which disease were introduced at different periods, and in each instance such prompt and effective action was taken to secure sanitary control of the infected persons and premises as to invariably prevent its communication.

The present experience and progress of sanitary science, sustained by reliable statistical evidence, warrants the assertion that health-boards, properly organized and invested by competent authority with power to enforce necessary regulations, can successfully and effectively check and stamp out the most formidable and destructive epidemic. Any result less satisfactory in the care of the health and lives of communities should justly be considered evidence of incompetency or criminal neglect on the part of the legally-constituted authority.

September 30, 1875, from all causes, was 4,352, of which number 2,210 were white, and 2,142 colored—2.72 per cent. of the total population, or at the rate of 27.20 per 1,000 per annum.

Table No. 4 exhibits the total mortality from all causes for the year, by classes and orders in each period of life, showing the nativities, color, sex, and percentage of each disease by classes and orders to total mortality. It will be observed by reference to this table that the number of deaths from zymotic causes was 1,105—25.39 per cent. of the total mortality, or at the rate of 6.906 per 1,000, a lower rate of mortality from these diseases than that of any city with which comparison has been made in this report, as shown in Table No. 12, to which attention is invited, the highest rate being that of Cleveland, Ohio, which is 36.089 per cent. of the total mortality; a remarkable fact, considering its latitude and topography, being located upon the shore of an inland lake and about 60 feet above its surface.

Of the whole number of deaths from zymotic diseases in this district 595 were white and 510 were colored; 532 were males and 573 females.

The number of deaths from miasmatic diseases, order 1, the most prominent of this class, was 958, or 22.013 per cent. of the total mortality. Of this number 513 were white, or 0.446 per cent. of the white population, and 445 colored, or 0.989 per cent. of the colored population, showing more than double the relative proportion of deaths from this order of diseases among the colored population. This disproportion is more marked in this order than in any other, in consequence of the filthy and careless habits of the majority of this class, who are found living under conditions most unfavorable to the promotion of health and long life.

The prominent cause of death in this order, exhibited in the table, is cholera infantum, and a similar disproportion is shown in the mortality of the white and colored.

The total number of deaths from constitutional diseases was 931, or 21.392 per cent. of the total mortality. Of this number 461 were white, or 0.401 per cent. of the white population, and 470 colored, or 1.044 per cent. of the colored population—more than two and one-half times greater mortality from this class of diseases among the colored than the white. This may no doubt be attributed to a fact well known and universally exhibited in communities where the colored element is considerable, that this class is prone to scrofulous, tubercular, and other constitutional maladies, the exciting causes being the same as those mentioned, inducing death from zymotic diseases.

The total number of deaths from local diseases was 1,726, or 39.661 of the total mortality. Of this number 870 were white and 856 colored. The prominent causes of death from this class were pneumonia, apoplexy, congestion of the brain, infantile convulsions, meningitis, bronchitis, and congestion of the lungs, the majority of deaths from these enumerated causes being, with the exception of apoplexy, among children under five years of age.

The total number of deaths from developmental diseases was 438 or 10.064 per cent. of the total mortality. Of this number 214 were white, 224 colored; and 184 were children under one year of age. The percentage of this class of diseases is above that of the cities with which comparisons have been made in this report, and is due to the great mortality among colored children during that period of life.

The total number of deaths from violence was 152 or 3.493 per cent. of the total mortality. Of this number 70 were white and 82 colored, a more marked disproportion as against the colored population than shown in any other class of fatal causes. Among the prominent causes in this class were burns and scalds, crushed by bank of earth, neglect and exposure, and drowning.

Table No. 5 is a recapitulation of Table No. 4, and shows the total number of deaths by classes and orders; Table No. 6, recapitulation by classes, with percentages; Table No. 7, total deaths, classes and orders by months. Table No. 8 exhibits mortality from diarrheal diseases, with percentages.

The total number of deaths from diarrheal diseases was 455, 400 of which were of children under five years of age, or 87.912 per cent. of the total mortality from this cause; 300 were of children under one year of age, or 65.934 per cent. of the total mortality from the same cause; 88 were of children from one to two years of age, and 10 from two to three years.

This table is of great importance as exhibiting how large a proportion of the death-rate of children under five years of age is induced by diarrheal diseases, which prevail during the summer months, and which, next to phthisis pulmonalis, among the various causes of death, destroys most human life, being 36.199 per cent. of the total deaths from zymotic diseases, and 9.191 per cent. of the mortality from all causes.

Table No. 9 exhibits the mortality of children under five years of age from all causes, with percentages. The total number of deaths for this period of life was 2,187, or 50.255 per cent. of the total mortality for the year. Half the human mortality is before the age of five years—a sad record, borne out by the registry of most of the large cities, and suggestive of study and research by sanitarians, that the cause of this excessive mortality may be discovered and the remedy applied.

In our own District we find that 56.836 per cent. of deaths of children under five years of age is among the colored, and that 2.76 per cent. of that race die during this period, while only .82 per cent. of the white population die during the same period, again bearing out our prevailing mortuary history and adding still stronger proof of the influence of ignorance of hygienic laws upon the death-rate of a people.

Table No. 10 exhibits the deaths from phthisis pulmonalis by months, showing nativity, color, age, sex, and duration of residence in the District of Columbia, percentage of mortality in each period of life by sex and color, to the mortality from this disease, and to the total mortality from all causes.

The total number of deaths from this cause during the year was 579, or 13.304 per cent. of total mortality for the same period, 3.619 per 1,000 per annum; 510 were native-born and 69 foreign, 307 were white and 272 colored; 288 were males and 291 females. Thirty-eight had resided in this district less than one year, 61 from one to five years, 87 from five to ten years, 343 from ten years and upwards, and 50 unknown. The greatest mortality from this disease was between the ages of twenty-five and thirty years, being 16.061 per cent. of the total mortality from this cause.

Table No. 12 shows the comparative rate of mortality, by classes, with percentages in the principal cities of the United States where the registry of deaths is believed to be approximately correct.

Table No. 13 is the consolidated report of the coroner of the District of Columbia for the twelve months ending September 30, 1875, and exhibits the total number of cases viewed, and causes of death, which are included in the total mortality and by classes and orders in the appropriate tables.

Among the more prominent circumstances materially affecting the sanitary condition, which influence the causes and ratio of mortality in the District are :

1st. Climate.—The intense and long-continued heat of the summer months and the rapid growth and decay of vegetation are likely, in the absence of suitable sanitary provisions, to develop the more formidable miasmatic diseases.

2d. The location of our cities upon "tide-water," which, in its daily ebb and flow, carries and returns the water of our river saturated with sewage, affecting measurably the salubrity of the District.

3d. The annual varying influx of a transient population, estimated at not less than 100,000, yielding reluctantly to wholesome sanitary control, leaves a notable impress upon our mortality tables.

4th. The occupation and habits of the people, whose official daily service in the public departments, which are generally overcrowded, badly ventilated, and lack many other sanitary requirements, are sure to make inroads upon the health and life of this class, inducing dyspepsia, defective nutrition, and other derangements, the precursor of phthisis pulmonalis, the most prominent cause of death in this and other civilized countries. In contrast to these conditions, affecting so unfavorably the death-rate in this District, we enjoy the important sanitary provisions of broad streets and avenues, so wisely arranged as to invite the unobstructed course of wind-currents; the numerous public and private parks, and dwelling areas of the more favored classes, which, combined, secure a degree of salubrity directly insuring the highest expectation for the most reasonable limit to preventable maladies. The time allowed for perfecting the accompanying tables and studying their bearing upon the sanitary as well as the social and physical conditions of the people has been insufficient to enable me to present as reliable and elaborate a review as I desired of these several comprehensive tabular statements, which have been carefully prepared, and exhibit intelligently all the facts bearing upon "the three signal epochs of human life, namely, births, marriages, and deaths," and the relation which they hold to their surroundings, legal, social, and sanitary. The meteorological observations accompanying this report were furnished through the courtesy of the Chief Signal-Officer of the United States Army, and have been published weekly in the statistical bulletin emanating from this office; but the limited time afforded in compiling this annual exhibit has rendered it impossible for me to carefully study and intelligently apply this important science as bearing upon the vital interests of the community.

Progress has characterized the labors of this department during this period. A little more than one year since the present complete regulations, based upon the recently-enacted law of Congress, have been enforced, and it is reasonable to believe that, as our knowledge and experience on this subject increases, and the people appreciate more fully the value and necessity for such records, learning thereby to care for and protect their health and lives in the observance of established sanitary laws, still longer strides will be taken each year in the direction of a perfect registration of vital statistics in the District of Columbia.

Very respectfully,

D. W. BLISS, M. D.,

ATTORNEY'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 30, 1875.

SIR: The following report of legal business referred to, and transacted by, the Attorney for the Board of Health during the year ending September 30, 1875, is respectfully submitted:

Number of cases prosecuted in Police Court during the year..	128
Number of convictions in such cases .....	60
Number of cases dismissed in Police Court.....	13
Number of cases nolle prosequed or discontinued.....	55
Total amount of fines imposed.....	$575 00
Of these cases there were referred by the Health Officer:
Nuisances.....	93
Sale of unwholesome food.....	4
Hindering or interfering with inspectors and officers...	4
Referred by Registrar of Vital Statistics:
For violation of vital statistics regulations.....	12
Cases in which arrests for nuisances committed were made by officers of Metropolitan Police, and prosecuted by attorney for the Board of Health.....	15
Number of cases in which appeals were taken from Police to Criminal Court.....	8
Appeals abandoned by appellant.....	2
Found "not guilty" by jury in Criminal Court.....	2
Information quashed in Criminal Court.....	1
Convicted in Criminal Court.....	3

In addition to the cases prosecuted in the Police Court and, on appeal, in the Criminal Court, the attorney for the Board of Health has been called upon to defend three civil suits: one against the board for money alleged to be due on contract, and two actions of debt against Inspector Ludington for the value of fish condemned and removed by him; also one prosecution instituted by Theo. F. Gatchell, esq., president S. P. C. A., against Poundmaster Ernstein, for alleged cruelty practiced in dog-catching; in all of which judgments were rendered for the defendants.

The large proportion of cases nolle prosequed or discontinued is mainly due to the cause referred to in report for preceding year, viz, the fact that after proceedings have been instituted, the parties complained of have exerted themselves to remove nuisances, and the Health-Officer, on being satisfied of the abatement of the same, has directed the discontinuance of legal proceedings.

It will be remarked that the total number of cases prosecuted in the courts during the past year (128) is considerably less than the number of such cases referred for prosecution during the preceding year, (170.) This decrease in the number of prosecutions, which will probably be as marked in years to come, is, in my judgment, largely due to the energetic action of the Health-Office in the investigation and abatement of nuisances, the rigorous enforcement of the ordinances and regulations of the Board, the improved state of public opinion and knowledge in regard to sanitary requirements, and the wise and judicious manner in which the Board has been sustained, in the exercise of its rightful authority, by the courts of the District.

In no case tried during the past year has any decision been made by the courts denying to the Board of Health the powers conferred by acts of Congress, and essential to the discharge of duties imposed thereby. This is a matter of the utmost importance, because the appropriations of the Board being limited, and the proportionate number of cases in which the board could by its own act, or the act of its subordinates, and at the public expense, remove and abate nuisances, is, of necessity, exceedingly small, compared to the whole number of such offenses committed. It follows that the only recourse of the Board, for the protection of the health of the community, is the prosecution of the offender in the courts. In this way the facts are submitted to judicial investigation, and the law enforced by judicial authority; while in all cases, under the law, the right to trial by jury is secured to the defendants, on appeal, if not in the first instance. In almost every case in which conviction has been had, the fines imposed by the court have been very moderate, and only such as were absolutely necessary to prevent repetition of the offense. It is to be hoped that the courts may continue to sustain the action of the Board, in the interest of the community, and that if any legislation is needed to further define the powers and duties of the board, and to specify, more in detail, the mode of procedure, and means to be adopted by the Board in the performance of its duty of providing for the removal of nuisances injurious to health, the subject may be properly presented to and wisely acted upon by Congress.

Very respectfully, &c.,

H. D. BEAM,
Attorney, &c.

Hon. C. C. Cox,
President of the Board of Health.

THE CONDITION OF WOOD PAVEMENTS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

At a meeting of the Board of Health held August 27, 1875, on motion of Dr. Verdi, it was—

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to inquire whether wood pavements in a state of decay, and wood pavements which, on account of their broken condition, allow decomposed vegetable and animal matter to collect in large quantities in holes, or under their surfaces, are not a source of malaria or infection, thus constituting a nuisance injurious to health.

Resolved, That the same committee examine and report such wood pavements in Washington and Georgetown as, in their present condition, may be deemed nuisances injurious to health.

September 28, 1875, the committee, consisting of Dr. Verdi, Dr. Bliss, and Professor Langston, submitted, through its chairman, the following report, which was adopted:

The committee appointed to examine the wood pavements in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, under the provisions of the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the Board, August 27, 1875, would respectfully report:

1. That as long ago as 1834, experiments in wood pavements were made in London and St. Petersburg, and that it was found that their power of absorbing the solutions of decomposed filth of the streets rendered wood pavements very dangerous to the health of the inhabitants; that when the surface is worn the pluvial waters do not flow off easily, and therefore assist in mixing the dust with the animal and vegetable matter, making a cover of filth that Boussingault denounced as a most flagrant source of dangerous emanations.

2. That the mass of wood in the pavement undergoes a great loss of quantity in proportion to the wear and tear caused by the friction and attrition of traveling. Your committee has noticed that, in removing pavements that have been laid scarcely three years, the number of blocks which, when new, would have filled a cart of a given size, now would hardly fill one-half of the same. This immense loss is not due to wear and tear from hard usage, but from the decomposition of the albuminoids which have resolved into foetid gases that escaped in the atmosphere. The withdrawal of the albuminoids is the virtual withdrawal of the plastic elements, a loss of the adhesive property that preserves the construction of the wood, which now crumbles into a mass of dust for want of it. For the same reason the blocks of wood that have been subjected to the process of abstracting the fluid contents, for the purpose of filling the vacuum thus created with antiseptics, have, by that process, given up their plastic materials, and consequently lost their fibrous cohesiveness, and are the first to crumble into an amorphous mass of dust. So the treatment is worse than the disease. It is impossible to find wood that could resist oxidation and the decomposing power of moisture and heat. Its disintegration is only a matter of time, often of too short a time not to induce a greater evolution of gases than the air can render innoxious by dilution. In a climate like ours, and in all those of temperate latitudes, the conditions of the atmosphere change so rapidly in moisture and heat that the decomposition of wood exposed to it is almost constant, and therefore intensely dangerous.

Pasteur found that when vegetable or animal matter is kept free from the atmosphere, or in atmosphere purified of solid particles by passing it through cotton, no fermentation occurs, but as soon as water or impure air is allowed to come in contact with it fermentation commences. This is now admitted by all scientific microscopists. Considering, then, how wood pavements are exposed to impure air, heat, moisture, and the filth of a town, one can easily imagine how quickly fermentation and decomposition must be produced in them. Everything dead, whether animal or vegetable, returns to the reservoir whence it came. The agents of disorganization, the germs suspended in the air, quickly invade it, and finding it a good soil, reproduce themselves, and in an astonishingly short space of time swarm it with myriads of fungi and animalculæ. Winds and strong currents of air take these up and infect the atmosphere, and, as Fernard Papillon says, these "penetrating agents of decay, baneful toilers for disease, lie everywhere in wait for the chance to pierce the internal machinery of animals and plants and create slight or grave disturbances within it."

The products of fermentation are fungi, vibriones, and bacteria, which, when they enter the body, induce disease in the human economy. Davaine has demonstrated that carbuncular diseases are due to an excessive development of bacteria in the blood, and surgeons now protect wounds from their intrusion by antiseptics.

In some instances this process of fermentation has gone on so rapidly that in three years nothing was left of the wood but the humus, only fit for manure. All other component parts have been resolved into dangerous gases and fungi, poisoning the atmosphere.

3. The board of health has by ordinance declared animal and vegetable matter in a state of decay to be a nuisance injurious to health; and your committee are of opinion that decayed wood in streets, avenues, &c., constitutes no exception to this declaration.

4. That wood pavements of various kinds and patents have been laid in a large number of the streets and avenues of our cities during the past four years; in some cases the blocks were subjected to antiseptic treatment before being laid; that in less than three years from the time they were laid every such pavement gave more or less evidence of disintegration and decay. The decomposition on Pennsylvania avenue northwest and southeast, Third, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, and K streets northwest, has been so rapid and general as to form on those streets a mass of putrefaction dangerous to life and health, and several of them are now being repaved with concrete. Your committee find that the durability of such pavements depends largely upon the quality and seasoning of the wood used, and the manner in which it is laid, but that four years of exposure to heat and moisture is sufficient to cause the decomposition of the best. Those protected from capillary absorption by a thick bed of sand, or that were laid on sandy soil well drained, have been the slowest to decay; when not thus protected, decomposition in every case has been very rapid. Your committee are of opinion that sprinkling to prevent the motion of dust during hot weather has greatly accelerated decomposition, especially on Pennsylvania avenue, and unless immediately followed by the sweeper the process of fermentation is largely increased, and therefore the practice should be discontinued, creating, as it does, a nuisance injurious to health. The effect of sprinkling is different from that of rain, for while the former is just enough to moisten the noxious materials, the latter is generally sufficient to wash them from the surface.

Your committee further find that the broken surface of the pavements has allowed the lodgment of immense quantities of animal and vegetable filth between and beneath the blocks of wood, not only greatly increasing the putrefying mass, but adding to the rapidity of the decomposition.

From such decomposition gases arise, fungi and infusoria are developed, poisoning the atmosphere, engendering zymotic diseases, such as typhoid, typho-malarial, remittent, and intermittent fevers, dysentery, diphtheria, &c. In view of a condition so dangerous to the health of the community, your committee would recommend that, as soon as the wood pavement on any street shows indications of general decomposition, the Commissioners of the District be requested by the Board of Health to take up and remove the same, and that the Health-officer be instructed to examine wood pavements from time to time and report the condition of the same, with the view of condemning such as may be deemed nuisances injurious to health.

Your committee have also submitted to Prof. Thomas Taylor, microscopist, several specimens of blocks of wood taken from our street pavements for examination, and take pleasure in presenting to you the result of his valuable researches. Your committee is also gratified in finding that their conclusions do not differ in any main point from those of the learned professor, derived from his microscopical examinations.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 28, 1875.

DEAR SIR: I have examined the four specimens of wood blocks forwarded by you to this department, and herewith respectfully submit a very brief statement of my investigation and experiments with them. My first experiment consisted in cutting longitudinal and cross sections sufficiently thin to appear translucent under the microscope. By the use of a one-fifth power and a binocular arrangement the woody structure is perfectly seen. The first block examined has evidently been treated with dead oil of tar. The fiber of the wood is of a deep brown color. Its mechanical arrangement as seen under the microscope is as perfect as if it had never been in use, but its original cohesiveness is wholly wanting, and so fragile that it may be ground into powder between the fingers. There is no evidence whatever that its decay is the result of fermentation. Neither the spores nor the mycelium of fungi are to be found within the wood cells so treated. When submitted to the action of solutions of potash, soda, and ammonia, the dark-brown coloring matter became soluble, and subsequent experiments and observation demonstrated that wood blocks treated with the dead oil of tar decay by oxidation, not fermentation, and are in fact converted into peaty matter—humus—and form with the above alkalies soluble ulmates. Streets paved with this material are not injurious to health.

The substances evolved during the transformation of the wood blocks to the peaty condition are principally carbonic acid and water. This sample gave no evidence of the presence of sulphureted hydrogen or free ammonia. The only danger to be apprehended arises from the crumbling condition, which makes them unable to resist the weight and constant friction of public travel.

The other three samples do not appear to have been treated with any oily matter, or if so it must have been to a very limited extent, as they were all in a fermenting condition. A perfect net-work of mycelium or roots of fungi are visible throughout the entire woody structure, and the presence of large masses of blocks in this condition in our streets will greatly contribute to the pollution of the atmosphere. The gases evolved from large masses of fermenting wood are decidedly malarious in character.

About twelve months ago four specimens of prepared wood were placed in my hands for microscopic examination, which had been treated by four different processes, viz: the Robins process, iron process, zinc process, and by the dead oil of tar process. These four specimens were placed in four separate jars, filled with pure river-water. All of the specimens have been kept to this date, the water being changed as often as once a week; the object being to remove all soluble preserving substance, thus enabling me to ascertain what action, if any, would take place in pure running water in contrast with stagnant water charged with ferments. An examination made of all the specimens at this date shows that the fiber is comparatively sound. The block which had been prepared by the iron process was, however, completely ramified by fungi spores and mycelium, indicating that had not the water been frequently changed fermentation would have set in strongly in this specimen. I consider that the principal cause of the destruction of the wood pavements arises from the deposits of animal wastes on the public streets, which act as agents of fermentation.

I am, sir, yours, very respectfully,

STAMP-DUTY ON MANUFACTURES OF GOLD AND SILVER.

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

RELATIVE TO

---

DECEMBER 10, 1875.—Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 9, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith, for such action as may be deemed advisable by Congress, a copy of a communication addressed by Messrs. S. & J. Myers, of Boston, to this Department, under date of the 10th of October last, in which certain recommendations are made looking to legislation on the part of Congress with reference to fixing a stamp-duty upon manufactures of gold and silver in this country.

I have the honor to remain, sir, your obedient servant,

B. H. BRISTOW,
Secretary of the Treasury.

HON. MICHAEL C. KERR,
Speaker of the House of Representatives,

BOSTON, October 10, 1875.

DEAR SIR: We have the following to submit to your notice, which we think you will recommend to be adopted by the Government for the benefit of the people of the United States and the Government of the same. Our proposition is as follows: That a stamp-duty be imposed upon all articles of gold and silver manufactured in this country, thereby denoting the quality by affixing the carat on the gold goods and one uniform standard for those of silver. Our goods can then be marketed in any part of the world, and would be valued and sought after in the manner of English and French goods. Our trade suffers because no uniform system has been adopted; our home-trade suffers to a great extent because people are not sure that they are getting what they pay for, consequently many persons in this country will buy imported goods because they know that they get just the quality that they pay for.

The present system is as follows:

One man makes what we suppose to be a 14-carat case for $6; another man makes what we suppose to be a 14-carat case for $5; and another man makes what we suppose to be a 14-carat case for $4. The consequence is that one gives a poorer quality of gold than the other, and the consumer suffers in not getting what he pays for. The honest manufacturer suffers because he cannot compete with the dishonest one.

The Government will confer a great boon upon the honest artisan and upon the public generally by giving its protection in the above-named goods, as there is, under the present system, a wide field for deception, and if a stamp-duty is adopted the Government will realize a large sum yearly. The duty need not be large or heavy, but a small duty which would not be burdensome, and persons would willingly pay the slight difference of duty, knowing that they have the Government protection.

Our gilt goods are sold extensively in England and in other countries, and we feel sure that our gold and silver would sell abroad providing there was some guarantee as to quality.

We do not propose to confine manufacturers to one standard in gold goods, but that they may make any quality they choose, but they shall have them stamped just the quality, anywhere from 6 carats to 22 carats, and that to be under the supervision of the Government.

Our commerce would prosper; our honest artisans and manufacturers would be constantly employed; our Government would be enriched, without causing suffering in any quarter. Our facilities, our improved machinery, our skill and energy, will enable us to compete with the world, but it needs the guarantee of our Government, which is good all over the civilized globe.

Providing this system is adopted, or one as a substitute, which will be very valuable, we expect to be remunerated, and that we shall leave to the generosity of the Government.

We remain, dear sir, yours, very respectfully,

S. & J. MYERS,
236 Washington St.

The Hon. SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,
Washington, D. C.

FROM THE

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,

TRANSMITTING

Estimates of appropriations required for the repair of the "Adobe Palace," now occupied by the legislative assembly of the Territory of New Mexico.

DECEMBER 10, 1875.—Referred to the Committee on the Territories and ordered to be printed.

---

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, December 6, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of a letter addressed to this Department on the 17th of August last by Mr. W. G. Ritch, secretary of the Territory of New Mexico, who submits estimates of appropriations required for the repair of the "Adobe Palace," now occupied by the legislative assembly of said Territory, amounting in all to the sum of seventeen hundred and fifty dollars.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

Z. CHANDLER,
Secretary.

HON. M. C. KERR,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Santa Fé, N. M., August 17, 1875.

I have the honor to make application for an appropriation of the amounts per estimates accompanying, marked respectively Estimates "A" and "B," for repairs on the Government building in this city known as the "Adobe Palace."

Exhibit "A" relates to that portion occupied by the legislative assembly, and which is to meet on the 1st of December next. It will probably be remembered that there was a small expenditure made on the legislative halls ten years ago, in plastering and fitting up the inside. This work is in as fair a state of preservation as could reasonably be expected under the adobe roof that constitutes the covering. These deit-roofs are usually repaired every year, and even then are far from being reliable as a water-shed from snow and rain. This roof was not repaired one year ago—having no funds for the purpose—but was well repaired two years since, and must of necessity be now thoroughly repaired again to make the halls tenatable.

I am of the opinion that the most economical plan would be a tin roof; this would be permanent, and not only avoid the necessity for a long time of any repairs on the roof, but would also keep the halls in a good state of preservation when once more placed in repair, and thus, also, save constant repair there. The inside walls and the ceiling have been streaked and colored badly in places from leaks in the deit-roof, and hence are not tenatable from any civilized stand-point.

The faces of the outside walls of the halls are the plain adobes as they were originally laid, never having been pointed even, and present a most forbidding aspect. The estimate contemplates plastering the same.

The portal columns and cornice have never been painted, and hence I have also included painting in the estimate.

I feel quite certain that could you see the condition of the building in its very muddy dingy-looking aspect, you would not for a moment hesitate to grant the small appropriation asked for. It is safe to say no other legislative body in the United States, outside of New Mexico, ever met inside of such disgraceful surroundings. The repairs made ten years ago were a most agreeable surprise to the members, and brought many expressions of satisfaction, one of which I well remember: "Changed from uncomfortable shabbiness to tasteful neatness." It was a generous appreciation of the consideration had for them by the Government. When it will cost so little, is it asking too much for the Government to make the outside of the building equally pleasant and attractive?

I must believe that you will agree with me that the appropriation asked for is no more than absolutely necessary to respectable surroundings, (for this country,) and to properly conserve the public interests.

Estimate "B" is for the "Palace" generally, and not included in "A," and is no more than necessary to preserve the building from disintegration under the snows and rains of the country, and for a tolerably presentable front.

Adobe buildings, as you may be aware, specially need a small outlay for repair every year, or the process of wearing away goes on very rapidly. The whole building, in its outside appearance, with the exception of the portion occupied by the United States depositaries, is a positive disgrace, even to the civilization of New Mexico.

If the building is worth preserving, and I certainly think it is, the least I can do, as the "custodian of the Adobe Palace," is to recommend the appropriation asked for in "Exhibit B." The estimates asked for in each exhibit are low, but with economical expenditure, in which I lay claim to some experience personally, I feel confident of keeping the work within the amount. It is of but little account having a "custodian" if the buildings are to be allowed to go to ruin on his hands.

Hoping you will give the matter your early and favorable consideration, I am, very truly,

THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,

TRANSMITTING

The report of Richard P. Hammond on the Rancho Panoche Grande, California.

DECEMBER 10, 1875.—Referred to the Committee on Private Land-Claims and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., December 8, 1875.

SIR: Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of the Interior by a paragraph in the sundry civil service appropriation act of 3d March last, (18 Stat., 382.) Richard P. Hammond, of California, was appointed by my predecessor to make a careful examination "for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person, firm, or corporation is now occupying any larger portion of the lands known as Rancho Panoche Grande than is authorized and allowed by the laws relating to mining-lands."

He performed the duty, under instructions from the Commissioner of the General Land-Office, (copy herewith,) and submitted his report, a copy of which, and also of the map and papers accompanying the report, I have the honor to transmit herewith for the consideration of Congress, as required by said act.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
Z. CHANDLER,
Secretary.

Hon. M. C. KERR,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

---

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND-OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., May 21, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to forward herewith the report and accompanying documents of Richard P. Hammond, esq., special examiner in the matter of the lands in California known as the "Rancho Panoche Grande," made pursuant to the act of Congress approved March 3, 1875, under special instructions from this Office dated March 24, 1875.

The report was received at this Office, by express, on the 19th instant: the letter of transmittal, accompanied by the accounts of the examiner, was received on the 20th instant.

The papers herewith forwarded are—

1. Report of Richard P. Hammond, special examiner.
2. List of claims for lands for agricultural and grazing purposes, within the boundaries of the Rancho Panoche Grande tract.
3. Proceedings of miners' convention December 6, 1854, San Carlos mining-district, counties of Mariposa and Monterey, California.
4. Exhibits referred to in the report as Nos. 1, 2, and 3.

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. S. BURDETT,
Commissioner.

Hon. C. DELANO,
Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., March 23, 1875.

SIR: In the act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for other purposes, under the head "Department of the Interior, Public Lands," I find the following provision:

That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a careful examination to be made, for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person, firm, or corporation is now occupying any larger portion of the land known as Rancho Panoche Grande than is authorized and allowed by the laws relating to mining-lands; and that he make full and detailed report of such examination to Congress at the beginning of the next session; and to enable the Secretary of the Interior to carry into effect this provision, the sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated.

To enable the Department to comply with the provisions of the act here quoted, I have the honor to inform you that Richard P. Hammond, of San Francisco, Cal., has been appointed to make the examination contemplated. His compensation will be ten dollars per day and actual expenses.

You are directed to prepare and submit to the Department for approval, at the earliest practicable day, detailed instructions for the guidance of Mr. Hammond in the discharge of the duties devolving upon him under the act aforesaid by this appointment.

Very respectfully,

C. DELANO,
Secretary.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND-OFFICE.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND-OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 24, 1875.

SIR: Herewith you will find copy of a letter addressed to this Office, under date the 23d instant, from the honorable Secretary of the Inte.

rior, appointing you to the duty of making the examination provided for by the act therein quoted.

By an examination of the act referred to you will perceive that it will be your duty to visit, in person, the tract of public land generally known as the "Rancho Panoche Grande," situate in the county of Fresno, and State of California.

After identifying the exterior boundaries of this tract, which you will be enabled to do by the diagram and field-notes herewith transmitted, it will be your next and chief duty to ascertain with care and particularity what person or persons, firm, or corporation are in the occupancy of any part of said tract; the nature and objects of such occupancy, (whether for mining or agricultural purposes,) and if for mining purposes, the extent of such occupancy.

In determining extent you will report—

1. On the surface-area actually used for mining purposes by each claimant, whether person, firm, or corporation; the extent to which mining operations have been carried beneath the surface, and what particular use the surface-ground actually occupied is put to, whether for shafts, tunnels, dumping-ground, mills, reduction-works, or other purposes actually connected with mining operations.

2. If the claimants have, by survey or other means, marked upon the ground the extent of surface claimed by them, or shall do so during the term of your examination, you will report the location, extent, and boundaries of such claim.

You will accompany your report with a diagram, or diagrams, illustrating the facts found by you to exist, and to this end the surveyor-general of California has been instructed to place at your disposal his personal services, and generally to give you any aid you may deem necessary for the proper performance of the duties assigned you.

You will keep in view the fact that the object of your investigation is to collect and arrange such facts as will enable the Secretary to report fully and intelligently to Congress in answer to the requirements of the act under which you are appointed.

In furtherance of this purpose you will call upon any occupying claimants, found by you upon the tract, who have not already made application through the proper land-office to enter the tracts respectively claimed by them, to furnish you with a statement of their claim, embracing the date of their alleged discovery and location; the number and names of the locators; the extent of their improvements; and under what laws, congressional or local, they claim.

The mining locations already made within the limits of Panoche Grande, so far as evidenced by the records of this Office, are:

1. The New Idria Mine. Entry No. 2. Lot No. 37 in T. 17 S., R. 12 E., and lot 38 in T. 18 S., R. 12 E.

2. The Andy Johnson Mine. Entry No. 22. Lot No. 38 in T. 18 S., R. 12 E., and Lot No. 39 in T. 18 S., R. 12 E.

3. Fourth of July. Entry No. 21. Lot No. 38 in T. 18 S., R. 12 E.

These locations, as presented by the several applicants, you will find delineated upon the accompanying diagram.

If other surveys not herein noted have been made, the record thereof will be found in the office of the surveyor-general of California, and necessary copies of the same will be furnished you on application to him.

For this service you will be allowed the actual and necessary expenses incurred by you, of which a strict account must be kept, in accordance with the requirements of the inclosed circular, together with an allowance of ten dollars per day for each and every day that you may be employed under these instructions.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. S. BURDETT,

RICHARD P. HAMMOND, Esq.,
San Francisco, Cal.

SIR: By appointment of the honorable Secretary of the Interior, made pursuant to the requirements of a law of Congress, and under special instructions from your Office, dated March 24, 1875, I have completed a careful examination of the lands known as the "Rancho Panoche Grande," located in the counties of Fresno and San Benito, State of California, and I have now the honor to submit this report with the maps, diagrams, tabulated statement of occupants, and other papers which accompany. The maps and diagrams are referred to, specifically, in the body of the report, and are intended to form a material part of it.

To expedite the examination, I caused to be printed and circulated a notice, of which the following is a copy :

"NOTICE.

"The undersigned has been appointed special examiner, under a recent law of Congress, to inquire into and report respecting all claims for lands, agricultural and mineral, within 'that tract of public land generally known as the Rancho Panoche Grande.' Occupants of land within the boundaries of this tract, whether the same be held as agricultural, grazing, or mineral lands, or for whatever purpose, are requested to file notice of such claim with the undersigned, at his camp, near the works of the New Idria Mining Company, without delay.

"RICHARD P. HAMMOND,
"Special Examiner.

"APRIL 12, 1875."

These notices were distributed and posted in the towns of Gilroy, Hollister, San Juan, and Tres Pinos, (where some of the claimants were believed to reside,) and also at various public places and private settlements adjacent to and within the boundaries of the land to be examined, so that, as far as was possible, all interested parties might be informed of the purpose of the examination and the time at which it was to be made.

I accordingly arrived at the works of the New Idria Mining Company in the afternoon of April 16, accompanied by United States Surveyor-General Stratton, and by Mr. F. von Leicht, the latter in capacity of topographer and draughtsman.

The road traveled, during a portion of the day, passed through the Panoche Grande tract, as will be seen by reference to map No. 1, and it seemed to be very apparent, from the character and topography of the country traversed, that, for the purposes of the examination, the tract was naturally divided into two subdivisions, in one of which I was not likely to find occupants of mineral lands, while in the other I was certain not to find persons claiming lands for agricultural purposes. This line of subdivision may be approximately stated as the dividing line between sections nineteen, twenty, and twenty-one, T. 17 S., R. 12 E., and sections twenty-eight, twenty-nine, and thirty, T. 17 S., R. 12 E.

It was also evident that the occupants of lands held for agricultural and grazing purposes, whose tenements were probably all within the line of vision as we passed along the highway, were so few in number that they might be visited personally at their settlements. I did, accordingly, during the progress of the examination, visit each house, and obtained from the owner or occupant the information as to the claims for agricultural lands, which will be found embodied, for convenient reference, in tabulated statement marked "Claims for lands for agricultural and grazing purposes within the boundaries of Rancho Panoche Grande tract."

These lands, with the names of occupants or claimants, are especially noted, by metes and bounds, on map No. 1.

There was no difficulty in identifying the tract, by means of its exterior boundaries, according to the map and field-notes sent to me by the Department. The United States surveys of public lands have been extended over that section of country, and there were found various subdivision stakes within and adjacent to the boundaries of the tract.

The boundaries conform to the lines of public surveys, and their location, for the purposes of this examination, was readily determined.

It will be seen by reference to map No. 1, and the tabulated statement which accompanies, that all the occupants of agricultural and grazing lands claim their possessions under the laws of Congress governing the disposition of the public domain; some having made entry under the homestead and pre-emption laws, while others are expected to derive title, (in the case of odd sections,) from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

I may conclude this report, so far as any reference will be made to agricultural lands, by saying that the improvements are such as are usually found upon public lands under like circumstances. Here and there were small patches of grain, rarely, though sometimes, fenced, and in some instances partially irrigated. Wool-growing and stock-raising are the chief industries of the neighborhood.

The second division of the tract, subdivided as heretofore suggested, and as nature has abundantly indicated, is a rough, mountainous, and sterile country, unfitted for any purposes of the husbandman, but containing deposits of cinnabar, some forms of iron, and perhaps other metals.

It is presumed that the examination of this mineral belt, so far, at least, as it is contained within the limits of the tract in question, is the most important part of the work devolved upon me, and it has therefore occupied more time and attention than was bestowed on the valley below.

In order to present the subject as fully and as concisely as possible, I caused to be made such surveys, by measurements and triangulation, as would serve to fix the position and extent of all mining claims and locations, with their existing shafts, tunnels, dumping-grounds, mills, and reduction-works; and to further show the road-ways, tenement-houses, streams, and prominent natural features of the topography within and immediately contiguous to the country to be examined.

This information is embodied in map No. 2, which has been prepared, under my direction, by Mr. Ferdinand von Leicht, an engineer of approved merit, and is made a part of this report, and referred to for many details which may not otherwise appear.

Toward the north end of this map, and located within sections 29, 32, 33, and 34, according to the official surveys of public lands, is the claim of the New Idria Mining Company.

This claim is delineated upon the map, as it has been surveyed and marked upon the ground, by courses and distances, and contains within its exterior boundaries an area of four hundred and eighty acres.

It comprises three different and distinct mining locations, viz, the "New Idria," the "Molino," and the "San Carlos," which have been, since 1858, consolidated into one property, claimed and possessed by the New Idria Mining Company, a corporation formed under the mining-laws of the State of California.

The original locations of these several mines were made at different periods during the year 1854, and prior to December 1 of that year.

There were thirteen different original locators in the three mines, three of whom, prior to December 1, 1854, sold and transferred their interests to two of the remaining ten, and from these remaining ten the New Idria Company claims to derive its title.

The locus of these mining-claims was at that date within the boundaries of Mariposa County, and it appears from the records of that county, which I have personally examined for the purposes of this investigation, that on December 4, 1854, there was convened, pursuant to notice, a meeting of miners to form a mining-district, and to adopt laws and regulations for its government, as was the custom, under like circumstances, in California in those days. A copy of these laws, made under my supervision from the records, accompanies this report.

On December 6, 1854, the remaining ten locators, above referred to, caused a survey to be made of a parcel of land, including these three mines. This survey, recorded in Mariposa County, December 15, 1854, was two hundred and twenty chains in length, by thirty chains in breadth, and contained six hundred and sixty acres, an area largely in excess of that permitted by the laws adopted two days before. It included another mining-claim, as appears from the records, called the "Washington," which had been located by nearly the same parties in interest, in October previous, and it would seem to have been extended for this purpose.

A resurvey of this ground was made some years since by the present United States Surveyor-General Stratton, then acting as field deputy, for the present claimants, including the "New Idria," "Molino," and "San Carlos," excluding the "Washington," and embracing an area of four hundred and eighty acres, being one hundred and sixty acres for each mining location, in conformity with the laws of the district, above referred to.

I am informed by parties who represent the New Idria Mining Company, that this property is now claimed and held in and by virtue of said local laws, framed to govern the district, and under the sanction of subsequent legislation by the United States Congress.

Upon map No. 2, within the boundaries of the tract of land known as the Rancho Panoche Grande, appear two other mining-claims, known as the "Morning Star," and "Victorina."

These claims were located by the New Idria Mining Company, and were surveyed for that company in 1867, by the United States Surveyor-General Stratton, then acting as field deputy.

They have been prospected, and are held to be without value, and may be dismissed from further consideration, as I was officially informed upon the ground, by Mr. Maxwell, the superintendent of the New Idria Mining Company, that he had the instructions of his company to abandon the ground, and that no further proceedings to secure patents for these claims would be prosecuted.

Upon map No. 2 is carefully designated the position of the croppings of each of the three mines of the New Idria Company; also, the position of the shafts, tunnels, dumping-grounds, and reduction-works, and the location of the various houses, such as officers' quarters, store-house, stables, furnaces, &c., and the small villages in which reside the miners, workmen, and laborers connected with the enterprise.

The persons employed in and about the mines and reduction-works number altogether between seven and eight hundred; and their dwelling-places have been arranged with a view to general convenience and accessibility to their respective places of labor.

It has been found necessary, also, to have some regard to nationality in the distribution of the population. Thus one village is marked "Chileno Camp," another "Mexican Camp," and each is inhabited as indicated.

The map shows, also, the location of the reduction-works, with their necessary out-buildings, and the road-ways by which the ores are hauled from the mines.

It will be observed that the hacienda (by which term are understood the furnaces and necessary plant for the reduction of ores, in contradistinction to the place of the mine itself) is located in section 29, township 17 south, range 12 east, and is entirely outside of the four hundred and eighty acre survey. Its location has been determined properly by engineering and economical considerations. For the purposes of such works there must be sufficient surface, reasonably level, for the erection of the necessary buildings, with grounds convenient for dumping all the refuse from the furnaces.

The ores must be hauled to it by descending grades, and water must be conveniently delivered. The question of the fuel-supply enters also as a factor. It is obtained here largely from localities beyond the limits of the Panoche Grande tract, is hauled some distance up grade, but the up-grade hauling is reduced to a minimum in the selection of the site.

For the working of the three mines as one property, maintaining one complete hacienda for the reduction of all the ores, the location selected is the most eligible afforded by the topography, and no position within the four hundred and eighty acre survey would have complied with the conditions of the problem.

In determining "the extent to which mining operations have been carried beneath the surface," I beg to submit diagram marked No. 3, which shows, by lines of shading, the chambers from which ores have been removed, and the various adits, shafts, and tunnels by which communication was established between the chambers and with the surface of the ground.

This diagram is taken from the working plan of the mine kept in the office of the superintendent, and is such as is necessarily and always prepared and maintained by every superintendent of a large mining operation. The underground work is platted upon it at short intervals, and upon its exact correctness depend the success and economy of the management. Its accuracy is therefore beyond any question, but it was tested at the most important point by actual measurements, under my supervision, from the mouth of the main tunnel to the lowest working level as yet established. The descriptions and figures upon the diagram fully explain it, and it will be sufficient to say that the lowest point reached in the working is about two hundred and forty feet beneath the floor of the main tunnel, and nearly one thousand feet below the main outcrop of the mine. This diagram and these figures relate entirely to the "New Idria" location. The "Molino" has one tunnel run under the cropping, and is not being worked at present; while the "San Carlos," yielding considerable ore, has been explored thus far only by surface workings, open cuts, and shafts of no great depth.

Having completed the necessary investigations in and about the mines and claims of the New Idria Company, and not being advised of any other existing claims in that vicinity, my party moved toward the south end of the Panoche Grande tract to examine the Andy Johnson, Fourth of July, and any other claims for lands which might be found in that locality, and within the exterior boundaries of the tract aforesaid.

In passing from the possession of the New Idria Company to the Andy Johnson and Fourth of July, we crossed a high ridge, between four and five thousand feet above sea-level, which divides the waters that flow into the basin of the San Joaquin from those which find their way into the ocean at the bay of Monterey. This ridge is also, at this point, the dividing-line between the counties of Fresno and San Benito, as it was formerly the boundary-line between Mariposa and Monterey, from which counties Fresno and San Benito have been formed.

Passing this high ridge, we descend to the waters of Clear Creek, a tributary of the San Benito River, and the largest stream of water which anywhere intersects the tract of land known as the Rancho Panoche Grande.

To the south and east of this stream are located the claims of the Andy Johnson and Fourth of July Companies. Before reaching the lines of these claims, we met, by appointment, near the hacienda of the Clear Creek Mining Company, Mr. James P. Sargent and Mr. Brunetti, representing the owners and proprietors in the two claims we were about to examine.

It here became necessary to identify the Panoche Grande tract by means of its exterior boundaries, which was accomplished by reference to the intersection corner of sections 17, 18, 19, and 20, township 18 south, range 12 east, a point already established by the official surveys of public lands.

An examination of the boundary lines of the Andy Johnson and Fourth of July claims demonstrates the fact that each claim lies partly within and partly without the Panoche Grande tract.

Of the Andy Johnson claim 198.33 acres are outside, and 54.64 acres are inside the exterior boundaries of the Panoche Grande; and of the Fourth of July, 23.44 acres are outside, and 115.63 are inside the boundaries of that tract, as determined by the lines of public surveys.

There has only been prospect work done upon these two claims, enough, from time to time, to hold possession under the mining laws of the district.

I ascertain from certified copies of the records of Monterey County, that both these claims were located under the laws of the San Benito mining-district on July 6, 1865, and both were recorded in the recorder's books of the district on the 8th day of that month.

The Fourth of July Company consisted of six locators, each claiming for himself one thousand feet along the ledge or lode and a breadth of five hundred feet each side of the ledge, making for each claim one thousand feet square.

The "Andy Johnson" was located by fifteen different persons, each claiming a like amount of ground, viz, one thousand feet along the ledge and five hundred each side. When this claim came to be surveyed upon the ground, it was laid out, as represented upon map No. 2, without increasing the aggregate quantity of the land, but with an offset to include what seemed to be a valuable spur from the main lode.

This explanation is given to me by United States Surveyor-General Stratton, who, acting as field deputy in 1867, made the surveys for the parties in interest.

I have examined the laws of the San Benito mining-district adopted July 5, 1865, and find that both these claims are within the boundaries of that district, as therein defined, and both conform in quantity to the limitations prescribed by the said mining-laws; and I am informed by the parties who appeared upon the ground to represent the owners that the property is now claimed and held in and by virtue of the said local laws framed to govern the district, and under the sanction of the subsequent laws of Congress.

These two claims have been consolidated with the property of Clear Creek Mining Company, already patented by the Government, and with the Boston claim, now applying for a patent, and I am informed by interested parties that they await only the definite settlement of title to proceed with actual operations. The ore from these mines is all to be worked at the hacienda of the Clear Creek Company, or rather of the Monterey Mining Company, the name of the corporation of the consolidated interests.

This location is in section 15, T. 18 S., R. 11 E., on the banks of Clear Creek, where one furnace, dwelling-house, and out-houses are now built, and to which the ores from the several mines may be economically hauled and treated. The Monterey Mining Company, when it shall have completed and perfected the title to its possessions, will have, exclusive of its site for the hacienda, about five hundred and fifty acres of mining-ground.

While engaged in examining the locations of the Andy Johnson and Fourth of July, and identifying the Panoche Grande tract with reference to these two mines, Mr. Cady came upon the field and joined my party.

He represented himself as the custodian of the Pecacho mine, a property adjoining the Andy Johnson, and lying within the Panoche Grande tract.

After completing the work then in hand, we accompanied Mr. Cady to the Pecacho mining-claim; its boundaries were pointed out by him, and its position, in relation to the exterior boundaries of the Panoche Grande tract, was determined upon the ground.

The Pecacho mine is represented upon map No. 2, commencing at the easterly end of the Andy Johnson, and running thence about thirty-five hundred feet to the summit of a prominent peak, (Pecacho,) from which its name has probably been derived. Mr. Cady was not certain what exact breadth of land was claimed with this mine. He said he held possession of the property for the Pecacho Mining Company. There is evidence of considerable work, costing many thousands of dollars, having been done upon this claim. There are several houses and two furnaces upon the property, and one small brick house, now occupied by the party holding possession of the mine.

I find no record of any official survey of this mine in the office of the United States surveyor-general. It is recorded, however, in Monterey County, October 25, 1852, claiming discovery in October, 1851, and is claimed in that record, by five persons, as a silver-mine.

The same five persons, giving the same description, record a claim for a silver-mine in Mariposa County, on the 13th June, 1852.

The location was so near the boundary-line of the two counties that they seem to have recorded in both as a matter of greater precaution. In each the extent of the mine is stated as four thousand feet. The name "Pecacho" does not appear in the Mariposa record, and not directly in the body of the notice in the record of Monterey County.

The records of Monterey County show the transfer, by several of these original locators, through divers parties, to William McGarrahan, and there appears, also, a transfer to him, from the Panoche Grande Quick-silver-Mining Company of New York, of a tract of land of three thousand acres, in a square form, having the Pecacho mine as near the center of this square as is possible, and finally there is a transfer from William McGarrahan, dated July 26, 1866, of this same tract of three thousand acres, including the mine, to sundry persons, for whom or for whose assigns Mr. Cady seems to be the custodian.

With the examination of the Pecacho mine this investigation closes; but I desire to say in conclusion that the location of the Boston mine, contiguous to the property of the Clear Creek Mining Company, was pointed out to me, but being wholly without the exterior boundaries of the Panoche Grande tract, I paid no further attention to it.

I was also solicited by the parties in interest to visit the property of the Cerro Bonito Mining Company.

I had passed a few miles from it, on my way from Tres Penos to New Idria, before reaching the northwestern boundary of the Panoche Grande tract, and as it is, beyond doubt, several miles away from the land to be examined, I declined to make the visit.

Proceedings of the Miners' Convention, in the San Carlos district, in the counties of Monterey and Mariposa and State of California.

Pursuant to a public notice, a convention of all the miners in said district was held at the San Carlos mines, in said district, on the 4th day of December, 1854, and the following proceedings for the purpose of establishing the laws, rules, and regulations for mining in said district, in accordance with the laws and customs of the State of California, were duly had.

The meeting being called to order by Henry G. Balanger, on motion of said Balanger, Henry F. Pitts was unanimously chosen president, and S. W. Higgins secretary. On motion of Mr. Balanger, a committee was appointed by the president to report, for the consideration of the convention, laws and regulations for the said miners in said district.

The committee, after retiring, through their chairman, Mr. Balanger, submitted the following report:

Whereas we deem it important that laws and regulations should be established within the district of San Carlos, hereinafter particularly described, which shall define the rights and privileges of persons owning, as hereinafter stated, or carrying on the business of mining in said district, or of persons hereafter owning or prosecuting said business; and whereas it is necessary that fixed rules and regulations should be adopted for the acquiring, transfer, and tenure of said mining property, as well as for the maintenance of peace and harmony: Therefore,

Be it resolved, That inasmuch as the prosecution of quicksilver and silver mining requires a larger outlay and expenditure of capital than is required and facilities not requisite in mining for gold, we hereby declare as the law of this district that the discoverers heretofore or hereafter of all quicksilver or silver mines shall be entitled to the absolute property in said mine or mines, upon filing in the office of the clerk of Mariposa or Monterey Counties a description of the boundaries thereof. And said mines, or any portion of them, may be sold or transferred by bill of sale or mortgage or deed in like manner as other property within the State, hereby confirming all transfers heretofore made.

Resolved, That the party or parties interested in said silver or quicksilver mines aforesaid, shall be entitled as the property of said party or parties, to the extent of one hundred and sixty acres of land, to be designated by monuments or otherwise intelligibly described; provided the same be so located that the mine or vein claimed shall be situated within the boundaries of the tract so designated.

Resolved, That after and from the designation or survey aforesaid by visible monuments, the person or persons so claiming such mine shall be held and considered the absolute owner or owners of such mine or mines or tract of land, on and after the passage of the laws and rules herein made, without actual occupancy for and during the term of one year. And such right of property at the expiration of said term shall be continued for a further term of one year, and thereafter in like manner, provided the owner or owners thereof, or his or their agent, shall, at any time within sixty days prior to the expiration of the said term, record in either of the clerk's offices aforesaid a notice of his or their intention so to renew the said term. But no record, original or subsequent, shall be required if the owner or his agent be in the actual occupancy of the claim.

Resolved, That in case gold-mines be discovered in said San Carlos district, the gold-mines shall be governed by the rule now established for quartz-mining in the county of Mariposa.

Resolved, That the boundaries of the said San Carlos district are known and described as follows:

Commencing at a point where the north line of Mariposa County intersects the east line of Monterey County; running thence northeasterly along the line of Mariposa County to San Joachin Plain, supposed to be about thirty miles; thence southeasterly and parallel with the westerly line of Mariposa County, one hundred miles; thence southwesterly and across the westerly line of Mariposa County into the county of Monterey, to a point fifteen miles from the dividing line of said counties; thence northwesterly and parallel with the dividing lines of said counties, one hundred miles; thence northeasterly to the place of beginning.

The foregoing resolutions, after debate, were unanimously adopted, after which the convention adjourned sine die.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., December 8, 1875.

SIR: Pursuant to the 5th section of the act of June 22, 1860, (12 Stat., 85,) I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of Congress, the report of the register and receiver of the land-office at Gainesville, Fla., on the private land-claim of Anna M. Clark, together with the disapproval of the same by the Commissioner of the General Land-Office.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
Z. CHANDLER,
Secretary.

Hon. M. C. KERR,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND-OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., June 26, 1875.

SIR: As directed by the fifth section of the act of Congress approved June 22, 1860, (12 Stat., p. 85,) entitled "An act for the final adjustment of private land-claims in the States of Florida, Louisiana, and Missouri, and for other purposes," extended by the act of Congress approved March 2, 1867, (14 Stat., p. 144,) and June 10, 1872, (17 Stat., p. 378,) I have the honor to submit herewith, for transmission to Congress, a report, under the provisions of the third section of said act of 1860, by the register and receiver at Gainesville, Florida, acting as commissioners under the acts aforesaid, upon the claim of Anna M. Clark, and recommending said claim for confirmation.

Anna M. Clark recites in her petition or sworn statement that she claims by inheritance certain lands on Amelia Island, bounded on the south by land granted to Don Samuel Harrison, on the north by the land granted to Don D. Vaughan, on the west by (vacatatas del rio, marshes of the river, and on the east by (las leronlenas de la playa) the breakers of the sea; that said-described tract was granted by the Spanish governor (White) of Florida to Isaac Carter, June 4, 1806; that said Isaac Carter conveyed it to John Edwards; that at the death of said John Edwards the land passed by descent to John and Mary Edwards, who conveyed it to Robert Harrison and Alfred F. Roux, in trust for Henrietta M., the wife of Ephraim Harrison, and her issue; and that the present claimant, the said Anna M. Clark, is the sole heir of the said Henrietta M. Harrison. In support of these allegations she submits the following documents and papers:

First. The affidavit of the claimant, wherein she locates the land claimed according to the public surveys as sections 14, 16, 17, and 18, in township 2 north, of range 28 east.

Second. Certificate and plat of a survey executed by George I. F. Clark, from which it appears that he surveyed for John Edwards, on the 3d of May, 1816, (1860 in the Spanish copy,) 336 acres of land on Amelia Island, fronting on Amelia River, and lying between the lands of D. Vaughan and Samuel Harrison.

This plat and certificate are each certified, under date of February 20, 1870, as being correct translations of documents in the Spanish language on file in the surveyor-general's office, district of Florida, by a person who signs himself as O. Morgan, without designating his official capacity or authority to make such a certificate. The natural inference would be that the certificate was, or should be, made by the surveyor-general as the custodian of the records of that office, but it appears from the records of this Office that M. L. Stearns was surveyor-general of Florida at the date of said certificate.

Third. Extract from report No. 1, dated 1824, of the commissioners to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida, relative to claim No. 124, in the name of John D. Vaughan, from which it appears that said Vaughan refers in his petition to the lands of John Edwards as being south of those he solicited. The juridical possession also refers to the lands of Edwards as lying south of those Vaughan was placed in possession of.

Fourth. Certified copy of a deed of conveyance, from John and Mary Edwards to Robert Harrison and Albert F. Roux, of all that tract or parcel of land situated on Amelia Island, bounded north by the land of John D. Vaughan, east by the beach, south by the lands of Robert Harrison, and west by the river, in trust for Henrietta Harrison and her issue.

Fifth. The affidavit of James G. Cooper, who testifies "that he resided on the island of Amelia and knew Mr. John D. Edwards to reside there in possession of a grant of land adjoining the lands of Samuel Harrison and John D. Vaughan, and was in possession of the same until sold by him to Robert Harrison and Albert F. Roux, trustees of Henrietta Harrison, which was about the year 1828;" that "he knows Anna M. Clark to be the sole heir of her mother, Henrietta Harrison, and that the above lands are known as sections 14, 16, 17, and 18, township 2 north, of range 28 east."

Sixth. The affidavit of Margaret Stuart, wherein she testifies that she has resided on the island of Amelia and near it since the year 1793; that she knows that John D. Edwards owned, possessed, and had in cultivation, by grant and consent of the Spanish government, a certain tract of land containing about 300 acres, bounded on the north by the lands of John D. Vaughan, on the south by the lands of Samuel Harrison, east by the sand-hills, and west by the marsh of Amelia River, and known as sections 14, 16, 17, and 18, in township 2 north, of range 28 east.

Seventh. The affidavit of James Long, who testifies that he has resided on the island of Amelia since the year 1798, and knows that John D. Edwards owned, possessed, and cultivated, and remained in full possession and enjoyment of a certain tract of land bounded on the south by the lands of Samuel Harrison, on the north by the lands of John D. Vaughan, on the east by the sand-hills, and on the west by the marsh of Amelia River, until in 1828, when it was sold to Robert Harrison and Albert F. Roux, in trust for Henrietta Harrison; and that the mother of Mrs. Anna M. Clark remained in possession of the same and paid taxes thereon until prevented by the late rebellion.

Eighth and ninth. The affidavits of Ephraim and Mary M. E. Harrison, dated, respectively, April 16, 1867, and March 2, 1867, who testify to substantially the same facts as those recited in No. 7; the latter dating her residence on Amelia Island from 1812; and,

Tenth. The affidavit of Adam Young, dated 15th November, 1870, who deposes that he has been a resident of Nassau County (the county within which the land is situated) for the past seventy years, and knows that John Edwards and his heirs, John D. Edwards and others, owned and occupied and peacefully enjoyed a certain tract of land designated on the plats of the public surveys as sections 14 and 18, in township 2 north, of range 28 east, from the year 1800 to 1826; and that taxes were regularly paid on the same up to the breaking out of the late civil war.

James Long and Adam Young, two of the witnesses whose testimony is hereinbefore referred to, in subsequent affidavits, dated respectively the 30th and 28th of January, 1875, repudiate the contents of their aforesaid affidavits, the former declaring that he "did not give such testimony;" that he knows positively that the land lay waste, and was unoccupied for at least thirty years; while the latter denounces the testimony and his signature thereto a forgery.

The first section of the aforesaid act of June 22, 1860, provides "that any person or persons, and the legal representatives of any person or persons, who claim any lands lying within the States of Florida, Louisiana, or Missouri, by virtue of grant, concession, order of survey, permission to settle, or other written evidence of title emanating from any foreign government, bearing date prior to the cession to the United States of the territory out of which said States were formed, or during the period when any such government claimed sovereignty or had the actual possession of the district or territory in which the lands so claimed are situated, shall be, and they are hereby, authorized to make application for the confirmation of their title to the lands so claimed, in the manner following, to wit: They shall give notices in writing, together with the evidence in support of their claims before the commissioners hereinafter designated, within whose districts the lands claimed may be situated, together with a brief abstract of the title of the claimant and copies of the plats of survey, whenever such surveys have been made and are within the possession of the claimant, and accompanied with a sworn statement by the claimant of the lands supposed to be covered by his claim according to the legal division and subdivisions of the surveys made by the United States, if the land claimed is included in surveys so made."

The third section of the act directs that the claims presented shall be divided into three distinct classes. Those embraced in class one shall be where the lands claimed have been in possession and cultivation by the private claimants, or those under whom they derive title, for a period of at least twenty years preceding the date of filing the claim by virtue of some grant, concession, order of survey, permission to settle, or other written evidence of title emanating from some foreign government that held and claimed sovereignty or jurisdiction over the territory in which the lands claimed are situated, and where such title bears date, anterior to the cession of said territory to the United States. Class two shall embrace all claims where the lands are claimed under written evidence of title, as provided in class one, but where there has been no actual possession or cultivation for a period of at least twenty years preceding the filing of the claim. Class No. 3 shall embrace such claims as have been rejected by the commissioners.

The act approved June 10, 1872, amending and extending the provisions of the aforesaid act of 1860, directs that all persons claiming lands as specified in the first section of said act of 1860, may have their claims confirmed in accordance with the forms and in the manner prescribed in said act, in all cases where it shall be satisfactorily proven that the claimants and those from whom they derive title have held continuous possession of the land claimed, from the date of the cession to the United States of the territory out of which the States of Florida, Louisiana, and Missouri are formed.

As construed by this Office, the amendatory act of 1872 does not enlarge the classes of claims mentioned in the act of 1860, but simply varies the proof required so as to afford relief to claimants whose written evidence of title properly acquired from the former government had been lost or destroyed. To properly bring a claim within the purview of the aforesaid acts, there must have existed a grant, concession, order of survey, or other written evidence of title, emanating from the government in possession of the territory prior to its cession to this country. In no case can it be dispensed with as the foundation or basis of the claim, where such evidence exists. But if such evidence is not attainable, has been lost or destroyed, such loss or destruction must be proven before parol testimony is admissible to prove the nature and source of the title upon which the claim rests.

The claimant in this case alleges that her claim to the land in question is based upon a grant made to Isaac Carter, by the Spanish government of Florida, on the 4th of June, 1806, but fails to produce either documentary or parol evidence showing that such a grant was made, or to connect her claim with the alleged grant.

The parol evidence submitted in support of the claim indicates that the land was in the possession of, and occupied by Edwards and his heirs, from the year 1800 to the date of the conveyance thereof to Harrison and Roux, in trust for Henrietta Harrison. Some of the witnesses say that Edwards claimed and occupied it under a grant to him from the Spanish authorities. How is this variance between the declaration of the claimant and the testimony to be reconciled? If the grant upon which the alleged rights of the claimant are founded was not made until 1806, under what color of title was Edwards in the actual corporeal possession of the premises in 1806, and after that date until 1826? The records of this Office show that the grant made to Carter on the 4th of June, 1806, was presented to the board of commissioners appointed under the act of March 3d, 1823, for the purpose of ascertaining claims and titles to lands in East Florida, and was reported by them to Congress as claim No. 155, in their report 1, dated December 31, 1825, (see American State Papers, vol. 2, page 28, Duff Green's edition,) and confirmed by the act of Congress approved May 23, 1828, the first section of which, after confirming the claims recommended by the aforesaid commissioners, prescribes that the location of the claims shall be confined within the limits of the original grant. The official plats of survey exhibit the location of the Isaac Carter claim as section 42, township 2 north of ranges 20 and 26 east, or about fifteen or sixteen miles west of the alleged location of the claim under consideration.

It is thus shown, first, that the grant alleged as the basis of this claim, has been satisfied by a prior confirmation; and secondly, if the Carter grant had not been previously confirmed, as aforesaid, the land to which title is alleged by the claimant by virtue of the deed of conveyance from John D. and Mary Edwards is not the same land covered by the Carter grant.

The only reference by the Spanish authorities to the land claimed is found in the record of the proceedings in the matter of the Vaughan claim, before the board of commissioners in 1824.

The land solicited by Vaughan is described in his petition to the Spanish authorities as lying north of the lands solicited by Don John Edwards, and in the juridical possession north of the lands of John Edwards. Admitting that Edwards was in possession of and occupied the land at the respective dates of those documents, 1797 and 1807, which, no doubt, was the case, does such a reference in the proceedings of another to obtain title satisfy the statute in regard to the written evidence of title required as the basis of the claim? I think not. A mere naked possession on the part of Edwards, without any legal title, would have been sufficient in those times to have warranted others in designating them as his lands. If he had possession by virtue of written title, as before stated, the production of that title, or proof of its loss or destruction, and proof of its contents, is essential to bring this claim within the provisions of the aforesaid acts of 1860 and 1872. The claimant having failed to produce the required proof of title to the land claimed by her as aforesaid, her claim is therefore rejected, and the report of the register and receiver, recommending it for confirmation, disapproved.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. S. BURDETT,
Commissioner.

Hon. C. DELANO,

To the register and receiver of the land-office at Tallahassee, Florida, commissioners under the acts of Congress of 1860 and 1868, and June 10, 1872.

Your memorialist, Anna M. Clark, claims by inheritance certain lands on Amelia Island, bounded on the south by land granted to Don Samuel Harrison, on the north by land granted to Don D. Vaughan, on the west by (vacatatas del rio) marshes of the river, on the east by (las teroulenas de la playa) the breakers of the sea, which land was granted by the Spanish governor of Florida (White) to Isaac Carter, June 4, 1806. That said land, comprising 336 acres, as appears by a survey made by George I. F. Clark, May 3, 1816, was conveyed by the said Carter to John Edwards, and surveyed to him, and at the death of the said John Edwards the land belonged of right to John D. Edwards and Mary Edwards, and was conveyed by deed from John D. Edwards and Mary Edwards to Robert Harrison and Alfred F. Roux, in trust to and for Henrietta M. Harrison, wife of Ephraim Harrison, and her issue.

Your memorialist further represents that she is the sole heir of Henrietta M. Harrison, as clearly appears by affidavits herewith filed.

Your memorialist further states that the said land conveyed by Edwards to the said Harrison and Roux in trust for Henrietta Harrison, and now owned and possessed by your memorialist, was a good and valid Spanish grant, and has been held as such unquestioned by any one until recently; and your memorialist respectfully asks that the said grant may be reported as valid and rightfully belonging to her, in accordance with the treaty with Spain, the laws of nations, the laws of the United States; that she is legally and equitably entitled to a full and undisturbed continued possession of it; that the lands have been occupied, cultivated, and possessed during the whole time, unless disturbed by war, since the grant was made, as more fully appears by the evidence filed, viz:

Memorial of Mrs. Anna M. Clark to the Commissioner of the General Land-Office, Washington, April, 1867.

John G. Cooper, affidavit, states occupancy and that your memorialist is the sole heir; dated May 2, 1867. Margaret Stewart's affidavit, March 20, 1867; James Lang's affidavit, dated May 8, 1869; Ephraim Harrison's affidavit, April 16, 1867; M. M. C. Harrison's affidavit, March 20, 1867; plat and survey by George I. F. Clark, 1816.

Your memorialist claims that Edwards had a good and valid title, but if the commissioners should think otherwise your memorialist respectfully asks an examination of the proof of settlement and cultivation; and if the said Edwards was not granted this land, or any other, he was certainly entitled to it under the act of Congress of the 26th day of May, 1824, donating lands to certain settlers in Florida, having occupied the land and a permanent residence long before the 22d February, 1819, until the 19th July, 1824, and until the present time; and furthermore, if your memorialist had no other right to this land she would be entitled to the land by right of pre-emption under the act of April 26, 1826, and subsequent acts.

No. 124—Report No. 1—1824. John D. Vaughan vs. The United States. Claim to two hundred and fifty acres of land.

MEMORIAL.

To the honorable the commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida.

The petition of John D. Vaughan respectfully sheweth that your memorialist claims title to a tract of land situated and being in Amelia Island, and containing two hundred and fifty acres which, by the survey of Don John Purcell, has the following metes and bounds, to wit: North 47° east, 90 chains; then north 80° east, 55 chains, and bounded on the west by marsh, and on the north by lands of Antonio Suarez, on the south by lands of John Edwards, and on the east by vacant lands; which title your memorialist derives from a grant made to your memorialist by the Spanish government March 4, 1797, in virtue of the royal order of the year 1790, and by your memorialist having resided on the said land the number of years required by the government of Florida, obtained June 18, 1821, from Governor Coppingir, complete titles for said land; all which matters as above stated being fully shown by the accompanying document marked A.

Your memorialist further states that he is now and has been for many years a resident of Florida, and was such at the cession of the territory to the Government of the United States; and your memorialist prays that your honorable board will confirm his title to the said tract of land.

There is no objection to the petitioner establishing himself on the land which he solicits on the island of Amelia if it meets the approbation of your excellency; but as there may hereafter be reasons why the government should wish to remove the inhabitants from the island to the land on the river [St. John's, it ought to be on condition that the petitioner should have no claim on the royal treasury for damages on account of such removal. This is what I have to inform your excellency that you may act as is agreeable to you.

St. Augustine, March 3, 1797.

PEDRO DIAS BERNO.

ST. AUGUSTINE, March 4, 1797.

Let there be granted to the petitioner the land which he solicits, without prejudice to a third person, according to the number of his family, and to the precise condition of conforming himself to the foregoing exposition of not claiming any damage if the service of the King should require that he leave the island and retire to land on the St. John's.

14 PRIVATE LAND-CLAIM OF ANNA M. CLARK, FLORIDA.

Name of claimant.	Description of title.	Possession and cultivation.	Description.
Mrs. Anna M. Clark..	Spanish grant by Governor White to Isaac Carter, June 4, 1806; said Carter to John Edwards; John D. Edwards and Mary Edwards, heirs of John Edwards, to Robert Harrison and Alfred F. Roux, in trust to and for Henrietta Harrison, wife of Ephraim Harrison, claimant by inheritance.	Possession and cultivation for more than 20 years; to wit, from March 1, 1797, until the present time.	Certain lands on Amelia Island, bounded on the south by land granted to Samuel Harrison; on the north by land granted to Don John D. Vaughan; on the west by (vacatas del rio) marshes of the river; on the east by (las terolenas de la playa) the breakers of the sea; comprising, according to United States survey, fractional sections 14, 16, 17, and 18, township 3 north, range 28 east, containing 336 acres.

Claimant offered in evidence the following papers, all of which have been duly recorded in this office: First, memorial; second, sworn statement of claimant, as required by the act; third, official certificate of survey of the tract in question to John Edwards by Spanish surveyor, George I. F. Clark; fourth, report of commissioners No. 1, 1824, American State Papers, vol. 14, p. 219; fifth, certified copy of deed from John D. Edwards and Mary Edwards to trustees of Henrietta M. Harrison; sixth, affidavits of James G. Cooper and Margaret Starrats, James Long, E. Harrison, Adam Young, and James Lang.

An exact transcript from our records of all papers pertaining to this claim is herewith submitted.

We, the register and receiver, after a careful examination of the above-named papers produced in evidence, are of the opinion that the essential facts set forth in the memorial of the claimant are established by the evidence, and that her claim should be confirmed, which we respectfully recommend, for reasons set forth in our detailed report.

Detailed report of the register and receiver, in case of claim of Anna M. Clark to certain land on "Amelia Island," under act of Congress of 1860 as extended and amended by act of June 10, 1872.

In this case it appears that the notice and petition of claimant were filed in the Tallahassee office February 12, 1820, that at that time there was no adverse claim, certain homestead entries on a portion of the land having been already canceled. The papers in the case were transmitted by the register and receiver of that office to the Commissioner of the General Land-Office November 12, 1870, and returned to this office (Gainesville) July 25, 1874, with instructions to notify all parties in interest of this action of the Commissioner, and to give an opportunity to all parties interested to file further evidence before the rendering of our opinion. Accordingly all parties were notified to appear at this office (ample time being given) with their witnesses, and with such written testimony as they could produce.

The attorney for the claimant appeared, and F. A. Suhrer in opposition to the claim.

At the request of the latter, with the consent of the attorney for the claimant, his request for further time to enable him to prepare and file testimony was granted, but, though ample time has elapsed, no new testimony has been filed for or against the claim.

In consideration of this claim we are in doubt whether or not the grant or concession, under which the land was held by John Edwards, was identical with that made to Isaac Carter on the 4th of June, 1806, for 350 acres, granted by Governor White under royal order of 1790. (See American State Papers, vol. 5, page 281.)

By reference to our maps this grant seems to have been located in township 2 north, of range 26 east. A grant of also nearly the same number of acres in township 1 south, of range 26 east, was located in name of Isaac Carter. Our uncertainty, however, in regard to the identical grant under which the land was surveyed by Spanish authority to John Edwards and held by him, does not invalidate the right of Mrs. Anna M. Clark, which she derives from said John Edwards, inasmuch as his ownership is fully recognized in the valid and confirmed grant made to John D. Vaughan, made in 1797, surveyed December 14, 1807, as appears by the official certificate of the survey signed by John Purcell.

In these documents the ownership of Edwards is fully recognized, as also in the memorial to the board of commissioners for confirmation. (See Report No. 1, 1824, American State Papers, vol. 14, page 219.) In further confirmation there is the actual survey of the tract to John Edwards by George I. F. Clark, December 14, 1816. (See official certificate of survey, on page 5 of this transcript.)

These surveys made under the Spanish government were generally considered good evidence of title, inasmuch as by the rules by which the surveyor was governed, the claimant requiring the survey was required to exhibit title before the survey was made. (See American State Papers, vol. 3, page 732; article 2 of surveyor's instructions.) Further, we consider the evidence of ownership of John Edwards strengthened by the fact of the sale and conveyance made by his heirs, John D. Edwards and Mary Edwards, to the trustees of Henrietta M. Harrison, for the sum of one thousand dollars in November, 1828. At that time the Spanish archives were easy of access, so that the validity of the title could easily be ascertained, so that it would seem to us if any uncertainty existed the purchase would not have been made, and from the affidavits filed by the cotemporaries of John Edwards and the heirs of John D. Edwards and Mary Edwards, their right was not disputed, but universally admitted.

According to the second section of the act of Congress of June 10, 1872, all persons claiming lands, as specified in act of June 22, 1860, "may have their claims confirmed in accordance and in the manner prescribed in said act, in all cases where it can be satisfactorily proved that the claimants, and those from whom they derive titles, have held continuous possession of the land claimed from the date of the cession to the United States of the territory out of which the States of Florida, Louisiana, and Missouri were formed. In this case we are of the opinion that continuous possession is proven since 1807, both by written evidence and the affidavits of the cotemporaries of the successive claimants up to the present time, interrupted only by the war of the rebellion.

We are therefore of the opinion that a claim so long admitted should not now be called in question, but that the right of the memorialist, Mrs. Anna M. Clark, should be confirmed to fractional sections No. 14, 16, 17, and 18 of township 2 north, of range 28 east.

Vaughan ; on the south by land granted to Samuel Harrison ; on the west by the marshes of the river ; on the east by the breakers of the sea, comprising, according to United States survey, fractional sections 14, 16, 17, and 18 of township 2 north, of range 28 east.
